Such of the plays acted by the Ld. Chamberlain's (afterwards King's) Company dur. Shakspere's conn. w. it, and of other plays acted by other Companies, wh. have been assigned to Shakespere by tradition, as are not cont. in Dodsley's or Hawkins' collections; i.e., *Life and Death of Cpt. An unclassable book, consisting, as TAINE says, of "Twenty lines of a poet, a dozen lines of a treatise on agriculture, a folio page of heraldry, a description of rare fishes, a paragraph of a sermon on patience, the record of the fever fits of hypochondria, the history of the particle that, a scrap of metaphysics,—that is what passes through his brain in a quarter of an hour; it is a carnival of ideas and phrases—Greek, Latin, German, French, Italian, philosophical, geometrical, medical, poetical, astrological, musical, pedagogical, heaped one upon the other: an enormous medley, a prodigious mass of jumbled quotations, jostling thoughts, with the vivacity and the transport of a feast of unreason. He is never-ending; words, phrases overflow, are heaped up, overlap each other, and flow on, carrying the reader along, deafened, stunned, half-drowned, unable to touch ground in the deluge. Burton is inexhaustible. There are no ideas which he does not iterate under fifty forms, and when he has exhausted his own, he pours out upon us other men's—the classics, the rarest authors, known only to the savants—authors rarer still, known only to the learned: he borrows from all . . etc."

The last (fourth) edn. has the Romanische Wortschöpfung as an appendix, first added to this edn. Includes all the Romance languages, excepting Rhæto-Romanian. Vol. i.: Intro. and Phonology; ii.: Accidence and Etymology; iii.: Syntax. The 3rd edn. [Bonn 70–72] contained numerous changes which are objected to by some scholars, who consider the 2nd. edn. [Bonn 1856–60] the best. The 4th edn. [Bonn 76–77] is a repr. of the 3rd., and the 5th edn. [in 1 vol., Bonn 82] has the vols. and pp. of the 4th in the margin. An Eng. tr. was pub. in 1863 [4/6 8° Williams] but it is next to worthless now.

Arthurian Romances [and their sources].

Collections.

HUCHER, E. [ed.]	Romans de la Table Ronde, 3 vols.	[w. full and valuable notes]	8°	Le Mans	72–79

Contains (1) Rob. de BORRON'S Joseph d'Arimathe, in its prose version. There is also a verse version [ed. Fr. MICHEL 8° Paris 41]: neither have any reference to ARTHUR. (2) Walter MAP'S Great Saint Graal, wh. was based on de BORRON'S wk., but still has no direct connection with ARTHUR. (3) The Romance of Perceval [original form by de BORRON], wh. represents the quest for the Graal by a Knight not of the Round Table. The connecting link 'tween the two last is Merlin [attrib. to de BORRON], showing the Welsh influence; and this leads to Artus, thence Lancelot du Lac, Quest of San Graal, Mort Artus.

PLÖTZ, G. — Étude de J. du B. et son rôle d. l. réformes de Ronsard — [not good] 1/6 — 8° Berlin — 74

The Defense et Illustration [1549] was the manifesto of the Pléiade, an association of seven men [RONSARD, du BELLAY, BELLEAU, BAIF, DAURAT, JODRELLE and PONTUS de TYARD], whose object was the reformation of the Fch. language. RONSARD'S Odes [on the Horatian pattern] [1550] was the first practical illustr. of their method.

A READER'S GUIDE TO CONTEMPORARY LITERATURE

Some selected representative Press Opinions on the Second Edition of "THE BEST BOOKS."

1100 pages, 4to, cloth extra, 31s. 6d. nett ($9 nett).

Academy: "This new edition will command a still wider popularity, for there can be no question of its immense superiority as a careful and extremely well-edited bibliography. The most important feature is its classification. He evinces a talent for bibliographical classification which is extremely rare."

Anti-Jacobin: "A book which, in all senses of the word, is one of the weightiest of our generation. . . . That any single man should undertake such a labour is wonderful enough, but much more wonderful is its triumphant accomplishment."

Athenæum: "The second edition is a distinct advance on its predecessor, and of its predecessor frequent use gave us a high opinion. It is a book which even a man of great learning may be glad to consult, and a man beginning to learn will find invaluable. The volume does Mr. Sonnenschein infinite credit, and proves him to possess a wide and sound knowledge of books."

Bookseller: "Deserves nothing but unqualified praise."

British Weekly: "It is the reader's guide. Already a reference-book in all English-speaking lands, it will in its new and greatly improved form take a place from which it will not be dislodged."

Daily Chronicle: "An exceedingly useful and valuable publication."

Daily News: "It has been, and is, of the greatest service to multitudes of people engaged in literary, scientific and artistic research. An extraordinary performance. Of all the books of reference in the British Museum, Mr. Sonnenschein's Guide appears to be most in request."

Glasgow Herald: "The new edition is a distinct advance on its predecessor—valuable though it was. The volume is one without which no library of any pretensions can be said to be properly equipped."

Globe: "Lovers of the library agree in considering [it] one of the very best bibliographies ever framed. A comparison with the first edition shows what a long and arduous labour the author has devoted to its development."

Journal of Education: "We gave a hearty welcome to the first edition, which appeared in 1887; and the second edition, which, though not greatly increased in bulk, has nearly double the number of entries, deserves no less high commendation."

Library Review: "That admirable work, The Best Books, has turned out the thorough success that its great merit so well deserves."

Literary World: "We are not surprised at the success of the venture, which has been very great. Speaking for ourselves, we cannot be too grateful for the assistance we have obtained from the first edition, and we have to express warm acknowledgment for a work that, taken as a whole, is the most perfect of its kind in existence, and one simply of inestimable value to book-buyers of all classes."

Literary World, Boston: "It was recognised on its first appearance as the most widely useful bibliography in our language. He has now brought out a second edition, much enlarged, of which it would be difficult to speak too highly as regards its accuracy, comprehensiveness, and fairness. The brief notes explaining the special nature of the most important books are numerous and judicious."

Manchester Examiner: "A work of such tremendous industry, such admirable arrangement, and such incalculable usefulness."

Nature: "The idea is excellent, and has been excellently carried out. Mr. Sonnenschein may be congratulated on the manner in which his task has been accomplished. Two separate indexes add greatly to its value."

Newsagent: "The classification is most complete, although a marvel of simplicity. It is unquestionably one of the most important books of the year."

Notes and Queries: "To the excellence of Mr. Sonnenschein's system and to the value of his work we have before testified. The amount of information is only less exemplary than its accuracy. No bibliographical library can be without the new edition, and there are few students and workers whose labours will not be lightened by a reference to its pages."

Pall Mall Gazette: "The result of Mr. Sonnenschein's herculean labours is a guide from which the student or general reader may at any moment discover the 'best books' concerning the subject in which he is for the time being interested. . . . There can be no doubt that he has produced a work of the greatest usefulness to students, literary men, and journalists—to all, in fact, who know how to use and appreciate a good book. Indeed, taken altogether, Mr. Sonnenschein's 'Guide' is as perfect as any merely human and 'one man' book can be; and no student or booklover who can afford a guinea and a half should be without it."

Publishers' Circular: "This new edition of his admirable work almost amounts to a new book. It is a wonderful and monumental testimony to Mr. Sonnenschein's energy and enterprise, and no one with any knowledge of bibliography can fail to be struck by the immense labour involved in its production and the mass of information which it provides. . . . A book of reference conceived on such admirable lines and carried out with such conscientiousness and thoroughness."

Review of Reviews: "Undoubtedly the most useful book of the year, compiled with a care and accuracy it would be impossible to surpass. Every branch of knowledge seems to be represented, and the arrangement as a whole leaves nothing to be desired. The most complete, most trustworthy, and most indispensable guide to good literature that has ever been made: a monument of wide and varied knowledge and of patient and unremitting industry."

Scotsman: "Useful as the work proved in its original form, it is likely to prove more than doubly so in this greatly improved issue . . . invaluable to anyone who is hunting for books on a special subject . . . it will soon be in every-day consultation among bibliographers."

Speaker: "The arrangement deserves unqualified praise, for it is both admirable and ingenious."

Spectator: "It is at once one of the most useful and needed of books. . . . A work which not only displays great industry and unusual thoroughness, but which is calculated to be of much value to every reader and student who wishes to know what recently published books are to be found in any department. . . . The excellent index of subjects—to which, as well as to the index of authors, we can give unqualified praise."

Times: "Evinces a monumental industry."

Westminster Review: "One of the most complete and useful books of reference for literary people that we have ever seen. Its usefulness cannot be overstated; it is invaluable. A marvel of patient industry and skilful classification."

PREFACE

THIS work was originally designed to form a First Supplement to the second edition of The Best Books, which was published in March, 1891. But a considerable change of plan has been necessary, owing to my inability to obtain anything like a perspective view of current literature, and the rapidity with which my work, in so far as it is critical, has had to be done. My original intention was from time to time—perhaps every five years—to have added supplements to the main work, carrying it on within the same scope and with a similar degree of inclusiveness and of exclusiveness. But it has not proved to be feasible, for altogether apart from the question of selection, I have found it quite impossible to form a "personal acquaintance," even though partly by proxy, with all the more important new books; and, after some futile attempts, I have had to resign myself to the preparation of a mere record of practically all new publications in book-form which came within my scope and which seemed to me to have any lasting value at all, special prominence having been given to subjects of the day: to this I have added brief characterizations, where it has seemed to me desirable, and where it has been within my power. By this means I hope to place the student and the general reader who desires to prosecute his studies, as far as current literature is concerned, in a position to form his own judgment on the material available, though a mere tyro will not find the book of much value as a Guide to Reading, which was my original starting-point. With regard to the characterizations which I have added, I think it right to say that a very large number of them represent little more than the general consensus of opinion of the most trustworthy scientific reviews. "In a multitude of counsellors there is wisdom," and part of my function has been to digest—with an unfettered mind and sinking all personal bias—the verdicts of the best reviewers, though in cases of doubt I have not always contented myself with this: in a number of cases I have made personal inquiries and received personal reports from specialists, both British and foreign,[1] and have, in general, used all the somewhat extensive means within my control to get the common opinion of competent authorities, where such has seemed of moment. Under no circumstances can hasty critical judgments of books, made, even by experts, within a few months or even years of publication, be of much permanent value—at any rate those of the present compilation do not profess to be so; nor must the relative proportions assigned to them be taken to indicate the relative importance of the books they deal with. It is probable that a somewhat more eclectic survey than the present would have met the requirements of the majority of those likely to consult the book; but in a work of this kind the greater the exclusiveness the greater the difficulty of its preparation, and I have comforted myself with the hope that superflua non nocent.

[1] My more especial thanks are due to Dr. H. J. Campbell, the Revd. Dr. Holden, Mr. J. Fitzmaurice Kelly, Professor H. Logeman, Mr. J. H. Muirhead, the Revd. John Owen, Professor D. G. Ritchie and my brother Professor E. A. Sonnenschein.

In another respect this book differs somewhat from its predecessor. It includes some entries of "bad" books, more especially where their authors' names are not unknown. In all such cases, however, I have sought to indicate their quality, and to warn readers off them—an unnecessary proceeding for those whose tastes are "booky," but useful for others, I hope, more particularly in these days when much "puffing" occasionally leads to large sales and pseudo-reputations. I have also used this Supplement for addenda to the main work, limiting such entries, however, to essential additions: books which should have been, but were not, included in the previous volume.

This work is more comprehensive than The Best Books in a few other respects. It supplies the American as well as the British publishers' names and the American as well as the English prices of all books of which editions have been published in both countries. And in cases where Series of books, quâ series, will be of interest to possible purchasers, these have been inserted collectively as well as distributively over the volume. Such series, however, as are mere jumbles of disconnected works, uniformly bound for trade purposes, are not so treated. A few other minor improvements, which will be self-explanatory, have been introduced; but in general structure the book is identical with its predecessor, and may be taken to "run on at the foot of it."

A matter to which special attention needs to be drawn is that all the "Classes" into which the work is divided are not co-terminous in point of date. This was also the case in The Best Books. Whilst one "Class" was at press, I have continued my work upon the next; and thus each "Class" is less "up to date" than its successors, though its literature is continued from the date at which it terminated in The Best Books. An unscientific method, from a strictly bibliographic point-of-view; but one which will nevertheless make the book a little more useful to some students. The drawback to this method is, moreover, somewhat diminished by my having inserted, as freely as I could, announcements of books which were in preparation, some of which had actually appeared by the time that later "Classes" were printed off. Before "Class H," it should be stated, few books of 1894 were in time to be included; from that "Class" onwards the characterizations become fewer and further between.

One of the commonest pitfalls in bibliographic work lies in the difficulty of identifying all authors with all their works dealt with. I have taken great pains in this respect, distinguishing writers of the same Christian and surname both in the body of the book and in the Index, even at the cost of not following the description of an author given on his title-page. The hard-and-fast bibliographer follows title-pages exactly,[1] thereby at times perpetuating mere authors' vagaries or publishers' mistakes; and my attitude towards scientific bibliography in this respect must be taken as typical of my point-of-view in similar matters throughout the book. In spite, however, of the trouble I have taken, I have been disappointed to find, when preparing the Index for press, that many slight, if not misleading, errors of this very kind have crept in. I believe, however, that they are all rectified in the Index, which must be taken, in this regard, as controlling the body of the book.

[1] The British Museum, amongst other libraries, adopts this plan, which in one of its recent catalogues has led to some incongruous results, e.g., the late Francis William Lauderdale Adams figures in it firstly as Adams (Francis), author of Australian Life, John Webb's End, The Melbournians and The Songs of the Army of the Night; secondly, as Adams (Francis William), who has to be contented with the authorship of Henry and Other Tales; and thirdly, as Adams (Francis William L.), to whom Australian Essays and Leicester: an autobiography are credited.

One remark I should specially like to add. Let no one take this book more seriously than it is intended, in spite of its formidable appearance. It is but the attempt of an otherwise busy man to afford students a ready means of keeping au courant with the latest literature, conveniently classified. A perfect Guide could have been prepared only by a combination of specialists with a very strong editor, all working without remuneration: an ideal devoutly to be wished but unlikely to be achieved. With the temerity, perhaps, of a non-expert, I have done what I can, as well as I can, with a result, however, which does not satisfy even myself; but in the quaint words of a writer of the early part of the seventeenth century, "Who faulteth not, liueth not: who mendeth faults is commended: the printer hath faulted a little: it may be the author oversighted more"; and my thanks will be gratefully rendered to all who, in using my book, may discover errors worth pointing out and acquaint me with them, or who may make suggestions for the improvement of future Supplements.

Conscious as I am of my shortcomings I can only plead with old Anthony à Wood that, "A painfull work it is, I'll assure you, and more than difficult, wherein that toyle hath been taken as that no man thinketh, and no man believeth, but he that hath made the triall." (Preface to his History of Oxford)

LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS

DATES in the last column of the page are the dates of publication. In cases where more than one edition has appeared, the date of the first edition is put in square brackets, that following being the date of the last edition. All dates omit the two figures representing the nineteenth century, but previous centuries are given in full.

PUBLISHERS' NAMES in round brackets after a non-English Town-name are the names of the London agents for the book in question.

AUTHORS' TITLES in square brackets before their initials imply that such titles were acquired after they had written the book named; e.g., Hampden, [Bp.] R. D. Scholastic Philosophy.

* before a book or part of a book implies that it is considered to be of exceptional importance or value, at least for the section in which it occurs with an asterisk.
