First edition, with device of the Holly tree used by Isengrin on verso, full length portrait of the author at the age of 41. With 512 figures of plants most carefully drawn and outlined with very little shading, all rendered with the greatest fidelity to nature, all the full size of page, with 2 or 3 exceptions and carefully coloured by a contemporary hand. They have the Latin and German names in type with the block.
Folio. Original binding of brown calf, rebacked with large brown corner and centre pieces.
Basle, Michael Isengrin, 1542.....£45.

First Edition of one of the finest Herbals. "It is quite a new departure to give portraits of the artists engaged on the work; occasionally but very seldom before this time the illustrators of books were mentioned (the earliest seem to be Reuwich 1486 and Wolgemut 1493), but the name of the woodcutter occurs still less frequently and as to a portrait we do not remember another instance. Albert Meyer is represented in the present book as making designs of the plants on paper with a pen or brush while Fuellmaurer appears to be copying another drawing on to a woodblock. A small knife lies on the table, but this may be merely for mending pens and not for woodcutting, both the portraits of the woodcutter and the illustrators are coloured". 4to. Morocco. Blind tooled to an ancient pattern.
Paris, Alain Lotrain, n.d. (about 1530).
In the text there are interesting cuts of plants, (quarter-page) interspersed with a few animals. There are also a large number of fine woodcut initials, white on a solid black ground. The title is followed by pages of Remedies classified according to the location of diseases, from the head downwards, a page and a half being devoted to the Spleen. The Editor seems to have been slightly in advance of his predecessors in the matter of popular beliefs, for he modifies the usual statement in regard to the Mandrake having two sexes, but a woodcut of the female plant appears, probably in deference to tradition. There is an interesting chapter on soap of different kinds, Saracen, Jewish and French and their ingredients.

We have to recognize in Ivrea an independent printing associate, quite different in appearance from the Milanese contemporaries and from those of the other towns of Italy, which develop their technique from the Venetian school of woodcutting, while in drawing they show a distinct affinity to the Milanese school.
