13. The Hostel

Newburn Street

London S.E. 11.

The Lady is waiting

Is commanded by the Queen to acknowledge the receipt of the Ducatore's letter together with the loan which he has sent for Her Majesty's acceptance.

As the Queen does not collect loans Her Majesty feels she would not be justified in accepting the Ducatore's

Gift and thus depriving him of one of his treasures, but the Queen is most deeply touched by such a kind thought and is deeply appreciative of the Greatest's generosity.

The Queen was so pleased to hear the Greatest is happy at the Hostel, though Her Majesty was pained to hear of the loss he has sustained in the past war.

These belonged to the Empress Eugenie - I came from Farnborough Hall after she died there - I bought them at
