TESCO Organic

Tesco bio packaging.

Tesco has created a new environmentally friendly packaging material that could help to cut down on the amount of rubbish thrown away each year. Made from biodegradable ingredients, including plant starch, the packaging will break down when mixed with vegetation such as leaves or grass to make a useable compost for the garden. In fact, the clingfilm wrap will dissolve in as little as 10 days and the base trays will be feeding your roses in around 7 weeks. Alternatively, the packaging can be taken to a council site and deposited in the special green council skips to be used in local parks and gardens.

At the moment, this biodegradable packaging is being tested out on the selected produce shown below, with plans to extend its use to our entire organic fruit and vegetable range by the end of the year. To check it out today, simply look out for the label shown above.
