The Flour Advisory Bureau's service to schools and colleges.

The Bureau's Department of Home Economics and Nutrition Education provides information and advice on matters relating to flour and bread.

Lectures are given on food and nutrition (e.g. Choosing Food for Health, Sensible Slimming) together with practical talks on the choice and use of bread. These lectures are given free to schools and colleges but a minimum audience of 30 students (40 for practical talks) is required.

If you would like any recipe information or have any queries on flour cookery, our test kitchen will be pleased to help you.

For further information, please contact Miss Gillian Niblock, Head of the Department of Home Economics and Nutrition Education, The Flour Advisory Bureau Ltd., 21 Arlington Street, London, SW1A 1RN. Telephone 01-493 2521.
