

A North American Indian as a traditional youth dancer surrounded by hands forming a circle with feathers; advertisement for AIDS Awareness Week October 3-9, 1994 by the Assembly of First Nations National Indian Brotherhood. Colour lithograph by Sean Couchie, 1994.

Publication/Creation

[Ottawa, Ontario] : Assembly of First Nations National Indian Brotherhood, 1994.

Persistent URL

<https://wellcomecollection.org/works/bayh68ew>

License and attribution

You have permission to make copies of this work under a Creative Commons, Attribution, Non-commercial license.

Non-commercial use includes private study, academic research, teaching, and other activities that are not primarily intended for, or directed towards, commercial advantage or private monetary compensation. See the Legal Code for further information.

Image source should be attributed as specified in the full catalogue record. If no source is given the image should be attributed to Wellcome Collection.

Wellcome Collection
183 Euston Road
London NW1 2BE UK
T +44 (0)20 7611 8722
E library@wellcomecollection.org
<https://wellcomecollection.org>

Celebrating Life

"Love and respect will help keep us safe!"

Join in:

AIDS AWARENESS WEEK
October 3-9, 1994

CELEBRATING LIFE:

Traditional youth dancer is surrounded by hands in the form of a dream catcher. The hands, which symbolize the community, are protecting, guiding and nurturing the youth, thus enabling their dreams to come true. We can only help guide them in their decision making – ultimately the choices made in life are theirs.

~ Artist Sean Couche

For information about AIDS & Aboriginal people contact the:

First Nations Health Commission

(613) 241-6789
or your local

First Nations Health Clinic or Aboriginal AIDS Organization

*Funding was awarded under the National AIDS Strategy, Phase II*