

A crowd of Indian women holding babies; representing a warning by the World Health Organization about for the vulnerability of women and HIV/AIDS. Colour lithograph, ca. 1994.

Contributors

World Health Organization.

Publication/Creation

[Switzerland] : [World Health Organization], [1994?]

Persistent URL

<https://wellcomecollection.org/works/vd4z2j2d>

License and attribution

You have permission to make copies of this work under a Creative Commons, Attribution, Non-commercial license.

Non-commercial use includes private study, academic research, teaching, and other activities that are not primarily intended for, or directed towards, commercial advantage or private monetary compensation. See the Legal Code for further information.

Image source should be attributed as specified in the full catalogue record. If no source is given the image should be attributed to Wellcome Collection.

VULNERABILITY OF WOMEN

By the end of 1993, a cumulative total of over 4,00,000 cases of AIDS will have occurred among women, or three times as many as had occurred by the end of the 1980's.

- Women are more at risk of getting the infection.
- The low status of women within the family and society further heightens their vulnerability.

Every woman must have access to information about HIV/AIDS to protect herself and her family.

