Some Good Reasons for Using

SUNLIGHT SOAP FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

The easiest method of performing the household duties should be considered by every good housewife, so that leisure for reading and social duties may be found. The use of SUNLIGHT SOAP brings Less Labour, Greater Comfort, and by its aid everything in the house from cellar to garret can be made as bright as a new pin. For Spring Cleaning it is invaluable. The Young Ladies' Journal, July, 1891, says:—"It is the best thing we know for household use."

SUNLIGHT SOAP FOR THE LAUNDRY.

Those who use SUNLIGHT SOAP in the Laundry will find it all they could possibly desire. It gives the linen a beautifully white appearance, and is specially to be recommended for washing flannel goods, delicate cambrics and laces. The Christian Herald in its issue of January 26, 1893, says:—"Clothes which are washed with it have a peculiar freshness."

SUNLIGHT SOAP FOR THE TOILET.

Medical Men testify to its perfect suitability for the toilet. SIR CHARLES A. CAMERON, M.D., writes that he employs the soap himself. C. M. CAMPBELL, M.D., says:—"I find that SUNLIGHT SOAP fulfils all the indications required in a soap for toilet use." STANLEY WILDE, L.R.C.P., says he never used a pleasanter or more cleanly soap. The People's Friend for May 29th, 1893, writes as follows:—"It will not crack the skin, but will help to make the hands soft and beautiful."

SUNLIGHT SOAP FOR WASHING DOGS.

The most successful Exhibitors and Prizewinners USE ONLY SUNLIGHT SOAP for preparing their dogs for Exhibition. The Fanciers' Chronicle for November 27th, 1891, says:—"As an article adapted for canine ablutions it knows no superior. It lathers very freely, cleanses the hair thoroughly, and does not injure the condition of the skin; three attributes which should certainly combine to make it popular amongst dog men."

SUNLIGHT SOAP FOR CAGE BIRDS AND POULTRY.

No other soap is used so largely for preparing our feathered pets for victory on the Show Bench. It does its work effectually in little time, and thus produces little or no fatigue to the birds. All who have tried it pronounce it best for the purpose. The Sub-Editor of Fur and Feather, on October 5th, 1892, writes:—"I have used SUNLIGHT SOAP constantly for the past six years for preparing Poultry, Pigeons and Cage Birds for Exhibition, with the result that I have won many hundreds of prizes with birds washed with it."

USED BY ALL FANCIERS.

SUNLIGHT SOAP FOR THE FARM.

Used in the Dairy it will keep Churns, Cheese Vats, and Milk Pans beautifully bright and clean. Used in the Stable it will keep manes and tails clean and silky, and heal sores and scratches. Mr. Robert Evans, Stud Groom to Capt. Beckett, wrote us in November, 1890:—"I find SUNLIGHT SOAP is capital for Stable use, and strongly recommend it."
