BOILEAU & BOYD, DUBLIN

1912

Mr. C.J.S.Thompson

Confirming the conversation Mr. Clark had with you to-day, the following is an extract from a letter we have received from Messrs. Boileau & Boyd, Ltd., Dublin.

"As regards the Stock Jars which you desire us to lend for your Exhibition next year, we are not in a position to write you definitely on this subject at the moment."

In acknowledging the letter we have expressed the hope that they will be able to loan these jars for the H.M.E. next Spring, and that when their Mr. Boyd is in London we will be able to provide him with further information relative to the matter.

re Messrs. Boileau & Boyd, Bride Street, Dublin.

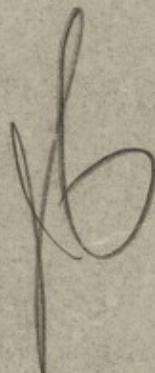

On the 17th June last we sent you an extract from a letter we had received from the above in regard to the jars they had promised to send for the H.M.E. The extract in question read as follows:-

"As regards the stock jars which you desire us to lend for your exhibition next year, we are not yet in a position to write you definitely on this subject at the moment. "

We believe that this was written in reply to the circular letter dated 19th April which you sent out to persons who had promised to loan articles for the exhibition.

Mr. S.P.Boyd whose card we attach, called here yesterday and stated that the jars in question were at present being exhibited in one of the Dublin museums, but that he would be most happy to loan them as originally arranged, provided they were fully insured while in our possession or in transit, and that all charges in connection with packing and carriage, should be borne by you. We assured him that this would be so, but he asked that we would write you specially in regard to the matter. Mr. Boyd is a very important customer of ours and we suggest that you write him specially on the lines suggested referring to his call at our offices recently.

Mr. Messrs. Bell & Boyd, Bridge Street, Dublin.

On the 17th June last we sent you an extract from a letter we had received from the above in regard to the late Mrs. Bell. The extract in question reads as follows:-

"As regards the stock jars which you desire us to send for your exhibition next year, we are not yet in a position to write you definitely on this subject at the moment."

We believe that this was written in reply to the circular letter dated 12th April which you sent out to persons who had promised to loan articles for the exhibition.

Mr. B. P. Boyd, whose name we attach, called here yesterday and stated that the jars in question were at present being exhibited in one of the Dublin museums, but that he would be most happy to loan them as originally arranged, provided they were fairly treated while in our possession or in transit, and that all charges in connection with packing and carriage, should be borne by you. We assured him that this would be so, but he asked that we would write you specially in regard to the matter. Mr. Boyd is a very important customer of ours and we suggest that you write him specially on the lines suggested referring to his call at our office recently.

Yours faithfully,
C. J. S. Thompson
