My Dear Longmore

I am very pleased to hear of the 100⁺ I had not heard about it, but for some weeks I have not been in the way of seeing either Whitmore or the Duke. I have always had a feeling that it would come some day provided it became disposable - and the Duke as well as Whitmore having expressed themselves so strongly in condemnation of you not having received it before, there was not much doubt that you would hear more about it some day x Meritorious Service allegiance

It was my wife I alluded to in my last as having got back her old cough - but she does not seem to mind it, altho it cannot be right

As to dear MARY her cough is far less than it was - and I can see that it is more a throat irritation than the chest. I never take any notice of it

most truly
yours

A. E. P.

to have been rather snubbed -

I hope Mrs Longmore
& the little stranger are doing well.

Mae wishes you to know that she had a large tooth pulled out today - & it was very hard to get out and gave great pain - which is quite true, poor child - I hope

Thursday Night

My dear Longmore,

I am sorry to hear of the note to Sir C.
Clarke from Galton -

I must say the reason given is ridiculous -
You must have had the said 150 £ with the other Professors & that increase had no reference whatever

to the personal question which had been under consideration.

The various changes of the heads of the specie have been adverse to your claim -

The result explains
what Dr Alexander

said to me a few days ago when I had a conversation with him on the subject - but I did not tell you
of it as he always seems anxious to make such conversations private -

I could see that he did not expect any thing more to be done - but I think he did his best in it, & considered himself

My dear Lord de Grey,

As D^r. Longmore has lately been recommended to fill a very important place at the Head Quarters of the Department in London, and as he has served under my eye for some 3 or 4 years, I feel it quite a duty to make an admirable Officer to make his merits known to the Sec^y of State, & to express my conviction that the selection is, without any exception, the very best that could be made.

I have now a very general knowledge of the Senior Medical Officers of the Army, either from personal acquaintance or by report, and I know I am correct in saying that, in sound judgment, temper, administrative talent and business habits, Longmore has no superior - He understands the requirements of the service well and is a man of progress & improvement.

He is also a warm friend to the School, the interests of which he would very assiduously watch & promote in every way in his power.

— He does not know that I am writing to you on the subject, but knowing that you take an interest in such matters, and wishing his merits to be known, I venture to take the liberty of writing this, for which I hope you will excuse me & believe me very truly yr

H. C. C.
