Dear Sir,

In answer to your letter asking whether we have any early M.S.S. on Medicine &c: of course it depends partly on what you mean by 'early' we have no M.S.S. of the Greek and Latin medical classics we have a few medieval M.S.S. in Latin: such as Latin translation of part of Avicenna, M.S. of Petrus Hispanus Thesaurus Pauperum &c. Also some curious M.S.S. on

Astrology & chemistry (or alchemy) but I think it would be found that they have been printed at some time or other.

We have some old & valuable Arabic medical m. ss.

I do not think we have any medical m. ss in surgery, anatomy or ~~Chemistry~~ Botany

Yours faithfully

Dear Sir,

Being engaged on a research connected with the early history of medicine, surgery, anatomy and botany, I should be glad if you will kindly let me know if you have any early manuscripts in your Library on these subjects.

Thanking you in anticipation,

I am,

Yours very truly,

The Librarian,
