Dear Sir,

The Dean has received your letter of yesterday and desires me to inform you that he quite approves of the partial ivory denture said to have once belonged to George Washington being loaned to you for the purpose you mention.

Believe me,

Yours faithfully,

4 November 1914.

Dear Sir,

In conversation with Mr. George Northcroft of Harley Street the other day, he kindly told me of a partial ivory denture that is said to have once belonged to George Washington, that he presented to the London Hospital Museum.

As we are endeavouring to make in this Museum a collection of historical dentures, we wish to know if you would kindly allow us to have a model made of this specimen. Mr. Northcroft has kindly given us his permission to say that he would appreciate your kindness if you would be good enough to lend us the original for a short time for this purpose. Every care will be taken of it while in our possession, and we will return it to you in a very short time.

Thanking you in anticipation,

Faithfully yours,

C. J. S.
