Dear Sirs, "Myrtle Hill House", Cork.

We thank you for your letter of the 27th instant with regard to lot 921.

The description in the Catalogue is obvious an error and if the Medal that has been delivered is of no interest to you we shall be pleased to allow you the purchased price, viz., 14/- plus the commission that we have charged you on this item.

We certainly do not understand how our Cataloguer could possibly have wrongly described this item.

We are, dear Sirs,

Yours faithfully,

Dear Sirs,

In checking off the lots you purchased for us on commission at the Myrtle Hill House sale, Cork, which we have just received from you, we find that lot 921/^{is} described in the catalogue as a Hong Kong Plague Medal. The medal you have sent us has nothing whatever to do with plague, and is simply a bronze medal struck in commemoration of the coronation of King Edward and Queen Alexandra. Please let us know if this has been sent to us in error, as the sole value of the medal to us would be its connection with plague as described. We enclose the medal for your inspection.

Faithfully yours,

Messrs. Gurr, Johns & Co.
