Dear Sir,

Enclosed I send receipt for your cheque for £15 with thanks -

I feel sure that the Gillespie Relics will be quite safe & in good keeping in the Historical Medical Museum -

Yours, Dear Sir,

Faithfully yours

Dear Sir,

In reply to your letter of 5th inst. offering £15 for the Gillespie Relics, while you cannot of course expect me to consider it a liberal offer, I have decided to accept it, and on receiving your cheque for that sum will at once send you a receipt in full —

Yours, Dear Sir,

Faithfully yours

H. Nelson Hardy

Dear Sir,

We have carefully considered the matter of the purchase of your relics of Surgeon General Gillespie, which you so kindly lent to the Historical Medical Museum. Although we should much like them to remain in the permanent collection, I am very sorry we cannot offer you the price you probably anticipate. We have not a large amount available for purchase of objects, and most of those that remain here have been presented by the lenders. Should you see your way to accept $15-0-0 for the relics of Gillespie, I shall be pleased to forward you a cheque for that amount.

Faithfully yours,

HST

Dear Sir -

Thanks for your letter of 9th inst. - The last thing that
wd. have occurred to my mind was that any discourtesy was intended by any one connected with the Wellcome firm, & I was quite agreeably attended by your very efficient guides - The fact is that finding I had half an hour to spare that morning I devoted it to taking a round of the Museum & seeing where the Nelson relics were kept in case I shd bring some friends in to see them during the International Congress - I shall probably look in again some day soon but had no special business to disturb you from your duties at the meeting -

I am, Dear Sir,

Dear Sir,

I very much regret that this morning I was engaged in an important meeting when you called. Directly I got away I found that you had gone and were unable to wait longer. I hope you will not think this any discourtesy on my part as it was unavoidable. Should you be able to call again or let me know by letter I shall be very pleased to hear from you.

Thanking you for your kindness in loaning the objects connected with the Museum.

I am,

Faithfully yours,

Dr. Nelson Hardy,

Croydon.
