MANUSCRIPT.—A Manuscript of Medical and Astronomical interest in Latin, Norman French and English, written in red and black in a good hand by an English scribe of the XV Century, upon 16 leaves of vellum, with initials ornamented in blue and red, and three pen and ink drawings executed as if with the intention of their being finished in colour. 4to, in a modern leather binding,

The Manuscript consists of—

1. A Table for the year with the names of the months and Zodiacal signs, showing proper times for "Blode letyng, Medecyn, Bathyng."
2. Arithmetical Tables headed by two drawings showing money being paid and counted. These tables show what sums a farthing and intermediate sums up to £100 amount to in a year.
3. A List of Castles in England arranged under counties.
4. The names of the English Bishoprics, with a drawing of the Bishops in Council.
5. Particulars (in Law French) of weights and measures of corn, wine, cheese, &c.
6. Measures of Length.
7. Various ways of measuring an acre of land.
8. A Calendar (on 12 pages) giving Saints' Days (including many English Saints), Times of Sunrise and Sunset, with rules for diet and proper days and hours for bleeding, etc., for each month.

9. Table for finding Easter for the years 1463 to 1519.
10. Table of Months and Signs of the Zodiac.
11. Age of the Moon and Path of the Sun.
12. Table of the Planets.
13. How the Signs of the Zodiac affect the Human Body.

What Rules of Health are to be observed. These are in English and begin:—

"Aries ys ye signe of a Ram, whiche rayneth in ye hed of eny man and woman. And y[ere]fore when ye moue ye in that signe beware of cuttinge in the hed or in ye face or of opynnyng of any wayne yat longeth to the hed. Also yt ys full p[er]ilous in ye bygynnyng of Aries to take ony hedache, it ys token of longe enduryng or deth. It ys not so p[er]ilous in ye ende as in ye begynnyng for it ys a moveable signe."

The costume in the drawings are of the reign of Edward IV and as the Calendar begins in the year 1463 it was probably written in the earlier part of his reign. On folio 8 a space has been left as if for another drawing but has been filled in under the date 1502 with latin and English verse, the latter of which reads:—

"Accipe that longeth to the Redde to God that his shuld be Fuge synne, or it fle thee Thanke heven, blysse yr mede shal be."

A very remarkable MS. which would seem to have been written as a sort of vade-mecum for an English XV century physician. Two passages or inscriptions on the first and twenty-second pages have been darkened so that the writing has been obscured.

[Faint, illegible handwriting, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]

The Initial Letters of this Old Almanack were never finished, & remain only in outline.
On Page 8, the date of AD. 1502 has been written:
but as the first year in the Table for finding Easter (at page 24) is "1463": & as the Dresses in the outline Initial Letters, are decidedly those of the Reign of Edw. IV (beginning 1460)
the Almanack may be, & probably is, of earlier date than 1503: perhaps as early as 1463.
It is partly in Latin, partly in English.

The subject matter of the old manuscript was never finished, it was a copy of the 12 page B. the date of the copy is uncertain and the first page is the title page which is of paper 24) or 1803. It is a copy of the original printed in the library there is the title of the 12 page the manuscript may be a printed in the late 18th or 19th century as the
it is printed in the library
