DOCTOR FOTHERGILL'S

P E C T O R A L P I L L S,

For COUGHS, ASTHMAS, CONSUMPTIONS, and
All DISORDERS of the LUNGS.

THE great and rapid demand there has been for these Pills, which were prescribed by the late celebrated Dr. FOTHERGILL, in a practice of 44 Years in the above complaints, with such uncommon success, and the difficulty which has been met with in finding out the Proprietor, who has hitherto depended too much on the intrinsic merit of his Pills to take any step that might bring them under the denomination of a Quack Medicine, induces him to have recourse to this method of acquainting the Public that they are to be had only, by his appointment at Mr. AXTELL's Medicinal Warehouse, Finch Lane, Cornhill, and at No. 27, St. James's Street, in Boxes of 5s. each, Stamp free, and printed directions sealed up with each box.

It is well known that the great fame of Dr. Fothergill was derived from his combining simple Medicines so as to make them effectual remedies. The present Pills come directly under this description, and may be taken by persons of the most delicate constitution with the greatest safety. The number of afflicted persons who have been cured since the Doctors death by taking these Pills is a further inducement to the Proprietor to make them thus public, conceiving that the knowledge of their virtues cannot be too widely diffused. And he begs leave to add, that this form of Medicine has infinitely the advantage of Lozenges, Balsams, Syrups, &c. which chiefly consist of Sugar, the pernicious tendency of which, by destroying the appetite and weakening the digestive powers of the stomach is too obvious to be here particularly pointed out.

IN COUGHS, arising from common colds, if one of them be taken twice a day, and two at night, going to bed, a cure will be obtained in a few days.

IN THE MOST STUBBORN ASTHMAS where the difficulty of breathing prevents the patient from lying down, and he is obliged to be propped up in bed with pillows, two or three Pills taken at the moment of exigency procures speedy relief; and if the feet and legs are at the same time put in warm water, their operation will be assisted.

AND THE CONSUMPTIVE PATIENT will derive more benefit from the use of them than from any other remedy extant. One or two taken frequently in the day, and two at going to bed, will quiet the cough, procure appetite and rest. And if he be not exhausted by previous bleedings, and the other destructive means generally employed in such cases, the use of these Pills, continued for some time, will ultimately terminate in the restoration of health.

A Gentleman has given us the following prescription to prevent infection. It is that celebrated preparation called Thieves Vinegar, a name given to it from having been made use of as a preservative by some abandoned wretches who plundered the dying and the dead, during one of the great plagues abroad. This circumstance the criminals acknowledged to their Confessor before their execution.

RECIPE—Take rue, wormwood, sage, lavender, mint, and rosemary, of each one handful, put them altogether, with a gallon of the best vinegar, into a stone jar, covered over with paste, and let them stand within the warmth of a fire to infuse for eight days; then strain them off, and to every quart bottle put three quarters of an ounce of camphire. Let the camphire be dissolved before it is put into the bottles. Rub the temples and loins with this preparations before going out in the morning, wash the mouth, snuff up some of it into the nostrils, and carry a bit of sponge that has been dropped in it, in order to smell to it pretty often.

N. B. Camphire alone put up the nostrils, and into the mouth, is a very good preservative against infection; likewise camphire put to the pit of the stomach in a linen bag.

THE PRINTERS.

SIRS,
FOR THE Benefit of those who are afflicted with the Scourgy, you are at Liberty to insert the following Case, with the Mode of Cure:

Having for these last three or four Years been violently afflicted with the above Complaint, which arose to such a Height as to make my Life almost insupportable, Night or Day, and which brought on Eruptions all over my Back, Arms, and other Parts of my Body, attended with continual Itchings, Burnings in my Feet, Heaviness, & (tho' in the Day-Time an Inclination to sleep) restless Nights, to such a Degree that I could hardly keep my Bed, induced me to endeavour to find out something for my Relief;—at last I prepared the following Vegetable Syrrup, viz. To four Beer Quarts of good rich Sweetwort add Half a Pound of Sassafras, one Ounce of Sarsaparilla, and four Ounces of Daucus Seed (commonly called Wild Carrot). Boil them gently over the Fire for three Quarters of an Hour, frequently putting the Ingredients down with a Ladle; then strain the same through a Cloth. To each Beer Quart of this Liquor, put one Pound and a Half of good thick Treacle; boil the same gently for three Quarters of an Hour, scumming it all the Time, put it into a Pan, and cover it till cold—then Bottle it for Use.—Be careful not to cork it too tight.

The Dose I took was a moderate Tea-Cup full in the Morning before I arose, and the same Quantity on going to Bed; which I continued till I had taken nineteen or twenty Wine Bottles.—The above did no more than keep the Body regularly open.—The Effect was such, that it took off the Itchings, cleansed the Skin, eased the Feet, relieved me from Drowsiness in the Day-Time, and brought on comfortable Nights,—made me active; and I feel myself as it were a new Man, at the Age of near Sixty Years.

The Time of my taking the above Syrrup was in September, October, and Part of November, 1787, during which Period I did not eat Animal Food, Fish, Greens, nor high Sauces.—My Drink at Dinner was small Beer, and about a Pint of mild Ale afterwards:—If found necessary increase or lessen the Dose.—Should any Person find the above not sufficient to keep the Body regularly open, to a Bottle of the Syrrup add Half an Ounce of Sena, which boil up in a Sauce-Pan, and take a Tea-Cup full occasionally.

Free School-Lane, Cambridge.

T. HUCKINGS.

As no radical Cure can be expected in those advanced in Life, it will be necessary to take a Quantity every Spring and Autumn, on which Account I intend beginning a Course in this Month, and by Way of Prevention to take every Spring and Autumn about six Bottles.

N. B. The Wild Carrot is to be gathered in September and October.—Sassafras and Sarsaparilla may be had of any Druggist or Chemist.

It is stated that Dr. Thornton has discovered a specific in Scarlet Fever, viz. twenty-five drops of Tincture of Fox-glove, given every three hours, day and night: and by this simple means he lately saved seventeen children of the St. Pancras Female Charity School, all of whom had ulcerated throats, and other signs of that fatal disease.

M.^{rs} Colliers Breast was broke in several places, and had various Applications by the ablest of the Faculty without gaining any relief till she took the horse Corns at which time she was declared incurable The Receipt is this

Take half an Ounce of Corns from the fore leg of a Stone horse, dried and beat to a powder, put into a quart of Ale or Wine.

Take a glass Night & Morning it caused great Perspiration & after having lain in Bed an hour or two first shaking the bottle, after having took it about a fortnight, it gave great pain in the breast which discharg'd prodigious-ly, she was told she would be cured in about six weeks, but it was twelve before she was quite well. It is now some years since she has had two Children without having the least return, or even pain from the place when she lay in N.B. The Corns may be had at any Stables, but the most certain is at Brewers as Stone horses are chiefly used to draw their drays, and they have them regularly.

The diet drink Mrs Wilson took the Corns in this. Three gallons of Wort not bitter, boil in it two hands full of ground Ivy, till one Gallon is consumed, when Cold put a Cock or Spiket into it, then add to it the Juice and rinds of two Dozen Seville Oranges one Pint of Millepedes, one Pint of sheep Dung, let it stand ten days, drink half a pint Night & Morn with half a pound of the powder in it, the Diet drink must be warm.

Mrs Wilson lived chiefly on Milk Diet & never omitted eating three or four China Oranges every day, both Seville & China she found very beneficial and was no well if she neglected or could not procure them.

Mrs Collier had hers cut off four years ago, but the Disorder return'd with more Violence than ever, her breast had Nine holes, & was grown to such a Size as nearly to meet her Chin, & the Pro-tuberant knots as long as the point of a finger her

This Receipt is said to be the celebrated one by which the four thieves escaped the Plague.

To prevent Infection rub the Temples, Wrists and Stomach with it, and sprinkle some on the Woollen part of your Cloaths. If great danger of Infection be apprehended. A Tea Spoonful may be taken every four hours in any convenient Vehicle. 38

48

To purify the Air in a Sick Chamber or the Cloaths of diseased persons. Evaporate half a pint of the Lignor on a red hot heater or any other convenient way.

Humanity particularly demands that the Linnen or other Cloaths of diseased persons with Infectious disorders should be well sprinkled with Vinegar immediately before it is given to be wash'd.

I recommend Garlich, Calamus Aromaticus, Cinamon, Cloves, Nutmegs, three drams each to be added to the above.

The Receipt was from a Physician in the Duke of Berwicks Army in the year 1721. The four Male-factors who used to rob the Infected houses at Marseilles had owned at their Execution that they preserved themselves from the Contagion by using this meedecine only, two of the persons were saved to own what method they used to prevent Infection, this they said was all they did. Lady B Germain gave it to the Lady who gave it to M^{rs} Merry. She had it from the Duke of Dorset, who had it from the Duke of Berwick.

For the falling down of the Fundament.

R T in a letter to M^r Urban, a Gentlemans Magazine ⁹⁷
Supplement 1793. ₆₅

I have lately been cured of a Rheumatism in my back and Shoulders. by the Application of a Sheet of Common brown paper, after wearing it for a week, it produc'd a violent eruption of small Pimples which Itched extremely, I then dis-continued the paper, and by frequent Appli-cations of Milk and Water, the Itching abat-
-ed. the paper should be well dird before it is Applied, and I found it the easiest way of wearing it, was to have it sew'd with-
-inside of a flannel Waistcoat, which I wear next my Skin, but when the Eruption took place I left off the paper, I was oblig'd to wear a Linen Waistcoat under the Flannel one to prevent its irritating the pimples. This is a simple remedy yet efficacious that I wish to make it known for the poor's sake.

For a lousy head.

136. For the Ague. In Northth Mercury,

Take mixed water, quarter of pint - best Bark powder, half an ounce
Salt of wormwood, two drams. - Half of this mixture to be taken the first thing in the morning, & the remainder, in an hour ~~in~~ & a half afterwards. - An Emetic sh^d be taken the day preceding. - Should this fail, (wh^{ch} I have never known it to do,) the dose sh^d be repeated.
Another invaluable remedy is the Sulphate of Quinine; - I give in this,

To an adult - three grains.	{ Twice a day for three or 4 days successively, beginning with an Emetic. -
From 10, to 14 years, two & a half grs.
From 6, to 10 grs - two grains.
From 3, to 6 grs - one, & one & half grs.

I have never known this treatment fail. - Children will readily take the Quinine in a little moist sugar. - The ague is very apt to return upon the poor, on account of their low way of living, a strengthening medicine sh^d therefore be continued for ten days or a fortnight after taking the above. — Nothing can be better than continuing the Quinine powder, but as that is a very expensive medicine for the poor,

a simpler may be adopted, the following is very efficacious. —

Half a pint of good Beer, 60 drops of diluted sulphuric acid. — Two table

CARRAGEEN OR IRISH MOSS,

For Coughs, Colds, and Consumptions.

THE FUCUS, commonly known by the above names, has long been highly esteemed by the Peasants on the western coast of Ireland, as a dietetic remedy for various diseases; more especially, for Consumption—Dysentery—Rickets, &c. Dissolved by being boiled in water, it forms a thick Mucilage, very pure and agreeable to the taste; and the Jelly made from it is found to agree better with the Stomach, than any of those prepared from animal substances. A Decoction of the Moss, made by boiling half an ounce in a pint and a half of water or milk, until reduced to a pint, is recommended as food for Children who are delicate and weakly, and for Infants brought up by hand, or after weaning.—As an article of Diet for Invalids, generally, it is superior to Isinglass, Sago, and Tapioca, being highly nutritious, and easy of digestion.

Directions.

FOR CONSUMPTIVE PERSONS.

Steep a quarter of an ounce of the Moss in cold water, for a few minutes—then withdraw it, (shaking the water out of each sprig) and boil it in a quart of new, or unskimmed milk, until it attains the consistence of warm Jelly—strain, and sweeten it to the taste, with Sugar or Honey. Should milk disagree with the Stomach, the same proportion of water may be used instead. The Decoction made with milk is recommended for Breakfast, and that with water will be found a most agreeable kind of nourishment, taken at intervals during the day, the flavour being varied with Lemon Juice, or Peel—Seville Orange Juice—Cinnamon—Bitter Almonds—Wine—or any other substance most congenial to the Palate.

For Coughs or Colds, &c.

The Decoction in water is also taken for the relief of Cough, at any time in the course of the day, when it is troublesome, and it is, for this purpose, simply sweetened with Honey or Sugar, or the Syrup of Poppies, Syrup of Squills, as the case may indicate.

In Dysentery, either the Decoction in Milk or Water may be administered with equal advantage, and in addition to the sweetening matter, if a Tea-spoonful of the Tincture of Rhatany be mixed with each Cupful of it, tone will thereby be given to the Intestines, at the same time that nourishment will be conveyed to the System, and irritation prevented—a large Tea-cupful of the Decoction may be taken three or four times a day.

For Culinary Purposes.

To make BLANC-MANGE—take half an ounce of the Moss, and having cleansed it by the process above described, boil it in a pint and a half of New-Milk, until it is reduced to a proper thickness to retain its shape; to be sweetened and flavoured in the usual way.

To make ORANGE, LEMON, or SAVORY JELLIES—use a similar process, substituting Water for Milk—add Lemon, Orange, Herbs, &c., according to taste.
