Is aspirin dangerous?

After a lifetime of acceptance unequalled in medical history, it seems a little unfair that the safety of aspirin should now be seriously questioned.

However, evidence of occasional gastric irritation with aspirin—even gastric erosion and haemorrhage—is conclusive, and the present trend towards heavier dosage in certain conditions demands, more than before, a non-irritant form of the drug.

Risk of intolerance is almost negligible with Paynocil, in which aspirin is blended with glycine. This disperses, lubricates and buffers the acetylsalicylic acid particles so that they are spread harmlessly over the mucosa, ready for instant absorption.

Paynocil, with its pleasant taste, instant dispersal and non-irritant virtues, is acceptable to palate and stomach alike.

PAYNOCIL non-irritant, quick-dispersing, palatable aspirin

Each Paynocil tablet contains 10 grains of aspirin and 5 grains of glycine.

PACKING: Cartons of 18: dispensing packs of 240 (basic N.H.S. cost 21/8).

Junior PAYNOCIL is readily accepted by children

Each Junior Paynocil tablet contains 2½ grains of aspirin and 1¼ grains of glycine.

PACKING: Cartons of 20: dispensing packs of 240 (basic N.H.S. cost 12/-).
