THE GARDENER'S CALENDAR,

Containing useful information for every month in the year.

JANUARY.—If the weather be open and dry, sow, upon warm compartments, small portions of peas, beans, cabbage, spinage, carrots, parsley, radish, lettuce, and onions, and preserve them from the cold by mats. Also, in hot beds, cucumbers, melons, small salading, best early and red cabbage, kidney beans, and cauliflowers. Plant cabbages, horse radish, beans, and mint root. The cucumbers and melons this month require particular attention. They ought to receive air by small degrees as often as possible.

FEBRUARY.—Sow small salading, radishes, onions, parsley, spinage, lettuce, peas, beans, cabbage, cauliflowers, carrots, parsnips, fennel, &c. Plant cabbages, &c. as last month. The cucumber and melon plants, raised last month, should be transplanted about the middle of this into new hot beds. The ground should be prepared for planting asparagus next month.

MARCH.—Sow, in this month, principal crops of carrots, early turnips, radishes, onions, cabbage, celery, cauliflowers, spinage, lettuce, asparagus, peas, and beans. Sow asparagus for the new plantations of the next year.

Make new asparagus beds, and fork the old ones,

APRIL.—Sow and plant as in the former month, for a later crop. Towards the middle of the month dung should be prepared for ridges of melons and cucumbers. Snails and slugs ought to be killed, and weeds kept down, otherwise they will increase so fast as to render their destruction difficult.

MAY, -- The principal crops sowed and planted in the spring will now require weeding, hoeing and thining, and some transplanting. The melons beds require an equal degree of heat; and the glasses must be covered every night through the month with mats; but in the middle of the day they must be raised to the breadth of two or three fingers. Cucumbers in frames must receive a moderate supply of water, and be planted out under hand-glasses.

JUNE.—Particular attention is now required in weeding, hoeing, thinning, and watering the principal crops, and pricking out and transplanting for autumn and winter. Sow savoys, brocoli, borecole, cabbages, turnips, carrots, spinage, coleworts, kidney heans, lettuce, endive, celery, cucumbers, radishes, peas, bcans, and small salading. Plant cabbages, colewort, savoys, brocoli, borecole, leeks, bcans, lettuce, endive, celery, cucumbers, radishes, peas, and beans. Melon plants must be shaded in the heat of the day, and receive a large portion of fresh air. Transplant endive for blanching, and prick out young brocoli plants which were sown in April or May.

JULY.—Prepare ground for the reception of succession crops, and some main crops for autumn and winter, and sow turnips, &c. as at the beginning of the year. The common radishes sown now will be fit to draw the beginning of September; and the cauliflowers sown in May must be planted out in spots where they are to remain. The beds of carrots sown now will be fit to draw early in April. Spinage for winter may now be sown, and onions taken up if the leaves wither.

AUGUST.—Asparagus beds planted in March must now be cleared; celery transplanted and earthed, and the heads or suckers taken from the March artichokes. The early cabbage seed must not be sown later than the 12th of this month; but lettuce seed may be put in as late as the 24th. The cauliflower seed will not do without covering, and the spinage sown last month will require hoeing.

SEPTEMBER.—Sow spinage, lettuce, onions, radishes, cabbages, colewort, chervil, corn-salad, borage, coriander, turnips, and successions of small salading. Plant savoys, cabbages, coleworts, brocoli, borecole, lettuces, leeks, celery, endive, and perennial aromatic and pot herbs. Make mush room-beds, and cut down the haulm of asparagus, clean the beds, and do them if necessary. Hoe your turnips, and weed onions. The cauliflowers of last month must be weeded out, and cabbage-plants pricked. Of the lettuces sown last month some may be put into warm borders for spring use, and others planted under frames for pulling in December and January.

The different kinds of seed must be gathered as they ripen.

OCTOBER.—Sow a small crop of radishes and lettuces, successions of small salading, and a few early peas to come in next summer. Plant crops of cabbage, cauliflowers, late brocoli, celery, lettuce, and early beans. Keep uncovered, night and day, for the greater part of this month, such cauliflowers as are planted in frames. All spare ground should be dunged and NOVEMBER.—Most of the processes used last month will also be appropriate for this. Such as giving air to lettuce and cauliflower plants that are under frames. Cut down the leaves of artichokes, and earth-up the plants.

DECEMBER.—Forward the digging, manuring, or trenching vacant ground, preparing hot dung, making hot beds, and earthing and tying up plants. Sow a few early peas and radishes on warm borders, and small salading and cucumbers in hot beds. Plant early beans, strong cabbageplants and coleworts; and plant, in hot beads, cucumbers, mint, tarragon, and asparagus. The small salads may be sown every ten days, under frames; and such radish seed as may be put in the ground this month should be covered on cold nights with fern or long litter.

METALLIC MEMORANDUM BOOKS,

Of Prepared Paper, with Metallic Pencils.

"Invaluable to all Persons engaged in Commercial or other important pursuits, where rapidity, CLEARNESS, and INDELIBILITY of writing are of the utmost consequence."

The great celebrity obtained by these books has called forth a number of spurious Imitations, which in many cases have been sold to the Public as HARWOOD'S BOOKS. Until the deception is discovered, the fraud is calculated to injure the genuine article, and produce serious disappointment to the purchaser.

J. Harwood begs to inform the Public that no book is genuine without his Signature, "J. HARWOOD," inside the cover—to imitate which is felony.

Harwood's Metallic Memorandum Books are sold by every respectable Stationer in the United Kingdom.

HARWOOD'S DIARIES.

These Diaries are arranged on the most approved plans, in very convenient forms, and contain a variety of commercial information and useful tables. The Diamond Diary is particularly recommended for its compactness, being adapted for the waistcoat pocket, and for the use of Ladies.

N.B.—They are published as a Pocket Book, with the Improved Paper and Metallic Pencil.

HARWOOD'S

Art Union Drawing Pencils,

Price 6d. each.

HINTS TO EMIGRANTS:

OR, INCIDENTS IN THE EMIGRATION OF JOHN SMITH OF SMITH TOWN.

Consisting of Nine Humorous Illustrations, Designed and Etched

BY PERCY CRUIKSHANK,

Price, One Shilling plain; & Two Shillings coloured.

HARWOOD'S

Illustrations of Great Britain,

Handsomely bound in Cloth, Gilt Edges, 5s. 6d.

This Volume contains thirty select and beautiful Engravings on Steel, and presents a pleasing and contrasting variety of the picturesque scenery of the country. It is a Book well adapted for a present, is full of interest for the table, and at an extremely moderate price for its intrinsic value.

Illustrated Letter and Note Views.

One of the most pleasing and desirable objects which can be given to a correspondence between devoted or esteemed connections is to convey some idea of the locality or charms of the place of residence (especially if temporary); for then there is generally a freshness of feeling to appreciate the surrounding beauties in the most attractive and interesting subjects.

The Publisher of these Letter and Note Views has employed artists of great talent for this purpose, and at a very large expenditure has produced beautiful Steel Engravings of above 1.000 different places at a very trifling cost to the public.

HARWOOD'S

REGISTERED DIRECTION CARDS,

Or Parchment Labels,

Afford the most simple but valuable method for attaching a Direction by means of an Eyelet Hole.

They are superseding all others for the security and great ease with which they are applied to every description of luggage. Mercantile Houses and Travellers will find them indispensable when once adopted.

ADRESIVE LUGGAGE LABELS.

DIRECTIONS.—Moisten the Label on the back, and firmly press it on the Parcel.

Harwood's Universal Manifold Writers

A LETTER, &c., WITH COPIES IN DUPLICATE

AND TRIPLICATE, AT ONE OPERATION;

Which, for their superiority, have gained the approbation of the Mercantile World. Accompanied with Directions. The Portfolio can be replenished with Carbonic and Copying Books at most of the respectable Stationers.

Harwood's Steel Pen Letter Paper.

This Paper is manufactured expressly for the use of Metallic Pens, and will be highly appreciated for its agreeable qualities in facilitating writing, while it will be found entirely free from the numerous objections and impediments so often and justly the cause of complaint against paper generally used for this purpose.

Harwood's London Bank Pens.

These Pens are manufactured from the best tempered Steel, combined with the greatest care and skill in the workmanship. They possess the flexibility of the quill, with the preservation of the elasticity to a much greater degree; and are so remarkable for producing beauty and clearness in writing as to render them distinguished in numerous public offices, which is the greatest testimony to their excellence.

In order that the purchasers of these Pens may ensure the kind most particularly suited for their own writing, they are made to possess different characters, which are distinguished by the following letters, and each Pen is stamped "Harwood's London Bank Pen."

F for Fine or Running Hand.

M Middling or Round Hand.

B Broad or Text Hand.

Harwood's Universal Pens.

These are very properly designated; for they possess all the advantages of modern improvements in Manufacture, combined with a cheapness as to render them universally adopted after once being tried.—Price 6d. per Dozen.

Harwood's Conservative Pens.

Are manufactured on the same improved and useful principle as the Commercial Pens, retaining the same advantages, and are highly valued for their well-tempered elasticity; they are also more durable and hold more ink than the ordinary pen.

Those persons who find a small size pen objectionable will find these very desirable.

Now in course of Publishing.

CLARKE'S

LITERARY WRITING MASTER.

PROSPECTUS.

It is an astonishing fact, that, from the time writing was invented to the present period, the Writing Master, with the best opportunity to communicate knowledge, has been a mere mechanical agent, a very automaton. The author of this work claims for himself the honor of rescuing the laudable employment of instructing youth in writing from this merited stigma, as they may, in future, while learning to write, also acquire a knowledge of Latin Grammar, Geography, &c. in their most alluring forms—concise, pointed, and indelible in their impressions.

At the present moment, when such universal efforts are being made for the diffusion of Education and the Government so nobly advances as the pioneers in this truly great national object, surely that mode hitherto defective in its practice will give way to a better system of education, by which the learner may acquire two or more things at once.

When the Pupil has written the four books of the Geographical Series, he will have acquired a knowledge of the figure of the Earth with its divisions, the number of the Counties in England and Wales, with the name of every important Town in the former and the Capitals of all the Kingdoms of Europe.

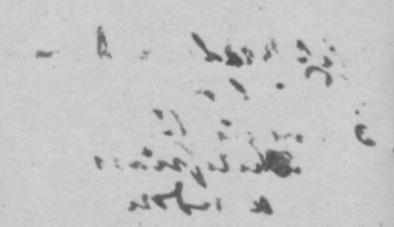

The system will be carried progressively through the whole range of scholastic literature. Its grand characteristics are those of almost self-teaching, inculcating knowledge at every step. The Parents from the printed interrogatories and answers aprended, will have an opportunity of ascertaining the progress of their children; who, knowing that they may be drilled and catechised and a strict surveillance exercised over the mechanical processare likely to be stimulated to use their best energies and to retain the import of what they write.

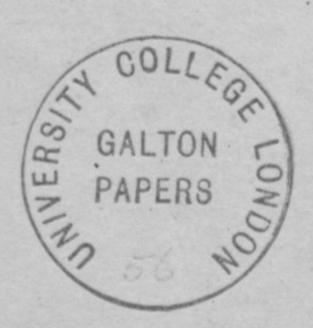

The Copies are engraved in the best style of modern penmanship and the following is a specimen of the Parsing:-

to the south-east, leaving an area of 65,000 sq. m. within the British protectorate. Nothing is said in this treaty about the Abyssinian boundaries towards the west and south. Their settlement may give some trouble, as Menelik claims both Galabat and Gedaref as old possessions of his Empire, and the Franco-Russian Company, which holds ill-defined privileges with respect to recent acquisitions to the south, is not likely to prove very accommodating in any boundary questions that may have to be discussed with Great Britain.

A Russian ambassador, M. Vlasof, arrived at Addis Abeba on February 17, and there are now with the King of Kings representatives of four European Powers,—Russia, France, Italy and Great Britain.

Menelik is stated to have taken the field against his vassal Mangasha, of Tigre.

RED SEA.—A French officer and a few men inadvertently occupied a position a little to the south of Raheita. The Italian Government complained and the men were at once withdrawn; the French Government freely recognizing the Italian claim to the coast as far south as Ras Dumeira, near Obok (November, 1898). The rumour that Russia had acquired a coaling station on the Red Sea needs confirmation.

ALGERIA. — Colonel Lugan left Biskra on November 7, at the head of a military expedition, with orders to occupy the oasis of Tuat. The oasis is claimed by Morocco, but is virtually independent. Its occupation will enable the French to exercise pressure upon the predatory Tuareg.

West Affica and the Night.—A commission for settling the conflicting claims of Britain and France met at Paris in November, 1897, notwithstanding which aggressive operations on the part of the French were continued, and in several instances nearly led to hostile collisions at places previously occupied by British troops. Vast territories in the interior, whose development it would have been wiser to leave to the future, had thus to be prematurely occupied, and troops had to be maintained for this purpose at an expenditure quite out of proportion to immediate results. On June 14 an agreement was at last signed at Paris. Its territorial arrangements can readily be studied on our sketch-map: Britain has abandoned her claims to Mossi and Nikki; has permitted France to retain the whole of Gurma and a considerable portion of Gando, a vassal state of the Sultan of Sokoto; and has placed her in nominal possession of that part of Bornu, within which lies the trading town of Sinder. France merely withdraws from Busa and Wa, two places to which her claims were of the most shadowy description. France is moreover granted a 30 years' lease of two plots of land on the Niger, the one near Fort Goldie, the other at one of the mouths of the river. British and French subjects and protected persons are to be treated on equal terms in all matters of trade and navigation within the whole of the British sphere, as well as on the Ivory Coast up to 9° N., and in Dahomey as far as 11° N. British traders skall, moreover, have free access to Wagadugu, the capital of Mossi. France has thus succeeded in shutting off the British colonies of Gambia, Sierra Leone, and the Gold Coast from much of their Hinterland, and prevented the last of these from being connected with the British territories on the Niger. Negotiations with Germany are stated to be in progress respecting the eastern boundary of the Gold Coast colony.

Samory, the most stubborn enemy of France in the Sudan, was taken prisoner with all his family in September last, and his forces broken up, by Capt Gourand.

French Congo.—In October, 1897, M. Gentil made a Treaty with Sultan Gaurang of Bagirmi, and installed M. Prins as French resident at Masenya. Since that time, however, the Sultan has been driven from his capital by Rabah, the usurper of Bornu.

UGANDA.—The dethroned King Mwanga has recrossed the British (boundary and is giving some anxiety to the authorities in Budu and Ankole. The Sudanere mutineers, who had been surrounded at Lubwas, effected their escape during the night of January 9. They were at once pursued, and met with several defeats (the most recent on Aug. 4 by Colonel Cyril Martyr, at Mruli), but their leader is still at liberty. Colonel Martyr since then has occupied Dufile, on the Nile.

AMERICA.

NEWFOUNDLAND .- By the Treaty of Utrecht, 1783, the French were granted the exclusive privilege of fishing along the whole western coast, and a portion of the south coast, but they were precluded from forming permanent settlements. or to erect fortifications on the Islands of St. Pierre and Micquelon. France is accused of having made an abusive use of her Treaty rights, with no possible advantage to herself, and to the great injury of Newfoundland, whose development is thus hindered. St. Pierre, moreover, has been strongly fortified and garrisoned. As a definite settlement of this question is much to be desired in the interests of Newfoundland, Her Majesty's Government in the course of last summer, sent Admiral Sir James Erskine, Sir John Bramston and the Earl of Westmeath as Commissioners to the Island to investigate and report upon the exercise of the French Treaty

CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES.—An international conference met at Quebec on August 23 for the purpose of adjusting all existing differences between the United States and Canada, including the definition of the Alaskan boundary, the claims of Canada to a share in pelagic sealing, and various questions of trade. Lord Herschell, on the proposal of Senator Fairbanks, was chosen President. The Conference adjourned on October 10, but resumed its sittings at Washington on November 11, and is reported to have made satisfactory progress.

CENTRAL AMERICA.—The Federal "Republica Major de Centro-America" constituted in 1897, has already gone to pieces, Salvador having withdrawn from it in consequence of a revolution which broke out in November, 1898, overthrew President Gutierrez. and placed in power General Tomas Regelado, who is opposed to federation.

Two others of the confederated States, Nicaragua and Costa Bica, nearly came to blows about their boundary claims, but war was fortunately averted, and an inconclusive Treaty of Peace signed on April 27.

A coaling station on the Chiriqui Lagoon is stated to have been acquired by the United States, but this news still lacks confirmation.

THE UNITED STATES AND SPAIN. - Two causes have led to the war between the United States and Spain. Firstly, sympathy with the rebels in their struggle against Spanish misrule; and secondly, the excitement aroused by the destruc-tion of the "Maine" whilst lying in the harbour of Manila, which is firmly believed in America to have been caused by the treacherous explosion of a submarine mine. The recriminatory disputes between the two governments soon grew hot; the European Powers urged a settlement of all differences on the basis of the re-establishment of order in Cuba : and Spain, on April 9, offered an armistice to the Cuban insurgents on condition that the United States should cease to give them their moral and material support, and withdraw her men-of-war. The offer was declined, not only because of the distrust felt in Spanish promises, but also because an armistice during the rainy season (May to October) would have proved of advantage to Spain alone.

On April 11 Mr. McKinley sent a message on Cuban affairs to Congress. He pointed out that Spanish misrule had reduced a once prosperous country to comparative want; that the cruel and barbarous manner of carrying on the war had roused the sympathies of the American people, and that the laying waste of fields, and compulsory "concentration" of the peasantry intowns had caused thousands of deaths by starvation In fine he asked for authority to take measures to "stop the war" in Cuba. The United States "stop the war" in Cuba. Senate and Congress responded without loss of time, and a joint resolution of April 19 demands that the independence and freedom of the people of Cuba shall be proclaimed; that Spain be summoned to withdraw her forces from the Island; that the President be directed to use armed force to attain this object; and that every intention of exercising sovereignty in Cuba be disclaimed.

On April 20 Mr. McKinley called upon Spain to withdraw her military and naval forces in the course of three days, but Spain, anticipating this ultimatum, had already handed his passports to General Woodward, the American Ambassador at Madrid.

On April 22 the United States proclaimed a blockade of the north coast of Cuba, which was subsequently extended to the south coast, and to Fuerto Rico. Matanzas and a few other towns were shelled, and on May 31 an American squadron of 15 vessels appeared off Santiago and bombarded its forts for a couple of hours. On June 3, Lieut. Hobson succeeded in sinking a collier, the "Merrimac," in the middle of the entrance of the harbour, which did not, however, prevent a Spanish fleet under Admiral Cervera from entering the port. The bombardment was repeated on June 6 and June 16. Between June 21 and 28, troops were landed under General Shafter, who invested the town on the land side. On July 3, Admiral Cervera's squadron slipped out of the port, but was destroyed by Admiral Sampson in a running naval engagement. Several brilliant engagements were fought in front of the town, and on July 17 it was evacuated by the Spaniards, who laid down their arms, and occupied by an American force. The insurgent leaders, during these operations, proved quite untrustworthy, and the relations between them and the Americans were frequently strained.

Puerto Rico fell an easy prey. The war was virtually at an end. (For operations in the Philippines, see p. 605.)

On July 26, proposals for peace were made at Washington by M. Cambon, the French ambassador, on behalf of Spain, and on August 12 abbassador, on behalf of Spain, and on August 12 abbassador. Peace Protocol was signed, embodying the following points; (1) Spain renounces all claim to her sovereignty over, and all rights in the island of Cuba; (2) Spain cedes to the United States the island of Puerto Rico and an island in the Ladrones, to be chosen by the United States; (3) Manila shall be retained by the United States pending the conclusion of a treaty of peace determining the control and form of government of the Philippines; (4) Cubs and Puerto Rico are to be evacuated forthwith; (5) Commissioners shall met at Paris on October 1, to draw up a treaty of peace; (5) Hostilities shall be suspended on the signature of this protocol.

The Peace Commissioners met as arranged, but

The Median Estimate. By FRA CIS GALTON, D.C.L., F.R.S.

The usual method is very unsatisfactory by which the collective opinion of Councils, Senates, and other Assemblies is recertained, in respect to the most suitable amount of money to be granted for any particular purpose. The opinions of individual members are sure to differ as to rewards for past services, as to compensation for damage, or as to the cost of arrying out some desirable object for which provision has to be made. How is that medium amount to be ascertained which is the fairest compromise between many different opinions? The method usually adopted is for some person in authority to consult his colleagues and then to lay a definite proposal before the meeting to which another person may move an amendment; the amendment and the original motion are then put severally to the vote, and are carried or rejected by a simple majority. Jurymen are said to adopt a different way of assessing damages; each writes his own estimate on a separate paper, the estimates are added together, and the average of them all is occasionally accepted by the whole body of the jury and returned as their verdict. Averages are, however, objectionable to large assemblages on account of the tedious arithmetic that would then be needed. Moreover, an average value may greatly mislead, unless each several estimate has been made in good faith, because a single voter is able to produce an effect far beyond his due share by writing down an unreasonably large or unreasonably small sum. The middlemost value, or the Median of all the estimates, is free from this danger, inasmuch as the influence of each voter has exactly equal weight in its determination. Again, few persons know what they want with sufficient clearness to enable them to express it in numerical terms, from which alone an average may be derived. Much deeper searching of the thought is needed to enable a man to make such precise affirmation as that 'in my opinion the bonus to be given should be 80%, than to enable him to say, 'I do not think the bonus should be so much as 100%, certainly it should not be more than 100%.

The plan that I would suggest for discovering the median of the various sums desired by the several voters is to specify any two reasonable amounts, A and B, A being the smaller, making it understood that A and B are intended to serve as divisions, and therefore no votes are to be given for either of those two precise sums. Next, three shows and counts of hands are to be made: (1) for less than A; (2) for more than A, but less than B; (3) for more than B. The results are:

a per cent. vote for less than A; 100-a vote for more than A. b per cent. vote for less than B; 100-b vote for more than B.

Numerous analogies amply justify the assumption that the estimates will be distributed on either side of their (unknown) median, m, with an (unknown) quartile, q, in approximate accordance with the normal law of frequency of error. The following table of centiles (a better word than 'Per-centiles,' which I originally used), having a quartile = 1, is founded upon that law. It is extracted from my 'Natural Inheritance' (Macmillan, 1889, p. 205) to serve the present purpose.

Let a be the tabular number inchesive of its sign, that corresponds to the grade a° , and let β be that which corresponds to b° , then whence

$$m+qa=\Lambda$$
; $m+q\beta=B$,

Example:—A = 100, B = 500; $a = 40^{\circ}$, $b = 80^{\circ}$, whence a = -0.38, $\beta = +1.25$ and m = 193. The truth of the determination of m may now, if so desired, be tested by putting two new values A' B' to the vote, in the same way as A and B, but A' and B' should not differ much from m, and it should be an honourable understanding that no member should defiate from his first opinion in giving his second vote.

When about to utilise this method, A and B ought to be so selected that A shall secure not less than 5 per cent, of the votes, and B not more than 95, because the curve of error ceases to trustworthy near to its extremities, but a dependence upon it within the limits of 5° and 95° will seem pedantic only to those who are unfamiliar with its nature and with its numerous and successful applications.

It will be easily understood that this method is a particular case of the more general problem, that in any system of normal variables which has been arrayed between the grades of 0° and 100°, if the values be given that correspond to any two specified grades, those that correspond to each and every other grade can be found.

I heartily wish that when occasion offers, some Assembly may be disposed to experiment on the above method. The calculators should, of course, rehearse the work beforehand, and be well prepared to carry it through both rapidly and

It is worth mentioning that when the above table is not at hand, a graphical substitute for it, that ranges between 5° and 95° and is true to the first place of decimals may be quickly made by those who can recollect three simple factors. Thus, draw between two vertical limits, 0° and 100°, a straight line on squarely ruled paper, having a quartile equal to 1. Accept this line in lieu of the curve between 30° and 70°, add one-twentieth to the lengths of the centiles at 20° and 80°, one-fifth to those at 10° and 90°, and one-third to those at 50° and 95°. Then unite the tops of these centiles with a free-hand curve.

a cheque in payment of the last instalment of the war indemnity, and the Japanese forthwith evacuated Wei-hai-wei. Shortly before this, on April 26, 1898, China had agreed not to alienate the province of Fokien, which faces the Japanese island of Formosa.

China and France China, by an agreement signed on July 12, 1897, had given a pledge not to alienate Hainan. By a fresh agreement arrived at in April, she granted France a lease of Kwangchau-wau, on the Lei-chau peninsula opposite Hainau. The port of this place is commodious and easily defended.

Korea.—Russia, in 1895, had lent Korea a military instructor, and in November, 1897, a Russian, Kuril Alexeief, was appointed financial adviser and chief superintendent of customs, a post held until then by Mr. J. McLeary Brown, a British subject. This preponderance of Russian influence not unnaturally gave offence to Japan, and led to an agreement being signed at Tok o, April 25, 1898, by which the two governments recognize the entire independence of the Korean empire, and pledge themselves mutually to abstain from all interference in the internal affairs of that country. In the event of Korea having recourse to the advice or assistance of either Russia or Japan, no appointment of military instructors of financial advisers shall be made without a previous mutual agreement on the subject. Russia, moreover, promises not to hinder in any way the development of commercial and industrial relations between Japan and Korea.

THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS .- In January, Marshal Primo Rivera boasted that the last rebel bands had surrendered, and Aguinaldo and other rehal leaders had gone into voluntary exile. As a thanksgiving for the pacification of the islands, he ordered a Te Deum to be sung in the cathedral of Manila. This thanksgiving was premature, for the Philippines were soon involved in the war between the United States and Spain. On May 1, Admiral Dewey entered the beautiful Bay of Manila at the head of an American fleet, destroyed the eleven Spanish men-of-war he found there, When General and on May 4 seized the arsenal. Merri:t arrived with troops from San Francisco on June 30, the town was invested, and on August 13, after an organised attack by sea and land and two hours' hard fighting, it surrendered.

The insurgents, meanwhile, had once more come to the fore. A republic, with Aguinaldo as president, was proclaimed on June 12, and an "Assemblea Filipina" was summoned to Malolos. The relations between the insurgents and the American authorities were not always of the most cordial nature. The whole group, including its dependencies, has been ceded to the United States, although at the time of this surrender, Panay, Mindanao, and other islands were still in possession of Spain (see United States and Spain, p. 608). The future government of the Philippines must already have given the American Country of the Coun the American Government much anxiety. course, the statement that these islands would be bought by a syndicate and governed somewhat like Rhodesia, must not be taken quite seriously.

AFRICA.

THE EGYPTIAN SUDAN .- Berber had once more received an Egyptian garrison in September, 1897; the Nile, as far as the sixth cataract, had been brought under control by means of gun-

Occasional encounters with the dervishes took place during the winter and in spring, the most important being at Naheila, where Mahmud, the Khalifa's nephew, had strongly entrenched himself. The Khalifa's forces numbered sixteen thousand men, yet on April 7 the camp was carried by an Anglo-Egyptian force of six battalions, the dervishes suffered a loss of three thousand men, and Mahmud was among the prisoners. In the course of June, the Khalifa began to concentrate his forces upon Omdurman.

The Angle-Egyptian forces, on the other hand, were being concentrated at the mouth of the Atbara, ready to advance up the Nile as soon as its riging waters should enable the guabats to surmount the sixth cataract above Metemme. By August 23, the whole of the expeditionary force had been concentrated at Wadi Hamid, near the cataract, under the command of the Sirdar, Sir Herbert Kitchener, now Lord Kitchener of Khartum. The British division (21st Lancers, 7 hattalions, 2 batteries, 8 maxims, and 2 40-prs) was commanded by Brigadier-General Gatacre, the Egyptian division (9 squadrons, 16 battalions, 4 field batteries, 10 maxims, and a camel corps) by Major-General Hunter. A body of "friendlies" under Major Stuart Wortley operated on the eastern bank of the Nile. The gunboats, on August 29, shelled the advanced position of the dervishes at Kereri, miles below Omdurman, and on September 1. Omdurman itself. On September 2, the Dervish forces, estimated at fifty thousand men met with a signal defeat, and in bousand men, met with a signal defeat, and in the afternoon the victorious forces entered Omiurman, meeting with a most enthusiastic rekilled, 16,000 had been wounded, and 3,000 t) 4,000 taken prisoners. The Anglo-Egyptian losses only amounted to 52 killed and 320 wounded. On September 4, the British and Egyptian flags were hoisted on the walls of the ruined palace of Khartum, close to the spot where Gordon fell, and a service was held in his memory. The Khalifa effected his escape. A gunboat and horsemen were sent in pursuit, but failed to overtake him. It is reported that the people of Jebel Daier, 50 miles to the south of El Obeid, inflicted a serious defeat upon him.

The forces of Ahmed Fadl, the only other leader of the dervishes still in the field at that time, were repeatedly defeated by Colonel Parsons, the commander of Kassala, which the Italians had surrendered to the Eg; ptians on December 25, 1897. After the third of these defeats, on September 29, near Gedarif, the dervish leader was deserted by his men and fled into the bush.

On the upper Nile an attack of the dervishes upon Rejar, on June 4, 1898, was bravely repulsed by Capt. Chaltin, the Belgian commander. It had, no doubt, been hoped that a diversion would be made by a force from Uganda, but owing to the revolt of the Sudanese troops there, it was September before Captain Cyril Martyr arrived at Dufile. On September 10, the Sirdar with four gunboats and a body of troops, started up the Nile. On reaching Fashoda, on September 19 he found that place occupied by Major Marchand and 120 Senegalese. Major Marchand's expedition had undoubtedly been organised with the object of thwarting England's scheme of reconquering the Sudan, a scheme which could have been effected in 1897, or even 1895, had not France and Russia prevented action from being taken by restricting the spending power of Egypt. boats, and the road to Sawakin respended. The expedition was originally intended to have
