20th October 1915.

Dear Sir,

I have received your letter of 18th inst with somewhat mixed feelings.

I do not remember that at the time I must have furnished my brother with a finger print, I was made aware by him of the purpose for which it was to be used. I have mentioned the subject to my brother, Gilbert, and he shares with me the uncomfortable feeling.

We have no wish, however, to interfere with your researches on the general question of heredity, so long as I have your assurance that the names of the owners of the fingers are not only not made public, but, I should like to add, not even recorded.

Should the Government legislate, so as to render compulsory the taking of all fingerprints, I should cheerfully submit.

I have added to your list the relationships of the persons named, and send you a copy of it herewith.

Yours faithfully,
Thomas D. Reeve
