DUNEAVES,
HARROW.

Dear Mr. Galton

Here is my collection of Brides & Bridegrooms!
(I often think this form of classification is curiously significant: Bride first & then her mere groom!)

Perhaps if you find them suggestive Miss Briggs could paste them on sheets of brown paper - I am afraid the dates have got disarranged, but that will easily be remedied so I send them as they are. Yours ever W. G.

THE GERMAN ROYAL BETROTHAL: THE MOST RECENT PORTRAITS OF THE CROWN PRINCE AND THE DUCHESS CECILIE OF MECKLENBURG-SCHWERIN.
(Photographed by Henschkel, Schwerin.)

Duchess Cecilie would marry the Grand Duke Michael, brother to the Tsar, who, until a few weeks ago, was heir presumptive to the Imperial Crown. Some encouragement was given to this hope by a visit paid last year to Russia by the Duchess and her mother. The Duchess is tall, well made, and pretty. She is very accomplished, and as a musician and painter is said to possess unusual talents.

THE ATLANTIC RATE WAR.

FURTHER REDUCTIONS.

The Canadian lines in Liverpool, which include the Allan, Dominion, and Canadian Pacific, have signified their intention to reduce the steerage rate from London or Liverpool to Quebec from £3 to £2.

FROZEN MAGIC.

Science, as interpreted by Mr. Ralph Dean, is displaying at the Palace Theatre of Varieties some extremely interesting illustrations of the powers of very low temperature. The experiments which Professor Dewar began to show to more restricted audiences at the Royal Institution some six years ago with, first, liquid oxygen, then with liquid air, and finally with liquid hydrogen, are now exhibited, dressed up with new effects, under the title of the "Magic Kettle." The magic kettle, as we imagine, is filled with liquid oxygen, or, perhaps with liquid air—for experimental and certainly for stage purposes there is little to choose between them. Now, when either of these two liquids, which are as much colder than ice as ice is colder than water, is brought into contact with a substance which is warmer than itself, it causes a rapid freezing of the substance. This is the "magic" of the kettle.

THE WATERFORD TRAGEDY.INQUEST ON THE VICTIM.

An inquest was held yesterday at Waterford on the body of the lad Matthew Hayes, who was shot dead on Saturday night outside the Cavalry Barracks, Waterford, where the details of the 15th Battery Royal Field Artillery are stationed.

The soldiers who were examined admitted that there was a brawl between the military and the civilians in the street, but positively denied that any shot was fired from the barracks.

The medical testimony showed that the wound was of a shocking nature and must have been caused by a bullet of the expanding or dum-dum type.

The jury, after considerable deliberation, found that Hayes died from the effects of a gunshot wound fired by a soldier from the barracks, and added a rider to the effect that there was a great want of vigilance at present in the military barracks at Waterford.

The military witnesses were escorted by police-constables from the premises to the barracks in order to save them from the violence of a hostile crowd. No arrest has yet been made, but the military are still confined to barracks.

BY-ELECTION IN THANET.

By the lamented death of Mr. James Lowther a vacancy has been caused in the Parliamentary representation of the Isle of Thanet Division of Kent. Mr. Lowther announced some time ago his intention not to seek re-election, and Mr. H. H. Marks, formerly member for St. George's-in-the-East, has been before the constituency for some time as the probable Conservative candidate. It is no secret, however, that a good many Unionists in the constituency do not regard him as altogether a suitable nominee. The Liberal candidate is Mr. Joseph King, of Witley, Surrey. Previous elections since the Reform Act of 1885 have resulted as follows:—

A HUNGARIAN FIRE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY GRAPHIC.

SIR,—In the epidemic of fires which appears to be upon us, none have caused greater suffering than that which, a few days since, partially destroyed the Hungarian town of Gyongyos, some miles north of Budapest.

Happening to be in the Hungarian capital at the time of the fire I visited the scene, and when I say that as a result of the destruction of nearly 700 houses and shops about 4,000 persons are reduced to a state of absolute destitution, I feel sure that you will agree with me that the case calls for sympathy and assistance.

The Hungarians are, as a people, greatly attached to Englishmen, and of this I found on all hands great evidence. They have not forgotten our treatment of their refugees in 1848, and I therefore venture to appeal to your readers to assist the inhabitants of this stricken town to assist them in their dire distress.

There has been no rain in that part of the country since May 15th until a few days after the fire, and those who have any knowledge of agricultural and vine growing districts will know what this means to the population.

For three days the local fire brigade and inhabitants fought the fire heroically, stripping the roofs from the houses in order to stop the progress of the flames, there being no water, and twelve firemen were injured in these efforts. The workpeople have lost their tools; men, women and little children have only what they stand up in, and they are at present principally housed in sheds and schools.

I shall be very pleased to forward any donation which may be sent me (which will be acknowledged in the Press), or sums may be sent to the editor of "Hungary," at Budapest, or to the mayor of the town. Charles ...

YESTERDAY'S WEDDINGS.

WEDDINGS.

LORD DUNSANY—LADY BEATRICE VILLIERS.

At All Saints' Church, Middleton Stoney, Oxon, yesterday the marriage took place of Lord Dunsany, of Dunsany Castle, co. Meath, and Lady Beatrice Villiers, daughter of the Earl of Jersey, who gave her away. The officiating clergy were the bride's uncle—the Dean of Hereford—and the Rev. W. B. Draper, Rector of Middleton. Viscount Northland acted as best man. The bride wore a white satin monomeline gown, draped with old Brunsch lace, the gift of her mother, and a tiara of orange-blossoms, under a lace veil, which had been the wedding veil of her great-grandmother and of her sisters. The wedding procession was composed of five bridesmaids and three pages. The bridesmaids were the Hon. Kathleen Annesley, Miss Buller, Miss Violet Hoare, Miss Margaret Leigh, and Miss Marjorie Tait, who were dressed in pink silk under white silk, and picture hats trimmed with roses and wide pink strings. The bridegroom gave the bridesmaids bouquets of roses and peridot and diamond pendant. Lady Jersey held a reception at Middleton immediately after the ceremony, and later the bride and her groom left for Leek Wootton, the seat of the Hon. Dudley Leigh, the bride's uncle.

BARING—DUNCOMBE.

Considerable interest was taken in the marriage of Lieut.-Colonel the Hon. Edward Baring, of Housay, brother of Lord Revelstoke, and Miss Ulrica Dunscombe, youngest daughter of the Earl of Fife. The ceremony was performed by the Dean of York, assisted by the Rev. J. Baden-Powell, St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, in which church the wedding took place. The bridegroom was accompanied by Major Baker-Carr, Rifle Brigade, is A.D.C. to Lord Kitchener, who supported him as best man. The bride was given away by her father and wore an ivory satin gown embellished with pearls, and old silver draped with Brussels lace. The veil and train were of the same lace. She wore a diamond collar, the gift of Lord Revelstoke, and carried a prayer-book instead of a bouquet. There were neither bridesmaids nor page. After a reception held by the Countess of Fife

WALKER-FITZWILLIAM.

At St. George's Church, Hanover Square, yesterday, Captain Harold Walker, 1st Life Guards, son of the late Sir James Walker, of Sand Hutton, was married to Miss Marie Wentworth Fitzwilliam, daughter of the Hon. Henry and Lady Mary Fitzwilliam, of Wigganthorpe, Yorkshire. The church was very prettily decorated, and the nave was lined by non-commissioned officers and men of the bridegroom's squadron. The clergy were the Sub-Dean of the Chapel Royal, the Rev. Reginald Walker (brother of the bridegroom), the Rev. W. G. Pennyman (his brother-in-law), and the Rev. David Anderson (rector of St. George's). Captain Cooke, a brother officer of the bridegroom, was best man, and the bride was given away by her father. She wore a white satin dress, veiled in mousseline de soie, and trimmed with old Brussels lace, matching the veil, which was arranged over a cluster of orange-blossoms. A diamond and turquoise brooch worn by the bride was the gift of her godmother, the Duchess of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. The bridesmaids were Miss Irene Wentworth Fitzwilliam (the bride's sister), Miss Evelyn Frances Butler (her cousin), Miss Margaret Kerr (the bridegroom's niece), Lady Beatrice Dalrymple, Miss Mary Alexander, and Miss Daphne Willoughby. They were dressed in white silk gowns, under fine muslin, trimmed with satin ribbon and lace, and wore tulle veils arranged with wreaths of myrtle. After the ceremony a reception was held at 4, Grosvenor Square, lent by Earl and Countess Fitzwilliam. The wedding presents included a diamond and sapphire bracelet, from the Duchess of Saxe-Coburg; a pale blue enamel and diamond heart, from the Duchess

INSANITY IN IRELAND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY GRAPHIC.

SIR,—I have read with interest a leaderette in your issue of to-day under the title, "Insanity in Ireland." We certainly cannot shut our eyes to the deplorable fact of the increase of lunacy in that country, but in this, as in most other cases, statistics are misleading. A report made in the year 1901 cannot in all fairness bear a just comparison with one published half a century ago. The circumstances are so terribly different. The population of Ireland in 1851 was over 2,000,000 more than it is to-day, while the return of lunatics was less by 17,000.

For the last fifty years Ireland has become steadily depopulated, and its emigrants—unlike those of other countries—are the young, the strong, and the sane. The insane remain as a legacy. We can fairly judge the effect of environment and heredity during two generations. Besides, the lunacy laws were not so strictly enforced or taken advantage of in those days, and many a lunatic who to-day is in close confinement would then have been allowed to roam the country at large. Undoubtedly there also existed private asylums unknown to the inspectors, whose inmates did not count in the official returns. Taking these facts into consideration, the increase does not figure out as the Irish inspectors invite us to believe.

I am not in sympathy with the Irish Nationalists' explanation, and I cannot accept the idea put forward as to the Church being the attributable cause. The priesthood of Ireland were as anxious for the good morals of the people fifty years ago as they are to-day, but then, as now, no "excessive precautions" were taken. And the present generation in Ireland, as elsewhere, is less amenable to spiritual authority than were its grand people. Anyone who lives at

THE NINTH SATELLITE OF SATURN.

AN INTERESTING DISCOVERY.

By E. WALTER MAUNDER, F.R.A.S.

The October number of the "Observatory," which is just out, contains a notice of exceptional interest to astronomers. Rather more than six years ago a photographic search for possible additional satellites of Saturn was made at the Arequipa Observatory, Peru—a station maintained as a southern outpost by the Harvard College Observatory, Cambridge, Mass. On examination, some of the plates taken in the course of this survey showed a minute image which was not that of a star, since its position on successive plates was not the same. After a careful study of its positions in relation to Saturn, Professor W. H. Pickering concluded that it was an exceedingly distant satellite, and he gave it the name Phœbe. No further details respecting the new body were published until a few weeks ago, and the scientific world had almost lost faith in its existence; but quite recently a note from the Harvard College Observatory announced that further photographs had been obtained of it during the present year, and that its orbit was being computed.

More recently still it is reported that Professor E. E. Barnard has succeeded in seeing it with the great 40-inch refractor of the Yerkes Observatory—possibly the only telescope at present in use with which it could be detected visually, since it is only of the sixteenth magnitude (10,000 times fainter, that is, than the average star just visible to the naked eye). The discovery of six years ago is therefore confirmed; but Mr. A. C. D. Crommelin, superintendent of the Lick Observatory, has pointed out that she revolves round her primary in definitely the opposite direction to the eight inner and earlier-known satellites.

This little world, some 150 miles in diameter, is nearly seven millions of miles distant from Saturn, and her period of revolution round him 445 days; so that, both as to period and to distance from her primary, she is quite unique among the satellites of the solar system. But these would be small claims to distinction as compared with a motion which, if Mr. Crommelin's calculation be confirmed, is contrary to that of all the other dependants of the great ringed planet.

FRANCE AND SPAIN. THE MOROCCO TREATY.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

PARIS, Tuesday.

The "Gaulois" states that the signatures of the Franco-Spanish Agreement regarding Morocco will be signed to-morrow after the weekly reception at the Quai d'Orsay.

The Madrid correspondent of the "Temps," telegraphing to-day on the subject of the Agreement says:—"The negotiations between France and Spain are on the eve of being concluded. The question at issue was two-fold. It was necessary, on the one hand, to recognise the right of Spain to the sphere of influence which she demanded, and, on the other hand, to reconcile this concession with the work of pacific penetration which France is pursuing in Morocco. To this end it has been agreed that the arrangement now virtually concluded, the text of which is to be kept secret, will not come into force for fifteen years. Spain, it is understood, will

EAST AND EAST END. INDIAN EXHIBITION IN WHITECHAPEL

The admirable little Whitechapel Art Gallery, which was opened three years ago with the object of elevating the atmosphere of East London, has been the home—for brief periods—of many interesting and instructive exhibitions; and its walls are now decorated, and its cases filled, with objects of Indian art and industry—a show which is certainly not the least attractive of the series. It includes works lent by the King, the Duke of Connaught, and many prominent Anglo-Indians; and some of the exhibits will come as a pleasant surprise even to those who are not unacquainted with the wide scope of Indian art. There is a large section of pottery, and the metal work—objects of art wrought in bronze, silver, and gold—forms one of the most interesting features of the exhibition. Notice should be taken of the seventeenth century examples of Kashmir copper work, which are of great value, and the Nepalese work, which shows signs of Tibetan influence. The metal work and the exquisite examples of wood carving, drawn from many provinces, are possibly among the finest of their kind in the world. There is a fine collection of native weapons, old and modern, which should not be missed. Tapestry carpets and other examples of Indian textile fabrics are shown in abundance. Large models of villages, of bazaars, and of sugar and coffee and opium cultivation make up a most comprehensive exhibition. It was opened yesterday by Lord George Hamilton, who in his inaugural address said he had spent a great deal of his official life in the administration of India, and was glad to see anything which would

LEICESTER OCTOBER MEETING.
DESAREWITCH SCRATCHINGS AND MARKET.

Lanfine and Haresfeld are the latest scratchings for the Cesarewitch, and the market is in a most unsettled state owing to the report that Dean Swift has not been backed by his owner and may not see the post. It is stated by those who should know that no horse in the race has been better backed, and for a fortnight or more Dean Swift has been as good a favourite as anything. Meantime, Rondeau had advanced to 10 to 1, and my readers will know how strongly I have advocated the claims of this mare since I first wrote on the race. I may state, however, that Rondeau does not like soft going, and as there has been rain and the glass is low, perhaps it would be well to wait until nearer the day of the race before supporting her. I am warned that she cannot go at all in mud, and though the racecourse at Newmarket is dry enough at present, a few wet days would have a bad effect. Another very genuine candidate is St. Patrick's Day, and Wargrave has won a good public trial, but Mark Time on his running at Manchester and Derby has no business to be at 100 to 6, a remark which also applies to War Wolf, who was well beaten at the recent Windsor Meeting. Yet I am told that both horses are greatly fancied, and if War Wolf is judged on his York running, with his Windsor form ignored, he must have a fine chance. Roe O'Neill holds his own, and will be ridden by Maher, the best jockey we have over the straight Newmarket course, and there is money for the French mare Gahzal, whose form

W. Lane, the jockey, continues to make slow but satisfactory progress. Many inquiries continue to be made at Lingfield regarding his condition.

INTERNATIONAL CHESS.

The City of London Chess Club has forwarded to the Brooklyn Chess Club the challenge for the annual match by cable, Great Britain v. America, for the possession of the cup presented by Sir George Newnes. This trophy has been won twice in succession by the Americans, who need only another victory to make it their property. It is expected that the match will be played in March.

YESTERDAY'S WEDDING.

FRENCH DOCTORS IN LONDON.

FAREWELL BANQUET.

A MESSAGE FROM THE KING.

The French physicians and surgeons concluded their visit to London last evening with a banquet given in their honour at the Hotel Cecil by their English confreres, over which Sir William Broadbent presided, and at which over 350 guests were present, including the Duke of Abercorn, the presidents of the Royal College of Surgeons and the Royal College of Physicians, Sir William Bennett, Sir Joseph Fayrer, and Sir Dyer Duckworth.

Sir William Broadbent made a felicitous speech, in which, proposing the health of the King, he referred to His Majesty's well-known interest in medical science. Sir William also spoke of the King's love of France, and his work in perfecting the entente cordiale, describing His Majesty as "le paratonnerre de l'Europe" (the lightning conductor of Europe), a phrase which was loudly cheered. The chairman then read the following telegram from the King:—

"Newmarket, 5.57 p.m.

"To Sir William Broadbent, Hotel Cecil, London.
"I am commanded by the King to inform you that he has noticed with great satisfaction that so large a number of French medical professors, physicians, and surgeons have come to England in person. His Majesty has

THE DECLINE OF MANNERS. DEMORALISING LITERATURE. THE LAUREATE'S LAMENT.

Mr. Alfred Austin, the Poet Laureate, lectured at Leeds last night on "What is True Progress?" He said that were it his business to report to the Education Department the result of his own observations he would say that he noted a marked deterioration in good manners, a striking diminution of the sense of reverence, and the unsuiting of many scholars for one career in life without fitting them for any other. Among the grave omissions in primary education was the total absence of the inculcation by the teachers of the love of country, and of a readiness to fight in its defence. Books widely read by boys and girls were of a demoralising character. He looked in vain for progress in this direction; on the contrary, he saw a deplorable deterioration. It was not the higher poetry alone, it was the higher prose literature as well, that was being neglected for works of a glaringly inferior kind. He had been astonished to find young people of both sexes among what we loosely called the educated classes avow that they had never read a single page, for instance, of such works as Gibbon's "History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" or Lockhart's "Life of Scott." Sometimes there was heard the confession that they were unacquainted with them even by name, though novels of the most revolting character could be remembered. Our grandfathers and grandmothers, our fathers and mothers, read sounder and nobler works than these. As to the stage, there was, he suggested, a jingling and indelicate

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

PROPOSED SERVICE BETWEEN ENGLAND AND ITALY.

The "Tribuna" of Rome of yesterday states that after the wireless telegraphy experiments which have been made between the transmitting stations at Poldhu (Cornwall) and Bari and Antivari, the Marconi Company can assure a commercial service of wireless telegraphy between the above stations and any others that may be erected in Great Britain. The Italian Ministry of Posts and Telegraphs has at present under consideration a proposal to establish a wireless telegraphy service at a reduced rate between Italy and England, the scheme which it is hoped to carry out not being in contravention of any of the Conventions at present in force.—Reuter.

UNITED FREES'

PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

The United Free Church Advisory Committee held an important meeting in Edinburgh yesterday afternoon. The counsel engaged by the Church in the House of Lords case have had a consultation, and their views as to future procedure were considered by the Law Committee yesterday. As a result it was proposed by the Law Committee that when the successful litigants petition the Court to apply the judgment a minute will be lodged in the

SHAKESPEARE'S NEIGHBOURS.

HENRY STREET COTTAGES PRESERVED.

A TRIUMPH FOR MARIE CORELLI.

A special meeting of the trustees of the Shakespeare Birthplace Trust was held at Stratford-on-Avon yesterday afternoon to decide finally the fate of the Hornby cottages, which abut upon the poet's garden and are said to be associated with the life and times of Shakespeare and of members of his family.

The Mayor presided, and among the trustees present were Lord Leigh (Lord Lieutenant of the county), the Marquess of Hertford, Lord Ronald Gower, Sir Theodore Martin, Mr. Sidney Lee and Mr. Lionel Cust. Sir Henry Irving, who is a trustee but was unable to attend, wrote that he was in favour of the retention of the old cottages if their presence would not endanger the safety of the birthplace.

Mr. Sidney Lee, in a long speech, urged reasons why the cottages should be saved. He said that they were standing in Shakespeare's time, and were indirectly connected with the poet. They were owned at one time by Thomas Nash, who married Shakespeare's granddaughter, and they possessed some interesting sixteenth century timber work, roof and walls. Shakespeare's father signed the conveyance deed. There were other circumstances connected with them which claimed their reverence. Their proposed demolition had given rise to a good deal of personal feeling, which he asked them to discard.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

PARIS, Tuesday.

The following telegram from Mukden, despatched at 4 p.m. yesterday afternoon, has been received here:—

"During the night of the 15th inst. the Japanese occupied a hill situated some 500 metres from the left bank of the Sha-ho, near Liunzantun. General Kuropatkin decided to retake this position, which was accordingly shelled all day on the 16th. The infantry attacks began at four o'clock in the afternoon, but no progress was made, and the Russians passed the night on the slope of the hill. At four o'clock this morning the assault was resumed. The Japanese were strongly posted behind five trenches. After an hour's terrible fight with cold steel the Russians carried the position. According to the estimate of officers who took part in the attack to-day about 500 Japanese fell in the trenches. The

Sir,—We are offered by various shippers for our steamers the following consignments of cargo:—Four locomotives for Japan; sixteen steel railway locomotive tires for Yokohama; 166 tons of fish plates for Yokohama. These are to be consigned to various railway companies (which are named), and in each instance the shippers declare that the goods are intended for peaceful purposes, and not for the use of the Japanese Government, army, or navy.

We shall be glad, if possible, to be informed whether the negotiations between His Majesty's Government and Russia have reached such a stage that cargo of this class may safely be accepted.—We are, etc.,

DAMBRIDGESHIRE MARKET ACTIVE.

Odds of 5 to 1 were laid to considerable money against Delaunay for the Cambridgeshire at Gatwick yesterday, but in the London market the horse stood at 4 to 1, while Hackler's Pride was quoted at 11 to 2, and Cains at 9 to 1. Wild Oats was in better request, but no doubt this is a good horse over the distance, but on his last year's form he represents Zinfandel at about 8 to 1. Tibs., and with such a weight Lord Howard de Walden's horse would not have many friends. However, it is probable that Wild Oats has greatly improved since Zinfandel beat him pointlessly at Goodwood last year, but last week he was reported lame, and at one time as much as 50 to 1 was offered against him. Cottager and Dounetta appear to be fancied, and the last-named has been in fine form of late, and though she has incurred a 5lbs. penalty, she still has only 7st. 7lbs. to carry, and she certainly has a chance. St. Emilion has been introduced at 100 to 3, and this horse is not heavily-weighted on his best form, but we have to go back a long time for that form. I still think that Cains will win.

At Gatwick, yesterday, Egyptian Beauty, who is now trained by Edward Martin at Royston, was backed against the field for the Mole Plate, which she won in good style, being afterwards bought in for 160 guineas.

For the County Nursery, King Duncan, who was bought by Mr. Bass from Mr. Sievier for 2,000 guineas, was made a hot favourite, but he was beaten a short head by Golden Measure, who is trained by Major Edwards at Osbourne.

CONTINENTAL BOURSES.

EFFECT OF THE WAR NEWS.

(THROUGH REUTERS' AGENCY.)

PARIS, Wednesday.—To-day's Bourse opened quiet, but with a very steady undertone. Later on the markets became distinctly better, and at the close a strong tendency was in evidence. French Renten met with good support, and all international stocks improved. Russians met with good demand, and Mexican mines were in favour on the new loan concluded with New York banking firms. French and Spanish railway shares showed a better tone, while Thomson Houston shares continued in good request. Russian industrial marked an important rise. Ottoman Bank shares attracted attention on the rumour that the issue of a Serbian loan was imminent. Rio Tinto shares, after a very firm start, showed an easier tendency in sympathy with copper. Gold mining shares were a firm market, the rumour of a coalie riot in the compound of the Geduld Company having no effect on this market. Rise: Four per Cent. Egyptian United 25c., Three per Cent. Portuguese 24c., Four per Cent. Russian 50c., Three per Cent. Russian 189c. 2c., Five per Cent. Russian 3c., Four per Cent. Spanish Exterior 37c., Four per Cent. Turkish United 5c., Four per Cent. Brazilian 189c. 50c., Ottoman Bank of Suez Canal shares 37c., Thomson Houston 15c., Now-nice Colliers 30c., Thoria 50c., Ope Copper 50c., De Beers II., Chartered 50c., Consolidated Goldfields ordinary 27c., East Rand Proprietary 17c., Frank Smith 5c., French Rand 50c., Johannesburg Consolidated Investment 150c., Lancaster 125c., Oceana Consolidated 50c., Randfontein Estate 125c., Rand Mines 150c., Robinson Gold 21c., Robinson Deep 17c., Transvaal Goldfields 50c., Village main Reef 150c., Fall: Turkish Tobacco 11c., Credit Foncier Egyptian 11c., Rio Tinto ordinary 41c., Geduld 50c., Goldminia Estate 125c. Cheques on London 4c. higher at 25.12c.

BERLIN, Wednesday.—Private discount was unchanged at 3 7/8 per cent. On the Bourse a good demand for Russian bonds, in consequence of the news from the east of war, had a good effect on markets. Funds were very steady. Baltimore and Ohio shares and Transatlantic Shipping Company shares showed animation on local speculative purchases. Towards the close the market became very quiet.

THE CAT FOR RUFFIANS.

STRUGGLE IN THE DOCK.

Archibald Desmond, aged twenty, Richard Jones, aged twenty, and John Day, aged nineteen, labourers, were convicted at the Central Criminal Court yesterday of highway robbery on a Birmingham traveller, Mr. Thomas Walton, who lost his watchchain.—The robbery, which was accompanied with considerable violence, took place in daylight on the 4th inst., in Great Queen Street, Long Acre.—Sergeant Bissell said the prisoners belonged to a cowardly gang of ruffians who infested the Strand and the neighbourhood of the Westminster and Waterloo Bridge Roads, Day being the leader of the gang. Their purpose was to waylay and rob elderly gentlemen, and two of their confederates were now awaiting their trial on another charge. The gang were a terror to the neighbourhood where they lived, and some twenty or thirty complaints of robberies had been received.—Mr. Rentoul said the public must be protected from such brutal ruffianism in the streets, and he would do what he could to stamp it out. He sentenced Desmond to five years' penal servitude, and Jones and Day each to three years, the two last-mentioned prisoners each to receive eighteen lashes with the cat. Jones and Day commenced whining piteously, and Desmond shouted, "Can't you give me the same as my pals—the cat?" Upon being seized, Desmond struggled violently with the warders, and made a desperate attempt to leap from the dock. He was eventually secured and removed. There was also a scene outside among the friends of the prisoners when they became aware of the sentence, but the police soon cleared them away from the precincts of the court.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE CHUMBI VALLEY.

GERMAN INTERFERENCE DENIED.

With reference to the official contradiction (published in the DAILY GRAPHIC yesterday) of the statement issued by Reuter's Agency that the Indian Government would occupy the Chumbi Valley for seventy-five years, the following further statement has been issued by Reuter's Agency:—

Reuter's Agency understands that an arrangement for the payment of the Tibetan indemnity in seventy-five yearly instalments of one lakh of rupees, was made between the British Mission and the Tibetan Government before the Mission left Lhasa. This arrangement was entered into owing to the contention of the Tibetans that the amount of the indemnity could not be paid within the period of three years, and was regarded by the Tibetans as a concession.

Although it was pointed out that, in accordance with the terms of the Treaty, the Chumbi Valley would be held until the indemnity was paid, the Tibetans preferred to pay it in annual instalments of one lakh. The arrangement was duly notified to the Indian Government. It would appear from the statement issued on Wednesday evening by the India Office that this has not received the sanction

BAD BUSINESS FOR BACKERS.

TRAINER'S TRIPLE VICTORY.

There was not much to complain of at Sandown Park yesterday, as the weather was fine, the sport good, and fields, except in the last race, of very considerable size. Backers, however, did not fare particularly well, and, notably, there was a great turn up in the Great Sapling Plate, which went to a 20 to 1 chance in Filippo, a colt who had been well beaten at Nottingham, in moderate company, little more than a week ago.

A Selling Nursery came first, and attracted fifteen runners, of which St. Hilary and Nena shared favouritism from Bellator and Dædalus, with double figures offered bar four. The start was not a good one, or if the start was not to blame there was, nevertheless, a lot of scrimmaging as soon as the tapes went up, and several of the runners had their chances extinguished at once. Meantime Cross Park made running, but gave way to Nena before half the distance had been covered, and the last-named held her place, and won by a length from the Solo filly. The winner, who is by Jaquemart, is trained by Greusil, and she was bought in for 260g.

In the Mile Handicap the number of runners was increased to sixteen, and Mr. Jersey's Belle Savile was served up a hot favourite, with Simonetti, Seymour, and Flor di Cuba best business of the others. Glenhurst was in front when they reached the rails, half way up the straight, but immediately afterwards he gave way to Seymour, who won by two lengths, with Belle Savile and

THE HOUGHTON MEETING.

THE KING PRESENT.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE RUNNERS AND BETTING.

Various chops and changes have taken place in the weather since Sunday last, and on Monday it was close and warm at Newmarket, with a humid atmosphere which suggested rain. During the night there was a steady downpour, and this was followed by a slight frost and a much cooler air. Yesterday there was a recurrence of sunshine, and the weather was bright and clear, while the atmosphere was invigorating, though much cooler.

The King, whose departure from London is reported in another column, arrived in Newmarket in time for the racing, and was present in the Jockey Club enclosure.

The attendance was probably up to the average, but certainly not a large one, and, truth to tell, the programme was not a particularly strong one, with no more important events than the Criterion and Limekiln Stakes.

The Trial Plate over the Rowley Mile was the first item, and seven did duty, the pick of the entry being conspicuous by their absence. The race was a good one, and as they came down Bushes Hill there was little or nothing to choose between four of them, but Mulligatawny had a little the best of it in a close finish, and beat Zanoni by a head.

was ridden by Hardy, this being this jockey's first mount since his accident at Warwick, six weeks ago. Clwyd II., who won at Sandown last week, was favourite, and by way of a change backers had hit the nail on the head, as Clwyd II. won easily by four lengths. The winner was bought in for 410 guineas.

The Rutland Handicap of a mile and a half was quite a miniature Cesarewitch, as it brought out seventeen runners, many of which were well-known stayers, and, moreover, the party included St. Patrick's Day and Pjera, who had taken part in the more important long distance handicap of a fortnight ago. The French horse Sansam was the pacemaker, but when passing the Bushes Love Charm drew out clear, and came down the hill with a three lengths' lead of his nearest opponent. As they entered the Abingdon Mile Bottom it looked good odds on Sir Ernest Cassel's horse, but he stood stiff immediately afterwards, and Romer, coming with a rattle, shot clean past, though he did not finish quite straight. The outsider won by three lengths, while Pjera deprived Love Charm of second honours on the post. The winner is trained by Sentance, at Winchester, and is owned by Mr. Joe Davis, the managing director of the Hurst Park Company.

The opposition to Zinfandel for the Limekiln Stakes stopped short at Flower Seller and Exchequer, and those who wished to back Lord De Walden's horse were asked to lay odds of 100 to 12 on, while an extremely long price was offered against Exchequer. The big chestnut had matters all his own way, winning with plenty in hand.

The curtain was rung down with the Fordham Welter Handicap, which attracted fifteen. The race was a really good thing for Frequent, who was out by herself a long way from home, and passed the post an easy four lengths' winner.

Laveuse has been scratched, and Lord Carnarvon will depend on Vrill, who has recent winning form to recommend him. There was very little betting on the course yesterday, but Delaunay and Caius were firm enough, while Hackler's Pride was just a trifle meek. The six I like best are Caius, Delaunay, Lancashire, Dean Swift, Donnetta, and Barbette, and I may mention that I have heard a very good account of Dean Swift, who ran well as far as the Bushes in the Cesarewitch. If the race were a little shorter I should expect Donnetta to be first or second, but there appears to be a doubt about her staying the course, and I shall divide my vote between

OUR AMERICAN GUESTS.

A GIFT TO SIR THOMAS LIPTON.

A delegation representing the crew of the United States flagship Olympia on Saturday afternoon presented Sir Thomas Lipton with a Loving Cup, subscribed for by the crew of the flagship, as a token of appreciation.

Mr. Ferrer, boiler-maker, who acted as spokesman for the company, said the gift was a token of their appreciation of the hospitality and the good feeling shown by Sir Thomas and his countrymen. The crew wished Sir Thomas to understand that they regarded him as the first man in England in the hearts of the American bluejacket.

Sir Thomas Lipton, in acknowledging the gift, said through American generosity he was now the proud possessor of quite a considerable amount of plate, and he knew that he ought to be satisfied with his collection, especially after receiving that welcome addition; but, at the risk of appearing greedy and covetous, he still had a longing eye after another little bit of a silver mug, which the American people placed a peculiarly high value upon, and which they appeared to be most reluctant to part with. That was the America Cup. He hoped soon, however, to have it over here; and if he did not it would not be any fault of his.

The cup bears the following inscription:—"Presented to Sir Thomas J. Lipton, Bart., K.C.V.O., by the crew of the United States Flagship Olympia, as a token of their appreciation of the kindness shown them by him at the Crystal Palace on Sir Thomas Day, October 22nd, 1904. Gravesend, England." On the other side of the cup is an engraving of the Olympia.

THE MISSION TO DEEP SEA FISHERMEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY GRAPHIC.

SIR,—The misadventure in the North Sea which has horrified Europe and brought disaster upon one of our great fishing fleets, in conjunction with the timely services rendered through the hospital vessels of the Royal National Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen being on the spot to receive on board and minister to the needs of the men wounded by the guns of the Russian fleet, brings home in a forcible manner the quiet work these ships are doing, winter and summer, among the fishing fleets that supply the nation with the harvest of the sea.

The hospital ships Joseph and Sarah Miles and the Alpha, in being at hand with their splendid surgical equipment and with fully qualified surgeons on board, have rendered a national service in ministering to the poor fellows who, from whatever the cause, fell victims to the Russian shells. But, apart from this, it may be fairly claimed that the society is engaged in a truly national work. It is to men of the sea such as the fishermen that the country looks mainly for its Naval Reserve, and of the 100,000 men and boys constantly engaged in the fishing industry, several thousand belong to this branch of our national defence. A society, therefore, which exists to minister to the spiritual, moral and physical well-being of British fishermen has every reason to claim that it is doing a national work.

THE DULLEST MONTH. NOVEMBER PROSPECTS.

November has opened this year with weather characteristic to the month, cloudy and overcast skies prevailing practically over the whole country, while a heavy gloom is hanging over the metropolis. The month is usually one of the duller of the whole year so far as the weather is concerned, and the days are now getting very short, the sun being above the horizon for about 9.5 hours at the beginning of the month, and about eight hours at the end.

The average duration of sunshine is 43 hours, or less than an hour and a half per day. Of late years November has certainly been less foggy than some of the other autumn or winter months. The mean temperature for the past sixty years is 43.5deg., the mean of the day readings being 49deg. and the night readings 38deg. In the course of the month the mean temperature decreases as much as 7deg.

We must now stand prepared for night frosts, there being on an average six frosty nights in November; when the sky is clear the temperature usually falls about 9deg. lower than when it is cloudy. Occasionally the midday temperature touches 60deg. The last four Novembers have been dry, and as many as eleven out of the last fifteen have had less than the average rainfall. The average in London is 2.26in., which falls on sixteen days, and in the last thirty-five years the fall has ranged from 4.23in. as a maximum in 1899 to 0.43in. as a minimum in

THE LIVERPOOL CUP. A COMPARISON.

The Birmingham Meeting was brought to an end yesterday. The Bishop was allowed to walk over for the Rothschild Plate. This horse was considerably fancied for the Cambridgeshire a fortnight ago, but he did not run, having been beaten in his trial by the three-year-old Tiger, who yesterday won the Autumn Handicap, beating a large and fairly good field, though the form was somewhat discounted when Cottager finished third under 9st. Sir William Ingram's horse had been almost last in the Cambridgeshire with 20lb. less in the saddle. The balance of the racing calls for no comment, but I may mention that Bitters, of whom I wrote favourably yesterday in connection with the Liverpool Cup, has shortened greatly in price and threatens to dispute favouritism with Vril. Thunderbolt has also been backed, and this horse represents Robert le Diable at about 9st. 7lb., and is by no means out of it, seeing that Lord Carnarvon's horse could certainly have won the Duke of York Stakes under that weight.

There will be cross-country racing at Hurst Park to-day, when some of the following may win:—

Maiden Hurdle Race—GOLDEN TOUCH.
Open Steeplechase—EXPERT II.
Autumn Hurdle Handicap—COSSACK POAT.
Grange Handicap Steeplechase—COBDEN.

BILLIARDS.

THE £1,000 TOURNAMENT.

Some billiards of a highly interesting description was witnessed at the Saloon in Soho Square yesterday afternoon, when Dawson (scratch) and Reece (receives 2,750) continued their game of 5,000 up in the tournament. Increasing an incomplete 122 by 17, Reece afterwards put on 117, 76, and 73, while Dawson made a superb 230, 66, and 44. At night the best breaks were 108, 83, and 106 unfinished by Reece, and 130 and 80 by Dawson. Closing scores:—Reece, 4,835; Dawson, 1,856.

HARVERSON v. WEISS.

The game of 8,000 up on level terms was continued at Thurston's Hall, Leicester Square, yesterday, when Harverson increased his lead, raising his total to 2,666, against 1,330 by Weiss.

JOHN ROBERTS v. AIKEN AT EDINBURGH.

Yesterday afternoon, when the game in which Aiken receives 3,000 start in 5,000 up was continued at the Queen's Hall, Edinburgh, John Roberts was completely out of form, not making a break of 30. Aiken showed to fair advantage, increasing an unfinished 77 to 127, and making an excellent 155, but generally the play was disappointing. At the adjournment the scores were:—Aiken, 4,500; Roberts, 1,569. In the evening Roberts did better, making 82 and 185, but Aiken kept his lead, chiefly by the aid of an admirable 244 and 83. Closing scores:—Aiken, 5,001; Roberts, 2,125.

CRICKET.

YORKSHIRE COUNTY CLUB.

The annual report has been issued to the members. The Committee state that the past season was satisfactory, inasmuch as the first eleven played well, finishing second in the County Championship, and the second team players had shown improvement in form; but, nevertheless, was disappointing financially, as, notwithstanding the favourable summer for the game on the whole, the home fixtures of the club had often been interfered with by inclement weather. Although two more home fixtures were played than in the season of 1903, the gate receipts were £850 less, and a financial loss of £588 8s. 6d. on last season's working had to be reported. The great success of the season was Hirst's benefit match, which was attended by a large number of spectators, and

FOR THE CHILDREN OF WALES, BANGOR'S APPEAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY GRAPHIC.

SIR,—The Bishop of St. Asaph, in his letter of to-day, may be considered as spokesman of all the four Welsh dioceses, though he very naturally has confined himself to the wants of the one over which he himself presides. Following his example, I desire to plead the wants of my own diocese, which is so much bound up educationally with the fortunes of its sister diocese of St. Asaph. The stress is the same. The local Education Authorities, who, while refusing to give us that assistance which the law commands, insist, on the other hand, on our carrying out, without any further delay, those expensive alterations and improvements of our school buildings which they are empowered by law to demand.

The counties of Merioneth and Montgomery, where this pressure is especially felt, are geographically half in one diocese and half in the other.

It will probably appear to the general public that it would be better, under these circumstances, to have a common fund; but as I understand that a proposal to this effect was rejected in the meeting at Chester on account of certain administrative difficulties, I have to express a hope that this thinly-populated mountain diocese may share in the help which our English brethren may be willing to give in such proportion as they consider equitable. St. Asaph brethren, under the leadership of their bishop, are doing much, but we are

BAD WEATHER, GOOD SPORT.

Some of the sport at Liverpool yesterday was very good, but fields were much smaller than they had been at Lincoln. To make up for this, however, the class was incomparably superior, but the weather was very unpleasant. A gale raged throughout the day, and the early morning was very wet. To-day some of the following may win:—

Witherslack Stakes—PERSINUS or WHITEBURY.
Duchy Plate—DELAUNAY.
Anchor Nursery—NIRVANAH.

held by Master Michael Tennant, in a Romeo suit carried out in crimson velvet and gold, and a little gold-embroidered cap with white feather. There were six young bridesmaids—Miss Rachel and Miss Winifred Mackenzie (the bride's sisters), Miss Frances, Miss Dinah, and Miss Kathleen Tennant, and Miss Elizabeth Anquith—who wore accordion-pleated white muslin de son frocks, with lace-trimmed and yokes and gold waistbands. Wreaths of gold leaves were worn in the hair, and the bridegroom gave the bridesmaids green enamel and diamond gold lace pins and bouquets of dark red roses with variegated foliage tied with white satin streamers.

A CREDITORS' COOK.—Alfred Pickard, of 118, Farm Lane, Brompton, was charged on Saturday, at the West London Police-court, with stealing £20 entrusted to him by Francis Mabbitt, a cook in service at Stanhope Gardens, Kensington.—The prosecution stated that she met the prisoner one evening as she was coming home from church, and he introduced himself to her. He gave his name as Kook, and they walked out together. There was talk of marriage, but no definite engagement between them. Two months ago she told him that she had money in the Post Office Savings Bank, and he persuaded her to draw out £20 and hand it to him to put in another bank. He kept examining himself from going to the bank with the money, and at last she discovered that he had retained it for his own purposes.—Detective Ralley stated that on being arrested the prisoner said, "I know I had the money, and I am willing to pay it back. I know it is a bit 'thick,' but I shall have to put up with it." The detective added that he had reason to believe that there were other cases against the accused, and the magistrate granted a remand.

Schleswig-Holstein, will again shoot in Windsor Forest.

In the evening dinner for their Majesties and suites and other guests will be served in St. George's Hall, after which their Majesties' guests will repair to the State Drawing Room, where a band of music will perform.

On Saturday the King, with the King of Portugal and their Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales and the Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, will again shoot in Windsor Forest.

In the evening the King and Queen of Portugal will dine with their Majesties and the Royal Family in the Oak Room, dinner for the suites being served in the State Dining Room.

After dinner a performance will be given by Mr. Lewis Waller's theatrical company in the Waterloo Gallery, supper being afterwards served in St. George's Hall.

Sunday, November 20th.—Ropose.

On Monday, November 21st, the King and Queen of Portugal will take their departure.

COUNTRY VISITS.

It had not been determined at the time the draft programme was drawn up, at what exact time their Majesties would leave Windsor, or the place to which they would go. Buckingham Palace will be made the Royal headquarters after the conclusion of the Windsor visit, and at least three country visits are spoken of, namely, to the Duke of Devonshire, the Duke of Portland, and the Duc d'Orleans.

PISTOLS AND SWORDS.

TWO ANDRÉ DUELS.

A duel with swords arising out of the recent army debate in the Chamber was fought on Saturday between Lieutenant André, son of the Minister of War, and Count de Larochethulon. The former was slightly wounded in the hand.

The hostile meeting between M. Syveton and Captain de Gail also came off on Saturday. Two shots were exchanged without result.—Reuter.

THE DEFENCE COMMITTEE.—A meeting of the Defence Committee took place at No. 10, Downing Street, on Saturday. Mr. Balfour presided.

MEMORIAL TO LADY HILDA McNEILL.—The heroism of the late Lady Hilda McNeill, who was drowned in endeavouring to save the life of a little boy at Fremington, in North Devon, three months ago, is to be perpetuated by the erection of a permanent memorial on the river bank, close to the scene of the tragedy. The memorial takes the form of a cross in Portland stone, on which is inscribed: "This stone was erected by Charles McNeill, in loving memory of his wife, Lady Hilda McNeill, to mark the place where she lost her life, August 19th, 1904, in a gallant attempt to rescue Miss Proctor, aged eleven, from drowning. Both were swept away by the tide." The cross rests on a base of Portland stone, chiselled to represent a rock.

A MUCH CRITICISED SCHEME.

THE HOSPITAL PENNY FUND.

MYSTERIOUS BENEFACTORS.

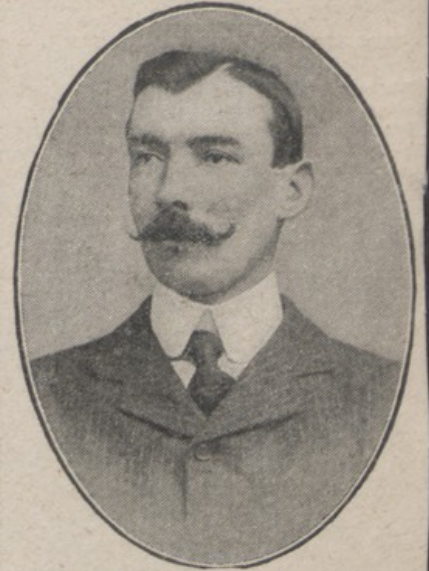

A meeting called by the Hospital Penny Fund was held at the Hotel Cecil yesterday to consider a scheme of reorganisation. The scheme provided that trustees, to be elected by representatives of the hospitals, with the committee, should distribute the funds; that a committee of hospital representatives should be formed to advise the general committee; that the expenses should not exceed 25 per cent.; and that the fund should not work under the auspices of any particular newspaper. It was further explained that the method of obtaining money for the benefit of the hospitals from the public was by the offer of prizes, and hospital stamp books would be sold. In the prize scheme it was stated that every month twenty-three cash prizes and fifty consolation prizes, varying from £5 to £50, would be given for the greatest number of stamps sent to the fund. A six-monthly prize competition offered prizes varying from £25 to £500.

Sir Anthony Thornhill, who presided, said the newspapers had contained a good deal of controversy about the fund, and the hospital authorities did not seem altogether satisfied with it. The great point to be considered by the hospital authorities was that by the fund large sums of money ought to be collected for them.

Sir E. N. Walker said it had been objected that the committee of the fund was not sufficiently influential, and that someone was exploiting the hospitals for private gain. He contended that the scheme was perfectly fair, honest, and legitimate; but he agreed with the first objection.

LORD NORTHBROOK DEAD. HIS DISTINGUISHED CAREER.

We regret to announce that Lord Northbrook died yesterday afternoon. The late Earl Northbrook, whose unexpected death will create widespread regret, will be principally remembered as a former Viceroy of India.

Baring, the founder of the London branch of the Baring family, was chairman of the East India Company in 1792. His father, who became the first Baron Northbrook, was born in Calcutta in 1796, and gave even greater distinction to the name of Sir Francis Baring, serving as Chancellor of the Exchequer and as First Lord of the Admiralty. The late Earl was born in 1826, and served his political apprenticeship as private secretary to a succession of Ministers. He entered Parliament in 1857, and passed through several of the subordinate Ministerial posts, including the Under Secretaryship for India. In 1872 he was appointed Viceroy of India by Mr. Gladstone, and held that office for four years. After his return to England he was invited to join Mr. Gladstone's 1880 Cabinet, and held for five years the office of First Lord of the Admiralty that his father had held thirty years earlier. When the great Home Rule cleavage came Lord Northbrook decided that he could no longer follow Mr. Gladstone, and helped to create the Liberal Unionist party. He remained till his death a member of that party, but he did not allow his zeal for the Union to weaken his Liberal convictions. He was a strong Free Trader, and was also an opponent of all schemes of so-called social reform that were based on impatient sentimentality instead of upon a reasoned examination of the evils to be remedied and of the remedies proposed. Acting on these principles, he succeeded more than once in defeating in the House of Lords measures that had passed through the House of Commons with insufficient discussion. He represented, in fact, the older type of English Liberalism, and was as strongly opposed to Democratic Socialism as to Toryism.

EXTRAORDINARY LIBEL SUIT. SETTLED IN COURT.

At the Central Criminal Court yesterday William McBeath Marcham, John Neil Marcham, Frank Marcham, Benjamin Brindle, and William Andrews surrendered to their bail and pleaded justification to an indictment charging them with publishing a false and defamatory libel concerning Sarah Ann Goodchild.—The alleged libel was contained in a leaflet which was extensively circulated in the neighbourhood of Muswell Hill. The leaflet contained a copy of the marriage certificate of the father of the Marchams and Sarah Janet McBeath, dated October, 1875, and in the leaflet it was stated that Miss Goodchild was not Mr. Marcham's lawful wife. The leaflet, they said, was published in order to protect the reputation of their mother and their own honour. The three Marchams signed the document, which was also placed on a notice-board near the prosecutrix's residence. Large crowds had assembled in front of the prosecutrix's house, and she had been greatly injured in her profession as a teacher of music.—Mr. Hutton said that the prosecutrix occupied the position of housekeeper to Mr. Marcham, and if the defendants would, even at this, the eleventh hour, withdraw the imputations which the leaflet cast upon her the prosecution would be abandoned. He alleged that the defendants Andrews and Brindle assisted in the distribution of the leaflets.—The Recorder, in reply to an observation from Mr. Hutton, said it all turned upon the point whether the libel was true.—Witnesses were called to prove the publication of the libel.—Miss Goodchild stated that she was housekeeper to Mr. Marcham. She had never represented herself to be his wife, and there had never been any impropriety between them.—After she had been under cross-examination

At Holy Trinity Church, Chelsea, Mr. George Hunter Garnett-Orme, son of the late Colonel Garnett-Orme, of Tarn House, Skipton-in-Craven, Yorkshire, was married to Miss Alice Richmond Brown, daughter of Sir William Richmond Brown, Bart. The church was prettily decorated. The officiating clergy were the Rev. Edgar Sheppard, Sub-Dean of the Chapels Royal, Canon Fleming, and the Rev. W. Noble, of Holy Trinity. Mr. Gandy, a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man, and the bride was given away by her father. She wore a soft white mousseline de soie dress, draped with Brussels lace, and a shawl of the same falling from the shoulders as a train. The tulle veil was arranged over a wreath of orange-blossoms. The bridesmaids were Miss Margaret and Miss Dora Richmond Brown (the bride's sisters), Miss Clifton and Miss Hargreaves Brown, the Hon. Georgina Pellew, and Miss Sybil Graham White (her cousins), Miss Nora Lyell, and Miss Baird, who were dressed in pale blue taffeta silk gowns, trimmed with ecru lace and brown velvet, toning in perfectly with the shades of the autumnal foliage introduced on their blue tulle picture hats.

BILLIARDS.

£1,000 TOURNAMENT.

In the sixth heat of 9,000 up at Messrs. Burroughes and Watts' competition in Soho Square, the overnight positions were:—Bateman (receives 2,500 start), 4,285; and Stevenson (scratch), 2,357. On resuming yesterday afternoon, the leader for a long time was the better of the two. He made breaks of 38 and 35, 103, and 65, against runs of 45 and 45, and practically got level on the handicap, but afterwards Stevenson had matters all his own way, and, with 44, 69, 153, 83, 41, and 250 unfinished, left off at 3,730 against 4,725. In the evening the scratch man drew up rapidly. He added only two to his break, but followed on with 111, 90, 112, 85, and 151. Bateman's solitary good run was 176. The closing scores were:—Stevenson, 4,507; Bateman, 5,024.

DAWSON V. MITCHELL.

Dawson was in great form at Thurston's in Leicester Square yesterday, when, starting from 3,031, against Mitchell's 3,557, he made breaks of 403, 198, 54, 41 (twice), 437, and 279 unfinished. Mitchell contributed 67, 178, and 40. The closing scores were:—Dawson, 4,500; Mitchell, 3,985.

JOHN ROBERTS V. M. INMAN.

The positions from which this game was continued at Manchester yesterday afternoon were:—Inman (receives 2,750 start), 4,832; Roberts, 2,983. On resuming, the leader held his own in the afternoon, and reached 5,356 to 3,761, while at night the scores were advanced to 5,877, against 4,835 in Inman's favour.

ARRESTED AT AN HOTEL.PRISONER IN COURT.

James Wallace, said to be a stockbroker, of Marquette, Michigan, U.S.A., was brought up again at Bow Street yesterday for extradition on a charge of embezzling share certificates, value about £5,000, the property of his principal, Mr. Breitung.

The prisoner was arrested last week at the Adelphi Hotel, Liverpool, where he was staying with a young woman who has since returned to America. Among the property found upon him was a letter of credit for £4,400, on which he had drawn £1,000 at Liverpool. The whole of this money, in the form of ten £100 notes, was discovered in his possession, together with several share certificates.

Detective-sergeant Carlin, who has charge of the case, said that that morning the prisoner was placed among seven other men and was identified by Mr. Scott Shau'l, solicitor acting for the prosecutor at Marquette.

Mr. Hodson, of the American Embassy, said that a cable message had been received from America stating that a police officer was sailing from Newport that day with the papers.

Mr. Marsham granted a further remand.

SUFFOCATED BY GAS.—Mr. A. J. Court, aged thirty-seven, of Buckingham Road, Wood Green, and son of Colonel Court, of Anerley, was yesterday morning found dead in his bedroom, having been suffocated by gas, which had escaped in the night. The coroner inquired into the case, and a jury returned a verdict of death by want of water in the chimney.

"According to statements by the inhabitants, the Japanese are very dispirited. They are carrying away with them many wounded.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

"WE EXPECT TO ATTAIN OUR OBJECT."

The Emperor yesterday at Tokio formally opened the second war Session of the Japanese Diet. His Majesty, in a State coach, escorted by a troop of Lancers, and the Crown Prince and staff and some members of the Imperial household, drove through the crowded streets to the Houses of Parliament, where the members of both Houses had assembled in the Chamber of Representatives.

The Diplomatic Body and many prominent officials were present.

The Emperor ascended the dais and read the following address:—

We hereby perform the ceremony of the opening of the Imperial Diet. We announce to the members of the House of Peers and the House of Representatives that, to our profound delight, our relations with all neutral Powers are increasingly amicable; that we have directed our Minister of State to submit to you a scheme for meeting the extraordinary expenditure necessitated by the war, together with the Budget for the thirty-eighth fiscal year of "Meiji," besides other projects of law; that our expeditionary forces have been victorious; that our troops have repeatedly shown fresh vigour, so that the CANADIAN BALLOT BOXES.

It is satisfactory to see that public opinion has been aroused in Canada by the scandals that occurred during the recent elections. Apart from general bribery and corruption, which seems to have been widespread, there is said to have been a conspiracy on the part of certain politicians to falsify the returns by using ballot boxes of a type more suited for a conjuror's performance than for a popular election. Such a fraud could hardly have succeeded unless there had been criminal collusion between the returning officer and the authors of the trick; but it may be pointed out that the ballot box, even in its best form, is not at all a satisfactory device for recording the opinions of a popular electorate. A far more efficient contrivance was recently exhibited in London by an enterprising inventor who, unfortunately, received very little official encouragement. With this simple piece of mechanism every voter—although voting with absolute secrecy—was able to see that his vote was properly recorded and properly counted, and at the same time he was prevented from changing his vote. At the close of the poll the number of votes given for each candidate was ascertained without the need for any fur-

ANOTHER DAY'S SPORT AT CHATSWORTH.

TO-NIGHT'S VISIT TO THE OPERA.

Shooting conditions at Chatsworth had greatly improved yesterday, the sun shining out over the snow during the morning with ever-increasing brilliancy. The rendezvous was Hare Park, Baslow, and King Carlos was accompanied by eight other members of the house party. The beaters were early astir, and hares and pheasants were plentiful. Dom Carlos confined his attention almost exclusively to the birds, and, being easily recognised at so short a distance from the public highway, his effective handling of the guns which his two loaders placed at his disposal was watched with close attention. The marquee had been pitched in the valley, and the sportsmen arrived there a little before Queen Amélie and the others who were to join them at luncheon had arrived. During the interval of waiting his Majesty unbent so far as to start

WELL WORTH SAVING.A PLEA FOR THE OLD TREATY HOUSE, UXBRIDGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY GRAPHIC.

SIR,—A few hundred feet beyond the terminus of the electric tramway at Uxbridge is a house with a curious ogee gable, known as the Crown, or Old Treaty House. It is not of much interest externally, except for some picturesque old chimney-stacks and gables, which can only be seen from the back. The interior possesses some fine Jacobean work, the room illustrated being quite unaltered, and an exceptionally fine example. The old wood-work is of a rich cedar brown colour, and the carving is very fine workmanship, even for that period of domestic architecture.

The Treaty House was built in 1575, and in 1645, while in the possession of Mr. Car, the envoys of Charles I. and the Parliament met there (probably in the room illustrated) to discuss the Treaty of Uxbridge. Lord Chancellor Clarendon gives the following interesting account of the proceedings in the House:—

“About the end of January, or the beginning of February, Commissioners on both sides met at the house of Mr. Car, and the quar-

SIR JOHN GORST AND HIS CONSTITUENTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY GRAPHIC.

SIR,—As you have referred in your issue of yesterday to a correspondence between Sir Robert Ball and Sir John Gorst with regard to a meeting at Cambridge, may we ask you to allow us a few words by way of further explanation?

Sir John Gorst and his colleague were informed several months ago that it was proposed to hold this term a meeting of members of the Senate who support the present Government. When the notice fixing the time and place of the meeting was printed and circulated, it was sent to both the representatives for the University, together with a letter from the committee appointed to arrange details, intimating that, as this was to be a meeting of residents to discuss the representation of the University in Parliament, the committee considered that it would not be possible for either of the sitting members to be present; but if they had any communication which they wished to make to the meeting, it would be read at the time. Sir John Gorst replied that he had himself no communication which he wished to make to the meeting. He did not express dissent from the opinion of the committee, or say that he wished to be heard in person, or ask whether anything was alleged against him.

The committee, as such, had nothing to formulate for or against either representative: its duty was to arrange for a meeting at which there should

THE MILD WEATHER. QUAINT CUSTOM AT COLCHESTER.

Yesterday was very mild over the whole of the British Isles, and the air was still drifting over us from the warm waters of the Atlantic. In London the thermometer in the screen stood at 51deg. shortly after midday, which is the highest reading since November 19th, and is 6deg. above the average for the beginning of December. Wednesday night in London was the warmest night since November 12th, and was 6deg. above the average. The 8 a.m. temperature in London was 5deg. warmer than Lisbon. The general temperature over England yesterday was between 50deg. and 55deg. A cyclonic disturbance was passing eastwards to the North of Scotland, and was occasioning mild south-west winds.

There is no prospect of much cooler weather at present, although the cold is still intense over Scandinavia, and in France and Germany it continues quite sufficiently cold. Occasional rains are being experienced in different parts of the country.

At one o'clock yesterday morning the Colchester town crier ushered in winter according to the immemorial custom of the borough by ringing his bell and declaiming the lines—

LOST PENNIES REPLACED, THE QUEEN'S THOUGHTFULNESS.

Mr. Edgar Speyer, who has generously come forward to pay all the deficit of the Needham Penny Bank, has made but one condition to his gift. All the small accounts are to be transferred at once to the Post Office Savings Bank, so that the investors do not touch the money. The larger accounts are to be transferred to Barclay's Bank. Mr. Speyer's motive was simply to encourage thrift, and the total amount of his gift is between £5,000 and £6,000. He thought that unless the depositors were relieved their habits of thrift might possibly be discontinued; in this way the case appealed strongly to him and he resolved to make the gift.

The Queen interested herself in the failure of the bank, and desired to have information about it. On Wednesday evening the Mayor of Ipswich received the following letter from Sandringham:—

The Queen's idea is to find out privately the individual cases of absolute need and to relieve each case separately as far as £100 will go. The question now arises how can we discover these sad cases. I fear it would be giving you too much trouble to do so. Is there any special committee for this purpose, or would it be a good plan to apply to the head of the local police? Would you kindly enlighten me on this subject?—Yours faithfully,
The Queen.

COSTUME BALL AT THE ALBERT HALL.

The Charing Cross Hospital is, like every other hospital, in constant and continuous need of funds to maintain it in its struggle against the ills that afflict poor humanity. New and up-to-date buildings and equipments have arisen on the old site of the hospital; modern science is represented in them in every possible shape in which it can help to alleviate suffering, and the cost has been, of course, very great, and very much more than the £60,000 which has been forthcoming is required to cover it. By way of collecting something towards this object, a Costume Ball was given on Tuesday night at the Albert Hall, and the opportunity was thus offered to the many friends and well-wishers of a great institution to help its funds, and, at the same time, to enjoy themselves.

The idea was successfully developed and organised, and brilliantly carried out, and the Albert Hall, the arena of which was transformed into a first-class dancing floor, became a charming ball-room, differing from other ball-rooms in the important point that it offered a beautiful spectacle to those who desired rather to see people dance than to dance themselves. The immense oval of tiers of seats, rising from the floor to the base of the galleries, was crowded with people, who found pleasure in looking at the animated scene below. Around the arena were standards of electric lights garlanded with roses; above was a radiating floral decoration; the galleries were festooned with lights and gay with flowers. The Alake of Abeokuta looked on from one of the boxes and stayed long enough to justify the assumption that he considers a costume ball at the Albert Hall one of the many wonders he has seen in this land of new revelations.

good way behind going up the hill. At the mile post he ran past four or five horses, and half-way down the hill he was in third place, but he could not sustain the effort, and only finished fifth. There was, however, a lot of pulling up in the straight, and St. Denis, who secured third place, was half a dozen lengths behind John o' Gaunt. The reception accorded the winner has already been alluded to, but I may repeat that the cheering was renewed again and again, and Mr. Leopold de Rothschild came in for the heartiest congratulations from one and all.

Lady Honora came in first for the Caterham Plate, but was objected to for crossing and boring, and the race was awarded to Brother Bill, who is now owned by Lord Hamilton of Dalzell. The Ranmore Plate was easily won by Royal River, who was followed past the post by Verita and Friar's Wash.

A HAUNTED MAGISTRATE.

CURIOUS EFFECT OF A HOME OFFICE ORDER.

Charles Bleasdale, aged twenty-two, a groom, was brought before Mr. Denman at West London Police-court on Saturday, on a warrant charged with stealing a "Gloria" musical-box, valued at six guineas, the property of Sidney Herbert Childley, musical instrument dealer, of Uxbridge Road, Shepherd's Bush. The prisoner was conveyed to the court under a Home Office order, in charge of warders from Worcester Gaol, where he is undergoing a term of imprisonment for stealing bicycles. He pleaded guilty to the present charge.

Detective-sergeant Chandler informed the magistrate that subsequently to the commission of this offence Bleasdale was sentenced to six months' imprisonment at Lincoln for bicycle thefts, and while in gaol was twice brought up—once at Worcester and once at Marylebone Court—on other charges for which he was further sentenced. By next May his term of imprisonment would have expired.

Mr. Denman: Why is he brought up here now?

The Witness: To save his being rearrested on his release. It is a Home Office regulation, I believe. He is here from Worcester Gaol, having been taken here from Lincoln Gaol in order to serve the second term of imprisonment.

THE DEPARTURE OF THE ARCHDUKE.

The Archduke Frederick of Austria, having taken leave of the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace on the conclusion of his three days' visit, left on Saturday morning for Vienna by the ten o'clock boat express from Charing Cross.

Although it had been arranged that the departure should be a private one, the event attracted a good deal of public attention, and there was a large assemblage of sightseers in the neighbourhood of the station.

Among those present at the station to bid the Archduke farewell were the Prince of Wales, Duke of Connaught, Prince Arthur of Connaught, and Prince Christian. Others present included the Austrian Ambassador, Sir Francis Plunkett, British Ambassador at Vienna, Sir Horace Rumbold, the Austrian Consul-General, and the personnel of the Austrian Embassy and the Consulate-General.

The Archduke, before leaving, expressed the keen pleasure and satisfaction derived from his visit.

Before leaving London the Archduke handed to Mr. Fehr, King Edward's Courier, a magnificent gold cigarette-case, sent by the Emperor of Austria as a memento of the recent Royal visit to Vienna.

The Archduke, who set in brilliant, appears on INDIAN FINANCE. THE BALANCE OF TRADE.

The figures of the Financial Statement of the Government of India for 1904-05 have now been published, and among the mass of information contained therein an interesting paragraph is devoted to the balance of trade, on which subject considerable misapprehensions exist. It is impossible to arrive at precise figures showing the exact situation, but the following statement may be considered as accurate for all practical purposes:—

	1900-1901.	1901-1902.	1902-1903.
Secretary of State's budgeted drawings....	16,440,000	16,500,000	16,500,000
Exports value of exports over imports.....	10,982,072	17,969,511	18,611,179
Deduct—transfers of rupees paper to India, net....	-908,209	1,212,670	1,122,479
Exports balance of exports	11,891,353	16,776,841	17,488,700
Add—payments by the War Office on account of supplies furnished to China and South African Forces.....	1,471,048	221,028	153,200
Total excess under classification of "exports"....	13,362,581	17,297,869	17,641,900
Deficit over period.....	-3,077,619	-4,797,869	-1,111,966

It will be seen that during these three years the excess of exports over imports amounted in value to £47,583,754; from this total must be deducted the export and import trade during the three years, is of no account, as it is evident that neither the whole of the exports nor of the imports would be actually paid for within the period, and it is impossible to say on which side a balance might be due on account of trade operations at the close of three years, or what might be the amount of such balance.

These figures thus entirely dispose of the erroneous assumption that India is paying for more than she receives under the three heads of imported goods, imported investment securities, and payment abroad of budgeted Government sterling charges.

THE TREASURY AS PASSIVE RESISTER.

An important dispute has arisen between H.M. Treasury and the Isle of Wight Board of Guardians, consequent on the latter's refusal to accept the chargeability of discharged convicts from Parkhurst Prison who do not belong to the island. The overseers of Carisbrooke, in which parish the prison and other Government property, on which £550 has been paid annually by H.M. Treasury in lieu of rates, have received a letter as follows from the Rating of Government Property Department, Treasury: "I beg to inform you that the issue of the current half-year's form relating to the contribution in lieu of rates is suspended, pending an inquiry into the refusal of the Board of Guardians to receive convicts discharged from H.M. Prison at Parkhurst." The Government contribution is in respect of relief of the poor, county expenses, and the education rate, and the issue of the form is suspended.

THE DUKE OF CAMBRIDGE'S COLLECTIONS.

There has been no such excitement at Christie's during the continued dispersal of the late Duke of Cambridge's collections as there was on the great day last Saturday, when the Gainsborough and Romney were sold for over £16,000; but there were many people present on Monday and yesterday, when our artist made the accompanying sketch. Miniatures, snuff-boxes, and various other interesting objects, souvenirs, and the class of property to which the public gives the generic name of knick-knacks, followed the pictures of Saturday, but among them were several miniatures which commanded good prices, one of George III., for instance, in a locket set with pearls, and a frame of twelve miniatures, in which his present Majesty appears as a little lad in sailor's costume, these brought 150 and 110 guineas respectively. Of antiquarian interest was a round oak snuff-box, bearing a gold plate, on which is engraved a view of the Round Tower of Windsor Castle, with an inscription within stating that the box was "made from part of an oak beam in Windsor Castle placed there when the Castle was originally built by King Edward III." Another interesting little box was of the Louis XV. period, made of bloodstone, and inscribed, "Rien n'est agréable éloigné de vous"; another of gold bore the words, "The work and gift of H.R.H. the Princess Elizabeth to Earl Harcourt, 1808." punishment for quite a quarter of a mile, drawing out a comparatively easy two lengths' winner at last, while St. Kilda beat Esquire four lengths for second place. The winner carried the yellow jacket and black cap of the young Duke of Westminster, and is an Eaton-bred colt by Grey Leg—Gantlet, and on the last occasion of his running he had succumbed to Housewife in a very close finish.

The Gold Vase.

The Gold Vase is always an interesting race, for no matter how small the field may be the runners are invariably of good class, and the prize is always won by a genuine stayer, and very seldom by a bad horse. On the present occasion only five went to the post, but it was an easy matter to decide that each of them had a chance, and that not one of the lot stood out like a certain winner. Fermoyle was a winner this year, Bachelor's Button, a consistent performer, had finished fourth in the City and Suburban, Hammerkop had been fourth in the Chester Cup, and had occupied the same place in last year's Cesarewitch, Hands Down had beaten Jean's Folly at Salisbury, and Lord Rossmore hailed from a dangerous stable and had won at Ascot last year. Hammerkop was favourite from Bachelor's Button, and Fermoyle was the outsider of the party. Hammerkop, though drawn on the outside, at once took up the running, and was on the rails before they rounded the top turn. A mile from home Hands Down, on the outside, took a slight lead, but Hammerkop held her place on the inside, and the two were level half-way up the straight. Then Bachelor's Button began to come up quickly on the outside, but Hands Down swerved and took Mr. Joel's horse out with him. At the distance both were straightened and quickly passed Hammerkop, Bachelor's Button drawing out a clever winner

MOTOR CAR ACCIDENTS. A MARQUIS KILLED.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

DREUX, Saturday.

A serious motor car accident occurred yesterday at Brezailles. The Marquis d'Audiffret Pasquier, son of the Duc d'Audiffret Pasquier, the Life Senator, was proceeding from Paris to Normandy, when, at about 200 yards from Brezailles, while the car was going at a rate of about fifty-six miles an hour, a tire burst, and the car was overturned. The Marquis d'Audiffret Pasquier, who was holding the steering-wheel, and the chauffeur who was accompanying him were hurled into the air. The chauffeur was unhurt, but the Marquis was found to be seriously injured, and had to be carried to a neighbouring house. A local doctor and another from Chateaufort, who were on the spot, attended the injured man, and then informed his family, which arrived last night with a doctor. At about two o'clock this morning, on seeing that the condition of the Marquis was becoming worse, the family doctor sent for a surgeon, but, in spite of every attention, the Marquis died at eleven from internal injuries.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN BOURCHIER, R.N.

With very great regret we have to announce the death of Captain W. S. Bouchier, R.N., late commander of the training ship Exmouth, who retired from that position, filled by him for many years with conspicuous ability and success, in January, 1902.

Captain Bouchier's naval career began in 1841, when he became master's assistant—now known as navigating midshipman—on the Impregnable. He served under Lord Clarence Paget in the Mediterranean; on the South American station; for many years in the Myrtle in home waters; and off the West Coast of Africa in the Zebra, under Captain (later Admiral) Sir Anthony H. Hoskins.

AVENUE—"ANTOINETTE SABRIER."

Of the three experiments in the production of French plays which are being made respectively at the Prince of Wales's, the Avenue, and His Majesty's that witnessed on Saturday night at the Avenue bids fare to be the most attractive. Of the performance of "La Sorcière" to be given this evening it is as yet too early to speak, and the wonderful fascination of Madame Bernhardt may well quicken with soul and raise into a success the rather stodgy play in which she will then appear. M. Tarride, supposing him to be entitled to the credit of what has been done at the Avenue, has gone the absolute right way to work. He has provided a new, good, original, and deeply interesting play, has presented it with an excellent and nicely-balanced company, and has ministered in every way to the comfort of his public. A capable orchestra suffices to furnish the house with gentle for his wife Germain has some suspicion, and he exhorts from him a declaration, on his word of honour, that he, Germain, may receive the sum offered without forfeiting his right to be considered a gentleman. A similar demand from his wife creates so much confusion that the husband cannot fail to see that the proffered obligation comes from his wife's lover. A tremendous explosion of passion follows this discovery. Germain, listening to his wife's protestations, asks her but one thing—will she accompany him to exile and never see her lover more? Of this sacrifice she is incapable. He then orders her out of the room and his home, and, putting a pistol to his heart, commits suicide. The spectator has been aware all the time of the intimacy between René Dangenne and Antoinette. The latter has, indeed, taken the world generally into her confidence as to her purposed flight with him. According to her theory, a woman who conceives a passion for a man other than her husband has a perfect right to share his life, the only real infamy consisting in "partage" between two men. The return of her husband, broken and ruined, at the very moment when she is about to quit his roof appeals to her pity and sympathy. She is false accordingly to her ethical theories. She accepts her lover's advances while still in her husband's house, and so brings about the inevitable tragedy, since Germain adores her, and is any thing but a "mari complaisant." Enough has been said to show that the play is a story which leads to some end, and that the scenes were carried off finely by M. Tarride, and the company, and the orchestra.

previously tender and chivalrous presentation of the philosophic but profoundly human experimenter in the vital problems, Mark Embury. Miss Mary Yorke is again the housekeeper, Mrs. Deborah; and Miss Alice de Winton the pretty, feather-headed Joanna Goodlake. Misses Minnie Griffin and Edith Fenchester, Mr. Leon Quartermain, and Mr. J. H. Ryley reappear. For Mr. Luigi Lablache is substituted Mr. George Sumner, and for Mr. Ben Webster (as the amorous Captain) Mr. Charles Cherry. The revival was received by a huge audience with overwhelming applause, and the well-remembered furor of the opening night was repeated.

OPERA AT DRURY LANE.

"THE FLYING DUTCHMAN."

The none too powerful repertory of the Moody-Manners Opera Company at Drury Lane was materially strengthened on Friday by the revival of "The Flying Dutchman," a work which has been very seldom performed of late years in London. Wagner's earlier manner, before he had shaken off the Italian influences of his youth. Much of it is interesting, chiefly to the student of the composer's musical development, but its intrinsic value is quite sufficient to merit occasional revival, and it attracted a large and enthusiastic audience. The music is a masterpiece of originality and convention, of which the composer was inspired by

THEIR SHIP IN COMMISSION.

The white ensign was hoisted on Saturday on board the sloop of war Buzzard, the drill ship of the London Division of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, which was taken over by the Hon. Rupert Guinness and several officers of the Naval Volunteer force. Since the Buzzard was towed from Sheerness to her present moorings off the Thames Embankment, her equipment has been completed, the work having occupied close upon three months. The main deck has been constructed so that drill may be conducted there, and the engine-room has been transformed into a gymnasium. On the poop are a Maxim and a three-pounder gun, while two quick-firing guns are placed on the quarter deck and two larger guns amidships. A keen interest is being taken in the vessel by the members of the London Naval Volunteer force. The Hon. Rupert Guinness, commander of the division, hopes to hold the first drill to-day.

ROYAL OPERA.

On Saturday evening the first part of the opera season came to an end with the last of the German performances and the farewell of Dr. Richter, who is now on his way to Bayreuth. The performances of Wagner's works this season have been brilliantly successful, not only those of "Tristan" and "Die Meistersinger," which under Dr. Richter's inspiring

GATWICK AND GOSFORTH MEETINGS.

At Gatwick yesterday the sport was very fair, but fields were not large, and this is not to be wondered at, considering that the Gosforth Park Summer Meeting clashed with the southern fixture.

Airship, ridden by the apprentice Saxby, upset the odds laid on Harmony Hall for the Loop Handicap, but American Boy, who easily won the Purley Plate, was almost an even money chance, and he beat the biggest field of the day.

The Gatwick Foal Plate attracted eleven, and Orator, who ran second to Thrush at Hurst Park, divided favouritism with Brilliancy, a winner at the Newmarket Second Spring Meeting. Brilliancy just resigned second place to Kuroki, whereas Orator, who got badly away in the Hurst Park race, now came out at the distance, and ran home an easy winner.

The Horseshoe Handicap attracted a small field, and was won by Claqueur, on whom slight odds were laid. Best Light, who started at 3 to 1, took the Dorking Welter, and Briar Patch landed the odds betted on him for the Ford Manor Plate.

To-day my selections are:—

Veranda Handicap—MENTOR.

THE SALE OF A PRACTICE.

A QUOTATION BY THE JUDGE.

Mr. Justice Darling and a High Court special jury yesterday resumed the hearing of the action brought by Messrs. Maurice E. A. Wallis and Charles G. Burton, medical men, and Dr. Elizabeth Ross, formerly in partnership at Clapton, against Dr. Charles F. Ponder, of Clapton, to recover £300, the value of four promissory notes given in part payment for the plaintiffs' practice. The plaintiffs' case was that early last year they sold their practice, consisting of three surgeries at Clapton, to the defendant for £1,150, and accepted the promissory notes in question as part payment. The defendant admitted giving the notes under a contract to buy the practice, but counterclaimed to have the contract set aside, and the £550 he had already paid in cash returned, on the ground that he was induced to take the practice by misrepresentations as to its value. The plaintiffs denied the alleged misrepresentations.

Mr. Bloomerhall, surgeon, of Clapton, a witness for the defendant, said he practised in the same district. He had never had a higher fee than 1s. 6d. in the district. The usual fee was sixpence. (Laughter.) There was a medical practitioner in the district who charged twopenny for advice and medicine at the surgery, and 5d. for house visits and medicine. (Laughter.) This was done under the cloak of a "mission."

Mr. Justice Darling: Have you ever heard of the doctor who—

To the poor he advice gave away.

For the rich he prescribed and took pay, and then he had a prescription which he supplied to everyone of them? (Laughter.)

The Witness: I cannot say that I have.

The Judge: I don't think he lived in

TWO TREBLE VICTORIES.

The feature of the racing at Gatwick yesterday was the success of the Netheravon stable, which took the Crabtree Plate with Shand Aboo, the Gatwick Selling Handicap with Orphrey, and the Diamond Welter Plate with Lapsang, B. Dillon being in each case the winning jockey.

The Gatwick Selling Handicap was worth a thousand, and it attracted a fair class field of fourteen, and though Orphrey had little chance on the form she showed at Windsor in April, she was now made favourite at 4 to 1, and proved herself equal to the occasion.

The Diamond Welter was also a valuable race, and in the market Lapsang always had the call of Jupiter Pluvius. It was, however, a Netheravon day, and while Jupiter Pluvius, who must have lost his early spring form, failed to secure a place, Lapsang beat Whipnade by a neck, and thus enabled Captain Purefoy, Fallon, and Dillon to accomplish the hat trick. Their other victory came before the two I have described, but Shand Aboo was not favourite for the Crabtree Plate. He had made no show in a race at Epsom, but he now took up the running at the distance, and got home two lengths in front of Sister Lilla.

The other races call for no comment.

WEDDING.

WILSON-INNES-KER.

St. George's Church, Hanover Square, was crowded yesterday with a large and aristocratic congregation, and was most charmingly decorated, for the marriage of Mr. Guy Wilson, D.S.O., late 11th Hussars, son of Mr. Charles Wilson, M.P., of Warter Priory, Yorkshire, and Lady Isabel Innes-Ker, daughter of the late Duke of Roxburghe. The officiating clergy were the Rev. Edgar Sheppard, Sub-Dean of the Chapels Royal, and the Rev. David Anderson, Rector of St. George's. Mr. Leslie Rome, 11th Hussars, accompanied the bridegroom as best man. The bride, who was given away by her brother, the Duke of Roxburghe, wore a white satin dress, embroidered with silver, and trimmed with a deep collar of old guipure, ornamented with raised satin shells. The lace veil fell over a tiara of orange blossoms, and the ornaments were pearls and diamonds. The train was held by little Miss Millicent Orr-Ewing, who wore a wreath of myrtle leaves and flowers and a green silk frock, with lace collar, and by Master F. Fairfax, in a light green page suit, with lace ruffles and collar, and a three-corner green hat. The bridesmaids were Lady Evelyn Innes-Ker (the bride's sister), Miss Gladys Fellowes (her cousin), Miss Gladys Wilson (the bridegroom's sister), and Miss Pauline Astor. They wore early Victorian gowns of pale green silk, ruffled with silk.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S RIGHT-HAND MAN.

Mr. George Bruce Cortelyou, chairman of the Republican Committee and manager of President Roosevelt's present campaign, is an interesting illustration of how far intelligence combined with a capacity for hard work may carry a man in the United States. He is in his forty-first year, and, with one exception, is the youngest man who ever became chairman of an American national party. All his predecessors gained their experience in the ordinary round of professional politics. Mr. Cortelyou stands alone in having studied politics only from the standpoint of the White House, where he was private secretary to three successive Presidents.

Shorthand was the means by which he secured his first advancement in life. After leaving school, at the age of nineteen, he studied music with a view to making it his profession, but presently dropped it, became an expert stenographer, and acted as a law reporter and as secretary to the appraiser of

GOSFORTH AND FOLKESTONE MEETINGS.

The Gosford Park Meeting was concluded yesterday, and has been one of the most successful fixtures the place has known in its twenty years existence. The principal feature of the three days' racing was the good form shown by the Northern stables and the many defects sustained by Newmarket-trained horses. Dobson, Black, of Middlemarket, won no fewer than five races during the three days; Armstrong, of Penrith, took four; Anson, of Gosford, three; and two, of Middleham, one, thus showing a total of twelve events won by Northern horses.

Yesterday's big event was the Seaton Delaval Stakes, for two-year-olds, and this brought out a party of seven. His Majesty's colours being borne by Rosemarket, who had won the Newmarket and Manchester, and who was the only penalized candidate. Rosemarket opened favourite, but gave way to the Malton-trained Coldstream before the flag fell. Cyanan was also backed at a new price, and the race proved to be a real good thing for her. She galloped right away from her opponents and was in the center. Cyanan is a filly by Cylencynna, and was bred by Lord Londonderry. She brought 550g. to the sale. Mr. J. H. Fallon at Netherbury bought her for 100g. and made the

RANELAGH CLUB.

The semi-final tie of the Ranelagh Open Cup tournament weathered by Harry—Mr. W. Jones, Mr. C. P. Nickalls, Captain E. D. Miller, and Mr. C. D. Miller (back), and Roehampton—Captain H. Wilson, Mr. M. Nickalls, Mr. P. W. Nickalls, and Captain Hardress Lloyd (back), with Mr. Buckmaster and Mr. F. A. Gill as umpires. The match was a very even and well-contested affair, and the Ranelagh side of the winners were the victors by two runs. The match was therefore a good one to see, and the Ranelagh side of the winners were the victors by two runs. The match was therefore a good one to see, and the Ranelagh side of the winners were the victors by two runs.

A second tie in the Inter-Regimental tournament was played at Roehampton yesterday between the Royal Horse Guards—Lord Ingestre, Captain Fitzgerald, Mr. H. E. Brasse, and Captain Hon. D. Marjoribanks, and the 1st Life Guards—Lord H. Grosvenor, Major G. Milner, Mr. E. H. Brasse, and Captain Clives (Capt).

A COLLIERY EXHIBITION.

The second international Colliery Exhibition is now open at the Agricultural Hall, and will remain open until and including July 2nd. There are, besides coal itself in every variety, coal-cutting machines, air-compressors, boilers, cables, dials, pumps, rock-drills, weighing machinery, screens, picks, couplings for railway trucks—all conveniently arranged for inspection. No fewer than thirteen exhibitors show electrical plant as applied to collieries, and the coal-cutters form a special feature with eight separate firms.

In the entrance way space is given to the inventors of new couplings for coal trucks, and along one side of the hall are laid the rails of Mr. Arthur Koppel's portable railway, whereon plies his little hydroleum locomotive, "Progress," with its train of trucks. The line is of 2ft. gauge, and the rails are laid on steel sleepers. The locomotive weighs two tons, and can haul twenty-five tons gross load on the level. The railway system is adapted for tunnel and underground work, where restricted space prevents the use of coal fuel locomotives. The liquid fuel by which the hydroleum locomotive is fired consists of the cheapest kinds of hydro-carbon oils, kerosene, water-gas, tar, and one man only is required to attend to the simple mechanism by which the engine is driven. This little railway is one of the popular features of an exhibition which is in every way attractive and likely to be of great benefit to both proprietor and manufacturer.

peace," as King Edward happily said, "and the welfare, not only of our own countries but also of all other nations." The anxiety of the German Emperor to conciliate English opinion, and especially to allay the unworthy suspicions of those who see in the launch of every new German warship a menace to this country, was evident from the stress he laid on the essentially protective aims of the young German navy. In this connection, too, his pathetic reference to the death-bed of Queen Victoria, "whose memory," as King Edward sympathetically said, "is equally sacred to us both," will not fail to impress the public mind, both here and in Germany. That memory is a link between the two countries which in itself is a guarantee against the perils with which a certain class of alarmists regard the politics of the German Emperor. On the whole, we think very excellent seed has been sown at Kiel, and we trust that the example shown by the two Sovereigns will be zealously followed by the nations they so worthily represent.

HANKY-PANKY AND AN UMBRELLA.

Lord Rosebery, when Foreign Minister, invited the French Ambassador on an importest. The extreme temperance party has afforded one more illustration of its willingness to use strong language, combined with an incapacity to take any political step to assist the practical interests of temperance.

CLEMENT SCOTT.

By the death of Mr. Clement Scott we lose a distinguished journalist who had done more than most dramatic critics to extend the popularity of the theatre. There were, no doubt, some among his juniors in the craft who possessed a wider knowledge of Greek models and French originals, and a more catholic sympathy towards new forms of dramatic art introduced to our stage from Scandinavia and Belgium. But Mr. Scott's limitations in these respects were among the sources of his influence. He was the great interpreter of the average man, with a great deal of the average man's fear of innovations, but also with much of the average man's common-sense. There was a time when it might have been predicted with confidence that what Mr. Scott wrote at night, in language richly decorated with the flowers of rhetoric, the average man would repeat, in more colloquial diction, in the morning. His followers predominant interest. We were going to hand over, not to the publican, but to his great and swollen employers, what a competent authority calculated at some three hundred millions. The value of a licence was State-given, and was undoubtedly the property of the State. Under Protection there would be two score interests, all demanding that their products should be subjected to heavy import duties, and making their hand lie heavy on the Government which refused. It meant the future of the country being choked and controlled and corrupted by these wealthy interests. He called on the audience to use its best efforts to dismiss the present unfortunate and sinister Government, and place the Liberal party in power with a large majority.

DEATH OF MR. CLEMENT SCOTT.

Mr. Clement Scott died at his residence in London on Saturday—two days after he was the recipient of a complimentary benefit at His Majesty's Theatre. His health had long been failing, and the end was so near at hand that the result of the movement on his behalf can only have been spoken into deaf ears. Further prolongation of his existence was scarcely to be anticipated, scarcely, perhaps, to be hoped. Few journalists have had a stormier, or, in a sense, a more successful career, and if the close was less brilliant than the outset, the cause, apart from physical decay, must be found in his very raison d'être, in the quality of his work.

UXBRIDGE TO BAKER STREET.

METROPOLITAN EXTENSION.

On Monday next the Londoner in search of fresh woods and pastures new will be able to join the Metropolitan Railway at Baker Street and reach Ruislip or Uxbridge in something under three-quarters of an hour. Yesterday, when the directors of the line provided for a number of invited guests a kind of private view of this opportunity, the return journey from Uxbridge to London was made in thirty-eight minutes. Uxbridge, that countryfied little town, is already served by the Great Western Railway, but the new line opens up the stretch of country which lies between Harrow and Uxbridge. Indeed, the new railway, some seven miles in length, is called the Harrow and Uxbridge railway, and is part of a larger scheme which was originally designed to carry on the line to Wycombe, and is now a composite scheme which discloses a triangular area of country of great attractiveness. It is suggested that as soon as the line becomes known this will rapidly become a delightful and healthy suburb of London. No one can doubt it, and it is a remarkable testimony to the overweening size and dominion of London that this new "suburb" should, at its farthest extremity of Uxbridge, be separated from Buckinghamshire only by the River Colne. At the same time, anyone who is not proposing to build a villa there, could hardly escape a sentimental regret yesterday when journeying through this pretty country on the most typical of June days, that these fields and leafy

In consequence of mourning in the bride's family there was no reception after the ceremony, and later in the day the bride and bridegroom left for Holy Wells, Ipswich, lent by Mr. and Lady Evelyn Cobbold, brother-in-law and sister of the bride. The numerous wedding presents included a silver tea and coffee service, on silver tray, from the officers of the Coldstream Guards.

CONVICT AND MAJOR-GENERAL.

VERDICT AND SENTENCE.

Before the Common Serjeant, at the Central Criminal Court yesterday, Sophia Annie Watson, aged thirty-nine, was again placed upon her trial upon a charge of having committed perjury in a breach of promise action in which she claimed £10,000 damages brought by her against Major-General FitzHugh, chairman of the visiting justices of Lewes gaol.—The case was tried on Monday and Tuesday last before the Recorder, but the jury, after deliberating for three hours, expressed their inability to agree to a verdict and were discharged.

Mr. Matthews again appeared for the Treasury, and the witnesses who gave evidence at the first trial were called for the prosecution.

The prisoner, in cross-examining Major-General FitzHugh, asked: Do you know that on Tuesday the jury imputed perjury to yourself and Colonel Isaacson?

The Common Serjeant said:

THE ALPINE ACCIDENT. DETAILS OF THE ENGLISHMAN'S DEATH.

ZERMATT, Thursday.

Further details of the fatal accident to Mr. Arthur Rooke on the Z'huah Alp show that after leaving the summit on the return journey to the Findelen Hotel he missed his way, and scarcely ten minutes after, a snow bridge, which spanned a very deep crevasse, crumbled away under his feet, and he disappeared in the abyss. On Tuesday evening, as Mr. Rooke did not return, his family made inquiries about him, and when night came on without the unfortunate gentleman making an appearance a party of guides was sent from Zermatt. The search went on all day yesterday, with the assistance of a guide who saw Mr. Rooke shortly after he had left the hut. The gaping crevasse was soon discovered, and a guide was let down by a rope. The body of the victim was found wedged between the two ice walls. The skull was fractured, and there was a wound in the neck caused by Mr. Rooke's pickaxe, which was still in his hand. Death must have been instantaneous.

Yesterday evening the body was brought to Zermatt, whence it will be sent to London. The deceased gentleman was a solicitor.

WEDDINGS.

SMYTH-MONCKTON.

At St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, yesterday, there was a large congregation for the marriage of Captain Geoffrey Skeffington Smyth, D.S.O., 5th Lancers, and the Hon. Violet Frances Monckton, only daughter of Viscount Galway, of Surlingham, Yorkshire. The service was fully choral, and was performed by Canon Hensley Henson, Rector of St. Margaret's, and the Rev. C. E. Scott Moncrieff, chaplain to Lord Galway. Lord Douglas Compton, a brother-officer of the bridegroom, accompanied him as best man, and a number of men of the regiment lined the church. Lord Galway gave his daughter away, and she wore a soft picture dress of tulle and Brussels lace, on white Oriental satin, and a tulle veil, over a wreath of orange blossoms. The lace train was held by Viscount Uffington and Master Ronald Griffin, in white satin page suits, with mauve satin caps, and wearing enamel scarf pins, the gift of the bride, and in the shape of a violet, in compliment to her name. The bridesmaids were Lady Celia Greville-Milnes, Lady Aline Dawson-Damer, Miss E. Fane, Miss Sibell Johnstone, Miss Judith Notting, Miss Kathleen Tighe, and Miss Oonals Tighe, the two latter little children. The grown-up bridesmaids wore white chiffon gowns, made with pale blue silk coats, and sashes and Schuss, bordered with lace, and pale mauve picture hats, with ostrich plumes, the children wearing white silk muslin frocks and lace caps. The bridegroom gave the bridesmaids paste buckles and chains of Madonna lilies. After the ceremony Lady Galway held a reception at 32, Grosvenor Street, which was largely attended, and later in the afternoon the newly-married couple left for the Continent.

THE LITTLE DOLLS OF BENI HASAN.

Yesterday Princess Henry of Battenberg opened the exhibition which at the Society of Antiquaries discloses some of the results of Mr. John Garstang's two years' excavations at Beni Hasan; and, like most of the other visitors during the day, stopped at least an hour to examine the extremely curious relics and wooden models from Beni Hasan's tombs. The tombs are those of the Middle Empire, and the site is on the east bank of the Nile in Middle Egypt. These tombs, hewn from the rock, are painted inside, and portray for us to-day in scenes of vivid realism the life in the home and the fields, on the river and in warfare, and the funeral rites of those who died 2,000 years before Christ was born. Historically, they belong to the feudal period of Egypt when there were chieftains in the land, hereditary lords of the soil. But all these historical attributes of the tombs, important as they are, quite pale in interest beside the mere fact of the dolls which are found in them. These little wooden models, with wooden figures of the size of the nursery Dutch doll of to-day, are among the most fascinating of modern archaeological discoveries. Some were shown two years ago, but the present display shows not the least falling off in interest. There are dolls in granaries and dolls in war-galleys—wonderful dolls these, with a world of expression in their glaring eyes, though the eyes are only two dashes and a dot—and a wonderful vigour in the way their wooden arms strain at the sweeps. You can almost hear the yell of the steersman and the crack of his whip. Then there are dolls baking, kneading, butchering; and a wooden bullock with

CRICKET.

Gentlemen v. Players.

For the second Gentlemen v. Players match, commenced on the 6th yesterday, the Surrey authorities expected great difficulty in getting together anything like representative eleven, and at the last moment had to secure the services of Holland and R. A. Sheppard, who play only occasionally in the county team. Interest in the game has considerably lessened on this account, and the enjoyment in the opening day's play was largely spoiled by the dull weather. So had was the light, heavy banks of fog hanging over the ground, that cricket was out of the question until after an early lunch.

For their excellent start, the Professionals were mainly indebted to Hayward, who was in all the while play lasted, stumps being drawn on his dismissal. Bowley helped the Surrey crack to score 55 in forty minutes for the first wicket, and after Ranjitsingh had caught Hayes brilliantly at mid-off, the second wicket falling at 70. Quicke stayed while 119 were added in an hour and a half. The Warwickshire professional played in his usual finished style, and was out directly after Hayward had completed his hundred out of 134. Following the tea interval, Holland and Hayward hit up 64 in thirty-three minutes, and then, with Liller in, Hayward, who when 124 had been missed at long-off by E. A. Beldam, scored at a tremendous pace. He raised his score from a hundred to 150 in forty minutes, and at one time actually made 55 out of 27 in twelve minutes. Three hundred went up before six o'clock, the last hundred having occupied only forty minutes. Hayward frequently jumped out to drive, and three times hit the ball into the pavilion. He played more slowly when entering his two hundred, which he completed in three hours forty minutes, the total then being 300. In the last over of the day he was dismissed for a grand innings of 203, married by only the one chance, which was from a hard drive. He hit freely all round the wicket, his chief strokes being twenty-three 4s, eleven 5s, and twelve 6s. Present score:—

WEDDINGS.

CAPTAIN SINCLAIR AND LADY MARJORIE GORDON.

There was a great assembly at St. Mary's, Kensington, yesterday, to witness the marriage of Lady Marjorie Gordon, daughter of the Earl of Aberdeen, and Captain Sinclair, M.P. The ceremony was performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of Peterborough, the Rev. T. G. Gardiner, and Canon Penefather, Vicar of Kensington. Mr. David Erskine, of Linnlathen, who was with the bridegroom on Lord Aberdeen's staff while he was Governor-General of Canada, acted as best man. The bride was given away by her father, and wore an ivory silk gown, draped with beautiful Brussels lace, worn by Lady Aberdeen at her own wedding, carried down the side and round the foot of the skirt, which was further ornamented by sprays of silver embroidery, in design of ivy leaf and broom, the badges of the Gordons and Sinclairs. On the bodice the lace was arranged as a fichu, a spray of the embroidery being introduced in front. The Brussels lace veil fell over a tiara of real orange blossoms, and a diamond necklace and other ornaments were worn. The bridesmaids and other ornaments were worn. The bridesmaids were: The Hon. Stella Ridley, the Hon. Jean Bruce, the Hon. Grisell Scott, and Miss Mary Lindsay, the bride's cousins; Miss Dorothy Sinclair, cousin of the bridegroom; Lady Hermione Graham, Miss Linda Oppenheim, and Miss Elise Sandeman, and three children—who acted as train-bearers—Miss Erica Wardlaw Ramsay, the bride's godchild, Miss Isabel Marjoribanks, and the Hon. Victoria Bruce. They were picturesquely attired in early Victorian costumes, carried out in white lace silk, made with full gathered skirts, and pointed bodices, finished with chiffon and lace yokes and berthes, and short puff sleeves. Long blue chiffon scarves were thrown over the shoulders, and instead of hats they wore wreaths of Malmaison carnations and tulle veils. The bridegroom gave the bridesmaids bouquets of broom and ivy foliage, and blue enamel pendants, set with sapphires. The guests were afterwards received by the Earl and Countess of Aberdeen at Brook House, Park Lane, lent by Lord and Lady Tweedmouth, uncle and aunt of the bride, Lady Aberdeen wearing a sapphire-blue silk gown, trimmed with Irish lace, presented by the lace workers at Kinsale, Ireland, and a smart toque to correspond. Later in the afternoon the bride and bridegroom left for Gwydyr Castle, Wales, lent by Earl and Countess Carrington, the bride wearing a white silk eolienne dress, trimmed with Irish crochet and Louis XVI. bows of white silk, matching the waistband, and a picture bonnet to harmonise.

BARNE—ORR-EWING.

At the Guards' Chapel, Wellington Barracks, yesterday, Captain Miles Barne, Scots Guards, was married to Miss Violet Ella Orr-Ewing, daughter of Sir Archibald Orr-Ewing. The chapel was beautifully decorated with palms and white flowers, and lined with non-commissioned officers and men of the bridegroom's regiment. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lord Victor Seymour, uncle of the bridegroom, assisted by the Rev. C. Peacock, chaplain of the Guards' Chapel. Captain the Hon. Hugh Fraser supported his brother officer as best man. The bride was given away by her father, and wore an ivory satin gown veiled in mousseline de soie, and draped with Honiton lace, and a tulle veil falling over a tiara of orange blossoms. There was a long procession of nine bridesmaids, wearing cream crepe de Chine gowns, inserted with guipure, and cream lace picture hats with garniture of pink roses. The bridegroom gave them bouquets of La France roses, with foliage, and gold and turquoise bracelets. The reception held by Lady Orr-Ewing, after the ceremony, at 7, Hereford Gardens, was largely attended, and subsequently the newly-married couple left for Fawley Hall, lent by Sir Charles and Lady Knightley.

PIGOTT—SPILLER.

At St. Peter's Church, Eaton Square, yesterday afternoon, Mr. A. W. Pigott, His Majesty's judge in the Sultan's dominions, was married to Miss Spiller, daughter of Major Harvey Spiller, J.P. The ceremony was performed by the Vicar of St. Peter's, and Mr. Walter Bowring acted as best man. The bride was given away by her father, and wore a white ninon dress embroidered in silk empire wreaths of orange blossoms and silken bows, with a silver tissue train veiled in stripes of satin and tulle. The Brussels lace veil, which had been worn by the bridegroom's mother and grandmother, fell over a wreath of orange blossoms, and the train was carried by Masters Jack Crawshaw and Miles Backwood, wearing blue satin suits with lace ruffles, and diamond and pearl scarf pins, the gifts of the bride. There were four bridesmaids, attired in white voile gowns with pale blue fichus, and Leghorn hats trimmed with pink roses and blue ribbon.

THE PROPOSED REMOVAL OF CHARING CROSS STATION.

At yesterday's meeting of the London County Council Mr. Greenwood moved: "That, having regard to the necessity for providing additional traffic facilities in London, and to the importance of linking up the Council's northern and southern tramway systems, it be referred to the Improvements Committee to consult the Highways Committee and to report at an early date—(1) Whether the South Eastern and Chatham and Dover Railway Company are contemplating the rebuilding of Charing Cross Station and the widening of Hungerford Bridge, (2) Whether the Council can be advised to take the opportunity of submitting to Parliament a scheme for the acquisition by the Council of Charing Cross Station and Hungerford Bridge, providing the Railway Company with a site for a new terminus station on the Waterloo side of the river in place of the present terminus at Charing Cross, and erecting for general traffic a new road-bridge of sufficient width and capacity to take a double line of tramway in the centre of the roadway, so that the Council's northern and southern tramways from Aldwych to Waterloo could be linked together. (3) What saving of capital monies might be anticipated in carrying out such a scheme by the avoidance of the rebuilding of Lambeth Bridge, and of the widening of Waterloo Bridge, and in other ways, and what would be the general result to London of throwing open such an exceptionally fine access between the northern and southern parts of the county. (4) What would be the estimated gross cost of each principal portion of the scheme, the estimated recoupment by disposal of the surplus land, and the estimated net cost." Mr. Greenwood said that he understood that the Railway Company were contemplating extensive alterations to the bridge, and if the Council wished to do anything, they ought to move at once. Mr. Cornewall, who seconded the motion, said that there was no doubt the bridge was a wicked disfigurement to London. The motion was carried on a show of hands.

THE ACCIDENT TO THE DUCHESS OF ALBANY.

The Duchess of Albany is, it appears, confined to her bedroom at Claremont, Esher, as the result of a sprained knee. She was walking in the grounds of Claremont with her daughter, Princess Alexandra of Teck, and other guests, on Sunday evening, and when near the large lake, which is situated in Claremont Park in front of the Royal residence, a large sheepdog from the Claremont farm made a spring at the Duchess, knocking her down. In the fall her Royal Highness injured her knee, and when it was found that the Duchess was unable to walk a pony was harnessed to a bath-chair, and in it the Royal sufferer was conveyed to Claremont. In the meantime a local medical man was sent for by motor car, and after attending to the patient it was found that the Duchess had sprained her knee. The Duchess is making satisfactory progress from her injury, which is of a comparatively slight nature.

ORANGE CELEBRATIONS.

The anniversary of the battle of the Boyne was celebrated at Belfast yesterday by a demonstration organised by the Grand Orange Lodge of the city. A procession estimated at 20,000 members of the order marched through the leading thoroughfares to Castlereagh. Vast crowds assembled along the route. The proceedings were harmonious and enthusiastic. At Castlereagh a meeting was held, over which the Grand Master, Colonel R. H. Wallace, presided. Resolutions were adopted approving of the efforts of the Premier and Mr. Chamberlain to find a solution of the tariff problem, protesting against the establishment of a Roman Catholic University in Ireland, and the policy of the Irish Executive in subordinating the interests of Unionists and Protestants to the demand of Nationalists and Roman Catholics, and demanding promotion during the present Session of Parliament of such a Redistribution Bill as would remove the excessive over-representation of Nationalist Ireland. A rival demonstration, promoted by the Independent Order of Orangemen, a body which recoiled from the parent institution because of the suspension of Mr. Thomas H. Sloan, M.P., was also held in the vicinity of the city. It was attended by Mr. Sloan and about 500 supporters.

The annual cricket match between London and Provincial actors, in aid of the Actors' Benevolent Fund and the Actors' Orphanage Fund, will take place on Friday next at Kennington Oval. There will be a public luncheon at 2 p.m., at which Mr. George Alexander will act as chairman, and Mrs. George Alexander will preside at tea.

CONTINENTAL BOURSES.

PARIS, Tuesday.—The further postponement of the Income Tax Bill and the rumour that a complete agreement had been established between the Government and several railway companies as regards the increase of the mileage, had a stimulating effect on to-day's Bourse, and, after a firm opening, all Paris stock displayed a considerable strength. French Renten and railway shares were in request, and international stocks experienced a general rise. Spanish railway shares recovered. Among traction descriptions, Metropolitan shares proved good support, while Thomson Houston remained dull. Russian shares and Rio Tinto shares were calm. There were few transactions in South African gold shares, and a heavy tendency prevailed in this department.

AMERICAN MARKETS.

(THROUGH SEUTER'S AGENCY.)

NEW YORK, Tuesday.—Fractional advances took place early on to-day's Stock Market, then, on profit-taking, values receded, but the marking up of Reading shares checked the sagging tendency. Coincident with the rise in Reading, the old rumour was revived that it would be put on a dividend basis through the retirement of the second preferred. Shares were driven to cover stocks after the weekly Government crop report was issued showing a deterioration in four States. Minor stocks were prominent in dealings, and subsequently prices advanced on active dealings, and prominent stocks were a large fraction to 14 up. The closing was active and strong at the top figures. Government bonds steady, railroad bonds irregular. London bought 10,000 shares. The day's sales total 88,000 shares, including Reading shares 98,000. Atchafon common advanced 1 1/2. Atchafon preferred, Baltimore preferred, New Jersey, Great Western debentures and "A," Denver preferred, Erie first preferred, Missouri Kansas second, Southern common and preferred, Amalgamated Copper, and Steel common 1/4. Baltimore common, Milwaukee preferred, Norfolk common, and Southern Pacific 1/4. Canadian Pacific and Pennsylvania 1 1/4. Chesapeake common and New York City 1/4. Great Western "B" 1/4. North Western ordinary 2 1/4. North Western preferred 1 1/4. Milwaukee common 1 1/4. Cleveland Central, and Steel preferred 1/4. Erie common, Manhattan Elevated, Wash. preferred, and Steel bonds 1/4. Louisville, Missouri Pacific, and Wash. common 7/8. Reading shares and Union Pacific common 1 1/4. and Northern Securities 1/4. Kansas City Three declined 1/4. and Norfolk preferred and Amalgamated Copper 1/4. A report was circulated generally in Wall Street that the United States Steel Corporation's quarterly earnings total 12,250,000, compared with 36,642,000 last year. Money on call easy at yesterday's rates, with the bid loan at 1 per cent. and ruling rate 1 1/4 per cent. Sterling Exchange easy, unchanged to 5 points down. Silver commercial bars 1 1/2 down. The Central of New Jersey Railroad has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. Last week's exports of merchandise from New York amount in value to 7,500,000, as against 7,300,000 in the corresponding week last year.

HEAVY SENTENCE FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

At Durham Assizes yesterday, before Mr. Justice Grantham, Robert John Allen, aged twenty, a mason's apprentice, was indicted for the murder of his employer, Mr. Charles Rowes, a monumental mason and Town Councillor, at Durham on the 9th inst. The prisoner pleaded not guilty.

Counsel, in opening the case, said complaint was made against the prisoner on July 2nd that he had not worked his full time that week. The following Saturday he was again an hour and a half short, and he was made to stay behind after the other apprentices and workmen had gone, and work up short time. About half-past one the same afternoon he was left alone in the works, and half an hour later Mr. Rowes was seen outside the works in perfect health. He went inside, and soon after the prisoner was seen to leave the works and run down the street. About three o'clock a servant girl, on going into the lower workshop, saw blood trickling from the room above and heard moans. She brought help, and Mr. Rowes was found unconscious. He died the same evening.

Sergeant Grosert, of the Durham Police, produced the following statement made by the prisoner:—

At two o'clock I went up for my money. He refused to give it to me. I asked him what for, and he said you have an hour and a half to work up. I said no I have an hour. He looked at the register and he found that I had an hour. He gave me my wages and threatened he would have me looked up. I said you cannot. He came out of the office.

will the Malacca be taken through the Dardanelles? As a prize manned by men of the Imperial Russian navy it is a belligerent vessel, and thus excluded from the Straits. The crew cannot resume their old character of merchant seamen without asking the Porte to connive at an act of piracy. In these circumstances the statement of the Russian Foreign Office reads very much as if it were intended to convey that Russia does not intend any longer to observe her obligations under the Treaty of London. As a matter of fact, however, we have no reason to allow the question at issue to drift into this direction at all. Our concern is not with the case it is proposed to submit to the Sevastopol Prize Court, but solely with the right of the so-called Russian cruiser Petersburg to lay violent hands on a neutral vessel under any circumstances whatever. This question ought to be settled before the Malacca reaches the Dardanelles—before, indeed, it passes Port Said. If, meanwhile, the Russian Government does not see the wisdom of disavowing the action of the Petersburg and ordering the restitution of the vessel, we can have no alternative—consonant with our national self-respect—than to require the crew in possession Exchequer that though those and many other reforms of the income tax are desirable, after all the best reform is a reduction in the amount of the tax. That can only be secured by reduced public expenditure.

WANTED—A DRASTIC INQUIRY.

For the second time in a period of eighteen months the asylums administration of the London County Council has been brought unfavourably to the public notice. The disaster at Colney Hatch last year, in which fifty-one lives were lost, and which drew severe censure from the coroner's jury, has not yet faded from the general recollection. The Horton Asylum scandal, revealed in the trial which concluded at the Guildford Assizes yesterday, though fortunately less appalling in its consequences, testifies equally to gross mismanagement. The strictures of the jury were well deserved, and it is to be hoped that the matter will not be allowed to rest without stringent inquiry. The whole conduct of the asylum should be thoroughly probed, no matter who may be found to suffer. If the London County Council has any regard for its reputation it will not hesitate to bring to a prompt and

LIVERPOOL RACES.

THE EFFECTS OF THE HEAT.

One is getting almost tired of writing that hard ground is for the moment spoiling the sport of racing, but there is no blinking the fact, and at Liverpool yesterday a sort of climax was reached when only thirty horses turned out for seven events. The first three races on the card only attracted seven runners between them, and the biggest field was only eight strong. This was a great pity, as the class was first-rate in a majority of the events, and the prizes well worth winning. Many of the intended runners were sent home without being allowed to compete, and magnificent as the weather has been of late from an ordinary point of view, its effects upon racing and training are most disastrous.

The Riverside Plate had only secured three entries, and one of them declined the contest. Odds of 2 to 1 were laid on Morris Dancer, who, in Lynham's hands, beat Pindar, ridden by Lane, by a length and a half.

Then came the Seaforth Welter, for which only Decave and Caro turned out. The first-named carried the odds, and though Caro for long enough looked like winning, he curled up when collared, and the odds were again landed, Lynham being once more the successful jockey.

The three who contested the Southport Stakes were all of some account, and odds were laid on Petit Bleu, who had won the Kingston Plate at Sandown on Friday last, but she stumbled badly when close at home, letting up Lady Honora, who, it will be remembered, had come in first for a race at Epsom last week, and was well liked in favour of is, he has incurred a penalty, but even now he is sure to run well if he is sent to the post.

The Knowsley Dinner Stakes was the last event on the card, and Andover had to give 7lb. to Grey Goblin—who won the Liverpool Spring Cup—and 17lb. to Sertorius. Odds of 13 to 8 were laid on Mr. Alexander's colt, and he won easily by a length from Sertorius, this being the third valuable prize he has taken since he ran fourth for the Derby.

WEDDINGS.

LOWRY-CORRY-O'BRIEN.

The Guards' Chapel, Wellington Barracks, was crowded yesterday to witness the marriage of Major Noel Armar Lowry-Corry, D.S.O., Grenadier Guards, nephew of the late Lord Rowton, and the Hon. Clara O'Brien, daughter of Ellen, Lady Inchiquin, and the late Lord Inchiquin, and eldest sister of the present peer. A number of non-commissioned officers and men of the Grenadier Guards lined the aisle, and the band of the Grenadier Guards played several pieces of music. The nuptial ceremony was conducted by the Sub-Dean of the Chapel Royal (the Rev. Edgar Sheppard, D.D.), assisted by the Rev. C. Peacock, chaplain to the Guards' Chapel, and the Rev. E. Ham, Rector of Oxford, Surrey. The bride was given away by Lord Inchiquin, and Major Whyte, Grenadier Guards, brother-officer of the bridegroom, was best man. There were neither bridesmaids nor pages. The Hon. Clara O'Brien was married in a gown of white silk tulle, embroidered in raised white silk, and full Court train, and lace veil, over a tiara of orange blossoms. Her ornaments were a string of pearls, a pearl and diamond brooch—an old family possession, given by the bridegroom, and originally presented to the late Lady Charlotte Lytton, her aunt, by the late Marie, Empress of Russia—and she carried a choice bridal bouquet of rare exotics, tied with white satin streamer. The reception held by Ellen, Lady Inchiquin, at 23, Lennox Gardens, N.W., was very largely attended.

CONGREVE-PONSONBY.

St. James's Church, Piccadilly, yesterday saw a large assembly at the marriage of Mr. John Congreve, Mount Congreve, Waterford, and the Hon. Helena Blanche Irene Ponsonby, daughter of Viscount Duncannon. The ceremony was conducted by Bishop Welldon (Canon of Westminster), assisted by the Rev. W. Page Roberts, Canon Residentiary of Canterbury, and the Rev. Canon McCormick, Rector of St. James's, Piccadilly. Viscount Duncannon gave his daughter away, and the Hon. H. E. Dillon (only son of Lord Clonsbrook) acted as best man. There were six bridesmaids—The Hon. Gwendolyn Frides Ponsonby, Miss Elton Congreve, Miss Violet Congreve, Miss Mary Alderson, Miss Evelyn Gore, Miss Oppenheim, and two children, the Hon. Ivy Somerset and Miss Barbara Murray, who wore "picture" gowns, after Hoggart, in fleur de peche linen de sole and satin waistbelts, shading into pink with a black velvet ribbon arranged as a true lover's knot round neck, and hats of pink soft satin, "picture" style, the children wearing mob chiffon caps. The Hon. Helena Ponsonby selected a robe of white crepe de chine, ornamented with lace, and full Court train, also adorned with lace, and lace veil over a wreath of orange blossoms. The reception held by Viscountess Duncannon at 17, Cavendish Square, was very largely attended, among those invited being Princess Louise of Schleswig-Holstein, and the presents included from Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein a moonstone ring set with diamonds.

BRANDON-APFEL.

There was a large assembly yesterday at the Lauderdale Road Synagogue, Maida Vale, to witness the marriage of Mr. Jocelyn Brandon, L.C.C., son of the late Mr. Gabriel Brandon, of Oakbrook, Ravenscourt Park, and Miss Sara Apfel, daughter of Mr. S. H. Apfel, Valence, Randolph Road, Maida Vale. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. J. Piperno, assisted by the Rev. S. Congay. Mr. Henry Apfel (brother of the bride) gave her away, and Mr. Edgar M. Brandon, of Esher (brother of the bridegroom), was best man. There were four bridesmaids, Miss Sibelle Brandon, Miss Julia Gluckstein, Miss Ray Jacobs, and Miss Mariel Lesson, who wore dresses (the older) of pale blue crepe de Chine, and the younger in fine French muslin, over glacé silk slips, trimmed with Valenciennes lace insertion, and all had headpieces of tiny rosebuds, forming a wreath, the bridegroom's presents to these being true lovers' knots brooches, set with pearls, and attached by a gold and pearl chain. Master Leslie Apfel, nephew of the bride, acted as page in a King Charles suit of white satin. Miss Apfel was in a "robe" of ivory crepe de Chine, and full round shoulders of Branch applique lace, and full Court train of ivory satin brocade, and lace veil over a coronet of orange-blossoms. Her ornaments were a diamond pendant in the shape of a bird flying, with large pearl and diamond drop. The reception held by Mr. Apfel at the Trocadero was very largely attended, among those invited being the Right Hon. Lord Athlone, Sir William and Lady Richmond, Sir Edward and Lady Sassoon, and many members of the London County Council.

FATAL RIOT.

Between forty and fifty navvies engaged on the Bafrow water supply works at Southwale, Lancashire, after being refused drink at a local hotel on Monday, attacked the building. Three of them received shot wounds. The hotel was almost wrecked. Southwale Church and Vicarage were also damaged. One of the navvies, named Kavanagh, died yesterday afternoon from his injuries. Another, named Kincella, received several shots in the abdomen, but his condition is not serious. The third man is injured about the legs, body, and arms. All belong to Milnes. The navvies had up to Monday behaved quietly, and not a single policeman was stationed at Southwale.

the village of Ho-téa-tung on the east, concentrating the main body towards Tsé-sha-pou, and keeping his cavalry on the left flank, near the railway line. The advance was effected rather slowly, and at intervals was accompanied by a heavy fire from thirty guns, which was successfully answered by our rearguard batteries.

"The fire of the Japanese batteries was at first directed at the heights of Matheusacuitas and Yaocintan, which were gradually evacuated by our outposts.

"Our sharpshooters with the rearguard opened fire, from a position between Chou-tain-din-tai and Po-tai-tai, on the advancing Japanese infantry. At a favourable moment Colonel Leach withdrew our rearguard to a new position at Ta-chau, and our batteries, which had several times changed their position, continued the duel with the enemy's artillery, also firing into the columns of infantry on the Tai-er-kau side.

"About 9.30 a.m. a forward movement was begun, at first by three battalions, from the valley of the Tai-cho-shai, towards Yan-di-tung, Kou-yak, Pan-di-plain, and Men-tai-tung. In this direction our forces occupied a fortified advance position at Te-fen-chai and Nin-dai-ling, and to keep in touch with the troops in the north, also occupied a position to the north of Chan-jai-tai. In the course of the fight the Japanese developed as much as a brigade of infantry towards Men-tai-tung, and also sent a regiment up the River Tai-cho-shai, across the Chao-bo-pa, in the direction of Taur-chi.

"Towards three o'clock in the afternoon the enemy had upwards of a division of infantry between Mentaiatang and the Chao-ho-ka. At the same moment columns of considerable strength, amounting to a brigade of infantry, appeared to the west of the railway line. About four o'clock the enemy ceased their advance, and expended their main body towards Makhountseutia. The advance also ceased from the south and east, on the line from Tantschi to Men-tai-tung.

"Towards the evening of the 23rd our troops, having left detachments to hold the fortified positions, advanced in the various positions assigned to them, with a view to a possible rear-guard engagement.

"Our losses have not been definitely ascertained, but, according to advices to hand, they were not considerable. Owing to the extreme heat, there were a number of cases of sunstroke among our men."

"At nightfall our advanced posts reoccupied Touchi, to the south-east. The night passed quietly.

"At five o'clock on the morning of July 24th, an exchange of shots began between our outposts and the enemy's in the vicinity of Tausbi. All is quiet on the Kai-chau side. There is no further news.

¹⁴ On July 21st the Japanese occupied a height facing the pass of Pangling on the east. This interfered considerably with our observation and outpost service, and consequently on the same day a small Russian force occupied the pass. On the following morning Lieut.-Colonel Dementieff, commanding our detachment, determined to occupy the southern slope of the hill, and this was done about noon.

In the afternoon the Japanese attacked us from Manboku and turned our left wing. Then, taking advantage of the formation of the country, they began to turn our right wing from Takahoko. Other companies of Lieut.-Colonel Dementieff's force hastened to the assistance of our men at the Pangling Pass, whither several companies more were also sent from the nearest points. These troops as they arrived helped to check the turning operations of the enemy, who, however, finally brought into action as much as a brigade of infantry, with which they pressed our troops and

THE ST. LOUIS EXHIBITION.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Art is triumphant in its domination of nearly all departments at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, which differs little from other colossal shows as a display of scientific, mechanical, or manufacturing triumphs, but surpasses all previous efforts of a similar kind in its wealth of decorative effect. Some fastidious critics have objected to the palatial structures in lath and plaster on the ground that they suggest plagiarism of an idea credit for which belongs to Chicago. But the architectural designs are, at any rate, original, and have the additional merit of being in harmony with a sentiment that influences life in St. Louis very strongly just now. The benefits conferred upon America by Jefferson's timely purchase of Louisiana from the French were never so keenly appreciated as they are at this time, when St. Louis celebrates that great event in its history with appropriate pomp. This was the inspiration that took hold of local leaders when they decided to commemorate the purchase by an exhibition, the effects of which should be more renowned and, perhaps, more permanent, than any material monument.

Sculpture in the Festival Hall.

The sentiment is symbolised in the imposing Festival Hall, which stands on an eminence flanked by handsome colonnades, in the fourteen arches of which are sculptured groups emblematic of the States that became Louisiana Territory a hundred years ago. The allegorical meaning of this composition should be plain to all minds; and it is the MARRIAGE OF LADY JANE SEYMOUR.

At Arrow Church, Alcester, Warwickshire, Major Hugh Dudley Carleton, D.S.O., of the West India Regiment, son of the late General D. A. Carleton, C.B., of Clure Co., Ireland, married Lady Jane Edith Seymour, youngest daughter of the Marquess and Marchioness of Hertford. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. R. Walker (brother-in-law of the bride), assisted by the Rev. R. W. Stannus, Rector of Arrow. The Marquess of Hertford gave his daughter away, and Major Barchard acted as best man. There were seven bridesmaids—Miss Ismay, Miss Dashwood, Miss Joan Dugdale, Miss Sheila Brinkley, Miss Wynne Ismay, Miss Daisy Ismay, and Miss Joan de Trafford, the brides wearing white crepe with lace insertion and belts of shaded carnation ribbon, and the children white accordion-pleated frocks; while all wore lace hats ornamented with carnations. The bride was married in a gown of ivory crêpe de Chine, the bodice being draped with old Brussels lace, the gift of the Marchioness of Hertford. Her tulle veil covered a tiara of orange blossoms. Her ornaments were pearls and diamonds. The reception held by the Marchioness of Hertford at Ragley Hall was very largely attended, and afterwards Major H. D. and Lady Jane E. Carleton left for Plas Teg, Wales, lent by Mr. and Mrs. Galfroid de Trafford, where they will spend the early days of their honeymoon. The going-away gown was of white with touches of pale mauve, and

IN THE LORDS.

After the important statement by Lord Lansdowne, which is fully reported elsewhere, the Marquess of LONDONDERRY moved the second reading of the Defaulting Authorities Bill. He explained that the Bill was an exceptional measure to deal with an exceptional situation. A brief debate followed, in which several peers took part. Among the speakers was the Archbishop of CANTERBURY, who protested against the Bill being described as a coercion Bill. The Bishop of ST. DAVID'S also supported the Bill, but said that he regretted its necessity, and hoped that it might never be necessary to put it into force. The Marquess of RIPON opposed the Bill, and said that it would only increase the difficulties of the present situation by making compromise impossible. The Bill was then read a second time without a division.

The Duke of MARLBOROUGH then announced, in reply to a question from Earl Grey, that the Transvaal Government would for the future be permitted to buy stores locally, instead of being compelled always to buy through the Crown Agents.

Earl GREY next moved for a return showing the cost of each British Colony to the Exchequer of the United Kingdom for each year since 1853. The Duke of MARLBOROUGH, in reply, said that the Government would be prepared to grant the return.

IN THE COMMONS.

THE APPROACHING END.

RELEASE OF LIEUTENANT WITTON.

Lieutenant Witton was released from Portland Prison at half-past two yesterday afternoon. He was met by the Hon. James Logan, a member of the Legislative Assembly of Cape Colony.

A representative of the Central News had a brief interview with Lieutenant Witton in London last evening. "Other people," he said, "may have what opinion they like as to the justice of my punishment, but for myself I have no complaint to make against the Government or anybody else. They saw fit to give me this punishment, and I have suffered it. I am very thankful to be free once more, and am looking forward to my dinner." He added, "Mr. Logan is taking me to Scotland to-night for some grouse shooting, and after that I am going back to Australia to see my mother, sisters, and brothers. Since I have been in prison—within the last month—I have lost my father. That has been a great blow to me. When I heard from my brother that my father was very ill I petitioned the Home Office to be allowed to go to see him, but, of course, they could not allow that. Beyond this I have nothing to complain about my treatment at Portland. I asked no privileges, and worked like any other convict. I'm afraid I look like one now," he said, laughing again.

"What are you going to do when you get back to Australia?" was asked.

"Well, I think I have had enough of soldiering, and shall enter civil life. My home is at Victoria, where I was a member of the Royal Australian Artillery when the war broke out."

This led Lieutenant Witton to give a brief recapitulation of the facts which led to his conviction. "At

THE NAVAL MANŒUVRES, SKIRMISHING IN THE IRISH SEA.

A Milford Haven correspondent telegraphs:—The St. George's Channel and the Irish Sea were swept on Wednesday night by the "Red" flotilla of gunboats and torpedo-boats, while three or four submarines went out from Milford. Touch with the enemy was only obtained by one flotilla, and that not until daylight, when an attack was dangerous. A "Blue" flotilla sighted a flotilla of seven "Red" torpedo-boats off St. David's Head about daylight and gave chase. The torpedo-boats scattered, and a gunboat chased one right up to the entrance to Milford Haven, but the torpedo-boat escaped by passing behind Ramsey Island and through Jack's Sound. Another "Red" torpedo-boat, on finding escape from a "Blue" pursuing gunboat impossible, suddenly turned, steamed full speed towards the pursuer, firing a torpedo when within five hundred yards. She claims to have torpedoed the gunboat.

The umpires have allowed the "Red" claims for the Thorn, Contest, and Charger, and one other destroyer in respect of the action off Milford Haven on Monday night and Tuesday morning, but have put the "Red" gunboat Scorpion out of action. Some claims made by submarines in the same action are still sub judice. Yesterday the "Blue" gunboats and destroyers showed much activity. It is anticipated that the "Blue" fleet is about to put to sea again, but their movements can only be conjectured.

...in his efforts to reform the Ottoman Empire, and to place it, in regard to political organisation, on the same level with the other great Constitutional States of Western Europe. It is a mistake to imagine that his reforms were unsuitable to Turkey. The Parliament he established did very good work while it lasted, and attracted the sympathetic co-operation of some of the best minds among the Turks. So far from popular government being repugnant to Mohammedans, it was precisely the Mohammedan members who most distinguished themselves in the debates and in the practical work of the various Parliamentary Commissions. It is probable that had Murad kept his throne he would have done for Turkey what the Mikado has done for Japan at the other extremity of Asia. Of course, a revolution of this kind must arouse bitter resistance, for it threatens too many vested interests to be allowed to pass uncontested. Perhaps in this fact we may find an explanation of the opportune discovery made in August, 1876, that the reforming Sultan was mad. At any rate, the theory of his madness has always been open to grave suspicion. No steps were ever taken to establish it by medical testimony, and it is a significant coincidence that the whole party of Reaction profited by it.

King Edward, accompanied by Captain Ponsonby and the British Chaplain, left Marienbad by motor car at ten o'clock yesterday morning for a day's partridge shooting over Prince Trautmannsdorff's extensive preserves at Bischoff-Steinitz, forty-two miles distant. Some splendid sport, says Reuter, was enjoyed, the bag for five guns amounting to 380 brace of partridges and a large number of pheasants and hares. The King, who shot exceedingly well and thoroughly enjoyed the sport, returned to the Hotel Weimar at seven o'clock. His Majesty will leave Marienbad on Friday afternoon, and will arrive in London on Saturday evening.

THE QUEEN'S RETURN.

The Queen has postponed her journey South until Friday next, when, accompanied by Princess Victoria, she will leave Mar Lodge and travel by special train to London, leaving Ballater about 8 p.m. Her Majesty, accompanied by Princess Victoria, and attended by Miss Knollys and Lord Knollys, yesterday drove through Braemar in an open carriage drawn by four greys and preceded by two outriders, to visit Balmoral. The return journey to Mar Lodge was made late in the evening.

EX-PRESIDENT STEYN.

It is stated in Berlin, says Laffan, that ex-President Steyn and his wife have received permission from the British Government to return to South Africa in December. They will occupy a farm near Bloemfontein.

THE CAB TROUBLE. A COMPLETE LOCK-OUT.

The ranks of the lock-out cabmen received a considerable addition yesterday. Many of the privileged railway drivers came into the Union. Three large South London Association proprietors conceded the men's demands yesterday morning.

The Union officials asserted yesterday that the lock-out was gaining in strength all along the line, and that the masters recognised that the men were determined, and that they themselves must give way. So far the districts in which victory has been achieved are South London, Kilburn, and Paddington. Several of the largest proprietors in London had cabs out yesterday, and this was taken as an indication that the resolution adopted by the proprietors' Federation on Monday had had no effect on the members. During Monday from twelve to fourteen thousand men joined the Cabdrivers' Union, and a special general meeting of drivers was summoned for last night at Clerkenwell, to hear the position clearly defined by Mr. Sam Michaels, the president. The lock-out fund is increasing, the whole of the 700 sheets comprising six shilling tickets being disposed of, the lock-out fund for the first day thus totalling £210.

At a meeting of the London Cab Proprietors' Federation yesterday it was decided not to accept the terms offered by the men, and delegates were appointed to visit the smaller proprietors with a view to enlisting their support in declining the demands of the drivers. A complete lock-out has thus been brought about.

Mr. Hill, the secretary of the Drivers' Union, declared, however, that the strike would not last very long, as the proprietors were bound to give way when they found their cabs remaining in the yards idle.

orange blossoms, and the toilet was completed by a pearl and diamond necklace, the gift of the bridegroom, and a sheaf of white lilies, tied with white satin streamers.

There were twelve bridesmaids—six grown-up, Lady Helen Gordon-Lennox (the bride's sister), Miss Frances Beckwith (the bridegroom's sister), Miss Eva and Miss Cynthia Sandford (the bride's cousins), the Hon. Evelyn Loch, the Hon. Alexandra Vivian, Miss Amy Ricardo, Miss Vere Dawney; and four little nieces of the bride, the Ladies Amy and Doris Gordon-Lennox, and Miss Sylvia and Miss Cicely Cotterell. The elder bridesmaids looked most picturesque in Romney dresses, carried out in white silk, with chiffon fichus, edged lightly with pale blue, fastened with a bunch of forget-me-nots, matching the silk sash, which was swathed round the waist, and hung in frayed-out ends at the back, knotted together twice. The children's frocks were of the same period, but simpler, being made of white muslin over silk. All wore white picture lace and crinoline hats, with wreaths of forget-me-nots, combined with ivy and white heather—the heather and ivy representing the badge of the bride's clan. The bridegroom gave the bridesmaids bouquets of La France roses and lily of the valley, and gold curb chain bangles, with initials in pearls and turquoises.

After the ceremony Lady Caroline Gordon-Lennox received a large number of guests at her residence in Wilton Crescent, and subsequently the bride and bridegroom left for Molecomb, Chichester, the bride wearing an ivory cloth dress and coat, trimmed with pale blue velvet, and a small white "Marie Stuart" hat, with garniture of shaded blue plumes.

ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION.THE OPENING CEREMONIAL.*A RECORD WORLD'S FAIR.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

ST. LOUIS, Saturday.

Amid the ringing of bells, the crash of massed bands, and the inspiring strains of the "Star-spangled Banner," sung by a thousand voices, mingled with the cheers of the crowd, the St. Louis Purchase Exposition was to-day formally declared open in the presence of 200,000 people, and it will remain open daily for seven months, except on Sundays.

The weather was perfect, a pleasant breeze tempering a warm sun. The inaugural ceremony itself was of a simple character, consisting largely of formal addresses, interspersed with music. Several addresses had not been completed by noon, the hour fixed for the opening of the Exposition by President Roosevelt at the White House by means of a telegraphic key. A quarter of an hour's grace was given, and then the St. Louis authorities, in order not to encroach on the President's time, notified curiosity to see the reproductions of the furniture of the Queen Anne period. The British exhibit of painting, sculpture, and terracotta work came in for a full share of commendation. The feature of Canada's exhibit is the examples which it furnishes of the Dominion's resources in forests and minerals, including nickel, corundum, iron, peat, and asbestos. New Zealand has a fine display of her natural resources. Japan's exhibit palace contains a comprehensive display, arranged with the true Asiatic skill and appreciation of the people of that country. The German exhibit is in good shape, but there is still much to be done. The building is a partial reproduction of the Palace at Charlottenburg, with examples of precious old furniture and Gobelin tapestries, and some beautiful silver, the property of the Emperor William. The French exhibit is far from complete, but already shows some fine wood carving and sculptures. The notable garden and national pavilion of Italy appear to be a bit of landscape and architecture transported bodily from the shores of the Mediterranean.

Splendid as was the scene when the Exposition unfolded itself in the morning, the most gorgeous spectacle was saved for the night, when electricity outlined the buildings and cascades with lines of fire.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

NEWMARKET MEETING.

A RUNAWAY HORSE.

From a racing point of view there was a big collapse at Newmarket yesterday, the sport turning out to be dull and uninteresting. Fields were small, too, and class anything but conspicuous, but a saving clause can be found in the fact that a good many favourites won, and thus backers had a fair day. The weather was dull, cheerless, and cold, but no rain fell while racing was on, though there were indications that it was not far off.

Quite a good-looking lot of horses were stripped for the Brinkley Plate, on the last mile and a half of the Cesarewitch course, and Firmilian was quite the swell of the party, but he had 9st. 4lb. to carry, and is not ready yet. Curiously enough, only three of the twelve were backed, there being quite a furore for the Irish horse, Roe O'Neill, who is trained by Mr. Gilpin. He was reported to have won a good trial, and less than 2 to 1 was accepted, while Orbel and Pure Gold stood at short prices also, long odds being offered bar three. Pure Gold had won over a long course at Sandown last week, and Orbel had beaten Parody over this course on Tuesday. Both were penalised 7lb., and if Pure Gold made running he lost his place long before the bushes were reached, and Orbel was not far behind.

LORD INGESTRE AND MISS WINIFRED PAGET, MARRIED AT ST. PETER'S, EATON SQUARE.

MARRIAGE OF LORD INGESTRE.

A LADY DOCTOR FOR THE WAR.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE."OP O' ME THUMB."

The reception awarded the "Op o' me Thumb" of Messrs. Frederick Fenn and Richard Pryce, on its production by the Stage Society at the Court Theatre on the 14th of March, was so warm that the possession of no great courage was implied in predicting its speedy transference to the boards of a regular theatre. More than one house has been named as the scene of its anticipated reappearance. By a curious freak of fortune it has been employed to strengthen the piece of the same authors which it might well have been the means of recommending to the management of the St. James's. The reception of "Saturday to Monday" by the first night's public was scarcely cordial, and though subsequent audiences have sought with some success to make amends for the churlishness of their predecessors, an impression of want of interest in the entertainment which it is desirable to dispel was created. To get rid of this two measures have been adopted, of which the revival of "Op o' me Thumb" is one. In this clever and touching piece, showing the dreamland in which dwells a poor little plain-featured blanchisseuse, an object of good-natured derision to her companions, some of the original cast are retained. Miss Trevelyan, without whose aid a revival of the work is scarcely to be conceived, reappears as the heroine Amanda Afflick, and gives pathetic significance to the ambitions and distresses of the little waif who strives to pose as a bright particular star, compelled for a while to see her light hidden behind black usurping mists. Her performance was once more admirable, and was received by the public with renewed enthusiasm. Mr. Nye Chart also repeated his clever and life-like impersonation of Horace Greensmith, the bold and good-hearted costermonger, the hero of her imaginary romance. Thus supported, the ingenious trifle, which improves upon acquaintance, adds distinctly to the attractions of the bill.

MILITARY RIOT AT SOUTHAMPTON.

An extraordinary military riot took place at Southampton, according to a Press Association correspondent, about midnight on Friday. In the earlier hours of the evening several members of the 2nd Cheshire Regiment, who were to have embarked on the troopship Assaye for India on Saturday morning, were taken into custody by the local police for various minor offences. Their temporary incarceration appears to have roused the wrath of their comrades, who, at midnight, broke out of barracks, smashed the windows of the dock police lodge and Customs House, and, scaling the high dock gates, surged up to the town, shouting as they went, and committing further damage in Orchard Lane. They were met eventually by a force of the town police, who had been telephoned for by the dock police. The town police drew their truncheons, and after a scuffle, in the course of which several of the riotous soldiers were injured, the malcontents were driven back to the barracks, where the ringleaders were placed under arrest. The rioters were mostly recruits. In the early hours of Saturday morning a military picket scoured the vicinity, but no further incident occurred. It is understood that about sixteen of the offenders have been placed under arrest on the troopship.

At Southampton Police-court on Saturday two privates of the Cheshires were each fined ten shillings and costs for disturbing the peace, and another was similarly dealt with for using obscene language.

THE FIRST DUTY OF EMPIRE.

COLONIAL REMISSNESS.

The reasons why the Colonies should contribute to the up-keep of the British Navy, and the reasons why they do not, and why they think that they should not, were very clearly stated by Mr. H. F. Wyatt in a paper read last night at a meeting of the members of the Colonial Institute, over which Admiral Sir N. Bowden Smith presided. The reasons why a Navy which protects the whole of an Empire, which binds it together, and which is responsible for the safety of the commerce and territorial integrity of every component of it, have been so often stated that there is no need to repeat Mr. Wyatt's able and concise summary of them. His statement of the adverse Colonial case and opinion is less well known, and was put by him in very convenient tabular form. In all the Colonies, he said, the first objection was that in contributing to the Mother Country's budget—albeit for naval purposes—they were violating the principle of taxation without representation, since they had no voice in the councils of Great Britain. In the second place, they needed all their resources for internal development; and this internal development of the Empire they regarded as the first duty of the Empire's upkeep and expenditure. It was believed that in any case, since the Empire was borne chiefly in British merchant ships, the Colonies were peopled

LAWSON TELLS THE STORY OF HIS CAREER.

THE SOLICITOR-GENERAL'S TEMPTATION.

Yesterday was the eighteenth day of the trial of the Hooley-Lawson case at the Old Bailey, before Mr. Justice Lawrence.

Mr. Rufus Isaacs, K.C., continued his address to the jury in defence of Hooley, and dealt with the Hotel Cecil dinner as it affected his client. Six of the eighteen counts affecting Hooley upon this matter had been abandoned, so that his task, said, had been considerably lightened. Much depended upon Hooley's knowledge that the statements in Sir Kenneth Mackenzie's speech were true, even if there was a tittle of evidence, which he utterly denied, that he was in any way a party to the circulation of the speech. As to the statements of Paine, they went to show that his mind was not in any way influenced by what was stated in the speech. Hooley's first knowledge of the matter was when he read it in a financial newspaper coming up from Cambridge. Paine himself read the speech in the same paper. The Treasury were straining rather hard for a conviction of the facts which had been elicited, and

A WHITBY HERO.

All England has probably heard of the gallantry of Henry Freeman, ex-coxswain of the Whitby lifeboat, who has just died within a few months of attaining his seventieth birthday. How many lives he has helped to save during his long connection with the Lifeboat Institution it is impossible to state with accuracy, but the number must run into many hundreds. His most conspicuous display of heroism was during the awful storm of February, 1861, when the north-east coast of England was strewn with wrecks. The Whitby lifeboat was launched of the Diet which is at stake, but the moral authority of Parliament itself. If the minority are to be allowed a free hand, not only in ordinary debating obstruction but in acts of rowdy violence, Parliamentary institutions will have received their death-blow in Hungary. Count Tisza has perceived this, and during his recent oratorical campaign in the Comitatus of Torda he seems to have succeeded in impressing the public mind with the gravity of the peril. In Austria successful obstruction has virtually destroyed Parliamentary government. When the Reichsrath is sitting its proceedings are little better than a sterile farce, and when legislation becomes unjust Parliament has to be dismissed, and all business of State transacted by the authority of the Emperor alone. From a similar state of things Count Tisza is resolved to save Hungary. In this country, where the same problem has had to be faced and solved, the Hungarian Premier's campaign will be followed with the utmost sympathy. It would be a serious blow to the cause of popular liberty in Eastern Europe at this moment if the Hungarian Diet were to suffer the degradation which has befallen the Austrian Reichsrath.

IN THE WAKE OF WAR.

YINKOW UNDER THE JAPANESE.

BY FREDERIC WHITING.

The first touch of winter comes upon us in the midst of summer weather in the form of a dust-storm. It is accompanied by a biting north wind, which reminds us of tales we have heard of the end of a Manchurian winter. After the capture of Liao-yang the lull in the fighting gives us a chance to run down to Yinkow, or Newchwang as it is generally called, to get some winter clothing. Permission having been granted for a ten days' leave by headquarters, we obtain a pass for the railway, and at 4.30 on a cold morning we clamber up the side of an open truck to make our eighty-mile journey to Yinkow. Two British correspondents, a Frenchman, a Japanese officer, who is a friend of ours and who speaks English, and two or three Japanese Tommies wrapped in cloaks and slumber, are the occupants of the car. The long train of open trucks is shunted from siding to siding and back again to the main line, and finally streams slowly out of the station. The chill morning air makes us crowd together for shelter and warmth under the sides of the truck. Ours is a returned

John Bull in appearance and manners I have never met in fact or fiction than "J. B.," as he is called by everybody in Yinkow. A young man, ruddy and clean shaven, with good-humoured grey eyes, dressed in riding breeches, and weighing about 14st., he is the type of the English merchant prince of the old East Indian Company. The junks all alongside his spacious godowns abutting on the quay bear the name of his firm, streams of men laden with all kinds of merchandise run backwards and forwards from the tramp steamer to the clanking sound of the derrick and the chanting of the Chinese coolies. The mystic fascinating East, where "John Bull's" father, a pioneer of the forties, founded the firm. At an early age "John Bull" came to England to be educated, afterwards going back to the East to take over his father's business. His beautiful house next to the offices is a mixture of a country house in England and an Eastern bungalow. His stables, which are worthy of Melton Mowbray, contain English hunters and a wonderful white Chinese pony, with bones like a Yorkshire coach horse. Numbers of Chinese mafos or grooms are responsible for the splendid condition of the animals, for the Manchu mafos understands horses like a Newmarket man. Through a big stone courtyard another smaller stable or kennel, with its quaint Chinese tiled roof, brings us to the greyhounds' quarters, and so to the saddling room, carriage houses, and gun-room. Keen in all sports from boxing to shooting, in a country which affords unbounded opportunities for outdoor pursuits, "John Bull" has a happy life. He is, however, keener and more ambitious in other affairs than he is in sport, and he hopes one day to use his great business ability in the services of his country.

WEDDINGS

ONE DAY MEETING AT NEWMARKET.

It cannot be said that steeplechasing has a strong hold on the good folk at Newmarket, and yesterday's one day meeting was productive of moderate sport, the various races attracting horses of, with two or three exceptions, only poor class. There was never much life in the proceedings, and probably there was a bigger crowd to see the finish of the Canning Meeting, which was in progress at the same time hardly a mile away.

COFFEE was very quiet, the only business reported being at 600 for February 1905, the closing quotations being 285 15s. cash and 296 2s. 6d. three months. This afternoon no business was reported. THE BOURSES.

(THROUGH DEUTER'S AGENCY.)

PARIS, Thursday.—During the early hours the Bourse was dull and undecided. The Ministerial crisis in Spain caused a set-back in Spanish Exterior bonds. Later on the easy carry-over rates, averaging 2 1/2 per cent. for the mid-monthly settlement, caused a recovery in most departments, and the Bourse closed with a firm tendency. French Renten, however, continued heavy on the income tax debates in the Chamber. Rio Tinto shares, after some irregularity, finished with a very firm tendency. Transport and traction shares continued in favour, and Russian Industrials exhibited a good tone. South Africans were in active request—particularly Goldfields—and closed strong. RISE: Four per Cent. Italians 15s., Four per Cent. Egyptian United 15s., Three per Cent. Portuguese 17 1/2s., Three per Cent. Russians 189s. 10s., Four per Cent. Spanish Exterior 20s., Four per Cent. Renten for money 20s., for account 17 1/2s., Four per Cent. Russian 189s. 10s., Credit Foncier Egyptian 1 1/2s., Ottoman Bank 1 1/2s., De Beers 2 1/2s. Cheques on London unchanged at 25.15s.

BERLIN, Thursday.—Private discount was 1 1/2 lower at 4 1/2 per cent. The report from Washington that an inquiry into the affairs of the Steel Trust had been demanded had a depressing influence on local speculative stocks—particularly on iron shares. There was, however, no heavy selling. Funds remained quiet, and Russians showed a better tendency. The market generally closed quiet, but prices were well maintained. Cheques on London 1/2 lower at 20.35s. RISE: Three-and-a-half per Cent. Prussian Consols 9 1/2 per cent. For more details, see page 15.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1904.

THAMES STEAMBOATS.

"R. L. C." writes:—An examination of the drawing of the new London County Council boats, published in your issue of yesterday, produces feelings of profound disappointment. Except in speed, which has yet to be proved, they appear to have no advantages over the old boats of the company. There are the same garden seats, half of which have no protection from the weather, the same cramped saloons, with small windows, almost at the water level, and the projecting sponsons, which will necessitate the delay and inconvenience of the old tiresome gangways. I enclose a photograph of a boat in Paris, showing the comfortable saloon with its large plate-glass windows, and the straight sides, which render gangways unnecessary. In hot or wet weather an awning is spread from end to end. The climate of Paris is certainly better than that of London, and if the French find it desirable to provide against bad weather surely Londoners should do the same. The saloons on the Seine are sometimes two stories high, and are so light and airy that it is a pleasure to use them, and the outlook is nearly as good as from the deck; the little windows of the London County Council boat will give no view, and the saloons will be empty, as they were of old. If the published design is a sample of the whole of the thirty boats it is safe to predict that a winter service will be hopelessly unremunerative, and that wet weather, at any time will send all the passengers to the District Railway. Is it too late to remedy these serious mistakes in the designs?

TALKING TO SHIPS AT SEA.

MARCONIGRAMS ACCEPTED AT ALL TELEGRAPH OFFICES.

The Postmaster-General has made provisional arrangements with the Marconi International Marine Communication Company for the acceptance and prepayment at telegraph offices in the United Kingdom of telegrams for transmission from wireless stations on the coast to ships at sea.

The arrangement will come into operation on the 1st of January.

The charge will be 6½d. a word, with a minimum of 6s. 6d. for each telegram.

PARLIAMENT'S REASSEMBLING.

PROBABLE DATE.

It is expected that the King will be in town about the 11th and 12th of January, and in the course of that week will hold a Privy Council for the further prorogation of Parliament. The King will then definitely approve the date for the reassembly. In view of Mr. Balfour's reply to the deputation on behalf of the unemployed, it is probable that Parliament will meet a little earlier than usual—possibly on Thursday, February 2nd.

AN ORDER REFUSED BY MAGISTRATES.

At the Paddington Town Hall yesterday the chairman of the magistrates, in delivering judgment upon an adjourned summons against Dr. Clifford for the non-payment of £3 0s. 5d. for education rate, included in which was £2 6s. 1d., the balance of a previous rate, said that there was no justification for the council making the second distraint. He would, therefore, not make an order for the £2 6s. 1d.

DIRECTORS JUBILANT.

The annual general meeting of the London Coliseum, Limited, was held at the Coliseum yesterday. Mr. Oswald Stoll presided.

In moving the adoption of the report, the chairman stated that the business, since the opening of the Coliseum, had fully justified the directors' expectations.

The resolution adopting the report was seconded by Mr. Brukewich, and carried unanimously. Alderman Carey, who retires by rotation, was re-elected as a director.

Afterwards a general meeting of debenture stock holders was held, at which certain resolutions slightly modifying the trust deed to meet the requirements of the London Stock Exchange were passed.

SHEFFIELD UNITED v. THE CORINTHIANS.

Continuing their holiday tour, the Corinthians yesterday met Sheffield United, the match being played for the benefit of W. Bennett, one of the United's right wing players, who gained his international cap in 1901. Unfortunately for Bennett, only about four thousand spectators attended. The United played several reserve men, and the Corinthians were also a good deal below full strength. The Corinthians won a splendid game by two goals to one.

LORD SUFFOLK AND HIS BRIDE.

To-day the newly-married Earl and Countess of Suffolk will sail from New York for England, to stay at Charlton Hall, the Earl's beautiful seat in Wiltshire. They will be accompanied by Major and Mrs. Colin Campbell—Mrs. Leiter's other newly-married daughter—and all will doubtless make an early call on Lady Curzon on their arrival in England. It was while staying with the Viscountess in India that Lady Curzon's two sisters first met their husbands, both of whom were attached to

Lord Curzon's suite. It is reported that Lord Suffolk, while admitting that £50,000,000 of American money had gone to England as a result of Anglo-American weddings during the last ten years, declared that in his own case, and that of Major Colin Campbell, the marriages had been love affairs pure and simple. Nevertheless, both brides have the additional advantages of being immensely rich. The Countess of Suffolk is Lady Curzon's youngest sister. Her husband, who became Aide-de-Camp to the Viceroy of India in 1898, is the nineteenth Earl of Suffolk, the first Earl, who was the second son of the fourth Duke of Norfolk, receiving the title from James I. in 1605. Lord Suffolk is twenty-seven years old, and owner of some 15,000 acres, as well as of a picture gallery which includes a famous collection of Old Masters. Some of the pictures at Charlton are said to have been removed during the Revolution from the Royal household of James II. by a former owner of the old hall, with the result that the ghost of the monarch haunts the galleries to this day! A rare collection of jewels from the family heirlooms was worn by the Countess at her wedding, which took place at her mother's house in Washington. Charlton Hall is a stately specimen of Jacobean architecture, with a west front by Inigo Jones. It was frequently visited by the poet Dryden.

WEDDINGS.

LASCELLES—MASSEY.

At the Abbey Church, Sherborne, Dorset, the marriage was solemnised yesterday of the Hon. George Lascelles, son of the fourth Earl of Harwood, and Miss Mabel Massey, daughter of the late Mr. F. E. Massey, of Pool Hall, Nantwich. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward Armitstead, the bride's cousin, assisted by the Rev. Arthur Field. Mr. Percy Flower was best man. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Edward Massey, wore an ivory satin gown, draped with Brussels lace, caught with orange-blossoms, and a lace veil over a wreath of the same flowers. She was attended by four bridesmaids—Miss Maud and Miss Evelyn Massey (her sisters), Miss Marjorie Armitstead (her cousin), and Miss Barbara Tomkinson, who were attired in pastel-blue silk gowns, trimmed with cream lace, and black silk picture hats. The bridegroom gave the bridesmaids pearl crescent brooches and bouquets of clove carnations. After the ceremony a reception was held at Digby Hotel, Sherborne, and subsequently the newly-married couple left for Bournemouth, the bride wearing a grey cloth costume, trimmed with velvet, a grey silk hat, and white fox fur.

WILLIS—BARDWELL.

At the Church of St. Michael-le-Belfry, Yorkshire, yesterday, the marriage took place of Mr. Percy Aynsough Willis, Middlesex Regiment, son of the

The officiating clergy were the Bishop of Beverley, Canon Julian, and Canon Carter. Mr. N. Willoughby, a brother officer of the bridegroom, acted as best man. The bride was given away by her father, and wore a beautiful dress of white satin, with shoulder straps of silver net, trimmed with orange-blossom and white heather, and a full veil over a wreath of similar flowers. The ornaments were pearls, sapphires, and diamonds. The bridesmaids were the bride's three sisters, Miss Sybil, Miss Myrtle, and Miss Marjorie Bardwell, Miss A. Garnett-Botfield (her cousin), Miss Edith Wyvill, and Miss Corbett-Winder, who wore ivory cloth dresses, trimmed with insertions of woollen embroidery and softened about the corsage with chiffon, and pink straw picture hats, trimmed with large bows of pink ribbon. The bridegroom gave the bridesmaids bouquets of pink carnations, and gold and pearl brooches carrying out the regimental badge. After a reception, held at the Station Hotel, the bride and bridegroom left for the south of France.

A DRY YEAR!

THE RAINFALL IN 1904.

The year which has just closed was, contrary to expectation, drier than usual in most parts of the kingdom, but in the extreme north and west the aggregate rainfall was in excess of the average. The year was in marked contrast, in this respect, to 1903, when the record rainfall occurred over so large a part of the kingdom. The accompanying map, which has been taken from the publications

"THE TERRIBLE BLOW."HOW RUSSIA BEARS IT.*REMARKABLE NEWSPAPER ARTICLES.

The St. Petersburg newspapers yesterday were filled with articles expressing all sorts of feelings, ideas, expectations, and conjectures called forth by the fall of Port Arthur, and criticisms on the bearing and probable consequences of the great event. The following, says Reuter's Agency, are representative examples of the views and opinions that find expression in them:—

After enumerating the many causes that contributed to the tragic end of Port Arthur, the "Novoye Vremya" expresses the hope that fate will cease to persecute Russia, and will finally be favourable to her arms both on land and sea. "We must not allow ourselves to be cast down," the journal says, "but must redouble our efforts to do everything in the Far East to assure Russia the victory which is as necessary as it is desirable."

All the Fault of the Press Censor.

The "Birzheviy Vedomosti" attributes the catastrophe principally to the ignorance in which Russia was kept of the insufficient means available for the defence of the fortress. It is owing to the silence imposed on the Russian Press, it declares, that it has been possible for such a terrible calamity to fall on the country, while if the Press had conditions the enemy will propose will be acceptable to the true dignity and real interests of the Russian people?—Reuter.

Feeling in Naval Circles.

Our Sebastopol correspondent, telegraphing last night, says that, although anticipated, the fall of Port Arthur is felt to be a crushing blow to the national prestige, and was even regarded as portending a culminating disaster in Manchuria. Hence a strong popular outcry for peace. In naval circles the recall of Admiral Rozhdestvensky's squadron is openly and vigorously advocated.

Reuter's Agency states that the news from Port Arthur has caused the deepest dejection at Kronstadt—particularly in naval circles.

POINTING THE MORAL.BATTLESHIPS VINDICATED.*WASHINGTON, Tuesday.

The official statement published by the Navy Department to-day sums up the whole campaign. The remarks on the Russian and Japanese navies are devoted almost wholly to battleships, as no fresh lesson is to be learnt from the torpedo-boats and cruisers. The statement points out that although Russia had twenty-four destroyers at Port Arthur, not one of them scored a hit, and that of the many Japanese torpedo attacks, nearly all were completely unsuccessful. The sentiment in the United States that the value of the battleship is discredited by the results in the Far East, it is added, may prove a mistake unless it is

PATRIOTISM AT PORT ARTHUR."A LESSON FOR US."*LORD SELBORNE TAKES OFF HIS HAT.

In the course of an address at Wolverhampton last night Lord Selborne, speaking before a large meeting of the members of the Liberal Unionist Association and the Wolverhampton Conservative Association, Sir Alfred Hickman, M.P., in the chair, made special reference to those who fought at Port Arthur and what both sides had done. There was not one of us, he said, who could not admire great feats of Empire when we saw them. Look at the drama that had been going on before our eyes. Had anything been seen more magnificent in the way of patriotism, in the devotion of self to the great ideas of country, than the Japanese and the Russians? There they had two nations, who had before them, right before the eyes of the humblest soldier and sailor, a great ideal of what their country required. There never in human history had been more glorious self-sacrifice shown than the humblest man of those two nations had displayed. "I take off my hat before them," proceeded Lord Selborne, "and I say, whether they be Russians or whether they be Japanese, we regard them with the profoundest respect. (Loud cheers.) It is comparatively easy for us to admire the Japanese—they are our allies. We do admire them without re-

WEDDINGS.A MARRIAGE IN THE TOWER.

At the interesting old church of St. Peter ad Vincula, in the Tower, yesterday Captain Edward C. Loch, 3rd Skinner's Horse, was married to Miss Hazel Georgina Seymour, daughter of General Lord William Seymour, Lieutenant of the Tower. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the band of the Coldstream Guards took part in the service. The ceremony was performed by Canon Valpy, of Winchester, the Rev. C. Fergusson Davies (of the Cambridge Mission, Delhi), and the Rev. W. Milner (Chaplain of the Tower). Captain Guy Lethbridge was best man, and the bride was given away by her father. She wore a handsome gown of white chiffon velvet, draped with lace, and a Brussels lace veil over a wreath of orange blossoms. The six bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy and Miss Freda Seymour (the bride's sisters), Miss E. Seymour (her cousin), the Misses Loch (the bridegroom's sisters), and Miss Violet Turton. They wore white crepe de Chine dresses, with fichus and blue scarves, and pastel-blue picture hats. Lady William Seymour held a reception at King's House, the Tower.

SUPPLEMENTARY AGREEMENT.

A Central News telegram from Tokio says:—General Nogi telegraphs that, according to rough return made by his Staff, the prisoners of war at Port Arthur number 32,207. They include—

Eight Generals,
Four Admirals,
Fifty-seven Colonels and Majors,
One hundred Senior Captains,
31 Captains and Senior Lieutenants,
Two hundred Lieutenants and Sub-Lieutenants.

"A HARMFUL TENDENCY."

RUSSIAN PEACE PAPERS PUNISHED.

Reuter's correspondent at St. Petersburg states that the new Liberal paper "Nashi Dni" has received a first warning from the Government on account of what is described as its harmful tendency, and the right of the sale of single copies of the paper has been withdrawn. The "Rus" has also been deprived of this right.

The immediate cause of the prohibition against the retail sale of the "Nashi Dni" is an article urging the necessity for the conclusion of peace which the journal published yesterday.

The "Nasha Zhizn" ("Our Life") exhorted the people to have the courage to admit defeat and to give up a hopeless war for Manchuria, a country really useless to Russia. Continuing, the journal said:—

The Japanese, who accorded honourable terms of surrender to General Stoessel, will accord Russia an honourable peace, especially if she hastens to conclude it before her military position becomes worse, when Japan's demands would be correspondingly increased. Peace should be our one aim. It is time to bring back 400,000 men to peaceful labour and to restore the normal conditions of life.

The "Rus" refers in scathing terms to what it characterises as the culpable indifference manifested

MR. BECK AND HIS CHEQUE.

STILL THIRTY-SIX THOUSANDS OUT OF POCKET.

Mr. Adolf Beck, while accepting the cheque for £5,000 sent to him by the Treasury in compensation for his unjust imprisonment, still intends to bring his case before Parliament on the ground that his imprisonment caused him a monetary loss of £11,000; and, in support of this contention, letters have been addressed to Messrs. Lewis and Lewis, Mr. Beck's solicitors, by Mr. F. W. Baker, of the Venture Corporation, Limited, and Messrs. Edward Williams and Co., of Broad Street Place, Finsbury Circus. Mr. Baker details at length negotiations which were in progress between his company and Mr. Beck at the time of the latter's first arrest, in consequence of which they were broken off. "I have no hesitation," he says, "in saying that Mr. Beck's arrest deprived him of the opportunity of making large sums, which in the ordinary course of business are paid by us to people who are instrumental in bringing to our notice sound and genuine businesses such as Mr. Beck has already done. I may add that in all my relations with Mr. Beck, both socially and in business, I have found him absolutely truthful and reliable."

WIND AND WATER.

EAST COAST INUNDATED.

A PIER DEMOLISHED.

EIGHT HUNDRED FEET SWEEP AWAY.

Further gales have occurred in many places on our coasts during the last two days, and, with the high temperatures we are now experiencing, the weather has continued very stormy. On Friday a large storm system had its central area near the Shetlands, and during the succeeding night the storm travelled down our east coasts, causing very strong gales and very high and rough seas, both wind and sea occasioning considerable damage. After a very brief lull there was another storm travelling along our north-west coasts yesterday, and there was a renewal of the gale in exposed positions on our coasts, chiefly in the north and west. Last evening winds were again moderating, but with the present conditions other disturbances will probably come from the Atlantic, and further strong

Road, a residential locality, was also submerged, and ground floors were filled with water. The switchback railway and many other permanent attractions on the beach for the amusement of summer visitors were also destroyed.

At Southwold an immense volume of water made a sweep over the beach from Eastern Bawance to the Harbour Haven beach. The markets were inundated, the water flowing over the river wall. Boats and tackle on the seashore were carried inland upon the marshes. The damage done was immense.

At King's Lynn the River Ouse overflowed its banks, inundating quays and flooding granaries, warehouses and dwelling houses. In the marshland district hundreds of acres are under water, the abnormal tide rising above the miles of protective banks.

In Boundary and Beach Roads, Gorleston, the water was four feet deep, and the occupants of the houses were compelled to remove their belongings upstairs. All Saturday it was only possible to get about these roads by means of boats. In attempting to get through the flood a horse attached to a milk-cart fell, throwing the driver into the water and upsetting the milk-cans. The tide in the river was double its normal height, and the quay banks were washed away for a considerable distance.

A similar condition of things prevailed on the coasts of Kent. The weather there, however, was not of so boisterous a character as on the east coast, in some places the sun shining and there being no

AN EXPENSIVE CRUISE.COST OF ROZHDIESTVENSKI'S MISSION.*HALF A MILLION OF MONEY FOR COAL.

The cost of the voyage of the Baltic Fleet must be a serious item in Russia's none too flourishing finances. The actual value of the units composing it, allowing for the heavy depreciation on the older vessels, such as the Navarin, Sissoi, and Dmitri Donskoi, and for the cost of the Volunteer cruisers and fast liners purchased from Germany, works out at about £12,900,000. The most valuable of the ships are the four vessels of the Borodino class, each of which has cost the Russian Government £1,500,000. The Oslabia was a little less expensive, while the Sissoi and Navarin are probably worth to-day a million sterling between them, though they originally cost £1,750,000.

The equipment of the fleet with stores, provisions, charts, mines—of which it carried an immense supply, to be scattered about Far Eastern seas—coaling appliances, and so forth, could not be managed for much under £1,500,000.

CHANG AND HIS PIGEONS.

FROM THE BOXER RISING TO THE COURT OF CHANCERY,

In the Chancery Division yesterday Mr. Justice Joyce began an action brought by Chang Yen-Mao and the Chinese Mining and Engineering Company of Tientsin against Mr. C. A. Moreing, Bewick, Moreing, and Co., and the Chinese Engineering and Mining Company, Limited.—Chang Yen-Mao, according to the pleadings, was Imperial Director-General of Mining for the province of Pechili, and director of the plaintiff company, with power to deal with the company's property and affairs. The company wanted new capital for the development of its property, a coalfield at Ki-ping, and in view of the Boxer rising it was thought advisable that the company should be placed under British auspices. Accordingly a Mr. Herbert C. Hoover entered into a contract with Chang by which the defendants got possession of the property of the company in order to be transferred into an English company. The defendants, however, retained the property, repudiated their agent's agreement that there should be an independent Chinese board and that Chang should be director-general for life, instituting instead a nominal Chinese board, which they could dismiss when they liked, the entire management of the company being in London. The plain-dent of this kind. The descriptions of what took place, horrifying as they are in their details, are on the main point perfectly simple. Part of the mail train from Leeds to Sheffield ran off the line shortly after passing the signal box at Storrs Mill. Presently the Scotch express from Glasgow came tearing along at sixty miles an hour, and the signals at Storrs Mill being invisible, dashed past them into the derailed coaches which were obstructing the metals. The point which will have to be cleared up is how it was that a fast train, freighted with precious human lives, was allowed to rush in this fashion unsignalled to its doom. Even if the fog came on suddenly, this, surely, is an eventuality which ought to be provided for in the regular mechanism of railway organisation. The horror of the calamity was heightened by the appearance of a third train—the north-bound Scotch express—which crashed into the wreckage of the other two, fortunately without inflicting serious injury upon its own passengers. The whole story is full of moving details. Darkness and fire heightened the terrors of the scene of suffering and death, which was redeemed in some degree by the devotion displayed in the work of rescue: but the

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S GAINSBOROUGH MEETING.

TEXT OF THE RESOLUTION,

The following is the text of the chief resolution to be submitted at the meeting to be addressed by Mr. Chamberlain at Gainsborough on February 1st:—

"That this meeting heartily thanks the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, M.P., for his address, and desires to express its approval of his policy of a closer union with our Colonies, based upon a mutual preference of trade, and its firm conviction that, in the agricultural, industrial, and general interest of Great Britain, a change in our fiscal system is necessary."

The joint committee which has the arrangements for the meeting in hand have made the possession of a vote the sole qualification for a ticket. Seating accommodation will be provided for over 7,000 people, and excepting the platform, for which a uniform charge of £1 ls. has been made, all seats in the hall are free. The number of applications for seats has far exceeded the number which could be allotted.

THE BOURSES.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

PARIS, Wednesday.—The latest news from St. Petersburg being considered more satisfactory, a firm tendency ruled on to-day's Bourse at the start. Realisations were effected later, and checked for some time a further advance, but during the last hour the favourable disposition increased owing to rumours of mediation between Russia and Japan, and the closing was effected under excellent conditions. All international stocks advanced, Turkish bonds being especially favoured on the report that the conclusion of the new loan was imminent. Local traction issues—particularly Omnibus shares—industrials and Rio Tinto shares closed higher. Spanish railway shares continued in good request. Gold shares opened better and improved during the day, and showed a very firm tendency at the close in sympathy with the general list. Rise: Three per Cent. Rente for money 20c., for the account 17½c., Four per Cent. Italians 12½c., Three per Cent. Portuguese 20c., Three per Cent. Russians 1896 95c., Five per Cent. Russians 1904 4½c., Four per Cent. Spanish Exterior 50c., Turkish Unified 57½c., Turkish Lottery Obligations 1.50½, Turkish Tobacco 4½, Four per Cent. Brazilian 1889 50c., Banque de Paris 5½, Crédit Foncier Egyptien 2½, Crédit Lyonnais 3½, Ottoman Bank 1½, Suez Canal shares 10½, Thomson Houston 17½, Sosnowice Collieries 35½, Rio Tinto 17½, Tharsis 2½, De Beers 2.50½, Chartered 2½, Consolidated Goldfields ordinary 5½, East Rand Proprietary 5½, Frank Smith 3.50½, French Rand 1.75½, Geduld 6½, Geldenhuis Estate 4.50½, Geldenhuis Deep 3½, Generals 1.50½, Kleinfontein 1.75½, Knights 3.50½, Lancaster 1.25½, Langlaagte Estate 3.50½, May Consolidated 1½, New Goch 4½, Oceana Consolidated 1.25½, Randfontein Estate 2.25½, Rand Mines 5½, Robinson Deep 4½, Transvaal Goldfields 2.75½, Village Main Reef 2½, Wemmer 2½. Cheques on London ½ higher at 25.13½.

BERLIN, Wednesday.—Private discount unchanged at 2 3-8, settlement money 2½. The better prices reported from St. Petersburg had a favourable effect on to-day's Bourse, and Russians especially had a sharp recovery. Bank and foundry shares advanced, and funds were firm. Towards the close Russians lost again a part of their early advance. The market generally

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

East Midlands v. Middlesex.—This county championship match was decided at Northampton yesterday, Middlesex winning by four tries to nothing.

Somerset v. Glamorgan.—Delightful weather favoured the meeting of these counties at Bath, but the ground was not in good condition, being very greasy. Glamorgan won by five tries to one try.

BILLIARDS.

STEVENSON v. REECE.

On the tournament match of 9,000 up being resumed yesterday afternoon at the Hall in Soho Square, Reece, who receives 2,750 start, quickly increased his long lead by raising an incomplete break to 172. At night Reece made 147 and 99, and Stevenson 148, 135, and 151. Closing scores:—Reece, 6,917; Stevenson, 2,905.

INMAN v. ELPHICH.

Cook having an important engagement, the game of 7,000 up he is contesting with Inman on level terms at Thurston's Hall in Leicester Square could not be proceeded with yesterday, but it will be resumed to-day. To fill the gap Inman gave B. Elphich 300 start in 1,200. Going to the front in the afternoon, Inman won at night by 457 points.

THE FIVE THOUSAND MILES MOTOR TRIAL.

Yesterday, in the 5,000 miles reliability trial, the 12 h.p. Siddeley car, Mr. A. E. Sutcliffe driving, ran to Folkestone and back. The run was made without an involuntary stoppage, no mechanical troubles having been experienced since the start of the test on January 2nd. To-day the route will be to Lewes and Brighton, and Westerham Hill will be taken on the way.

add quite a number of tones to the gradation scale of the shadows, by making them more transparent.

Toning Bromides.

Much has been written on the various methods of converting the normal black or grey of a bromide print into a sepia or even a ruddy brown, which for nearly all subjects seems to give most general satisfaction; but the directions and formulæ are distributed through the pages of ephemeral publications, and hence two little books on this subject, written by Mr. C. Winthrop Somerville on the one hand, and more recently by Mr. R. E. Blake Smith, in which the various methods are collected together, should prove very welcome. These little books are each published at one shilling. The successful toning of a bromide print appears to depend a great deal on the original development, and Mr. Blake Smith notes two formulæ which worked well with all brands of paper. One of these, which will probably best serve the novice's wants, is: Metol 16 grains, hydroquinone 8 grains, potassium bromide 6 grains, sodium sulphite $\frac{1}{2}$ ounce, sodium carbonate $\frac{1}{4}$ ounce, water to make 10 ounces. The author points out that such formulæ as this are to be regarded as normal developers; that is, they are about as strong as can advantageously be employed. The quantity of sodium sulphite is of importance as a preventative of brown oxidation stains, no risk of which need be run.

HIS MAJESTY'S MESSAGES.

HOW THEY REACH OUR EMBASSIES ABROAD.

RADICAL CHANGES OF SYSTEM.

A radical change has recently been made in the arrangements for sending special messages to the various foreign capitals. In the case of messages to the Embassy in Paris the messenger system is altogether dropped over the English part of the route. Hitherto all important despatches have been conveyed personally by messenger over the whole route, but in future the railway company will take charge of the messages as far as Dover, where they will be met and conveyed to Paris by an official of the British Embassy there. There have been many other changes, including variations of route. The messengers now go via Harwich and the Hook of Holland, and set out on Tuesday of each week. On one Tuesday a messenger leaves for Constantinople, and on the next the route is to St. Petersburg. In many cases the personal call at an Embassy or Legation is dispensed with, the messenger being met at given points and relieved of his charge. On the northern route only Berlin and St. Petersburg are dealt with direct, the bags for Brussels being "dropped" en route. On the alternative journey Berlin, Vienna, Belgrade, Sofia and Constantinople are taken direct, while messages are "dropped" for The Hague, Darmstadt, Munich and

LABOUR APPEALS TO THE CHURCH.

The workmen of the Kolpino factory have appealed to the Metropolitan Archbishop Antonius, begging him to mediate on their behalf with the Emperor. They assured his Beatitude that their demands are all of an economic nature. The Metropolitan promised to forward their petition to the Emperor.

REACTION TRIUMPHANT.

At the opening of the proceedings of the Committee of Ministers on the 24th instant, M. Witte, the President, according to the journal "Rus," emphasised the necessity of the Committee stating its views on the recent events in the capital, inquiring into their causes, and drawing up a number of measures to prevent their recurrence. After a short discussion the Committee rejected M. Witte's suggestions on the ground that such action would not be within its jurisdiction.

The Paris "Aurore" publishes the following message, sent by mail to the frontier station of Eydtkuhnen:—

The Duke of Leuchtenberg, who has had the courage to present a truthful report to the Tsar, is at present under the supervision of the secret police employed by General Trepoff. Several hundred frozen corpses, not yet identified, are still to be seen at the Nikolai Station. They will be taken out of the town by special train to-night.

PRESS APPEAL FOR POPULAR REPRESENTATION.

The St. Petersburg "Rus," in an article on Saturday, counsels the Government not to increase by rigorous measures the general sorrow and the gravity of the situation.

NOT AN ASTEROID.

(By E. WALTER MAUNDER.)

Since photography has been employed in the systematic search for minor planets, discovery has gone forward in this field with great rapidity, as many as fifty new objects being discovered in a single year. Dr. Max Wolf's Observatory at Heidelberg has almost a monopoly of this particular department, and a month seldom goes by without a despatch from him announcing the discovery of at least three or four. In most cases the new objects are of little or no interest, but occasionally the list will include one of considerable importance. A week ago Dr. Max Wolf announced that he had discovered a new asteroid, provisionally lettered "PQ," which was probably identical with the recently-discovered Sixth Satellite of Jupiter. It was of about the same magnitude as that satellite had been reported to be, and when observations had been secured of it on a second night, it was seen from the direction and speed of its motion that it must have been almost exactly in the same position relatively to Jupiter on Jan-

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

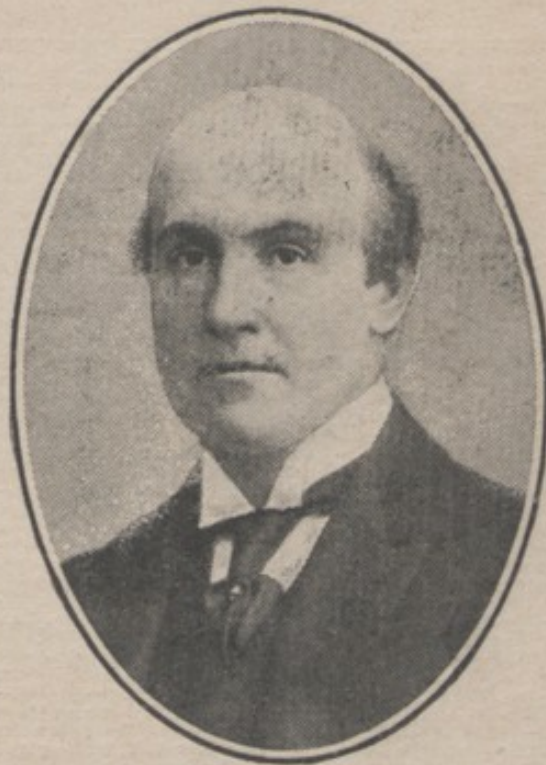

TO GO ON WITH THE BUSINESS OF THE SESSION.

Mr. Asquith's amendment was rejected last night by an ample majority, although several of the normal supporters of the Government refrained from voting. It is needless to examine again the various excuses given by the Opposition for pressing the Government to dissolve Parliament. All of these excuses are overwhelmed by the simple and obvious fact that the outs would like to get in. The best proof that this is the dominant consideration with the leaders of the Opposition is furnished by Lord Hugh Cecil's speech. Lord Hugh Cecil asserted that the longer the discussion went on the stronger would grow the "free food" position. The prophecy may be true or false, but it is not for the Liberal leaders to deny it; for by so doing they would be giving away their whole case. If, however, Lord

LONDON AND THE LIFEBOAT FUND.—The annual meeting of the subscribers of the City of London branch of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution was held at the Mansion House yesterday afternoon. The Lord Mayor, who presided, referred to the fact mentioned in the report that in ten years they had collected over £50,000, and that last year, 1904, the income was nearly £7,000. He thought these figures were ample justification for the existence of a branch in the City.

THE BOURSES.

(THROUGH REUTERS'S AGENCY.)

PARIS, Tuesday.—To-day's Bourse opened again very firm, but soon realisations were effected, and had a depressing influence on quotations. Markets remained heavy and inactive for some time. Yesterday's events in St. Petersburg were largely discussed. Nevertheless, towards the close prices rallied, and the tone was firmer. International stocks showed declines on the day in some instances. Local traction issues were in request. Soanowice shares showed an easier tendency. Rio Tinto shares exhibited a firm tone, in sympathy with New York advices. Gold shares had a better market, and left off firm. Rise: Four per Cent. out! Mr. Boothby did not mind admitting that he was scared, but he was on the sandy spit and so could not run. The man advanced slowly towards Mr. Boothby, and then beckoned to him to come to him. Mr. Boothby was in no mood to do anything of the kind, and so remained where he was. Then the ghost put his hands to his mouth and shouted to Mr. Boothby to come up to the hut as the "boundary rider" was dead. It was then obvious that the ghost was really a tramp who must have been there the whole time when Mr. Boothby arrived. The man had apparently hidden himself in the bush and then got into the hut directly after Mr. Boothby had left it. Mr. Boothby used to add that that was the only time he had ever seen a ghost!

AN EMPRESS AND HER FAVOURITES.

["The Courtships of Catherine the Great."]

By P. W. Sergeant. (Laurie.) 10s. 6d. net.]

For obvious reasons, Catherine the Great has been a special favourite with biographers—and especially, of course, French biographers—who have over and over again ransacked all the chronicles, scandalous and other, for particulars of the career of the remarkable woman who was one of the great historical figures of the eighteenth century. M. de Larivière, who wrote about her in connection with the French Revolution, classed her with Frederick the Great, Marie Theresa, and Voltaire, as the real masters of that century, called by Mr. Havelock Ellis "the most human century." Catherine herself was certainly as human as anybody that lived in that period, and, were her life completely known in all its details, it would be a

MEMORIAL SCHEME SETTLED.

A NEW SPEECH ROOM.

Last evening, at the Charing Cross Hotel, a meeting of the Special Committee of Old Rugbeians, appointed to consider the best means of perpetuating the memory of the late Archbishop Temple at Rugby, was held under the chairmanship of Sir E. Maunde Thompson. Among those present were Sir William Lee Warner, Major-General Trevor, and Dr. James, headmaster of Rugby.

Sir William Lee Warner explained that the project to erect a memorial to Dr. Temple, their former headmaster, was set on foot two years ago, but of all the schemes submitted for consideration the one that found most favour was the erection of a new speech room. It was expected that the cost would be £10,000, or more, but there was no doubt that in the end the money would be raised. He moved: "That this committee decides in favour of the erection of a new speech room as the best form of memorial to the memory of the late Archbishop Temple, and authorises the executive committee to take all necessary steps for carrying out that object."

The motion was eventually adopted unanimously.

It was stated that exclusive of the £300 already spent on the medallion placed in the chapel at

THE OLD PUBLISHING DAYS.

["Twenty Years Ago: A Book of Anecdote Illustrating Literary Life in London," by Edmund Downey. (Hurst and Blackett.) 6s. net.]

Mr. Edmund Downey, who has written a number of successful volumes of fiction under the pen-name of "F. M. Allen"—his Irish stories being particularly good—began his connection with the literary world of London in the publishing office of the Tinsley Brothers, in Catherine Street. That was at the close of the seventies, when both the men and the manners of the London book world were changing rapidly. To-day Bohemianism-in-the-Strand is, like Catherine Street itself, merely a memory, and it was a happy thought on Mr. Downey's part to gather his reminiscences together and print them, before they were completely forgotten. His old chief, William Tinsley, did something of the sort in his two volumes of "Rambling Recollections of an Old Publisher," but Tinsley had no gift as a writer, and one gets a far better idea of respect is Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. He actually drowned Sherlock Holmes in the Reichenback Fall, and then, after an interval of some years, brought him to life again at the instance of Sir George Newnes, who, no doubt, was qualified to speak on behalf of the British public. Not for such purposes, we feel sure, did the Board of Trade issue the illustrated instructions which adorn the walls at watering-places. For, brilliant as was the conception of Sherlock Holmes, he is now beginning to illustrate the truth that it is possible to have too much of a good thing. The illusion tends to fail; the great man tends to decline into a great marionette. We are driven to ask ourselves: Are the well springs of his creator's imagination running dry? If they are not—and we believe as well as hope that they are not—then it seems time that the creator of Sherlock Holmes did something to prove it.

KUROPATKIN FLEEING NORTHWARD.

THE MIKADO THANKS HIS ARMY.

STILL GREATER EXERTIONS WANTED.

Tieling, the fortifications of which were said to be almost impregnable, fell into the hands of the Japanese at midnight on Wednesday.

The Japanese despatches give no details, and do not mention the fight on the Fan-ho, in which they were reported yesterday to have sustained a reverse. It is clear, however, from a despatch from General Kuropatkin dated on Wednesday that the impossibility of rallying the Russian troops to make a stand at Tieling had already been recognised. The generalissimo himself was then on his way to Harbin, and his army was described as "passing through Tieling."

General Kuropatkin added that his troops were retiring in good order; but he was still unable to give any exact account of his losses either in men or artillery.

The Mikado has sent a message of thanks to his Manchurian armies for their victory at Mukden, in which he states that he "looks to them for even greater exertions in the future."

A rumour is current in Berlin that General Kuropatkin has been ordered to

TRYING TO MUZZLE THE EMPIRE.

The debate affords the most striking proof that could possibly be given of the readiness of the Opposition to subordinate wide Imperial interests to the narrow exigencies of party. What Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's demand practically amounts to is that Mr. Bal-four should violently interfere with the natural development of a great Imperial and Constitutional reform in order to suit, on a particular issue, the supposed electioneering convenience of that congeries of jostling groups which calls itself the Liberal party. To realise fully the audacity of this demand, it is necessary to recall the nature and scope of the last Colonial Conference in 1902. The resolutions which it adopted on the subject of Tariff Reform have been so extensively discussed that many persons, lacking either in information or in memory, are apt to think of the Conference as having had a purely fiscal character. Nothing, of course, could be further from the truth. It was a meeting of Colonial Premiers and other Ministers at which the whole field of Imperial relations was surveyed and canvassed, and at which Imperial fiscal union was only one out of many topics considered. Naval and military defence, communication

A Backing Mixture.

One may, of course, in remote places, find a little difficulty, or incur delay, in procuring ready backed plates, and hence a simple prescription may be useful. The following is from the "Bulletin" of the French Photographic Society. Four ounces of shellac and six drachms of borax are boiled in eighteen ounces of water till the shellac is dissolved, and to the cold solution is added thirty grains sodium carbonate and one drachm of glycerine. To this solution is added sufficient of a mixture of equal parts of burnt sienna and dextrine to make it about the consistency of thick cream. It may be applied to the plate with a brush or on a piece of sponge, and it will not scale off or make dust on the film when dry, while it is easily removed by a damp sponge.

Orthochromatic Plates.

There still seems to be a misapprehension as to the requirements of an orthochromatic plate, a vague notion apparently existing in the minds of some people that while orthochromatic plates may be beneficial in some cases it will be necessary to have ordinary plates as well for ordinary subjects. This is, of course, not so, and Mr. John McIntosh recently expressed the matter in the following brief manner:—"It may be pointed out that an orthochromatic plate will do all that any other plate of the same speed will do, and in addition will do a great many things that the others will not do, so the photographer need not hesitate to load his slides or changing box with them. He may, if he chooses, use them in precisely the same way as he would ordinary plates, or he may employ the special contrivances to be noted later on, which will enable him to get the full advantage out of them."

CONSECRATION OF BISHOPS.

Yesterday morning the Archbishop of Canterbury, at St. Saviour's Cathedral, Southwark, consecrated Dr. Edgar Charles Sumner Gibson as Bishop of Gloucester and Dr. Joshua Pritchard Hughes as Bishop of Llandaff. The Bishops of London, Southwark, Ripon, St. Albans, Worcester, Oxford, Bangor, Bath and Wells, Truro, Wakefield, St. Davids, Glasgow and Galloway, Honduras, Tactford, Barking, and Bishop Michison and Bishop Marsden were present. The Archbishop commenced the Communion Service, the Epistle was read by the Bishop of London, and the Gospel by the Bishop of Southwark. The sermon was preached by Canon Durst.

During the absence of the Bishops elect to the Ladye Chapel to put on their Episcopal robes, the choir sang the anthems "Lift thine eyes" (Mendelssohn) and "Send out Thy light and Thy truth" (Gounod). In due course the Bishop of Landaff was presented for consecration by the Bishops of Oxford and St. Davids, and the Bishop of Gloucester by the Bishops of Ripon and St. Albans. At the actual consecration the Archbishop and the assistant Bishops laid their hands upon the Bishops Elect, who knelt in turn before them. The new Bishops then took their places with the other Bishops and the Sacrament was administered by the Archbishop, assisted by the Bishops of London and Southwark.

THE VOLUNTEERS AND THE OPPOSITION.

There are significant indications that the Opposition mean, if possible, to make party capital out of the efforts of the War Office to turn the Volunteers to practical account. From their own point of view they may, perhaps, be acting wisely, for Volunteering is popular and Volunteers have votes. From the point of view, however, of the needs of the nation, they are certainly wrong. All that the Government proposes, as Mr. Arnold-Forster explains in the statement which we publish this morning, is to ascertain what proportion of the force is physically fit for service abroad. Naturally the mere reference to service abroad is galling to those strategists who imagine that the role of the British Volunteer is to lie behind an English hedgerow shooting at some unnamed invader. Other people, who realize that this hedgerow recreation could only take place after the British fleets had been swept from the seas, and while the regular Army was still at home, prefer to regard the Volunteers as a possible reserve for the fighting line abroad. That is the role they have hitherto played, and it is to their achievements in that role that the Government now wishes to refer.

OUR UNPREPARED ARMY.

WARNING FROM LORD ROBERTS.

SOUTH AFRICA'S LESSON FORGOTTEN.*LORD WEMYSS AND THE "SHILLING SHOCKER."

There was an interesting debate in the House of Lords yesterday on the subject of the defence of these islands. Lord WEMYSS, who has always been a champion of the Volunteer movement, brought forward a motion condemning the idea that we ought to trust to the navy alone for home defence, and argued that, on the contrary, we ought to have a land force so powerful that no nation would ever attempt to form a hostile landing on our shores. Lord Wemyss supported his motion with the remarkable statement that few countries had ever been more frequently invaded than Great Britain, and he referred to a German novel in which a picture was drawn of the future destruction and partition of the British Empire.

Lord ROBERTS followed, and was listened to with great attention while he read from his manuscript notes an impressive speech condemning the present condition of the army. Among other things, he said that the lesson of South Africa had been that our armed forces to-day

POOR.*SIR TOLLEMACHE SINCLAIR'S SLIGHTED OFFER.

Some weeks ago Sir J. G. Tollemache, Bart., sent an offer of a gramophone and records for use in the various poor law workhouses and infirmaries, on conditions that the instrument should be played for an hour a day on an average. He has now addressed a circular letter to the institutions in question, complaining that up to the present he has received only thirty replies from the authorities of hospitals, four from those of infirmaries, and three from those of workhouses accepting his offer.

VICTIMS OF RELIGIOUS PERSECUTION.

SHOULD THEY BE EXCLUDED?

RENEWED DEBATE ON THE ALIENS BILL.

The House of Commons was again yesterday occupied with the Aliens Bill, and several amendments of considerable importance were debated. Lord HUGH CECIL was anxious to make it clear that only those aliens would be excluded who were likely to become paupers, that is, chargeable upon the rates. He strongly objected, he said, to excluding people merely on the ground of poverty as distinguished from pauperism. His amendment, however, was opposed by the Government, and rejected by a considerable majority. A little later Mr. KEIR HARDIE moved an amendment with the object of excluding aliens who came in under a contract to labour. His confessed object was to prevent the importation of cheap labour from the Continent, and he was supported by several Radical members who have been strongly opposed to the Bill as a whole. Mr. BALFOUR, however, declined to accept the amendment, and chafed the Radicals on their sudden conversion to the doctrines of Protection. The amendment was rejected.

THE FRANCO-GERMAN AGREEMENT.

NO INTERFERENCE WITH BRITAIN.

At the opening of yesterday afternoon's sitting of the French Chamber M. Rouvier read the declaration of the French Government with regard to the negotiations with Germany on the subject of Morocco and at the same time submitted to the House the texts of the communications exchanged in the matter.

The Two Notes.

The first of these runs:—

M. Rouvier, President of the Council and Minister for Foreign Affairs to his Highness Prince Radolin, German Ambassador in Paris—Paris July 8th, 1905. The Government of the French Republic is convinced from the conversations which have taken place between the representatives of the two countries, both in Paris and Berlin, that at the Conference proposed by the Sultan of Morocco the Imperial Government will not follow any course which would compromise the legitimate interests of France in that country, or which would run counter to the rights of France resulting from her treaties or arrangements, and which are in harmony with the following principles:—
"The sovereignty and independence of the Sultan;
"The integrity of his Empire;
"Economic liberty without any distinction;
"The expediency of police and financial reforms, the introduction of which would be regulated for a short period by means of an international understanding."

THE UNEMPLOYED BILL.

Mr. Balfour's answer yesterday to Mr. Keir Hardie effectively disposes of the contention that there is any special urgency for dealing with the problem of the unemployed during the present Session. The problem of the unemployed is in reality only part of the great problem of poverty, and it is as painfully true to-day as it was nineteen centuries ago that the poor are always with us. It is, therefore, childish to suppose that this world-wide problem can be solved by a measure rushed through the British Parliament in the dying hours of the Session. All that the Government Bill actually does is to enable the local authorities to set up machinery for sending men who claim to be out of work through no fault of their own to farm colonies instead of to the workhouse. This may or may not be a good thing in itself; but it is obviously of very little service to skilled artisans, whose hands are soft and whose muscles are untrained to be told that they may spend the winter months digging clay in a farm colony. They would probably as lie break stones in a London workhouse. Unfortunately, however, an idea has got abroad that this Bill by some magic will

THE DECAY OF THE BUSKER.

Time was when the busker's lot was a reasonably happy one. To the average dweller in towns, the fellow of humdrum tasks in the dull commercial fields, the prospect of minstrelsy by the soughing sea held an alluring fascination. To leave the hideous dust choked, heat baked, dingy town walks; to sing in the gay sunlight with the full sounding sea giving depth to the accompaniment; to exact a tribute in coin from an admiring, open-handed crowd; hold those elements which lead pleasantly along the primrose paths of Bohemia. In the parching, red-hot days of July and August such a one as myself, with shoulders rubbing against the collar of an exacting commercialism, thought of this Bohemian freedom with just that longing one would have dreamed of melons in the middle of the Sahara.

The Old-time Sand Minstrel.

But all is not so well with the seaside minstrel as it looks. A change is shadowing the Arcadian scene. The old order, even in minstrelsy, giveth place to the new. Your average second-rate comedian, after his thin winter at the halls, in divers small and uninteresting towns in the country, looked with a glorified vision on the imminent summer. Forthwith he drew round him suitable friends to assist in the campaign by the sea. There was the man to play the shut-up organette, there was the friend to handle the violin, there was the tenor who accompanied into the enterprise, and likewise the bass, the alto, and another as youth, a dash of the gay Lothario, and something of the patience of a nursery governess. He must be capable of making what George Robey calls "go bou" eyes at a hundred impressionable fair ones of from fifteen to fifty, and of being the friend and companion of everybody's children from two years of age to ten. Really the talents necessary to make a successful seaside minstrel, when one considers the usual three shows a day, with the onerous task of conducting a hundred discreet flirtations a week, and shepherding two or three hundred children into a pleased fidelity to the show, would give most men very serious pause indeed. It is a curious fact that parents, who at home would jealously guard their children from contact with the theatrical and music-hall elements, tolerate their daughters' mild flirtations with the seaside busker, and allow a whole minstrel troupe to act as general nurses to their children. To a close student the most wonderful features about the whole business are the infinite tact, discretion, and patience shown by the professional people engaged in what is now a somewhat difficult branch of their calling.

Terrors of Fascination.

Perhaps the most trying experience to the minstrel is to be installed prime favourite. The attentions of his admirers make life a curse to him. Old maids fall violently in love with him, occupy the same seats each show, and send him elaborate sprays of flowers. He is expected to wear them, too, and if, as is often the case, this type of admirer is simultaneously duplicated, it is difficult to tell when one sees the favourite, which is Covent Garden and which minstrel. Then pretty girls pout if he sends their offerings of chocolate, or fails to respond to continual overtures with those tender nothings so dear to sweet seventeen. As a final curse, sweet and chubby toddlers of about six ways the favourite minstrel man, in groups, and expect-

THE ELECTRIC TRAIN DISASTER.

SIGNALMAN AND DRIVER CENSURED.

At Blundellsands yesterday the inquest on the twenty victims of the Hall Road electric train disaster was concluded.

The motorman, William Rimmer, and the signalman, William Boote, both gave evidence. The former said that Boote "flagged" him through, and noticing that the points were set for the middle siding, the witness shut off the current but had not sufficient room in which to pull up. He remembered nothing more of the accident. Rimmer stated that Boote shouted out, "Right away!"

William Boote, the signalman, said that when the express came up he forgot to reverse the points. He had been once fined ten shillings for being asleep on duty. He had never used a green flag before with an express train, but had had difficulty with signals and had asked for assistance. He lost his head when he discovered the mistake. Other evidence showed that the signals were in perfect order after the collision. He said that he had been told that the signals had been out of order since the accident.

The jury found that the accident was due to a mistake of Signalman Boote and Driver Rimmer through an error of judgment, which was censurable but not criminal. The jury recommended that the "facing" points at Hall Road and everywhere else should be abolished, that on express trains

THE THREATENED COTTON STRIKE.

BOARD OF TRADE ATTITUDE.

In view of the danger of a cotton strike in Lancashire, Sir Francis Powell yesterday asked the Secretary of the Board of Trade whether his department would take steps towards reconciling the opposing parties.

Mr. Bonar Law replied that if the Board had any reason to believe that its intervention would be likely to be successful it would at once take steps under the Conciliation Act of 1896. In the meantime he hoped that as great a delay as possible would be secured, so as to allow the fullest opportunity for negotiation with a view to a peaceable settlement.

The operative spinners and card and blowing room hands in the Ashton-under-Lyne district sent in their notices yesterday morning to cease work on the 19th inst. if the advance of 5 per cent. is not given. Three large firms in the district have already complied with the demand.

In Bolton and district notices for a 5 per cent. reduction have been received. Mr. Gill, the cotton operatives' secretary, interviewed on the situation, says there is no justification for a reduction at the present time, as Bolton trade is in an improving condition. The margin of profit last week was seven-sixteenths more than the margin in 1888. In 1900, when the masters were making fabulous profits, the spinners made an application for only five per cent.,

The St. Petersburg "Novoye Vremya" comments upon the proposals for an Anglo-Russian entente which have lately been put forward in a section of the British Press.

Dealing with an article which appeared in the "Spectator," the "Novoye Vremya" observes that this paper proposes as the base for such an agreement to deal with things which do not belong to Great Britain. "Were Russia," proceeds the journal, "in exchange to surrender her rights, which are of great and real political value to her, especially those in Central Asia, in the direction of India, the understanding would resemble the agreement by which France surrendered her rights in Egypt in exchange for Morocco, where England could lay claim to no rights, and which would only cause injury to her relations with Germany. If Russia were to take Constantinople, as has been suggested, other Powers would demand compensation. Austria, for instance, would ask for Salonika, and could Russia ruin the Serbs in order to come to an understanding with the English? Germany would see in the appearance of Russia in the Dardanelles a threat for her trade in Asia Minor."

The "Novoye Vremya" thinks that an understanding between Great Britain and Russia could be effected on a different basis, which would be much more modest but less perilous, as Russia does not require Constantinople, but merely desires the right of free passage through the Dardanelles.

The "Bourne Gazette" also considers that the acquisition of this right would furnish a practical basis for an Anglo-Russian understanding.—Reuter.

A BRITISH STEAMER DESTROYED BY FIRE.

According to a telegram from Montreal received in Liverpool yesterday the steamer Melbourne has become a total loss by fire.

No information is supplied as to the ownership or registration of the vessel in question. There are several ships of the name in Lloyd's shipping list. No confirmation of the Montreal telegram is forthcoming in Lloyd's List of Casualties sent out yesterday.

A COLLISION AT SEA.

The steamer Cornwall, with her stem damaged, arrived at New York yesterday and reported that she had collided with an unknown steamer in the fog on Wednesday evening. Captain Loomis, of the Cornwall, thought that the vessel was a Holland-American liner. He was unaware of her condition, but supposed she was damaged. It is thought that the colliding vessel may have been the Noordam, which sailed on Wednesday.

PRINCE LOUIS OF BATTENBERG.

ARRIVAL OFF HALIFAX.

Prince Louis of Battenberg, on board H.M.S. Drake, arrived off Halifax (N.S.) yesterday afternoon, says Reuter's Agency. As the weather was very thick, the Prince sent a message to the Governor saying that he would enter the harbour to-day in the Drake, with the cruisers Bedford, Cumberland, and Essex, which arrived in the afternoon. The cruisers Berwick and Cornwall have been here since Saturday. To-day a civic address will be presented to the Prince, who will subsequently visit the Provincial Exhibition.

most effective and bright and will be heard with interest. With regard to the rest of the concert, Miss Dorothy Bridson deserves a special word of praise for her capital reading of the solo in Lalo's F minor violin concerto, Mr. Albert Garcia acquitted himself well in Verdi's "Erlösung," and the orchestra gave a particularly delicate performance of Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" overture. Miss Edith Clegg also sang, and the rest of the programme was arranged on completely familiar lines.

FIGHTING THE HOTTENTOTS

GERMAN SUCCESSES.

The following telegram (says Reuter's Agency) has been received in Berlin from German South West Africa:—

Seventy Hottentots under Hendrik Witboi, fleeing before Major Estorff and making for Aminius, found that that place had already been occupied by Lengerke's detachment, and they were driven back after half an hour's engagement. Witboi then retired eastwards on the sandhills. Estorff and Lengerke continued the pursuit and occupied the water holes.

The facts of the surprises reported at Jerusalem and Schuitdrift were, it now appears, as follow. Owing to the treachery of a native policeman, Morris and Morenga captured Jerusalem on the 7th inst. Lieutenant Surman and three troopers were killed and one trooper wounded. The latter afterwards died. News has been received that the two troopers who were captured are now at the Ukamas station. The remainder of the garrison, eight strong, crossed the frontier on to British territory at Schuitdrift. Morenga afterwards trekked from the Jerusalem district towards the west, with 200 warriors and 300 women and children. German troops are in pursuit.

£2 5s. 0d. in one payment,
11s. 6d. per quarter,

If you want more than two books at a time you can obtain additional volumes on the fol-

Poets and writers have covered pages in praise of books. Never until to-day has it been possible to taste the delights of books, to pick and choose from half-a-million tomes "of fancy and of power," in the way that "The Standard" has made it possible.

That is, to have fresh books brought, each day to your home (free, if you live in London or the suburbs) an inexhaustible library at your disposal without purchasing a single volume, and for an expenditure of the least shade over 1½d. a day.

Even if you live in the country, the service of books offered by "The Standard" is still cheaper than any other. Arrangements have been made whereby the cost of carriage is greatly reduced.

Have you ever tried a circulating library and found it disappointing? "The Standard" has incurred an enormous expense in providing a library on a new plan. Would it not be cheap

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

THE TSAR'S OPPORTUNITY.

Undoubtedly the most striking feature in the actual situation in Russia is the quick responsiveness shown by the people to an appeal from the Crown. A day or two ago Russia was seething with rebellion. Suddenly the Sovereign speaks, and the scene is transformed; the dislocated economic and social forces of the Empire begin to knit themselves together again, revolutionary songs die away, and the streets are filled with joyous multitudes enthusiastically singing "God Save the Tsar." This kaleidoscopic change seems to prove two things. The first is that the process of identifying the Tsar as the author of the nation's wrongs has not as yet made substantial headway, any more than it had made substantial headway in the earliest years of ratepayer but to extend the power of the Council, and they opposed to their utmost the recommendation of the Improvements Committee that Lord Avebury's offer should be accepted. Fortunately the interests of economy have for once prevailed. The more level-headed members of the Council are obviously growing alarmed at the rapid growth in the financial liabilities to which the Council is now committed, and many of those who voted against Lord Avebury's scheme when it was first discussed some years ago yesterday voted for it. The chickens have come home to roost, and even Progressive County Councillors have at last discovered that there is a limit to the burdens that can be imposed upon the ratepayer.

AMERICAN JOURNALISM.

The bicentenary of American journalism has just been celebrated. They had a printing press in the Western hemisphere as early as 1639; but the first newspaper, published at Boston, appeared exactly two hundred years ago. English newspapers, if we are strict in our definitions, are not a great deal older; and it is interesting to look back and see on what divergent lines the Press of the two

THE DAILY GRAPHIC, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1905.

A GOOD DAY FOR THE FIELDERS.

Contrary to anticipation, the sky being very dull and overcast, the concluding day's sport at Leicester was decided under fairly pleasant conditions. The attendance was once more on the small side, but some fair sport was seen. Desespoir had won so cleverly on the previous day that he was made favourite for the Harborough Handicap, and, with Templeman in the saddle, he again proved equal to the occasion, but only after a close finish with Slip-Up. King's Letter further increased Elsey's and Wheatley's winning account by taking the Humberstone Plate, being afterwards retained for 105gs., while Mr. T. H. Walker gave 40gs. for the second, Cage Bird. Cut Capers' saddle broke after completing half the journey, and Higgs had great difficulty in maintaining his seat. The Royston-trained Pennacook was all the rage for the Clock Tower Handicap, but Martin had again to put up with second berth, Solano leading all the way. In the November Plate, the principal race of the afternoon, Prince Royal further demonstrated that he will not run his races out, for St. Ange gelding, an outsider, beat him a neck, Mr. Sam Loates, the owner of the winner, afterwards retaining him for 260gs. Bramble Jelly colt and Falcon gave a lot of trouble at the barrier, while Stephanas was in one of his uncertain moods. Ilfracombe filly proved a false favourite for the Apethorpe Nursery Handicap, getting no nearer than fourth, this being due to the fact that Madden, on Mr. Leopold de Rothschild's Range, led all the way, but 100 to 7 being vainly

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1905.

After a short delay, for which Series, Bibiani and Vrll were responsible, the barrier ascended to a good start, but Bibiani and Ferment dwelt, and lost three or four lengths. Wargrave, second from the inside, made the play from Outbreak, on the outside, Spinning Minnow, in the centre, and Airship, with Alderman, Pradella, Wedding Ring and Long Tom also on the outside, and Cottager next and Ferment last, behind Imari. Thus they ran for a quarter of a mile, when Vrll took up the running and went on pursued by Wedding Ring, Long Tom, Imari and Spinning Minnow, then coming Outbreak, Airship and Pradella, with Bibiani now bringing up the rear. At the mile post Vrll was still acting as pioneer, being just clear of Imari, Wedding Ring and Spinning Minnow, with Outbreak, Airship, Long Tom, Wargrave, Pradella, Series and Ferment heading the others. Entering the straight Spinning Minnow assumed a long lead of Imari, Wedding Ring and Long Tom, but gave way to Imari and Ferment, the latter winning in a canter by three lengths; three-quarters of a length between the second and third. Pradella was fourth, Outbreak fifth, Airship sixth, Mark Time seventh, Wargrave eighth, Catscradle ninth, Vrll tenth, Series eleventh, Cliftonhall twelfth, Wedding Ring thirteenth, Cottager fourteenth, Glenamoy fifteenth, and Bibiani last. ROBERTS v. REECE.

After a tremendous struggle, the tournament game between John Roberts (scratch) and T. Reece (receives 2,500) at Soho Square ended on Saturday in a win for Roberts by 28 points. During the day Roberts made breaks of 112, 66, 113, 104, 64, 134, 65, 71 and 81 (unfinished), against 66, 110, 102, 60, 77, 66, 83 and 76 by Reece. Final scores: Roberts, 9,000; Reece, 8,972.

DAWSON v. DIGGLE.

At Leicester Square on Saturday Dawson was seen to splendid advantage, beating Diggle, to whom he conceded 1,000 start, by 842 points. At the close on Friday Dawson was nearly 400 in arrears, but with runs of 227, 78, 133, 166, 107 and 110 he went in front in the afternoon, while at night he put on two magnificent breaks of 429 and 321 (unfinished). Diggle's best were 82 and 73. Final scores: Dawson, 9,000; Diggle, 8,158.

statement lays down, cannot be allowed to regulate the strategic distribution of the ships at the outbreak of hostilities. Squadrons of varying strength are strategically required in certain waters, but the kaleidoscopic nature of international relations, as well as variations or new developments in sea-power, not only forbids any permanent allocation of numbers, but in fact points to the necessity for periodic redistribution of ships between our various fleets, to meet the political requirements of the moment. Since the redistribution of the fleet described by Lord Selborne in March last the strength of the Channel Fleet has been increased to seventeen battleships. The strength of the First and Second Cruiser Squadrons has been completed to six armoured cruisers each, vessels of the latest type. A squadron of three cruisers has also been employed in connection with the settlement of the Newfoundland fishery question.

Next Year's "Grand Manœuvres,"

The grand manœuvres have been arranged to take place in June next, when, in association with the putting to sea of every fighting ship intended to be used in war, there will be an extended test made as to the working of the scheme recently elaborated for the protection of trade, when the co-operation of the shipping interest is hoped for in elucidating the difficult problem.

Four New Armoured Ships a Year.

The statement emphasises the necessity of rapid ship-building, pointing out that however formidable foreign ship-building programmes may appear on paper this country can always overtake them by reason of our resources and our power of rapid construction. At the present time strategic requirements necessitate an output of four large armoured

Mr. Balfour is also expected to-day at Downing Street, and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who travelled South yesterday from his Scottish residence, is due to arrive in London at an early hour this morning.

It is, says the Press Association, considered probable that the Prime Minister may this afternoon or evening seek an opportunity at Buckingham Palace of formally communicating to the King his desire to be relieved of office. There is just a possibility, however, that the right hon. gentleman's interview may be deferred until to-morrow, when he is one of the guests invited by Lord Alington to

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S MESSAGE.

SOME ETHICAL DISTINCTIONS.

President Roosevelt yesterday sent his annual message to Congress. The message is 20,000 words long, and 39 subjects are discussed, the principal being Government regulation of railway rates and life insurance; reduction of Government expenditure; and the exercise of compulsion by the United States on the South American Republics to meet their foreign obligations. In discussing the Trusts, he says it is impossible to do away with corporations, but they should be held strictly to account by the Federal Government. The President believes that the control of railway rates is the principal curb that can be placed on the corporations.

Mr. Roosevelt urges an inquiry into the condition of women engaged in industry. He says over five million American women are now engaged in gainful occupations, and adds:—"The introduction of women into industry is working change and disturbance in the domestic and social life of the nation. The decrease in marriage, and especially in the birth-rate, has been coincident with it."

SPEECH BY THE TSAR.

WHY THE REFORMS ARE DELAYED.

MORE MILITARY MUTINIES.

STRIKERS STILL HOLD OUT.

At the review of the Semenovsky Regiment at Tsarskoe Selo on Monday, says Reuter's Agency, the Tsar delivered an address to the troops, in which his Majesty commended their tried loyalty. At the regimental banquet given by the officers, the Tsar drank to the health of the latter, and once more thanked the regiment for its exemplary services, and concluded by expressing the wish that the regiment would always show itself as firmly united as it was at present.

post and telegraph strike now proceeding is estimated at 400,000 roubles daily.

STRIKERS' KINDLY ACT.

Notwithstanding the strike, the wires are always at the disposal of the Council of the Workmen's Delegates, the president of which is M. Krustoleff. A few days ago the wife of the late Professor Borikowski, wishing to inform her relatives in the provinces of the death of her husband, applied to both Count Witte and the Minister of the Interior to send a telegram on her behalf, but her request was refused. As a last resource the widow went to M. Krustoleff and offered him several thousand roubles if he would cause a telegram to be sent. Her money was refused, but the telegram was despatched free of charge.

REPORTED BRITISH ACTION.

The English agents of the Finnish Steamship Company, of Helsingfors, have, according to the "Dagens Nyheter," telegraphed to know whether the steamers Wellamo or Ohanna, belonging to the company, could be chartered by the British Government for the conveyance of British residents in Russia from St. Petersburg or Reval to Stockholm or Copenhagen.

SWEDEN'S PRECAUTIONS.

The Stockholm "Aftenblad" learns that two men-of-war are to be sent to Russia to protect the Swedes there, and to bring home any that desire to return. The torpedo gun vessel Pallander is preparing to leave for St. Petersburg to meet the Russian fleet.

CABINET MAKING.

STILL IN PROGRESS.

NO OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

The following intimation was posted at Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's residence in Belgrave Square yesterday:—

"FOR THE PRESS."

"It is impossible to keep a list of visitors. No statement as to further appointments to offices can be given to-day."

The term "no further appointments" is explained as meaning no appointments in addition to that of Sir Henry himself, which is the only one at present announced.

Sir Henry's visitors yesterday included Mr. Bryce, Mr. Morley, Mr. Herbert Gladstone, Lord Carrington, Lord Portsmouth, Lord Esher, and Sir Robert Reid. In the evening the correspondent of a Press agency was informed in answer to inquiries that things were pursuing their normal course, and that no information to communicate.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

The King yesterday shot over Oak Hill and the Rookery at Crichele, joining the party about noon. The other guests were Earl Crews, Viscount Villiers, Lord Elcho, Sir Charles Hardinge, Captain the Hon. Seymour Fortescue, Mr. Lionel Rothschild, and Mr. Thelsson. The weather was very fine and clear. Shooting was carried on briskly until half-past three, and a good bag was obtained. During the luncheon interval the King and the house party were photographed near the head-keeper's house.

According to present arrangements, the King will be present to meet Viscount Portman's Hounds at Crichele to-day, and after lunch will motor to Kingston Lacy, where Mrs. Banks has invited numerous friends and tenants.

Princess Henry of Battenberg, with whom was Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein, visited Windsor yesterday afternoon, and opened there, in the Royal Riding School, the use of which had been granted by the King, the annual exhibition of needlework by the Berkshire and Buckinghamshire Needlework Guild, of which her Royal Highness is president and patroness. Princess Henry and Princess Christian both showed specimens of their own handiwork.

Yesterday morning the Duchess of Albany opened an Exhibition and Sale of Water-colour Drawings, at the Graves' Gallery, by West Country and other artists, in aid of the building fund of Lower Brixham Parish Church, in memory of the author of the church's history.

CHARING CROSS DISASTER.

ANOTHER BODY RECOVERED.

CLEARING THE WRECKAGE.

The last of the bodies of the men overwhelmed by the disaster at Charing Cross railway station on Tuesday evening has not yet been recovered. Up to last night it had not been possible to explore the wreckage inside the Avenue Theatre, where the body of the unfortunate carpenter, Thomas Richards, still lies buried under a mass of brickwork and timbers. Throughout yesterday the work of shoring up the outer wall of the building was in progress, and it is necessary that this task should be completed and the building made secure from further collapse before the debris can be overhauled.

It was not until after darkness had fallen last evening that the last body was taken from the ruins at the station. It was that of Alfred Jones, a painter, of Bermondsey; he was working on

MILD WEATHER IN LONDON.

TWELVE DEGREES WARMER THAN AT NICE.

A FORTY YEARS' RECORD.

Exceptionally mild weather has prevailed over the British Isles during the last few days. The air is being drawn from off the Atlantic, and is not only warm but very damp, while rain is falling with considerable frequency over the entire country.

In London the thermometer in the screen yesterday registered 56deg., which is 11deg. above the average, and is in agreement with the highest day temperature in the middle of April or October. So high a temperature has not been recorded at Greenwich on the corresponding day for more than forty years.

At eight o'clock yesterday morning the thermometer in London stood at 53deg., which was 12deg. higher than at Nice at the same time, and was 3deg. warmer than at Biarritz. The temperature at Christiansund, under the influence of a warm wind blowing on to the Norwegian coast from the Atlantic, was 3deg. warmer than at Nice.

The present conditions are favourable to the continuance of mild and damp weather.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

After the Council yesterday the King conferred the honour of knighthood upon Mr. Justice Henry Sutton and Mr. James Buckingham.

The early Courts of this year will be well attended, and should be remarkably brilliant. There are not only a number of brides to be presented on their marriages, but the new peeresses of both political parties. Among the latter will be Lady Knaresborough, Lady Hayter, Lady Northcliffe, Lady Michelham, the Viscountess Iveagh, the Countess of Plymouth, and the Countess of Liverpool. The new brides will include Viscountess Brackley, Viscountess Lewisham, Lady Willoughby d'Eresby, Lady Loch, Lady Hyde, the Marchioness of Bute, the Marchioness Townshend, and Lady Crofton. Among the débutantes who make their first curtsey to their King early in the year will be Lady Violet Manners, Lady Jean Cochrane (second daughter of Earl and Countess Dundonald), and Miss Joan Campbell (niece of the Duke of Argyll).

The Grand Duchess Marie of Saxe-Coburg is leaving Germany this week for Nice, where she will spend the next three months at her house near there—the Chateau de Fabron. She will be accompanied by her youngest daughter, Princess Beatrice of Saxe-Coburg. It is rumoured that there is a project of marriage between this Princess and Prince George of Brunswick-Luneburg, elder son last week at her apartments at Hampton Court Palace, after five weeks' illness, took place yesterday afternoon at Hampton-on-Thames Cemetery.

Among the diners in the Pink Room of Prince's Restaurant last week were Lord Chichester, Sir Edward and Lady Clarke, Sir Henry Dering, Sir Edward Seymour, Sir Theodore Brinckman, Sir George Bridges, Mr. George Alexander, Mr. Nat Goodwin, Mr. A. W. Pinero, and Miss Irene Vanbrugh.

THE NEW GALLERY.

In the sixth exhibition of the International Society of Sculptors, Painters and Gravers, held at this gallery, sculpture receives special attention, and the admirable arrangement of no fewer than sixty-nine examples of the art in the Central Hall is worthy of especial remark. Among the principal attractions in this department may be named the excellent works of the president, M. Auguste Rodin, "Le Baiser" and "Pastor and Francesca." We have also the graceful "Jeune fille se coiffant" and the "Adam and Eve" by M. A. Bartholomé, the "Tigress and Wild Boar" by Mr. J. H. M. Furse, "Mineur à la veine," "Moisson" and others by the late Constantin Meunier, "Centaur and Child," by Mr. Charles Ricketts, "Mendiant" by M. C. Delacour, "Man Crouching" by Mr. Paul W. is nothing that Great Britain sends to America that is not heavily taxed. And at any time the American cotton magnates like to form a corner Lancashire will suffer another famine.

I have spoken of Germany, and how we have to fight her with one hand tied. But the following facts will appeal to our starving millions far more eloquently than I can, and the facts and figures, mark you, are from a German source and no less an authority than the German Imperial Statistical Office.

From a return of the trade of the German Empire with the United Kingdom for 1902, which the Imperial Statistical Department issued, we are informed that the value of the entire trade between the two countries in the year named was seventy-eight million pounds sterling. This is almost the exact total for 1901, a decrease in the exports to Germany being balanced by an increase in Germany's exports to this country.

It is pointed out that England still continues to be Germany's principal commercial customer. The United States follows with a total trade of 63 millions, Austria-Hungary comes next with one of 62 millions, and Russia comes fourth with a total trade of 57 millions. While, however, England continues to be Germany's principal customer, Germany no longer returns the compliment, for the United States, Russia, and Austria now take precedence, in the order named, in exports to the German Empire.

Attention is called to the remarkable expansion of Germany's trade with the British Empire as a whole during the past six years. In 1902

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

THE CAPRICIOUS PENDULUM.

The triumphant Liberals, as Mr. Chamberlain declared on Saturday, are difficult to satisfy. Mr. Asquith, who tempers his "thirst for blood" with a certain epicurism, complained, also on Saturday, that the progress of the elections was "monotonously means of picking out the one candidate who commands the approval of the majority. The objection to a second ballot is, of course, the expense; but that is a small matter compared with the danger the country runs of being misrepresented, and this danger is certain to increase with the growing activity of the Labour party and of other sectional groups.

THE EDGE OF HONESTY.

In various walks of life people contribute to superannuation funds, either by direct payment or by sacrificing a small proportion of their earnings; and a case dealt with in the King's Bench on Saturday throws light upon a point of considerable interest to the controllers of all such funds. A railway signalman, whose professional record was described as "clean" by the company, was unfortunately tempted to swindle a bookmaker, and was awarded eight months' imprisonment. The company very naturally decided to dismiss the man. They also withheld his pension, relying on a rule that any contributor dismissed for dishonesty should forfeit his advantages. The judge held that they rightly interpreted the rule, although the offender had not robbed the company nor his fellow-servants. On the

A NATURE POET.

["The Cloud Kingdom." By I. Henry Wallis. Lane. 4s. net.]

The "nature poet" has held high place in English literature since Thomson's "Seasons" sounded, as it were, an overture to the organ music of Wordsworth, but it is surprising how little the naturalist-poet has made himself heard. A true love of nature, one might think, would imply some study of it, and nature study is rich in the materials of poetry. Yet the singers who rhapsodise over bird-song too often go wrong, for instance, over such a simple matter as the difference between the note of the blackbird and the thrush—an error which, by the way, shows that they are not close students of that true naturalist-poet Tennyson. A warm welcome is due, then, to Mr. I. Henry Wallis's little book, "The Cloud Kingdom," in which every poem has for its subject some common English bird, and which voices in delightful verse the emotions of the true lover of the woodland and its life. His first poem, "The Greenfinch," shows him at once to be no ignorant sentimentalist:—

Adown the moated sunbeams
Their calls continuous fell,
A little harsh and grating,
And musical as well.

About each bird in his poems some touch of youthful memory, or hint of romance weaves its sentiment. How full of a questioning sweetness to the naturalist poet is the note first heard overhead in summer

Parker, or Thoreau! As a whole, the book is thoroughly readable, and affords a change from the rest of the books on Russia now issuing from the Press.

THE LIFE OF MOHAMMED.

["Mohammed," by D. S. Margolionth. (Putnam's "Heroes of the Nations" Series.) 5s.]

In the early middle ages Mohammed was believed to be an idol to whom men offered human sacrifices, and Dante gave him a place in hell. Later on an Englishman wrote a book to prove that Mohammed represented the corruption of Christianity in the East, just as the Pope represented its corruption in the West; both being symbolised in the two-horned ram of the Book of Daniel. But since 1789 toleration has advanced by leaps and bounds, and now Mohammed finds himself included in the "Heroes of the Nations" series. Mr. Margolionth's book is neither an indictment of the Prophet nor an apology for him, but an account of the way in which he constructed a State and an Empire out of the Arab tribes. The earliest biographers of Mohammed were, as a rule, sensible men, and the legends that have grown up round him have come not from Arabian but Persian sources. Indeed, it may be said of him that history was present at his birth and at all the events of his stirring life. Here we see him as the successful business man, subject to epileptic fits, superstitious, deeply attached to his wife and children, and profoundly skilled in reading character. Ambition may have been the motive for the role he played, but the opportunity presented itself because the tribes of Naid and Hijaz had no authority to whom they

ABOUT AUTHORS AND PUBLISHERS.

"Dagonet."

Mr. George R. Sims, whose new romance, "For Life—and After," is being issued by Messrs. Chatto and Windus this week, maintains his reputation as one of the hardest-working writers in the kingdom. Not content with one new romance, and the regular weekly work which every Refereeder would be lost without on Sundays, he has another book coming out later in the season with Messrs. Greening, and can even find time to throw in a few expert articles on the Crick Tunnel mystery. But work, to Mr. Sims, is the very salt of life. Sleep and holidays, if he could, he would shun altogether; "they are ruination to a writer," he once remarked, "and digestible food is almost as bad." If Mr. Sims is to be taken seriously, the ideal existence for an author or journalist is a twenty hours' day and chronic dyspepsia. He is a great believer in imagination, and declares that in writing a Christmas story he always chooses one of the hottest days of the summer, and surrounds himself with iced drinks. "One puts so much fervour into one's descriptions of blazing Yule logs and glittering snow under just the opposite conditions," he says.

The Making of George R. Sims.

Mr. Sims was educated at Hanwell and Bonn, whence he turned from the amusement of translating Heine and Schiller to undergo two years' monotony in a City office, varied by journalistic work in the evenings. Then he joined through Mr. and Mrs. Forbes—Mrs. Forbes went to Newlyn as Miss Elizabeth Armstrong—for they are among the few old members who have remained faithful to the Cornish colony.

Dr. Leyds as Historian.

Dr. Leyds has preserved an unbroken silence since the signing of the peace at Vereeniging, but he will shortly reappear in a new rôle—as historian of "The First Annexation of the Transvaal," an extensive work, which is to be published by Mr. Fisher Unwin. Every effort, we are told, has been made by the author to avoid introducing extraneous matter. The internal politics are not mentioned, while the relations of the Boers with the natives are referred to only when these brought the Boers into contact with Great Britain. English authorities, especially the Blue-books, have been cited almost exclusively.

Queen Maud and Tiny Tim.

A pretty story is told in this month's "Dickensian" of the new Queen of Norway and her admiration of Charles Dickens, many of whose books she knows by heart. "The 'Christmas Carol' she has read so often that she can recite it from beginning to end; and not long ago she said, 'No one can be really bad who can cry over Tiny Tim. Whenever I feel that I am getting a wee bit selfish I read 'A Christmas Carol' through, and then I do something to brighten the DEBATE IN THE LORDS.

DECLARATION BY THE DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE.

The House of Lords was occupied yesterday with a fiscal debate which may be regarded as the fore-runner of the more important discussion that is to take place in the House of Commons next Thursday.

The Duke of DEVONSHIRE opened the debate by referring to the figures showing the imports and exports of the United Kingdom, and, in moving for further returns, argued that all the evidence available pointed to the growing prosperity of the country. He then went on to insist that it would be disastrous for the Unionist party to commit itself to a policy of Protection, and expressed regret at the correspondence that had passed between Mr. Bal-

OPPOSITION AMENDMENT.

The number of questions submitted to Ministers in the House of Commons yesterday was even larger than on the previous day, but only a small proportion were of any public interest. The question which attracted most attention was one dealing with the brass grille that screens the Ladies' Gallery from the eyes of the House. Mr. NORMAN asked whether the time had not come when this trellis work might "safely be removed." Sir H. CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN, smiling as ever, replied: "I was not aware that the question of safety has ever entered into the consideration of this matter, and I am not sure whether the hon. gentleman points to danger from, or danger to, the occupants of the gallery." He went on to say that the question was a very old one, and perhaps it would be well for a new House to wait a little while before trying to settle it. Mr. CREMER, however, interposed with the remark that he had been informed that the opinion of the ladies in the gallery was in favour

RAILWAY ACCIDENT AT STAFFORD.

FOUR MEN INJURED.

The London and North Western express, which left Euston at midnight on Sunday, was running into Stafford at four o'clock yesterday morning when the seventh carriage from the engine left the rails, causing three others to be derailed. One of the carriages crashed into a bridge which spans the main line, and was wrecked, turning completely over on its side. The brake van dashed into some stables by the bridge, and a third carriage shot underneath the bridge, and was thrown across the lines. A Mr. Wixley and a Mr. Galer, of London, and Mr. Pollen, of Preston, were slightly injured, but were able to continue their journey. Captain Seabrooke, of the East Lancashire Regiment, had a compound fracture of the leg. Before being taken to the Infirmary at Stafford he made the following statement:—

"I was lying asleep on the seat of a first-class compartment, and was awakened by the tremendous jolting of the carriage, which gave me the impression that the train was off the line. Then all of a sudden there was a crash, and the carriage seemed to open up over me. I saw sky overhead, and the sides of the carriage seemed to fall away. I felt an acute pain in my face and legs, and found myself buried underneath a quantity of debris. I began to shout for help. I could hear people walking about, but they could not find me at first. I was the only occupant of the compartment."

ALLEGED MOTOR SCHOOL FRAUDS.

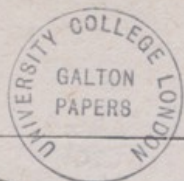

NO CASE FOR THE JURY.

At the Old Bailey yesterday, before the Common Serjeant, the case in which two young men were indicted for conspiracy to defraud in connection with the Motor Drivers' Union was brought to an abrupt conclusion. The prisoners were Riski Medawar, the principal of the Union, and John Raymond Kerr, the secretary. The Union had its offices in Victoria Street, Westminster, and owned a garage in Pimlico. A large number of men who desired to learn motor-driving became pupils of the Union at a fee of four guineas for the course. The allegation of the prosecution was that the Union was a fraudulent venture and that it never possessed the appliances necessary for imparting instruction.

Mr. Marshall Hall, K.C., said the defence was that this was a genuine school. They did not say that this was the best motor school that one could have wished for, but in these days there was a good deal of colouring about advertisements. The fact was that the business grew beyond the capacity of the prisoners. The prosecution themselves admitted that it was a genuine school in its early stages.

Mr. E. Victor, of New Bond Street, an architect, the landlord of the premises, who is himself a motorist, said that in his opinion the garage was reasonably equipped for the purposes of a school. He would undertake to teach motor-driving to any intelligent man with the appliances at the school.

The prisoner Medawar, on oath, said he was a Turkish subject and came to this country two years ago. He had had considerable experience with

ARAB AND TURK IN THE YEMEN.

TERRIBLE SCENES AT SANA.

Mr. Leland Buxton, who has just returned from a tour of several months in the Persian Gulf and in the Yemen, yesterday told a Press representative some of his experiences.

While in the Yemen he desired to proceed to Sana, and asked permission to go into the interior. "Several days' delay occurred," said Mr. Buxton, "but finally the Mutessarif consented to allow me to proceed, and gave me an escort of 40 infantry. The travelling was very rough, and we passed many camps of Turkish troops. Most of the escort were wretchedly ill, and were unable to keep up with us during the twelve hours a day that we rode our mules. We found Sana to be practically depopulated, having been reduced from a population of 70,000 to something like 20,000, as a result of the famine during the Arab siege. The Jews suffered terribly during this period, and almost the whole town is deserted. Sana, which, so far as I know, has been visited by few Englishmen, has magnificent and very large buildings, covered with decorations, and the town is surrounded by mud walls. There was a very large number of Turkish troops in the town when I was there. It was stated that the Imam was driven to rebellion against the Turks by the local Sheikhs."

Mr. Buxton stated that on his way to the capital

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Viscount Windsor has received an appointment on the Earl of Selborne's staff in South Africa. He is the eldest son of the Earl and Countess of Plymouth, and attained his majority last October, when there were great celebrations at St. Fagan's Castle. Lord Windsor starts for the Cape almost immediately.

Lady Wimborne's dinner and party, which were unavoidably postponed in February, are now fixed for Friday, May 4th.

Lady Dorothy Osborne, the second of the Duke and Duchess of Leeds' four daughters, will be among this season's debutantes. The Duchess, who always winters abroad, is a sister of Lord Durham and Lady Pembroke, and one of the many granddaughters of the late Dowager Duchess of Abercorn. She is keenly interested in art and literature, and two very readable volumes from her pen are "Capricious" and "A Lover of the Beautiful." Her only son, the Marquess of Carmarthen, was born at Bordighera, five years ago, and seventeen after his parents' marriage.

Little Lord Romilly, who on Thursday kept his seventh birthday, is staying in Cheshire with his uncle, Sir Philip Grey-Egerton, the late Lady Romilly's only brother. Later on, the little orphan Peer will, it is stated, reside with some old friends of his mother's in Germany. His grandfather, the second Lord Romilly, it will be remembered, perished have prompted the action of Lord Elgin; but whatever they are they will have to be very substantial to justify so serious an interference with the rights of a self-governing Colony. It is, however, no ordinary question of Constitutional right which is at stake. The safety of the whole white population of South Africa is concerned in this interposition of the Imperial Government between the British authorities in Natal and the restless native tribes. Throughout South Africa the Kaffirs are in an overwhelming majority. Their normal attitude is not too friendly to their masters, and anything which tends to weaken the predominance of the whites and the wholesome system by which the peace is kept, is likely to lead to very serious disaster. A native rising in Natal has been averted during the last few weeks solely through the firmness and tact of the local authorities and the prestige which attaches to their courageous administration. Whatever justification there may be for Lord Elgin's order to suspend the execution of the convicted rebels and murderers, there can be no doubt that this interference will go far to diminish the authority of the local white man in the eyes of the native. It is especially dangerous at this moment, when a spirit of un-is evident that neither Lord Kitchener nor the Viceroy finds any justification for military retrenchment in the reverses sustained by Russia. Lord Minto even apprehends that Russia will, sooner or later, attempt to recover military prestige by menacing the Indian frontier. While it might be unwise to disregard the opinions of a distinguished General and of a statesman on the spot, it cannot be said that the view is largely shared by politicians in England. Here there is a very general opinion that there can be no menace to India for a good many years to come.

STREET BETTING.

In these democratic days many people who disapprove of gambling argue that it is illogical and even unfair to frame laws against street betting while the upper classes are able to indulge in gambling without incurring any penalties. The argument, however, will not bear examination, for it is both sentimental and unsound. All gambling is reprehensible, but street betting is obviously more injurious to public morals than any system of gambling in private. The Home Secretary appears to be fully alive to the evils of gambling in all its forms, and would, if he could, put and come up again smiling the next afternoon. He hoped that the Prime Minister was made of the same stern stuff. "His instincts are sound, and the more I listen to him the more I like his old-fashioned style of talking." The PRIME MINISTER good-humouredly replied that perhaps if Mr. Healy had been more in the House of late he might have taken another view. Mr. HEALY concisely explained that he had been taking the Rest Cure.

Before the end of the afternoon all the new Rules of Procedure had been agreed to, and the House proceeded to discuss the second reading of the Seed Potatoes (Ireland) Bill. This was agreed to, and another equally non-contentious measure, the Marine Insurance Bill, was also fortunate enough to pass its second reading.

Prevention of Corruption.

The third Bill was the Prevention of Corruption Bill, a measure that has passed through the House of Lords again and again, and has on some occasions advanced so far as its Committee stage in the House of Commons. Sir WILLIAM ROBSON, Solicitor-General, was in charge of the Bill, and gave the House a short history of the efforts made by the late Lord Russell of Killowen to get this important Bill passed into law. He explained that a clause had been introduced into the Bill which made it necessary for any person who wished to prosecute under the Bill to first obtain the fiat of the Attorney or Solicitor-General. In the discussion that followed no general opposition was made to the measure, but there was some criticism of its clauses. On behalf of the front Opposition Bench Mr. STUART WORTLEY expressed his approval of the Bill, and hoped it would become law. Mr. HENRY VIVIAN, one of the Liberal Labour mem-

MORE TROUBLE IN NATAL.

— RISING OF A DEPOSED CHIEF. —

— FORCE IN PURSUIT. —

A correspondent of the Central News at Durban, Natal, telegraphed yesterday:—The excitement caused by the misunderstanding with the Imperial Government over the execution of the Kaffirs at Richmond has not had time to quiet down before there has come a startling and quite unexpected development of the native trouble: Chief Bambaata, of the Greytown district, who some time ago was deposed for misconduct and suspected disloyalty, has risen in virtual rebellion. He fled, says Reuter's correspondent, with his followers, upon his deposition, and has swooped down upon the district. He has raided a kraal and burnt the huts. The Regent, who it was at first reported had been murdered by Bambaata, but who, according to official despatches from Greytown, has been taken prisoner and carried off, is loyal to the Government, and had been appointed Regent of the tribe during the minority of Bambaata's brother. He is an uncle of the deposed chief.

The Pursuing Force.

The strength of Bambaata's following is not yet known, says the Central News correspondent, but the Government is already taking all possible steps to deal effectively with the emergency. The Resident Magistrate at Greytown, and all the available police in the vicinity, have started in pursuit, and

THE GREAT ERUPTION.

DISASTER IN NAPLES.

COLLAPSE OF A MARKET.

MANY VICTIMS.

THE DEATH-ROLL IN THE VILLAGES.

Naples is plunged into grief at a fresh calamity caused by the great eruption of Vesuvius. A great quantity of ashes and sand from the volcano settled on the roof of the Monte Oliveto market, causing it to collapse. Many people were buried in the ruins. Twelve corpses have been recovered, and more than a hundred persons were injured. The work of rescuing them from the debris was at once taken in hand.

King Edward is much affected by the disaster, and has sent a telegram from Messina to King Victor Emmanuel, expressing regret and deep sympathy on account of the calamity.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena have sheltered in carriages of the Vesuvian Railway. It is impossible to bring the injured away owing to the present lack of transport facilities, but steps have been taken to remove them to Somma Vesuviana, where the railway is again working.

The Death Roll at San Giuseppe.

The rain of ashes which fell at San Giuseppe from Mount Ottajano from Saturday evening until Sunday evening destroyed the estates throughout the district. More than 200 persons perished. The roof of a church fell in while a congregation was at service. Forty-nine dead bodies have so far been recovered from the ruins. The roads are impassable. The authorities have ordered the despatch of food, medicine, and relief.

Twenty-six more bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the church. With the fifty-three already found this makes a total of seventy-nine. The Prefect has suspended the Mayor of San Giuseppe, who left his post and also neglected to inform the authorities of the disaster.

Terrible Scenes.

The scenes when the first victims were unearthed were of the most terrible description. The position of the bodies showed that they had suffered great fear before death, the faces still retaining a distinct look of terror. Three bodies were found in a confessional at one of the churches, and two others under the high altar, one holding convulsively to the crucifix, as though he hoped for a miracle. An old woman was found kneeling with her hands raised as if to ward off the advancing danger. A little girl was discovered by the rescuers dead.

FIRE AT WOOLWICH ARSENAL.

NARROW ESCAPES AND INJURY TO FIREMEN.

A CURIOUS INCIDENT.

Yesterday Woolwich Arsenal was the scene of a fire, which at one time was threatening, and occupied the attention of a large force from the London Fire Brigade, both river and land, for some hours. One superintendent and five firemen were injured, the firemen so seriously as to need their detention in the Arsenal hospital. Several other men engaged in salving operations had narrow escapes. The scene of the outbreak was a storehouse known as "A" Store, situated near the river-side by the west wharf. The Arsenal police, obeying their orders as to the admission of strangers without permission of the commanding officer, on the arrival of the first set of firemen refused to admit them. Through an unfortunate crossing of messages orders had not reached the gate to permit of the first of the engines to enter. The delay, however, did not last long, and soon the engines passed inside and along the building. The building was fully a mile from the nearest store of explosives. It is thought that the fire was traceable to a defective flue. There would be an official inquiry into the cause of the outbreak.

Fire Brigade Report.

The official report issued last night from the headquarters of the London Fire Brigade concerning the Woolwich Arsenal fire was as follows:—"Called at 11.13 a.m. to the Royal Woolwich Arsenal, S.E., occupied by His Majesty's War Department, Pall Mall, S.W. Supposed cause of fire defect in flue. Where insured unknown. A building of two and three floors, about 200 by 45 feet (used as Army Ordnance stores and offices); upper floors and contents nearly burned out, and most part of roof off; rest of building and contents severely damaged by fire, heat, smoke, and water; and a building of three floors, about 170 feet by 100 feet (used as Artillery Field stores), front scorched; rest of building and contents slightly damaged by smoke and water; window glass of buildings surrounding by breakage. Four explosions of magnesium."

NEW POTATOES.

DECREASED IMPORTS.

New potatoes are coming to this country either very late this year or in greatly reduced quantities. During March our total potato imports were but 51,878 cwt., as against 95,473 cwt. in March of last year, and 1,153,979 cwt. in March two years ago. These figures include all potatoes received, but we may take it that imports from France and the Channel Islands are practically all of new potatoes at this period of the year. As compared with March of the two previous years, our supplies from these two sources last month were as follows:—

Imports in March.	France. cwt.	Channel Islands. cwt.
1905.....	12,142	1,207
1906.....	62,268	1,993
1904.....	401,725	1,299

The "other countries"—which would include our important supplies from Spain and the Canary Islands, all new—also show a great falling-off. From these countries we received but 15,305 cwt., against 25,330 cwt. and 451,973 cwt. in March of 1905 and 1904 respectively. Germany sent us 23,224 cwt., and is the only country that increased its supplies over 1905, when we received but Prints Mounted in Albums.

Any clean white card looks so harmless that, except for previous experience or the advice of others, no hesitation would be felt in mounting a photograph thereon. The fact is, however, that in many commercially-prepared cardboards acids are used in the course of their manufacture, and their presence in contact with the print made wet by the mountant becomes an active source of danger, producing, in the case of silver prints, spots or discolouration. Care should, therefore, be taken to use only such card mounts as are made specially for photographic use, which can be obtained at any photographic store. But occasion may arise when it is desired to mount a print in some book or album the leaves of which have not been thus specially prepared, and in that case the prints may be to a great extent protected from harm by soaking them after washing in a 5 per cent. solution of borax, after which they may be blotted but not again washed, and the addition of borax made to the mountant in the proportion of 3 per cent. This should neutralise the effect of the acid, and prevent disaster.

"Red Chalk" Silver Prints.

For small-sized portraits, preferably those of a light and delicate character, such as vignettes or brand backed in stock, and so we are driven to back them ourselves. Like many another task, it is only "messy" when not done in a systematic manner. One point to observe is that the backing mixture should only cover the plate to within about one-eighth of an inch of the edges, so that in subsequently handling it one's fingers do not come into contact with the backing mixture. A sheet of cardboard with a rectangular opening a quarter of an inch shorter and narrower than the plate to be backed, may be laid on the plate before the backing is applied, so as to protect one-eighth margin all round; or a printing frame may be used in the same way, the rebate of the frame in like manner keeping a clean narrow edge. As to the preparation of a backing mixture, there are many formulae, but the following is a particularly good one: Alcohol (90 per cent.) 500 parts, white Marseilles soap (very finely powdered) 30 parts, dissolved in water; add to this erythrosin 5 parts, aurine 4 parts, and ivory black 4 parts. When ready to prepare plates, stir solution well, and spread with a soft brush upon back of plate. It will dry in ten minutes. During development remove with damp sponge or rag.

Combined Toning and Fixing.

"Given an inch they will take an ell" seems to be recognised as particularly characteristic of amateur photographers, and manufacturers, in self-protection, or rather in order to secure fair treatment of their goods, commonly issue instructions framed on the side of excessive caution. For instance, in

LORD CURZON IN INDIA.

(Published To-day.)

One of the great Viceroys who preceded Lord Curzon in India, the Marquess of Dufferin, said that while every Viceroy came to India with head erect, it was a fortunate administrator who at the end of his term of office did not return home with his head decapitated by public opinion and carried, like that of the Saint in the legend, under his arm. It cannot be supposed that Lord Curzon has ever been in apprehension of any such fate. Any act of decapitation that may have been performed he executed himself by the voluntary resignation of his post at a time when all parties joined to do him honour, and when the severance of his connection with India was regarded in many quarters as a public calamity. The chorus of rather melancholy approval of himself and of his work which made itself heard when he decided to return home will be renewed when the public makes itself acquainted with the work he did and the policy he pursued as revealed in the volume of his collected speeches. These speeches were delivered during his years of office, and in a broader sense than the speeches of any stay-at-home politician during a similar num-Congress and the Sufferers.

President Roosevelt has sent a message to Congress recommending that an additional appropriation of £300,000 be immediately voted for the relief of the sufferers. The message is accompanied by an official communication showing that the catastrophe is more appalling than anything of the kind that has befallen any portion of the country since the beginning of its history. The President states that supplies have already been delivered, or are now en route to San Francisco, to the approximate value of £300,000, which exceeds the amount already authorised by Congress by £100,000. Large sums, the message adds, are being raised by public subscription in this country. The President concludes by expressing deep appreciation of the kindly sympathy which prompted the very generous offers of assistance received from individuals in other countries, which, however, he has refused, as in his judgment there is no need of assistance from outside America's own borders.

A Benefit Performance by Sarah Bernhardt.

More than £200,000 were subscribed by citizens of New York on Saturday. Mr. William Waldorf Astor telegraphed a donation of £20,000. The proceeds of the 200th performance of Mr. Barrie's "Peter Pan," at the Empire Theatre, were handed

GRAPHIC NARRATIVES.

A NIGHT OF TERROR.

THROUGH THE RUINED STREETS.

An interesting story was told by Dr. Flemming, a well-known physician of Los Angeles, of his experiences in the early morning of the 18th, when he was staying at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco. The party of which he was a member formed in one of the streets on Wednesday morning, when the second shock made the Palace Hotel untenable. He said:

"An earthquake at San Francisco was no new sensation to me. I was there in 1868 when a boy, but the earthquake then was like the gentle rocking of a cradle compared with the one on Wednesday. I woke to hear the groaning of timbers, a grinding and creaking sound, and then a roaring in the street. The plastering and wall decorations fell, and it was as if the building was writhing. The darkness was intense. The air was rent by the shrieks of women, shriller than that of the cracking of timbers.

EPSOM RACES.

THE GREAT METROPOLITAN STAKES.

Judging by the large number of horses already arrived at Epsom for the Spring Meeting, which commences to-day, fields well up to the average should be sent out in the various events.

Seven races are set for decision on the opening day, of which the Great Surrey Handicap will, as usual, attract a high-class field of sprinters to the post. The chief event of the day, however, is the Great Metropolitan Stakes, one of the prettiest races of the year to watch, run as it is in full view of the stands all the way. Of late years it has fallen somewhat from its once high estate, but still retains a hold on the affections of the public. The field on the present occasion will not be as large as in some former years, but includes some good stayers.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE.

Brentford v. West Ham United.—Brentford won at home by three goals to one.

Reading v. Luton.—At Reading, this match ended in a draw of one goal each.

BOLTON WANDERERS CLUB.

The Bolton Wanderers Club has re-engaged Dane and Brookfield, goalkeepers, Baverstock and Struthers, backs, Clifford, Taylor, Boyd and Gaskell, half-backs, Stokes, Marsh, Shepherd, White and McEwan, forwards. The club has also secured the transfer of John Stanley, the left full back, who has played in twenty-five League games this season for the Wolverhampton Wanderers.

Homecoming of the Cup Winners.

The Everton team had a most enthusiastic welcome on their return to Liverpool last night with the English Cup. The players were welcomed at the station by the Lord Mayor and by thousands of people, who cheered them lustily.

NEWCASTLE'S DISAPPOINTMENT.

Newcastle football followers had nearly as keen a disappointment last night as on Saturday. They assembled at the station nearly ten thousand strong to give the United team a welcome home, although it had not won the Cup, but no team arrived. Out of the sixteen who had been to London only four came by the train by which the team was expected, the rest having declined to face their followers, and the crowd, after waiting a while, dispersed in disgust. The four who arrived left the station quietly and without ostentation.

the Native Indian Army. During the past few months it has been frequently suggested in various quarters that the Native Army in India was suffering from a spirit of dangerous unrest brought about by the recent measures taken by Lord Kitchener for strengthening the defences of the North-West Frontier. Even if there were any ground for such rumours, their publication can only be mischievous. To tell people that they are becoming disloyal is one of the most effective ways of creating disloyalty. Happily Mr. Morley was yesterday able to deny emphatically the whole legend that has been so industriously circulated. It is quite true that Lord Kitchener's reforms have imposed an extra strain on the men, and it is also true that the new frontier stations are unpopular with the whole army, European as well as native. There is, however, an enormous gulf between these admissions and the suggestion of disloyalty. In the Army at home there is always something that is unpopular, and Tommy Atkins is never without some grievance; but nobody suggests that grumbling at grievances means disloyalty to the Crown. Exactly the same considerations apply in India, with this important difference, that among almost all

THE BUDGET.

MR. ASQUITH'S FIRST STATEMENT.

COAL DUTY TO BE ABOLISHED.

TEA DUTY TO BE REDUCED.

In the House of Commons yesterday afternoon Mr. Asquith made his first financial statement as Chancellor of the Exchequer. The principal feature of his speech, which is epitomised in tabular form elsewhere, was the intimation that the Government proposed, from November next, to abolish the duty on exported coal, and to reduce the tea duty in July next from 6d. to 5d. There is to be no alteration in the income tax rate this year, but several postal reforms are to be introduced, which may mean a loss of about £105,000 per annum, and £135,000 is to be given to necessitous school districts.

venue from alcohol, there was the increase in revenue from the Post Office. Among the causes of this increase in revenue he mentioned the immense popularity of picture postcards. He remarked, however, in passing, that the proportion of Post Office expenditure to Post Office revenue had increased in the past few years from 73 per cent. to 76 per cent.

This Year's Estimates.

Coming next to the estimates of expenditure for the present year Mr. Asquith reminded the House that he and his colleagues were, to a large extent, obliged to accept the estimates prepared by their predecessors in office. They had not had time to go into these estimates and see where a reduction was possible. He insisted, however, that the expenditure of the country was altogether excessive, and, amid loud cheers from the Ministerial benches, he promised a substantial saving in future years. With regard to the estimate of revenue in the present year, Mr. Asquith began by pointing out a fact which, apparently, most members had not noticed, that there were fifty-three Sundays in this financial year; and, he added, amid loud laughter, "There is still worse to come, for there are two Good Fridays." As an offset to these days on which no revenue can be gathered in, there is the growth in population and the increased spending power of the people. His final estimate of revenue on the basis of present taxation was £144,860,000.

right hon. gentlemen below the gangway argue that the Bill which they demand will only give them equality, but I must refer them to the speech of the Attorney-General the other day, and to the declarations of the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the Secretary of State for War. I contend," continued Mr. Balfour, "that trade unions ought to be liable to be sued like every other body of a similar character." At this point one of the lawyers on the Ministerial benches intervened with the question, "What other non-corporate body can be sued?" The question was loudly cheered by the Ministerialists, but Mr. Balfour laughingly parried it by remarking, "I am sorry to have fallen into the clutches of the lawyers again." Mr. Balfour ended his speech by indicating that the Opposition would not challenge the second reading of the Bill.

Mr. RUFUS ISAACS rose next, and began his speech with an attempted comparison between the attitude of the present Government, of which Mr. Balfour so greatly complained, and his own "unsettled convictions" on the fiscal question. He was proceeding to elaborate this comparison, amid constant Ministerial cheers, when the Speaker gravely intervened, and asked, "What has the fiscal question to do with the Trades Disputes Bill?" The rest of the speech was little more than a repetition of arguments that had already been used more than once in the course of the afternoon.

The Bill was then read a second time without a

NEW ZEALAND FINANCES.

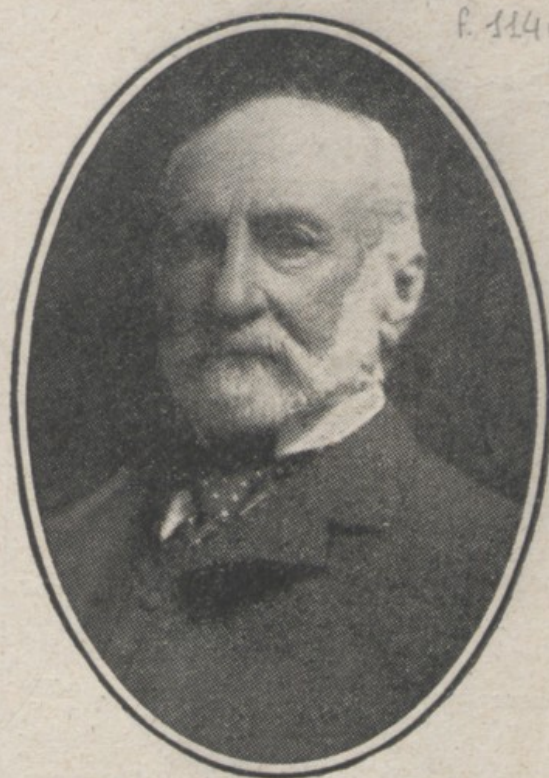

EFFECT OF PREFERENTIAL TARIFF.

The Premier, speaking at Dunedin yesterday, announced that the surplus for the year, including the previous balance, was £761,000. The revenue amounted to £7,347,197, and the expenditure to £6,655,002. Since the adoption of a preferential tariff the imports from Great Britain had slightly increased, whereas American imports, which were previously showing large increases, had remained stationary.—Reuter.

and France had now been at peace for many years. During that time there had been occasional disagreements, which, however, had never affected the generosity of London towards the French charity. If that was the case at other times what ought to be the case now, when the feelings between the two peoples was so exceedingly cordial?

PHILHARMONIC CONCERT.

César Franck's noble symphony in D minor dominated the programme of the Philharmonic Concert last night. The very great success which attended the production of this grand and beautiful work last year made its repetition almost a matter of course, and now that the Philharmonic Society has thrown the ægis of its authority over César Franck, it is to be hoped that his works will figure more often in London programmes. Under Dr. Cowen's careful direction the symphony was very well played last night, and its splendid dignity and poignant emotion made their accustomed effect. Another interesting feature of the concert was the first London performance of Sir Charles Stanford's fine violin concerto, which was produced at Leeds last year. The solo part in this was well played by M. Achille Rivarde, who also gave a brilliant rendering of Saint-Saëns's "Havanaise." Mme. Albani, who was the vocalist of the evening, was in particularly good voice, and she had a most enthusiastic reception. She sang the Countess's air from Mozart's "Nozze di Figaro" and Isolde's death-song in a way that revived pleasant memories of two of the greatest successes of her operatic career.

ACTION AGAINST THE "TIMES."

The case of Morgan v. Walter, an action by Colonel Morgan against the proprietors of the "Times," arising out of circumstances which were partly related in recent proceedings against the "Daily News," was mentioned in the High Court yesterday before Mr. Justice Lawrance.—Mr. Rufus Isaacs, K.C., counsel for the plaintiff, said the case was forty down in the Special Jury List, and his application was that the trial should be expedited on the ground that certain witnesses were being kept at hand at great expense. He wanted the case heard next Monday, but Mr. Bankes, K.C., who represented the "Times," had explained that this would not suit him. In the end, said Mr. Isaacs, it had been arranged that the witnesses should be examined in chambers by a commissioner, and they had agreed upon an examiner.

THE INTERNATIONAL TOURNAMENT.

The third heat of 9,000 up in the International Tournament was continued at the Soho Square Saloon yesterday afternoon between W. Mitchell (receives 1,750) and T. Reece (receives 2,500). Reece had the best of matters, and during the session aggregated 542 to Mitchell's 513. The former's best breaks were 181, 31, 62, 166 and 27, while Mitchell compiled 32, 41, 21, 49, 24 and 237, the latter being the highest break made in the tournament. At the interval Reece led by 1,195, the scores being: Reece (in play), 6,232; Mitchell, 4,637. The scores at the close of the day's play were: Reece (in play), 6,334; Mitchell, 5,329. Reece made a break of 220. Mitchell's best was 74.

C. DAWSON v. E. DIGGLE.

This match of 15,000 points up, in which Dawson concedes Diggle 2,000, was continued at the Leicester Square Saloon yesterday afternoon with the scores at: Diggle (receives 2,000), 13,806; Dawson, 15,038. Diggle's best break was 32, but Dawson compiled 150, 118, 214 and 216. During the session Dawson scored 1,088 to 375. At the interval Diggle only led by 54, the scores being: Diggle (in play), 14,181; Dawson, 14,127. At the close of the day's play the scores were: Dawson, 14,903; Diggle (in play), 14,386. Dawson made a break of 410; Diggle's best breaks were 117, 113 and 145.

A YEARLY LOSS OF SIX MILLIONS.

LONDON'S CONGESTED TRAFFIC.

A bulky appendix to the report to the Royal Commission on London Traffic by the Advisory Board of Engineers was issued last night in the form of a Blue Book. It includes a memorandum by Sir John Wolfe-Barry, chairman of the Advisory Board, and Mr. R. C. H. Davidson, M.Inst.C.E., on the loss caused to the inhabitants of London by want of proper travelling facilities. They state that in the evidence given before the Royal Commission much stress has been laid on the costliness of London street improvements, but the money loss to the inhabitants from defective means of prosecuting their daily vocations has hardly been referred to. There can be little doubt, they say, that the question of travelling facilities is one of the causes which operate to make the rate of wages higher in London than elsewhere, without necessarily any corresponding advantage to the working classes. The loss may be considered under three heads: (1) Loss of time to persons, (2) loss of time to vehicles, (3) extra cost of goods. Under the first of these heads it was estimated before the Royal Commission that the laying of the telephones by the Post Office resulted in a loss of £2,000,000 to omnibus passengers. The earning capacity of the workers of Greater London in a year of 250 days is computed at £173,291,000, and the value of vehicles for a year of 300 days is computed at £16,562,400; and it is pointed out that if a quarter of an hour be lost out of a working day of eight hours it would amount to about 3 per cent., which, on the total sum, amounts to nearly six millions annually; and to this must be added the increased cost of commodities, which undoubtedly is very large.

SENSATIONAL ARRESTS.

PRISONERS BEFORE THE MAGISTRATES.

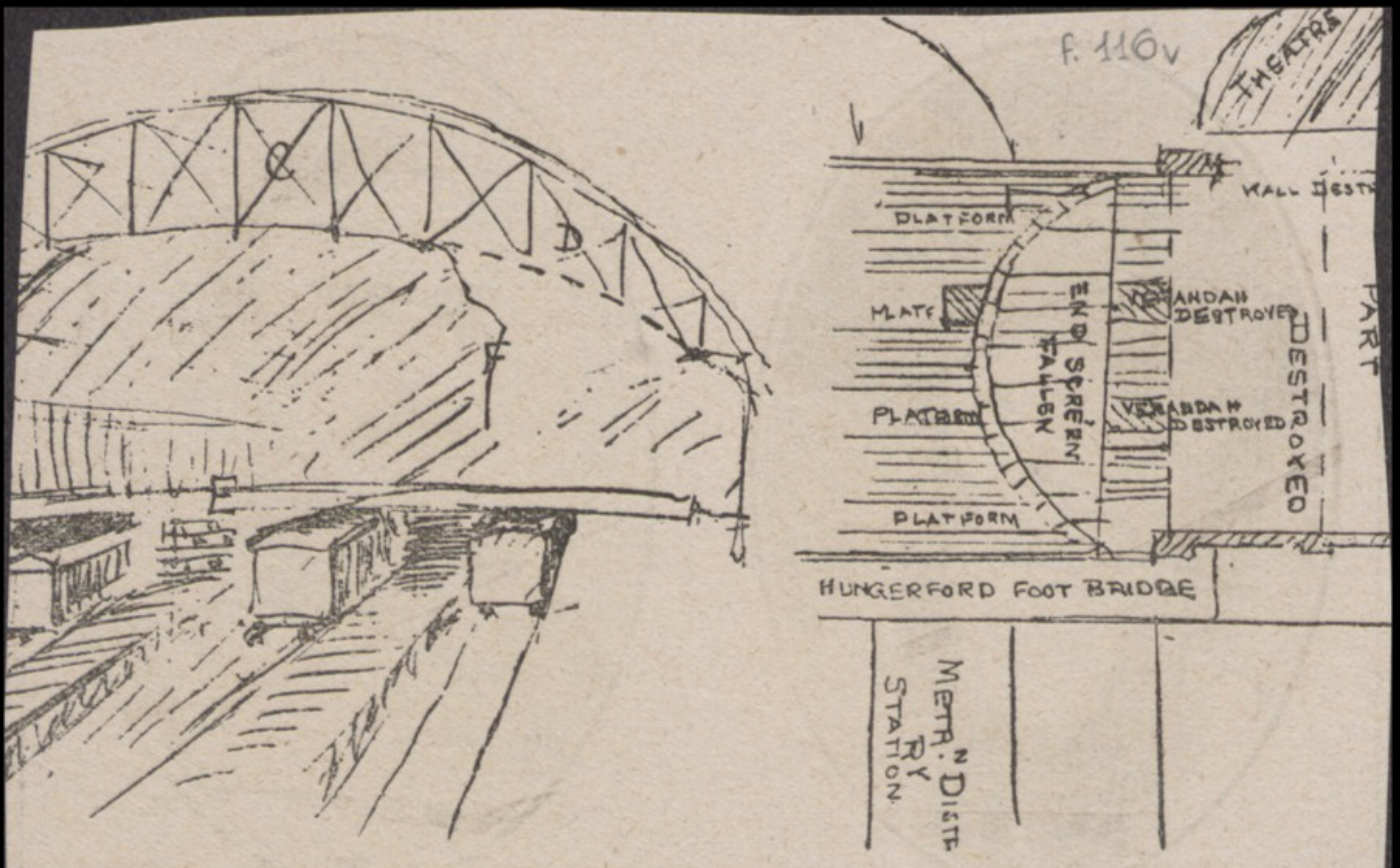

Two men, one of them named Figelstein, were brought up at Worship Street yesterday morning in connection with charges of selling and receiving stolen property in Goswell Road. It was reported in yesterday's DAILY GRAPHIC that eleven men had been arrested. After formal proceedings the accused men were remanded without bail to the Hampstead Petty Sessions.

Harry Iskin, an engraver, of Blaksley Street, Commercial Road, was charged at Clerkenwell Police-court with stealing from a workshop at 70, Wynyard Street, Clerkenwell, 5 lbs. of silver scrap, value 12s., the property of his employer, Henry Richards, a jeweller.—Detective Leach said he and other officers were keeping watch at the premises of a silver refiner in Goswell Road on the previous afternoon. He (the witness) was behind the counter, when the prisoner entered, and, taking him as an assistant, handed over a screwed-up piece of newspaper containing silver cuttings. GENERAL INFERENCE FROM 6 P.M. OBSERVATIONS.

The fall of the barometer and the freshening southerly winds on our western coasts probably indicate the approach of a depression which will spread all over the kingdom and occasion a rise of temperature and unsettled weather generally. Strong winds or gales appear likely in the west and north-west.

THE Education Committee of the London County Council report that they have had under consideration requests from the Gaelic League of London, the Irish Tests Society, and the Irish Literary Society that facilities should be afforded for the study of the language and history of Ireland in the schools under the control of the Council frequented by the children of Irish parents. The Committee state that they are unable to recommend the Council to accede to the request, but add that it is their intention to consider whether such instruction should be given in the evening schools.

"SIR CHRISTOPHER WREN'S HOUSE."

NOT SOLD.

As announced last week, when an illustrated article upon it appeared in the DAILY GRAPHIC, the fine old mansion, said to have been occupied by Sir Christopher Wren, in Botolph Lane, Eastcheap, was put up for sale at Tokenhouse Yard yesterday by Messrs. Reynolds and Eason. Bidding was started at £5,000. By hundreds it went slowly to £6,700, at which it hung fire. The auctioneer offered to advance by fifties, and a bid of £6,750 was forthcoming. Beyond that there was no progress, and when the hammer fell the auctioneer announced that the property was not sold. There is still an opportunity, therefore, for those who think that so grand a specimen of an ancient English town house, with so interesting an association with one of the greatest geniuses this country has produced, should be preserved, to come forward in the interests of the nation.

as that was my name before I was married. The matter was put into other hands.

Other evidence showed that the prisoner stayed at a boarding-house in Arundel Square as Lady Muriel Paget, and pledged a locket miniature produced for 25s., in the name of "Mrs. Paget, of Anglesey Castle, Bangor," on November 20th, and another of the articles in the name of M. Paget, of the Hotel Metropole, Brighton.

Inspector Drew asked for a further remand, as there were other cases to be investigated.

The prisoner was remanded in custody.

SAFETY OF THE MISSING LIGHTSHIP.

The Channel lightship Sandettie, which was driven from its moorings in the gale, has been discovered, according to information brought to Dunkirk yesterday by a tug, which sighted the Sandettie lightship in the North Sea, thirty miles off Flushing, being towed by a steamer, which was apparently making for Flushing.

ARMAMENTS.

FRANCE AND THE EMPIRE OF THE SEA.

The French Senate yesterday morning began the debate on the Naval Estimates.

Baron d'Estournelles de Constant protested against an increase in naval expenditure, which, he said, threatened to ruin the country under pretext of defending it. The country's resources were not sufficient to allow the execution of the naval programme of which the principle had been voted. The empire of the sea could belong only to an association of peoples, and it was this association that France was preparing. The speaker went on to enumerate the productive expenditure that was urgently needed to put into condition the ports, canals, and rivers. The Powers ought, he said, to come to an agreement with a view to being better able to endow works that were useful to humanity. He was persuaded that the international understanding could regulate armaments as it had regulated the sugar question. He cited the Argentine Republic and Chili as instances of countries having succeeded in avoiding hostilities on the eve of a conflict, and Great Britain and Russia as having referred to an international Commission the question of the North Sea incident. Great Britain and France could take the initiative. It would be inexcusable for France not to seek to realise an agreement between the two countries. The Senate would use its influence to induce the Government and the Chamber to give an invitation to all Parliaments, an invitation by which they would once more serve the country and deserve well of all civilisation.—

Colonies is less easy to interpret. There is no fixed tradition in Colonial policy. From the fundamental question of the organisation of Imperial Unity down to details of administration like the Chinese Labour problem, the differences between the two parties in the State are wide and deep. Nevertheless the attitude of the Colonies has been "correct," if not cordial. The British Empire will outlast a good many Little England Cabinets yet.

MINOR APPOINTMENTS.

The list of minor appointments to the Government is naturally less exciting than the constitution of the Cabinet, but a good deal of personal interest attaches to some of the Prime Minister's new selections. Mr. Winston Churchill, who is one of the most vigorous politicians on either side of the House, obtains the Under Secretaryship for the Colonies. The office is not, perhaps, equal to his hopes, but it will doubtless serve as a stepping stone. The more important post of Financial Secretary to the Treasury goes to Mr. Reginald McKenna, an extremely industrious and in many ways a very capable politician. Mr. George Whiteley, who originally entered Parliament as a Conservative, is appointed Chief Liberal Whip. Mr. John Ellis, who is principally known to fame as the author of the demand for "a stream of facts" to demonstrate the misconduct of his own countrymen, becomes Under Secretary for India. It is to be hoped that he will apply a less acrid spirit to his new duties than he displayed during the war. Mr. Lawson Walton and Mr. W. S. Robson, both well known at the Bar, become respectively Attorney-General and Solicitor-General. This is a fairly obvious appointment, which will probably meet with general approval. The Earl of Portsmouth becomes Under Secretary for War, and Mr. Edmund Robertson returns to his old post as Secretary to the Admiralty.

MEMS. ABOUT MINISTERS.

A comparative analysis of the records of the new Ministers affords some interesting results. Of the nineteen members of the Cabinet five are peers by inheritance, one is a baronet, six are members of the Bar, one is a solicitor, one a soldier, and one, Mr. John Burns, was an artisan before he took to politics. Seven have previously enjoyed Cabinet rank, eight others have held places of profit under the Crown, four only—Messrs. Birrell, Burns, Sinclair, and Lloyd-George—are entirely new to office. Coming to educational details, we find that Eton has three representatives in the Cabinet, Harrow and Cheltenham two each, Winchester, Wellington, Amersham, Clifton, and the City of London one each, the other seven members being claimed by private schools. Glasgow University shared with Cambridge the Prime Minister's education, and with Oxford that of Mr. Bryce. The Oxford men in the Cabinet number nine, and the Cambridge men four. The average age of Ministers is fifty-one, the oldest being Lord Ripon and Sir Henry Fowler, aged seventy-eight and seventy-five respectively, and the youngest Mr. Lloyd-George and Sir Edward Grey, aged forty-two and forty-three. It may be added that athletics are fairly well represented. The new Lord Chancellor played in the Oxford eleven, and also represented his University at racquets. The Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs has been champion tennis player of England. The Home Secretary is an all-round athlete, and an enthusiast on the subject of physical education. The Right Honourable John Burns, too, is good at most games. Mr. Bryce has found his recreation in mountain climbing; and Mr. Asquith not the safest of anchorages, and the Admiralty consider that seamanlike precautions were imprudently neglected when indications of an impending Levanter should have been observed. They blame the commander of the Assistance and also the captains of three battleships for not having kept steam ready at short notice. Further, the senior captain is held primarily responsible for this omission, and is deprived of his command. The lieutenants who are censured and superseded were keeping watch at the time of the accident, but the precise nature of their neglect is not explained in the minute. It is very rarely that the Board of Admiralty thus distribute wholesale censure and punishment to officers of the Fleet, and few will question that their lordships have acted in the best interests of the Navy in issuing this outspoken minute. Any tendency to hazard the valuable ships of the country, and every neglect of seamanlike precautions, merit official reproof. Seaman-ship has been modified by steam, but the Admiralty clearly intend that it shall not be neglected.

A LEAP IN THE DARK.

London ratepayers have many causes of complaint against the London County Council, but nothing that the Council has yet done is quite so cynically reckless as the step taken yesterday. The Council was asked by its Parliamentary Committee to proceed with a Bill for the supply of electricity in bulk. No estimates were given of the cost likely to be incurred, and the committee had not even prepared any definite plan of what it proposed should be done. The whole scheme was rightly described by Lord Welby as a leap in the dark. In emphatic language the Finance Minister of the Council protested against the incurring of such vague yet enormous liabilities in addition to those to which it is already committed. The debt of London is rising by leaps and bounds, and the burden of interest is rapidly growing. Yet the Council is making no effort whatever to reduce current expenditure in order to meet this increasing burden. Its sole reply to every plea for economy is an addition to the rates. In this particular case there is absolutely no guarantee that the proposed enterprise will be lucrative. Indeed, the authors of the scheme frankly admit that for a few years some charge upon the rates will be necessary. The motive of the Council for this fresh folly seems to be a desire to block out the private syndicates that are now asking Parliament for permission to give cheap electricity to London; but it is certain that the vast majority of ratepayers would infinitely prefer that the syndicates should be left to do the best they can with their own money, subject to strict Parliamentary regulation to prevent any risk of exorbitant charges to the consumer.

"TO INTIMIDATE THE BRITISH COMMUNITY,"

ANTI-FOREIGN FEELING AT SHANGHAI.

Telegraphing from Shanghai, Euter's correspondent says:—At a meeting of Chinese held here this evening it was decided that all the dollar notes of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank that could be procured should be presented for payment, in the hope of causing a run on the bank.

The object of the scheme is to bring about the dismissal of the British Ambassador of the Mixed Court, whose action in causing certain prisoners under remand to be committed to the municipal gaol instead of the Chinese prison led to a fracas in the Mixed Court on Friday, and has produced much bitterness among the Chinese at large.

The native bankers, however, have refused to co-operate with the Patriotic League, which is organising the movement, and advised the Chinese only to employ peaceful methods to intimidate the British community.
