PREFACE

AND GENERAL DIRECTIONS, ETC.

THIS Manual will be found to contain Recipes for the best Summer and Winter Drinks, both British and Foreign, including the so-called 'American Drinks.' The authors know by experience that there are few who are familiar with the best way of making these Drinks; but if the instructions here given are faithfully carried out, the result will be found to be quite satisfactory, not only to the learner, but also to those who wish to refresh their memories as to the many Drinks that may from time to time be desired.

The Recipes are written in simple language, and show the best, shortest, and most economical modes of preparing the Various Drinks. For easy reference they are grouped under various headings, arranged alphabetically. A copious index has also been added.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS, ETC.

ALL EGGS used in the concoction of drinks should be quite fresh, and, when beaten, should be broken into separate glasses and carefully strained.

BITTERS.—Boker's bitters may be used for Angostura, or vice versâ, but the latter in smaller quantities.

CORDIALS, BITTERS, SYRUPS, etc., should not be placed in ice, but should be kept in an even and moderate temperature.

GLASSES.—In the following recipes a 'large tumbler' will signify what is commonly known as a soda-water glass, capable of holding about a pint, and a 'small tumbler' will similarly signify an ordinary glass, capable of holding about half a pint.

When a glass is mentioned without any particular size being stated, it will be noticed that it is simply used as a vehicle for mixing purposes, and is not given, as in other cases, as a gauge for any of the quantities. All glasses should be perfectly dry and clean before using.

MINERAL WATERS should be kept in a cool temperature and not subjected to sudden changes, and always with corks downwards. Syphons placed directly on ice are liable to explode.

SHAKER, THE.—In mixing cobblers, it is advisable to use a cobbler-mixer, or shaker, as it is called in America. This utensil is used for most of the egg and other drinks in this book where it is directed to 'shake.' A shaker can easily be purchased, as well as the other small utensils used in the manipulation of many of the drinks.

Note.—It is easier for an amateur to shake a drink than to give the professional twist to the mixing spoon. In shaking, a shaker should be larger at the mouth than the glass used in mixing, in doing which you place the shaker over the glass, and it should fit quite tight, so that not a drop can exude. After a little practice, it will become quite easy to use the shaker.

STRAINING.—There is a glass strainer, also a spoon strainer—either will do—or a small common hair sieve. If, however, none of these articles are to hand, a strainer can be made with a piece of fine clean muslin or linen attached to a piece of wire that has been bent to the shape and size of the top of the glass.

SUGAR.—Icing sugar is mentioned in the following recipes, although some prefer fine castor sugar, as not liable to form in lumps; but either will do.

SYRUP.—To prepare the same, put two pounds of lump sugar broken small into a basin, and pour over it one pint of boiling water; when cold, and the sugar is all dissolved, bottle and keep ready for use.

Gum syrup is prepared in the same manner, adding eight ounces of the best small gum arabic to the sugar, and stirring from time to time until cold and the gum is dissolved.

WINES.—All wines should be kept in an even temperature, lying in a horizontal position, so that the corks are always moist and evaporation prevented. Care must be taken in uncorking to avoid shaking the sediment. Wine may be warmed by placing before a fire, by putting the bottle in hot water, or by steaming the glasses before pouring it out.

It has not been thought necessary to give Recipes for the preparation of Tea and Coffee, excepting for the iced varieties; and as regards Cocoa, the Maker's Directions are generally explicit—as, for example, those of Messrs. Cadbury, whose Cocoa may be accepted as absolutely pure, forming a delicious beverage at breakfast, luncheon, supper, and between meals. It is suitable for the robust, the young, and the aged, as well as for those of weak and impaired digestion.

SUMMER DRINKS.

COBBLERS.

The 'Cobbler' is a general favourite in hot weather. No great skill is required in its preparation, although it is desirable to display a little taste in its ornamentation, so that it may be as pleasing to the eye as it is acceptable to the palate.

Catawba.

Catawba is a Californian wine but little known in this country. Champagne may be substituted, and for the purpose the Italian wine known as Sparkling Asti is very suitable.

Dissolve one teaspoonful of icing sugar in one tablespoonful of water, which you have put into a large tumbler; then add two wineglasses of Catawba or Asti wine, and fill the tumbler with shaved or pounded ice; shake well, ornament with one or two slices of orange or pineapple and berries in season, and place two straws in the glass.

Champagne.

Put into a large tumbler one tablespoonful of icing sugar, then add a thin paring of lemon and orange peel; fill the tumbler one-third full of shaved or pounded ice, and the balance with champagne; stir with spoon, ornament with slices of lemon and berries in season, and place two straws in the glass.

Claret.

The same as Catawba Cobbler, using claret instead of Catawba.

Hock.

The same as Catawba Cobbler, using hock instead of Catawba, and adding a teaspoonful of pineapple syrup.

Monongahela.

Put into a large tumbler one wineglass of Bourbon whisky, one tablespoonful of icing or pounded sugar, one slice of lemon, and a slice of orange; fill up with shaved ice, shake well, and imbibe through two straws.

NOTE.—Wines, such as Beaune, burgundy, blackberry, canary sack, red currant, ginger, moselle, madeira, orange, port, etc., can be substituted if desired.

Port Wine.

Into a tumbler put half a tablespoonful of sifted sugar, dissolve in half a wineglass of water ; add the thinly pared rind of half a lemon, fill the tumbler one-third full with pounded ice, add one and a half glasses of port wine. Stir with a spoon. Ornament with two slices of lemon, clusters of white grapes, and nuggets of pineapple. Serve with two straws in the glass.

Rhine Wine.

In a large tumbler dissolve a tablespoonful and a half of icing sugar in a wineglass and a half of water, add a wineglass and a half of Rhine wine, fill the glass with shaved ice, stir well, ornament with fruit and berries in season, and serve with a straw.

Sauterne.

The same as Catawba Cobbler, using sauterne instead of Catawba.

Sherry.

Put into a large tumbler two wineglasses of sherry, one tablespoonful of icing sugar, and two or three slices of orange ; fill the tumbler with shaved or pounded ice ; shake well, and ornament with berries in season ; serve with two straws.

Whisky.

Put into a large tumbler two wineglasses of Irish or Scotch whisky; add one tablespoonful of icing sugar, and two or three slices of orange; fill the tumbler with pounded ice; shake well, ornament with slices of orange and clusters of grapes, and serve with two straws.

COCKTAILS.

In mixing a Cocktail, which is a beverage particularly popular at fishing or shooting parties, being considered sustaining to the inner man, the pounded ice should in all cases be put into the glass first. The most suitable glass for the purpose is a tumbler holding half a pint. The rind of half a lemon, thinly pared in one piece, to fit the top of the glass, should never be omitted.

Absinthe.

Put into a small tumbler three-quarters of a wineglass of absinthe, thirty drops of gum, and ten drops of Angostura bitters; add a little shaved ice, and thoroughly shake and strain.

Brandy.

Put into a small tumbler one wineglass of brandy; add thirty drops of gum syrup, six drops of Angostura bitters, and twenty drops of curaçoa; fill one-third with pounded or shaved ice, and stir with a spoon or shake well; strain, and put a small piece of lemon-peel on top.

Champagne.

Put into a small tumbler one teaspoonful of icing sugar, ten drops of Angostura bitters, a slice of pineapple, and a small piece of lemon-rind; fill the tumbler one-third full of broken ice, and fill the balance with champagne; mix well with a spoon, strain and serve.

Sparkling Asti will be found very suitable for this drink.

Coomassie.

Break the yolk of a new-laid egg into a small tumbler, and mix with it a teaspoonful of icing sugar; add six drops of Angostura bitters, two-thirds of a wineglass of sherry, and one-third of a wineglass of brandy; fill the tumbler with shaved ice; shake well and strain; dust with a little nutmeg and cinnamon.

East Indian.

Put into a small tumbler sufficient pounded ice to three parts fill; add thirty drops of maraschino, one teaspoonful of pine-apple syrup, thirty drops of curaçoa, six drops of Angostura bitters, one wineglassful of brandy; stir well. Serve with a piece of lemon-peel on top.

Egg.

Put into a small tumbler one egg, beat up with a wineglass of gin, and add thirty drops of gum and six drops of Angostura bitters; ice, shake, and strain; dust with nutmeg.

Fancy Brandy.

This drink is made the same as the Brandy Cocktail, except that it is strained into a fancy wineglass, the edge of the glass moistened with lemon, and dipped in icing sugar, with a piece of lemon-peel floating on the top.

Gin.

Thirty drops of gum syrup, ten drops of Angostura bitters, one wineglass of gin, ten drops of curaçoa, one small piece of lemon-peel; fill a small tumbler one-third full of shaved ice, shake well, and strain.

Fancy Gin.

This drink is the same as the Gin Cocktail, except that it is put into a fancy wineglass, with a piece of lemon-peel on the top, and the edge of the glass moistened with lemon and dipped in icing sugar.

Japanese.

Put into a small tumbler one tablespoonful of orgeat syrup, ten drops of Angostura bitters, one wineglass of brandy, and a small piece of lemon-peel; fill the tumbler one-third with shaved ice, stir with a spoon or shake well, and strain.

Jersey.

Put into a small tumbler one teaspoonful of icing sugar and twelve drops of Angostura bitters; add a little ice, then fill the tumbler with cider, mix well, strain, and put a piece of lemon-peel on the top.

Jersey.

Another Way.

Put into a tumbler holding half a pint two or three nice lumps of crystal ice, add one teaspoonful of sifted sugar, one teaspoonful of orange bitters, half a wineglass of brandy, fill up with cider and mix well. Serve with a piece of lemon-peel on top.

Manhattan.

Put into a large tumbler half a wineglass of vermouth, half a wineglass of whisky, thirty drops of gum syrup, ten drops of Angostura bitters, and six drops of curaçoa; add a little shaved ice, shake well, strain into a wineglass, and put a small piece of lemon-peel on the top.

Martini.

Put into a tumbler thirty drops of gum syrup, thirty drops of orange bitters, half a wineglass of gin, and half a wineglass of vermouth; fill with shaved ice, shake well, strain into a claret glass, and put a small piece of lemon-peel on top.

Newport.

Into a tumbler holding half a pint put two or three lumps of clear ice and a small slice of lemon; add six drops of Angostura, half a wineglass of noyau, and half a wineglass of brandy; stir well. Serve with a piece of lemon-peel on the top.

Saratoga.

Put into a large tumbler twenty drops of pineapple syrup, twelve of Angostura bitters, twenty of maraschino, and a wineglass of old brandy; nearly fill the glass with fine shaved ice and mix well. Then place two or three strawberries in a small tumbler, strain the mixture on them, twist a piece of lemon-peel over it, top off with champagne, and serve.

Sherry.

Put into a tumbler one-third of shaved ice, ten drops of Angostura bitters, thirty drops of gum syrup, and one wineglass of sherry; shake well, strain, and put a small piece of lemon-peel on the top.

Soda.

This is made the same as the Jersey Cocktail, using a bottle of soda-water instead of cider.

Sunrise.

Put into a tumbler thirty drops of vanilla syrup, ten drops of Angostura bitters, two-thirds of a wineglass of sherry, and one-third of a wineglass of brandy; ice, mix, strain, and add a piece of lemon-peel.

Turf Club.

Put into a tumbler thirty drops of gum syrup, ten drops of Angostura bitters, ten drops of raspberry syrup, half a wineglass of gin, and half a wineglass of vermouth; add a little shaved ice, shake well, strain into a claret glass, and put a small piece of lemon-peel on top.

Vermouth.

Put into a small tumbler a wineglass of vermouth, thirty drops of gum syrup, and a little shaved ice; shake well, strain, and put a piece of lemon-peel on the top.

Whisky.

Put into a small tumbler thirty drops of gum syrup, ten drops of Angostura bitters, and one wineglass of Irish or Scotch whisky; fill the tumbler with shaved or pounded ice, shake well, strain into a fancy wineglass, and put a piece of lemon-peel on the top.

Rye, or Bourbon (Whisky).

Put into a small tumbler a wineglass of rye whisky, ten drops of Angostura bitters, and thirty drops of gum syrup; ice, shake well, strain, and put a small piece of lemon-peel on the top.

CRUSTAS.

The Crusta is commonly supposed to be an improvement on the Cocktail.

Brandy.

This is made the same as the Fancy Brandy Cocktail, with a little lemon-juice and a small lump of ice added. Mix the ingredients in a small tumbler; then take a fancy red wineglass, pare half a lemon all in one piece, the paring to fit the glass, and strain the mixture into it, having previously frosted the rim of the glass by damping the edge with lemon and dipping it in icing sugar.

Gin.

Put into a small tumbler thirty drops of gum, ten drops of Angostura bitters, a wineglass of English gin, and ten drops of curaçoa; fill one-third with ice, shake well, and strain into a coloured wineglass; pare half a lemon in one piece and place the paring round the rim, after damping with juice of lemon, and frosting by dipping the edge of the glass in sugar.

Whisky.

The Whisky Crusta is made the same as the Brandy Crusta, using whisky instead of brandy.

CUPS.

Cups are extremely popular, and specially adapted for all descriptions of parties, picnics, race luncheons, etc.

Badminton.

Peel half a middle-sized cucumber, and put it into a silver cup or bowl with four ounces of icing sugar, juice of a lemon, a little nutmeg, half a glass of curaçoa, and a bottle of claret; when the sugar is thoroughly dissolved, pour in a bottle of soda-water, ice, and it is ready for use. A couple of sprigs of borax is an improvement when obtainable.

Balaclava.

Throw into a large bowl the thinly pared rind of half a lemon, add two tablespoonfuls of icing sugar, the juice of two lemons, and the half of a small cucumber cut into thin slices with the peel on. Mix well; then add two bottles of soda-water, two bottles of claret, and one of champagne; stir well together; add a small piece of balm, put in a small block of ice, and serve.

Chablis.

Dissolve four or five lumps of sugar in a quarter of a pint of boiling water, and put it into a bowl with a very thin slice of lemon-peel; let it stand for half an hour, then add a bottle of chablis, a sprig of verbena, a wineglass of sherry, and half a pint of water. Mix well, and let it stand for half an hour, then strain, ice, and pour in a bottle of soda water.

Champagne (and Hock).

These are made the same as Chablis Cup, substituting champagne or hock for chablis.

Cider.

Put into a bowl one quart of sweet cider, one bottle of soda-water, one wineglass of sherry, half a wineglass of brandy, the juice of half a lemon and the rind of a quarter; add sugar and nutmeg to taste, and a dash of extract of pineapple; a sprig of verbena and two sprigs of borage may be added. Strain and ice well.

Claret.

Put into a bowl one bottle of claret, half a pint of cold water, a tablespoonful of icing sugar, and a teaspoonful of cloves, cinnamon, and allspice finely powdered and mixed together; add the rind of half a lemon, a sprig of balm, and a lump of ice.

Claret.

Another Mixture.

Put into a bowl the rind of one lemon pared very thin, add some icing sugar, and pour over it a wineglass of sherry; then add a bottle of claret, more sugar to taste, a sprig of verbena, one bottle of soda-water, and a grated nutmeg; then strain and ice it well.

Claret.

Another Mixture.

Put into a bowl one bottle of bordeaux, two wineglasses of sherry, one wineglass of maraschino, a small quantity of icing sugar, and one bottle of soda-water; mix well, then ice.

Claret (and Champagne).

Another Mixture, Large Bowl.

Put into a bowl three bottles of claret, one gill of curaçoa, one pint of sherry, half a pint of brandy, two wineglasses of raspberry syrup, three oranges and one lemon cut into slices; add a few sprigs of green balm and borage, a small piece of the rind of a cucumber, two bottles of seltzer-water, and three bottles of soda-water. Mix well and sweeten with icing sugar; let it stand for one hour, then strain and put in a block of ice. Serve in small glasses. Above is for a party of twenty; reduce ingredients if for a smaller party. For champagne cup: champagne instead of claret, noyau instead of raspberry.

Crimean.

One quart of syrup of orgeat, one pint of brandy, half a pint of maraschino, half a pint of Jamaica rum, two bottles of champagne, two bottles of soda-water, six ounces of icing sugar, and the juice of four lemons.

How to mix: Peel the lemons, and put the rind in a bowl with the sugar; macerate them well, so as to extract the flavour from the lemon-peel. Then squeeze in the juice of the lemons, add the two bottles of soda-water, and stir till the sugar is dissolved; next add the syrup of orgeat, and whip well with an egg-whisk, so as to whiten the mixture. Now add the maraschino, rum and brandy, and strain the whole into the punch-bowl. Just before serving add the champagne (which should be well iced), and in doing so stir well with the ladle, so as to render the cup creamy and mellow. The above is for a party of thirty; for a smaller number reduce the ingredients in proportion.

Crimean.

Another Mixture (for party of five).

Put the peel of half a lemon or orange into a bowl, add a tablespoonful of icing sugar, one wineglass of maraschino, half a wineglass of curaçoa, and half a wineglass of brandy. Mix well together; then add two bottles of soda-water, one bottle of champagne, and a lump of ice, working the whole up and down.

Freemason.

Put into a bowl one pint of Scotch ale, one pint of mild ale, half a pint of brandy, one pint of sherry, and half a pound of icing sugar; mix well together, grate a nutmeg on the top, and put in a lump of ice.

Loving Cup.

Rub the rind of two oranges on loaf-sugar, and put the sugar into a cup or bowl; add half a pint of brandy, the juice of one lemon, one-third of a pint of orange-juice, and one pint of water; add more sugar if required, and ice well.

Porter.

Put into a tankard or covered jug one bottle of stout, one bottle of mild ale, and one wine-glass of brandy, with icing sugar to taste; then add a little powdered ginger, half a nutmeg grated, cover it over, and expose to the cold for half an hour; before serving stir in a teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, add a few pieces of rind of cucumber, and put in a lump of ice.

Race Day.

Dissolve four ounces of sugar in a quarter of a pint of water, add juice of two lemons, one wineglass of brandy, half a wineglass of cherry brandy, half a wineglass of maraschino, one bottle of champagne; add a small piece of cucumber-peel, two sprigs of borage, two slices of lemon, four strawberries, four brandy cherries, two bottles of seltzer-water; stir well. Ice well for an hour, having first covered the bowl. Before serving put in a block of ice. Serve in small glasses.

Rochester.

Put into a bowl two bottles of sparkling Catawba, two bottles of sparkling Isabella, and one bottle of Sauterne; mix well, then add two wineglasses of maraschino and two wineglasses of curaçoa; ice well, and add some strawberries, or a few drops of extract of peach or vanilla.

Tennis.

Put into a bowl four tablespoonfuls of sifted sugar, the rind of one lemon and juice of two, one wineglass of brandy, one wineglass of ginger syrup, a small piece of cucumber-peel; add two bottles of soda-water, one sprig of borage, and two sprigs of verbena. Ice well; serve in small glasses.

FANCY DRINKS.

Of fancy drinks there is an almost infinite variety. The following list, however, will be found to contain most of the best known recipes, together with the simplest and most satisfactory methods of preparing the same.

Absinthe.

Put one wineglass of absinthe into a small tumbler, and fill the glass, drop by drop, with water. Never use a spoon.

Absinthe Frappé.

Put into a wineglass sufficient finely shaved ice to three-parts fill the glass, about twenty drops of gum syrup, and fill up with absinthe; stir continually for half a minute, then strain into a small glass, and drink directly.

Gin and Tansy.

Fill a quart decanter one-third full with tansy and the balance with gin; let it draw for a few days until the tansy has soaked well into the gin. Serve in a wineglass.

Gin and Wormwood.

Put three or four sprigs of wormwood into a quart decanter, and fill up with gin ; let it draw for a few days until the wormwood has soaked into the gin. Serve in a wineglass.

Golden Slipper.

Place the yolk of a fresh cold egg in half a wineglass of chartreuse (yellow) and half a wineglass of Danziger goldwasser in a spiral or fancy wineglass, in such a manner that the egg and liqueurs do not mix. (See L'Amour Pousse, another way, page 45.)

Heap of Comfort.

Put into a small tumbler the yolk of one egg, two-thirds of a wineglass of sherry, one-third of a wineglass of brandy, ten drops of curaçoa, and a teaspoonful of icing sugar ; add shaved ice, shake well, and strain into a coloured glass ; dust with nutmeg.

Iced Coffee.

Prepare some good Mocha coffee, and let it cool ; then place it in a carafe and put it in a vessel surrounded with ice. Serve in a small tumbler.

Iced Coffee.

Another Way.

Make a strong infusion of Mocha or other fine coffee which has been fresh roasted and ground; after it is cold, add one quart of cream which has been whipped up; sugar it to taste, put it into a freezer, and work until it is thick, when it is ready for use. To be served up in small fancy cups or glasses.

Iced Coffee.

Another Way.

Prepare a quart of strong coffee, bright and clear; sweeten with four ounces of sifted sugar, add one wineglass of brandy. Ice well, and when required to serve put in a large lump of ice. Serve in small coloured glasses, accompanied by thick cream.

Iced Tea.

Make a quart of tea in the usual way. When it has drawn the proper time, pour off into a bowl and sweeten to taste with sifted sugar. Cut two lemons into thin slices, and, when the tea has been well iced, put in the sliced lemon with some nice lumps of ice. Serve in small coloured glasses, giving to each person a portion of lemon and lump of ice.

John Collins.

Put into a large tumbler the juice of one lemon, one tablespoonful of icing sugar, one wineglass of English gin, one tablespoonful of water, and fill two-thirds with shaved ice; shake well, and fill up with a bottle of soda-water whilst stirring. Put into a tumbler one egg, a wineglass of sherry, a little shaved ice, and a teaspoonful of icing sugar; shake well, strain, and dust with nutmeg.

JULEPS.

This form of drink, of which the Mint Julep is perhaps the greatest favourite, belongs essentially to America, where in the Southern States it is extremely popular. It is reported to have been introduced into England by Captain Marryatt.

Brandy.

Put into a large tumbler two and a half teaspoonfuls of water, a tablespoonful of icing sugar, and two or three sprigs of fresh mint pressed well into the sugar and water to extract the flavour; add one and a half wineglassfuls of brandy; fill up with shaved ice, shake well, and serve with a straw, dashing the top of the glass with Jamaica rum.

Champagne.

Put into a small tumbler one lump of loaf sugar and one sprig of fresh mint, then pour champagne into the glass slowly, and stir gently. Place a piece of orange on top, and serve.

Gin.

This is made the same as the Brandy Julep, substituting gin for brandy.

Mint.

Put into a large tumbler two and a half tablespoonfuls of water, a tablespoonful of icing sugar, and two or three sprigs of mint pressed well into the sugar and water to extract the flavour; add one and a half wineglassfuls of brandy, fill up with shaved ice, shake well, draw the sprigs of mint to the top of the glass with the stems downwards, and decorate with berries in season and small slices of orange; dust with a little icing sugar, and dash with Jamaica rum. Serve with a straw.

Pineapple.

Put a slice of peeled pineapple into a large tumbler, with the juice of half an orange, ten drops of maraschino, the like of raspberry syrup, and half a wineglassful of gin; fill the tumbler with shaved ice, shake well, and add a quarter of a pint of champagne. Ornament with berries in season, and serve with two straws. A quarter of a wineglass of pineapple syrup can be substituted for the fruit.

Whisky.

This is made the same as the Brandy Julep, using whisky instead of brandy.

LEMONADES.

(See also pages 127 to 129.)

The various recipes for making Lemonade, perhaps the most popular, inexpensive and refreshing beverage of modern times, may be generally considered as consisting of two classes: viz., the plain or ordinary method of using lemon-juice, water and sugar; or the more elaborate one including the addition of wines, spirits, etc. Examples of either will be found in the following recipes, the quantities of which can be increased or decreased according to individual taste or requirements.

American Lemonade.

Put into a large tumbler the juice of one lemon, a tablespoonful and a half of icing sugar, a wineglass of water, and fill up to three parts with shaved ice; shake well, fill up with soda-water, dash with raspberry or strawberry syrup, and place a slice of lemon and a slice of orange on top. Serve with a straw.

Avenue Lemonade.

Put into a large tumbler the juice of a lemon, one teaspoonful of pineapple syrup, one teaspoonful of vanilla syrup, and one wineglass of water, and fill up to three parts with shaved ice; shake well, fill up with soda-water, dash with strawberry syrup, and serve with a straw.

Californian (or Orgeat) Lemonade.

Put into a large tumbler the juice of a lemon, half a tablespoonful of sugar, one tablespoonful of orgeat syrup, one wineglass of water, and half fill with shaved ice; shake well, fill up with soda-water, decorate with slices of orange and lemon, and berries in season, and serve with a straw.

Egg Lemonade.

Put into a large tumbler the juice of one lemon, half fill the tumbler with shaved ice; add one tablespoonful of icing sugar, and break a new-laid egg into the compound. Shake well, strain, fill with soda-water, and dust with nutmeg and cinnamon. Serve with a straw.

Lemonade for Parties.

Rub half a pound of loaf sugar into the rind of two lemons until it has imbibed all the oil from them; then mix with a quart of boiling water and the juice of three large lemons in a stone jug until the sugar has dissolved; then strain through a piece of muslin, and when cool it will be ready for use. The addition of the white of an egg well beaten up and a little sherry mixed with it, is a great improvement to the above drink, which can be made in larger or smaller quantities as desired by increasing or diminishing the ingredients. Ice if required.

Lemonade for Parties.

Another Way.

Put two quarts of boiling water into a stewpan, also four split dried figs, and let them boil for a quarter of an hour; then have ready the peel of a lemon cut very thin, throw this into the stewpan with half a pound of loaf sugar broken small, and boil for two minutes longer. When cold, strain through a bag or sieve, and add to each tumbler a tablespoonful of crushed ice and half a gill of sherry.

Italian Lemonade.

Peel two dozen lemons and squeeze the juice out on to the peel, letting it remain all night. In the morning add two pounds of loaf sugar, a quart of sherry, and three quarts of boiling water. Mix well and add a quart of boiling milk; strain through a jelly bag till clear, when it is ready.

Plain Lemonade.

Cut three lemons in very thin slices, and put them in a basin with half a pound of white or brown sugar; bruise the whole well together, add a gallon of water, stir well, and serve.

World's Fair Lemonade.

Put into a large tumbler the juice of one lemon, one tablespoonful of orange syrup, one wineglass of sherry, and fill up to three parts with shaved ice; shake well, fill up with soda-water, dash with port wine and strawberry syrup, decorate with slices of lemon and orange, and insert a straw. This is a most delicious drink.

NECTARS.

These should be drunk whilst effervescing.

Cider.

Put into a large tumbler the juice of a quarter of a lemon, a wineglassful of cider, half a wineglass of sherry, a quarter of a wineglass of brandy, and a tablespoonful of pineapple syrup; fill the tumbler with shaved ice, shake well, and strain. Then add a split bottle of soda-water.

Soda.

Put into a large tumbler the juice of one lemon and a tablespoonful and a half of icing sugar; mix well, then fill the tumbler three-quarters full with cold iced water, stir in half a teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, and drink whilst effervescing. This may be taken in the morning as an aperient.

Soda Nogg.

Break one egg into a small tumbler, and add a tablespoonful of icing sugar and one wineglass of water; fill up to three parts with shaved ice, shake well, strain, add a split bottle of soda-water whilst stirring with a spoon, and dust with nutmeg.

PUNCHES.

It is necessary in making Punch to perfection that the fragrant essence of the lemon should be extracted by rubbing lumps of sugar on the rind, thus breaking the tiny vessels containing the essence and absorbing it. Also, in making the mixture sweet and strong, in using tea instead of water, and in thoroughly blending all the contents so that the taste of neither shall predominate. Therein lies a secret only to be acquired by practice. In making toddy, or hot punch, etc., it is preferable to put in the spirits before the water, which need not be the case in making cold punch, grog, etc. The proportions of spirit and water, and the sweetness or acidity, are to some extent points of taste or judgment. It is also important that Summer Punches, if made for a party and likely to stand any time, be kept properly cool. This can be easily done by placing the bowl containing the Punch inside a large metal dish, completely filling the space between the bowl and the dish with shaved ice sprinkled with a little rock salt to prevent it melting.

À la Ford.

Put into a bowl the rind of one lemon and a tablespoonful of icing sugar; pour over these half a pint of boiling water, and let it stand till cold. Then add the juice of the lemon, one wineglassful of brandy, and the like quantity of Jamaica rum. Ice well, and then serve in small glasses.

À la Romaine, or Roman.

Put into a bowl the juice of one lemon, the juice of half an orange, and a tablespoonful of icing sugar; then add the white of an egg well beaten, and mix all well together. Add a wine-glassful of sherry, the like quantity of Jamaica rum, and a small lump of ice.

Another Way.

Make a quart of lemon water, ice, and when it has been frozen to a thick consistency add the following: Four whites of eggs whipped up very stiff, one glass of brandy, half a pint of champagne, and half a cup of green tea which has been infused previously. Continue freezing a little longer, when it is ready for use. To be served up in tall sorbet or champagne glasses.

À la Romaine, or Roman.

This is made the same as Ale Sangaree, substituting porter for ale.

Sherry Sangaree.

Put into a small tumbler one wineglass of sherry and one teaspoonful of icing sugar; fill the tumbler one-third with shaved ice, shake well, strain, and dust with nutmeg.

SHRUBS.

All shrubs should be carefully strained before bottling, and then tightly corked.

Brandy Shrub.

Put the juice of five lemons and the rind of two into two quarts of brandy, cover it over for three days; then add a quart of sherry and two pounds of loaf sugar, run it through a jelly bag, and bottle.

Cherry Shrub.

In an iron pot of water place an earthenware pot of ripe acid cherries, free from stalks; boil till the juice is extracted, then strain through a cloth just thick enough to retain the pulp, and sweeten to taste. When perfectly clear, bottle it, and seal the cork. By putting a gill of brandy into each bottle, it will keep through the summer. It makes an excellent drink mixed with water.

Currant Shrub.

Boil one pint of strained currant juice and one pound of sugar for ten minutes, skimming it well; take it off, and when lukewarm add half a gill of brandy to each pint of shrub. Bottle tight.

English Rum Shrub.

Pour three gallons of best Jamaica rum on a quart of orange-juice, a pint of lemon-juice, and the peels of the latter fruit cut very thin, with six pounds of icing sugar. Cover over tightly for one night; then boil three pints of fresh milk, and when cold pour it into the spirit and juice. Mix the whole well together, let it stand for one hour, filter through a flannel bag lined with blotting-paper into bottles, and cork directly.

Raspberry Shrub.

Let three quarts of ripe raspberries stand in one quart of vinegar for a day, then strain it, adding one pound of sugar to every pint; then boil for half an hour, skimming it clear, and add a wineglass of brandy to each pint of shrub when cool.

Two spoonfuls of this shrub mixed in a tumbler of water is an excellent drink in hot weather, or for fever patients.

Rum Shrub.

Mix in a cask one gallon of rum, one pound of loaf sugar, and three pints of orange-juice. Leave for six weeks, when it will be ready for use.

SLINGS.

To convert the following into hot Slings omit the ice and add boiling water, with a slice of lemon if agreeable.

Brandy Sling.

Into a small tumbler put thirty drops of gum syrup, or a teaspoonful of icing sugar, half a wineglass of water, one wineglass of brandy, and a small lump of ice; stir with a spoon, and dust with nutmeg.

Gin Sling.

Put into a small tumbler thirty drops of gum syrup, or a teaspoonful of icing sugar, half a wineglass of water, one wineglass of gin, and a small lump of ice; stir with a spoon, and dust with nutmeg.

Whisky Sling.

This drink is made the same as Brandy Sling, substituting Irish or Scotch whisky instead of brandy.

SMASHES.

The Smash is a Julep on a small scale.

Brandy.

Put into a small tumbler half a tablespoonful of icing sugar, one tablespoonful of water, and a wineglass of brandy; fill up the tumbler two-thirds with shaved ice, shake well; use two sprigs of mint (as in Mint Julep), put two small pieces of orange on top and serve with a straw.

Champagne.

Put into a small tumbler a tablespoonful of icing sugar and a quarter of a pint of champagne; fill up with shaved ice, mix well with a spoon, decorate with two sprigs of mint (as in Mint Julep), and insert a straw.

Gin.

Put into a small tumbler one teaspoonful of sugar, half a wineglass of water, and one wineglass of gin; fill the tumbler two-thirds with shaved ice, shake well, ornament with two sprigs of mint (as in Mint Julep), two slices of orange, and berries in season; serve with a straw.

Medford Rum.

This is prepared in the same way as a Brandy Smash, substituting a wineglass of Medford rum for the brandy.

Santa Cruz.

Put into a small tumbler one teaspoonful of icing sugar, half a wineglass of water, and one wineglass of Santa Cruz or white rum; fill up two-thirds with shaved ice, shake well, ornament with two sprigs of mint (as in Mint Julep), and insert straw.

Whisky.

Put into a small tumbler one teaspoonful of icing sugar, half a wineglass of water, and one wineglass of whisky (Irish or Scotch); fill the tumbler two-thirds with shaved ice, shake well, and ornament with two sprigs of mint (as in Mint Julep) and berries in season; serve with a straw.

SOURS.

In preparing Sours do not omit to put the lemon-peel in the glass.

Apple Jack Sour.

Put into a large tumbler, with half a table-spoonful of icing sugar, the juice of half a lemon, and dissolve the same with a squirt of seltzer-water from a syphon; add one wine-glass of old cider brandy. Nearly fill the glass with shaved ice, stir well, strain, ornament with a little fruit, and serve.

Bourbon Sour.

Put into a small tumbler one teaspoonful of icing sugar, the juice and rind of a quarter of a lemon, one wineglass of Bourbon whisky, and fill the tumbler two-thirds with shaved ice; shake well, and strain.

Brandy Sour.

Put into a small tumbler a teaspoonful of icing sugar, the juice and rind of a quarter of a lemon, and one wineglassful of brandy; fill the tumbler two-thirds with shaved ice, shake well, and strain.

Champagne Sour.

Put into a small tumbler two lumps of loaf sugar, the juice of half a lemon, a slice of orange, and a slice of pineapple, with a few grapes or strawberries if in season. Fill the glass slowly with champagne, stir well, and serve.

Fancy Brandy Sour.

This drink is prepared in the same way as Apple Jack Sour, substituting a wineglassful of brandy for the cider brandy.

Gin Sour.

This is made the same as the Brandy Sour, using gin instead of brandy.

Medford Rum Sour.

Put into a large glass, with half a tablespoonful of icing sugar, the juice of one lemon; dissolve the same in a squirt of seltzer-water from a syphon, add one wineglassful of Medford rum, fill the tumbler nearly full with shaved ice, stir well, strain, ornament with fruit, etc., and serve.

Rye Sour.

This drink is made the same as Bourbon Sour, using Kentucky rye whisky instead of Bourbon.

St. Croix Sour.

This drink is prepared in the same way as Medford Rum Sour, substituting a wineglassful of St. Croix rum for the Medford rum.

Santa Cruz or White Rum.

This is made the same as the Brandy Sour, using rum instead of brandy.

Sherry Sour.

Put into a small tumbler one teaspoonful of icing sugar, the juice and rind of a quarter of a lemon, one wineglass of sherry, and fill the tumbler two-thirds with shaved ice; shake well, strain, and dash with strawberry syrup.

Whisky Sour.

This is made the same as the Brandy Sour, using Scotch or Irish whisky instead of brandy.

STRAIGHTS.

This drink is served by placing a bottle of the spirit approved before the person requiring a straight, and two small tumblers, one with a lump of ice, and the other three-parts filled with iced water.

SWIZZLES.

These drinks are made the same as Cocktails, only substituting a swizzle-stick, or using a whisk instead of a shaker, and omitting the ice.

TODDY.

(See also page 98.)

Apple.

Put into a small tumbler a tablespoonful of icing sugar, one wineglass of cider brandy, half a baked apple, and a small lump of ice; mix with a spoon.

Brandy.

Put into a small tumbler a teaspoonful of icing sugar, half a wineglass of water, and one wineglass of brandy; add a small lump of ice, mix with a spoon, and add half a slice of lemon.

Gin.

This is made the same as the Brandy Toddy, substituting gin for brandy.

Whisky.

This is made the same as the Brandy Toddy, substituting whisky for brandy.

PRAIRIE OYSTER.

Put into a wineglass half a teaspoonful of vinegar; on this place carefully the yolk of an egg; add a pinch of salt and a dust of pepper, and it is ready.

NOTE.—Very few persons, not even the so-called 'American bar-tenders,' know the origin of this famous drink, therefore the knowledge may be interesting.

Some years since three men were encamped on Texas Prairie, 500 miles from the sea-coast, when one of them was sick unto death with fever, and was frantically crying out for oysters; he was quite sure that if he could only have an oyster or two he would be cured. After much thought as to how they were to procure what he wanted, one of them, having procured some prairie hens' eggs not far from the camp, broke one, and, putting the yolk into a glass, sprinkled it with a little salt and pepper, adding a little vinegar, and gave it to his sick companion, who declared it was just the thing he wanted, and from that hour he began to get better, and eventually got quite well.

TURKEY OYSTER.

Break a fresh turkey egg, and carefully put the yolk into a wineglass without the least portion of the white, surround it with half a teaspoonful of vinegar, add a pinch of salt and a dust of pepper. This is a drink greatly in vogue with athletes.

WINTER DRINKS.

FLIPS.

(See also pages 55 and 108.)

Ale Flip or Egg Hot.

Beat well together in a jug, or a bowl, four eggs with a quarter of a pound of icing sugar; then add by degrees, stirring all the time, two quarts of boiling old or Burton ale, and half a pint of gin; pour backwards and forwards from one jug to another till the flip is smooth and finely frothed, and then serve; grate a little nutmeg on the top of each tumbler. This is a capital drink for a cold night.

Brandy.

Put into a small tumbler the yolk of one egg well beaten, one teaspoonful of icing sugar, and one glass of brandy; fill two thirds with boiling water, stirring well, and dust with nutmeg.

Egg.

Put into a tumbler one egg and one table-spoonful of icing sugar; beat well together, then add a gill of boiling water, half a wine-glass of brandy, and the like quantity of Santa Cruz or white rum; keep stirring while adding the ingredients together, and dust with nutmeg.

Egg.

Another Mixture.

Beat up in a large tumbler or a jug four yolks and two whites of eggs with a quarter of a pound of icing sugar; and then add half a pint of boiling water; when well mixed, add two wineglasses of brandy and one of Jamaica rum; dust with nutmeg.

Rum.

Beat in a large tumbler two eggs with a table-spoonful of icing sugar; then add half a pint of boiling mild ale, a little grated nutmeg or ginger, and a piece of lemon-peel; when well mixed, add a wineglass of Santa Cruz or white rum, then strain and serve, dusting with cinnamon.

NEGUS.

Negus may be made of sherry or any other sweet wine (see page 122), but port wine is more usual. Colonel Negus is said to have invented this beverage.

Port Wine Negus.

Put a pint of port wine into a jug, and rub some lumps of sugar (equal to a quarter of a pound) on the rind of a lemon; then squeeze the juice of the lemon and strain it, adding the sugar and lemon juice to the port wine, with a little grated nutmeg. Add to this a quart of boiling water, cover the jug, and when cooled a little the beverage will be fit for use.

Port Wine.

Another Mixture.

Put into a small tumbler one wineglass of port wine with two small lumps of sugar, and half fill with boiling water; add a small portion of the rind of a lemon, and dust with nutmeg.

Soda.

Make hot two wineglasses of port wine, in which you have put a teaspoonful of icing sugar, a little grated nutmeg, and a little pounded cloves; add to this one wineglass of boiling water and a split bottle of soda-water. This is a delicious drink, well adapted to those who do not take punch or potent spirit after supper.

NOGGS.

(See also pages 37, 61, 101, 125, and 126).

Egg Nogg.

Put into a large tumbler a tablespoonful of icing sugar and one egg; when well beaten together, add one tablespoonful of boiling water, one wineglass of brandy, and the like of Santa Cruz or white rum; fill up the tumbler with boiling milk, and mix well; dust with nutmeg.

General Harrison Egg Nogg.

Beat in a large tumbler one egg with one and a half teaspoonfuls of icing sugar; then fill the tumbler with nearly hot cider, and mix well till quite smooth; dust with cinnamon.

Sherry Egg Nogg.

Put into a large tumbler one tablespoonful of icing sugar and one egg; beat both well together, and then add two wineglasses of sherry; nearly fill the tumbler with boiling milk, mix well, and dust with nutmeg.

PUNCHES.

(See also page 63).

American.

This is made the same as Arrack Punch, with the addition of half a pint of port wine made hot.

American Tea.

Put into a bowl a quarter of a pound of powdered sugar, one quart of hot tea, half a pint of brandy, half a pint of Jamaica rum, and the juice of one lemon.

Arrack.

Rub on a quarter of a pound of lump sugar the peel of one lemon ; dissolve the sugar in one pint of hot tea, then add the juice of the lemon, three wineglasses of arrack, and two wineglasses of rum.

Bimbo.

Rub the peel of one lemon on a quarter of a pound of lump sugar ; dissolve the sugar in one pint of hot tea, then add the juice of the lemon and half a pint of brandy.

Bombay.

Rub one pound of loaf sugar thoroughly into the outside of the skins of six lemons, then place the sugar in an extra large punch bowl, with two bottles of seltzer-water, one basket of strawberries, two lemons, six oranges, and one pineapple, cut into slices and thoroughly mixed. Then pour in four bottles of champagne, one bottle each of brandy, pale sherry, and madeira ; then add a gill of maraschino, stir the whole well with a ladle, and serve in small glasses.

Brandy and Rum.

Put into a bowl a quarter of a pound of icing sugar, the thin rind and juice of one lemon, and one pint of boiling water ; mix well, and then add two wineglasses of Jamaica rum and two wineglasses of brandy ; dust nutmeg on the top.

Elderberry.

English.

Rub the rind of one lemon on a quarter of a pound of lump sugar ; dissolve the sugar in boiling water, then add half a pint of boiling ale, a gill of strong hot tea, the juice of the lemon, a wineglass of brandy, and the like of Jamaica rum ; mix well.

English Milk.

(For Two.)

Dissolve in half a pint of boiling milk one tablespoonful of icing sugar, then add half a wineglassful of brandy and the like quantity of Santa Cruz or white rum ; mix well together. Grate a little nutmeg on top, and serve.

Louisiana.

Put into a small tumbler one wineglass of Bourbon whisky, the juice of an orange, and a teaspoonful of icing sugar ; fill up with boiling water.

Milk.

Put into a small tumbler a teaspoonful of icing sugar, half a wineglass of brandy, half a wineglass of Jamaica rum, and fill up with boiling milk.

New York.

Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of icing sugar in a pint of boiling water, add two wineglasses of Santa Cruz or white rum, and one wineglass of Jamaica rum; mix well together.

Nuremberg.

Dissolve one tablespoonful of icing sugar in a large tumbler or a jug with boiling water; add the juice of one orange and a part of the rind pared very thin, one wineglass of arrack, and one wineglass of claret; nearly fill the tumbler with boiling water, mix well, and strain.

Orange.

Put into a large tumbler the juice and rind of one orange, a tablespoonful of icing sugar, and half a pint of boiling water; then add one wineglass of porter, half a wineglass of Jamaica rum, half a wineglass of brandy, and a liqueur-glass of curaçoa, noyau, or maraschino.

Oxford.

Rub the rind of one lemon on a few small lumps of sugar, and add the thin rind of an orange; dissolve the sugar in nearly a pint of boiling water, add a wineglass of calf's-foot jelly, one wineglass of sherry, one wineglass of brandy, and one wineglass of Jamaica rum; mix well, then strain, and add more sugar if necessary.

Port Wine.

Put into a skillet one and a half tablespoonfuls of icing sugar, a slice of lemon, two slices of orange, two wineglasses of port wine, and the like of water; make all hot, but do not let it boil, then strain.

President Lincoln.

Infuse the thin rind of one lemon in half a pint of boiling water, with a tablespoonful of icing sugar; add one wineglass of brandy, a tablespoonful of strawberry syrup, a dash of curaçoa, and the juice of half a lemon; mix well and strain.

Raspberry.

Put into a jug a gill of raspberry syrup and a pint of boiling water; then add half a pint of stout made hot, one wineglass of brandy, one wineglass of Jamaica rum, and a liqueur-glass of curaçoa, noyau, or maraschino; mix well, strain, and divide into glasses.

Regent.

Put into a bowl one wineglass of champagne, one wineglass of hockheimer, one wineglass of curaçoa, half a wineglass of Jamaica rum, one wineglass of madeira, and nearly a pint of very hot tea; mix well and serve. This is sufficient for four persons.

Royal.

Peel a lemon very thin, and put the rind into a bowl with two tablespoonfuls of icing sugar; pour on this a pint of hot strong tea, the juice of two lemons, half a pint of brandy, half a pint of Jamaica rum, one wineglass of curaçoa, one wineglass of calf's foot jelly, or the whites of two eggs beaten to a froth, and one wineglass of arrack; mix well; the tea must be very hot, as it should be drunk as warm as possible. This is sufficient for a party of ten. If too strong add more tea.

Ruby.

Put into a small tumbler a tablespoonful of icing sugar, the juice of half a lemon, one wineglass of arrack, and one wineglass of port wine; fill up with hot tea.

Rum.

Put into a large tumbler a teaspoonful of icing sugar, one wineglass of Jamaica rum, and one wineglass of brandy; then add half a pint of boiling water, a little lemon-juice and grated nutmeg.

Sixty-ninth Regiment.

Put into a tumbler a teaspoonful of icing sugar, a slice of lemon, half a wineglass of Irish whisky, and half a wineglass of Scotch whisky; mix well, and fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

Spread Eagle.

To half a pint of boiling water with a teaspoonful of icing sugar, add one wineglass of Scotch whisky, one wineglass of champagne, and a small piece of lemon-peel.

Tea.

Put into a large tumbler half a pint of boiling tea with a teaspoonful of icing sugar, add one wineglass of brandy and one wineglass of Jamaica rum; after you have set them on fire, add the juice of one lemon.

Thirty-second Regiment, or Victoria.

To half a large tumbler of boiling milk with a tablespoonful of icing sugar, add one wineglass of brandy, half a wineglass of Jamaica rum, a slice of lemon, and then fill up the tumbler with boiling water; mix well and strain.

Uncle Toby.

Rub the rind of one lemon on two or three small lumps of sugar; put the sugar in a large tumbler with the juice of the lemon, and dissolve in one wineglass of boiling water; then add one wineglass of brandy, one wineglass of Jamaica rum, and two wineglasses of hot stout; mix well, then strain, and add more sugar if necessary.

United Service.

Rub the rind of one lemon on some lumps of sugar, and put the sugar into a small tumbler with the juice of the lemon; then add one wineglass of arrack, and fill up the tumbler with boiling tea, adding more sugar if necessary.

University.

Rub the rinds of two lemons on a quarter of a pound of lump sugar, and dissolve the sugar in a bowl in half a pint of boiling water; add the juice of the two lemons, the juice of two oranges, one wineglass of sherry, one wineglass of brandy, one wineglass of Jamaica rum, one wineglass of orange shrub, and an extra half-pint of boiling water; mix well and then strain.

Vauxhall.

Put into a large tumbler one wineglass of brandy, one wineglass of Jamaica rum, one wineglass of arrack, the juice of half a lemon, and a tablespoonful of icing sugar; mix well, then strain into two small tumblers, and fill each with boiling water.

Victoria, or Thirty-second Regiment.

Throw into a bowl one lemon cut in slices, free from pips, two ounces of icing sugar, two wineglasses of boiling water, one wineglass of hot milk, one wineglass of Jamaica rum, and one wineglass of brandy; keep stirring while adding the ingredients, so as to mix thoroughly; strain and serve.

Whisky.

Put into a small tumbler one wineglass of Irish or Scotch whisky, a teaspoonful of icing sugar, and a slice of lemon; fill up with boiling water.

Whisky.

Another, Irish.

Rub the rind of a lemon on two small lumps of loaf sugar, dissolve the sugar in a tumbler with a gill of boiling water; add one wineglassful of Irish whisky, then serve.

Whisky.

Another, Scotch.

This is made the same way as Irish Whisky Punch, using Scotch whisky instead of Irish.

Whisky.

Another, Scotch.

Put into a tumbler the thin rind of one lemon and a teaspoonful of icing sugar; dissolve the sugar in one wineglass of boiling water; add one wineglass of Scotch whisky, then add another wineglass of boiling water; mix well and strain.

Yorkshire.

Rub the rind of three lemons on a quarter of a pound of loaf-sugar, and place the sugar in a bowl with the thin rind of one lemon, the thin rind of one orange, the juice of four oranges, the juice of ten lemons, six wineglasses of calf's-foot jelly, and two quarts of boiling water; mix thoroughly, strain, and add half a pint of Jamaica rum, half a pint of brandy, and a bottle of orange shrub; sweeten to taste. This is sufficient for ten persons.

TODDY.

(See also page 84.)

Apple.

Put into a small tumbler a tablespoonful of icing sugar, half a baked apple, and two wineglasses of boiling water; let it stand for a few minutes, then add a wineglass of cider brandy, strain, and dust with nutmeg.

Brandy.

Put into a small tumbler a teaspoonful of icing sugar and one wineglass of brandy; fill the tumbler about two thirds with boiling water, and add a small piece of the peel of a lemon.

Gin.

This is made the same as Brandy Toddy, substituting gin for brandy.

Rum.

This is made the same as Brandy Toddy, substituting Jamaica, Santa Cruz or white rum for brandy.

Whisky.

This is made the same as Brandy Toddy, substituting Scotch or Irish whisky for brandy.

WINTER DRINKS—VARIOUS.

Ale Posset.

(See also page 108.)

Put into a jug half a pint of sherry and half a pint of Burton ale, adding one quart of boiling hot milk, in which you have dissolved a table-spoonful of icing sugar, and be careful to remove any scum that may be on the milk; when well mixed and strained it is ready to serve. Add a little grated nutmeg to each glass.

Ale Sangaree.

(See also page 75.)

Put into a small jug half a pint of boiling hot ale, add a teaspoonful of icing sugar; mix well, serve in a tumbler, and dust with grated nutmeg.

Archbishop.

(See also page 109.)

Stick an orange full of cloves, and roast it before the fire, or put it into a warm oven; when of a brown colour, cut it into quarters and take out the pips, then put it into a stew-pan, and pour over it a bottle of claret. Add sugar to taste, and let it simmer for a quarter of an hour; then strain and serve.

Auld Man's Milk.

(See also pages 37, 62, 89, 125 and 126.)

Put into a large tumbler a tablespoonful of icing sugar and one egg, and beat well together; then add a wineglass of brandy and a wineglass of Santa Cruz or white rum. Nearly fill with boiling water, and dust with nutmeg.

Beadle.

(See also page 109.)

Put into a large-sized tumbler or a jug two yolks of eggs and two ounces of powdered sugar, and beat well together; then add a quarter of a teaspoonful of mixed spice and half a pint of boiling water, and beat till smooth; then add one wineglass of sherry and one wineglass of ginger-brandy. Mix well, and dust with nutmeg.

Bishop.

(See also page 109.)

This is made the same as Archbishop, substituting port for claret.

Black Stripe.

Blue Blazer.

Put into a silver-plated or earthenware mug (which has been previously heated) one wine-glass of strong Scotch whisky (proof) and one wineglass of boiling water; set on fire, and have ready a second mug, already heated, and pass the blazing liquid from one mug to the other three or four times. Serve in a small tumbler, with a teaspoonful of icing sugar and a small piece of lemon-peel. This drink can be easily mixed by the amateur, if he practises with cold water at first. When done well it is very imposing, and is, in fact, a liquid stream of fire.

Cardinal.

(See also page 109.)

This is made the same as Archbishop, substituting champagne for claret.

Churchwarden.

(See also page 110.)

Put into a large tumbler a lemon roasted and cut into quarters, the pips being removed; add a tablespoonful of icing sugar, two wineglasses of hot port wine, and one of hot tea.

Claret, Mulled.

Put into a bowl the peel and juice of one lemon, a tablespoonful of powdered sugar, and one wineglass of sherry; make a bottle of claret quite hot, and add it to the above; then put in a sprig of verbena, and serve with a dust of nutmeg.

Columbia Skin.

Put into a small tumbler one wineglass of Scotch whisky and a small piece of lemon-peel; fill the tumbler half full with boiling water.

Locomotive.

(See also page 110.)

Beat two eggs with a little honey in a small bowl or a jug, add a pinch of ground cloves and a liqueur glass of curaçoa; then add, beating all the time, one pint of burgundy made boiling hot. Dust with nutmeg.

Mulled Port (or other Wine).

The following lines by Jerry Thomas may be found instructive and amusing :

‘ First, my dear madam, you must take
Nine eggs, which carefully you’ll break ;
Into a bowl you’ll drop the white,
The yolks into another by it.
Let Betsy beat the whites with switch
Till they appear quite frothed and rich ;
Another hand the yolks must beat
With sugar, which will make them sweet—
Three or four spoonfuls maybe ’ll do,
Though some, perhaps, would take but two.

Into a skillet next you'll pour
A bottle of good wine or more ;
Put half a pint of water, too,
Or it may prove too strong for you.
And while the eggs (by two) are beating,
The wine and water may be heating ;
But when it comes to boiling heat,
The yokes and whites together beat
With half a pint of water more,
Mixing them well, then gently pour
Into the skillet with the wine,
And stir it briskly all the time ;
Then pour it off into a pitcher,
Grate nutmeg in to make it richer ;
Then drink it hot, for he's a fool
Who lets such precious liquor cool.'

Mulled Wine and Eggs.

(For a Party of Ten.)

Put into a bowl six eggs, and beat them well with a quarter of a pound of icing sugar; add a little ground allspice and nutmeg, one pint of boiling water, and one quart of port (or other) wine made quite hot. Beat all well together, and then strain; dust with cinnamon. Do not pour the eggs into the wine, as they would curdle.

Mulled Wine without Eggs.

As a general rule, for preparing this beverage allow one small tumblerful of water to every pint of wine, and add sugar and spice to taste. The spices usually used for mulled wine are cloves, grated nutmeg, cinnamon, or mace, and should be boiled in the water in a thoroughly clean vessel until the flavour is extracted; then add the wine and sugar, and bring the whole to the boiling-point. Serve with dry toast or biscuits.

Pope.

(See also page 110.)

This drink is very similar to Bishop. Roast two Seville oranges, cut into quarters, and take out the pips; pour over them a bottle of hot burgundy, adding sugar to taste, put them in a stewpan, and just bring to the boil; then strain. A tablespoonful of brandy is a great improvement.

Rumfustian.

(See also page 110.)

Beat up in a large tumbler or a jug the yolks of two eggs, with a tablespoonful of icing sugar; then take half a pint of Burton ale, one wine-glass of gin, one wineglass of sherry, a little spice, and the rind of a quarter of a lemon. Let the ale, wine, and gin, mixed together, come to the boil, then pour into the egg mixture, whisking rapidly; serve hot, with a dash of nutmeg on top.

Rum, Spiced.

(See also page 110.)

In a small tumbler put a teaspoonful of icing sugar, one wineglass of Jamaica rum, a small piece of fresh butter, and a little mixed spice; nearly fill a tumbler with hot water, and mix well together.

Tom and Jerry.

I may premise that what led to this excellent hot drink being invented or mixed is not generally known. The following particulars were communicated to my son by Mr. Jerry Thomas himself, of the Planter's House, St. Louis, and afterwards of his own saloon at the corner of the Sixth Avenue and Broadway, New York. He said :

'One very cold day I was mixing an egg nogg, and was about to add the milk and ice to the mixture, when all at once I thought, "If the nogg is good cold, why should it not on a cold day like this be better hot?" I determined to try. I put two tablespoonfuls of the batter into a tumbler, and, instead of milk and ice, put in half a pint of boiling water, stirring quickly all the time to keep it smooth. I then added the usual brandy, Jamaica, and Santa Cruz rum, and a dust of nutmeg, and offered it to a customer who was present; he tasted, he drank, and at once pronounced it "nectar fit for the gods"; it was exhilarating, and made him "feel warm all over." I also tasted it, and with my acquired taste said, "That will do."

'It soon became known, and when a name was about to be given it a facetious friend who was present suggested that it should be called after myself, "Jerry Thomas," "or better still," he said, "call it 'Tom and Jerry,'" and that is the name it has been known by ever since.'

The mixture is made as follows, using a punch bowl: Beat the whites of six eggs to a stiff froth, and the yolks until they are as thin as water; then mix together, with a quarter of a wineglass of Jamaica rum, two pounds of icing sugar, and a teaspoonful of mixed spice (nutmeg and cinnamon), until the mixture attains the consistency of a light batter. Put a tablespoonful of this mixture into a small tumbler with a wineglass of brandy, and nearly fill with boiling water; serve with a little grated nutmeg on top.

Instead of brandy, a wineglassful may be used of the following mixture, which has been previously prepared and stored in a bottle: One pint of brandy, half a pint of Jamaica rum, and half a pint of Santa Cruz or white rum; and instead of serving in a small tumbler, an earthenware cup will be found an improvement.

N.B.—In mixing the batter, a teaspoonful of cream of tartar or a little carbonate of soda will prevent the sugar from settling to the bottom of the mixture. For cold Tom and Jerry use cold water or cold milk.

OTHER HOT WINTER DRINKS.

Made principally with Syrups.

(See also pages 100 and 134.)

Ale Flip.

Break one egg into a large tumbler and beat it up, add a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups : pale ale, ginger gin, and spiced ale ; then pour in, whisking all the time, half a pint of boiling water ; dust of nutmeg on the top.

Ale Posset.

(See also page 100.)

Put into a small tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups : spiced ale, ginger ale, and orange gin, with half a wineglass of sherry ; mix well together, and add hot milk to fill the tumbler ; dust with cinnamon.

Ale, Spiced.

Put into a small tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups : bitter ale, ginger ale, spiced ale, pale ale, and clove; mix well, and fill up the tumbler with boiling water. Dust with cinnamon and ginger.

Archbishop.

(See also page 101.)

Put into a small tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: clove, orange gin, and claret cup, with half a teaspoonful of orange bitters; fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

Beadle.

(See also page 101.)

Break an egg into a large tumbler, whisk it well, and add half a wineglass of sherry, and a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: clove, spiced ale, and ginger brandy, with a dash of orange bitters; fill up the tumbler with boiling water, whisking all the time; a dust of nutmeg on the top.

Bishop.

(See also page 101.)

This is the same mixture as Archbishop, adding half a wineglass of port wine, and dusting with nutmeg.

Cardinal.

(See also page 102.)

Put into a small tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: royal champagne, ginger champagne, ginger brandy, and cherry brandy; fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

Churchwarden.

(See also page 102.)

Put into a small tumbler a tablespoonful each of spiced ale, lemon champagne, ginger brandy, and cherry brandy, with a dash of port wine; mix well, and fill up the tumbler with boiling water; dust a little nutmeg on the top.

Locomotive.

(See also page 103.)

Beat up an egg in a small tumbler, and add a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: clove, curaçoa punch, and lemon champagne; whisk all well together, and fill up the tumbler with boiling water; add a dust of nutmeg.

Pope.

(See also page 105.)

This is mixed the same as Cardinal, adding a wineglass of burgundy; dust with cinnamon.

Rumfustian.

(See also page 105.)

Beat an egg up in a small tumbler, with a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: spiced ale, ginger gin, and pineapple, with a glass of sherry; fill up the tumbler with mild ale made hot; dust a little nutmeg on the top.

Rum, Spiced.

(See also page 105.)

Put into a small tumbler a liqueur-glass each of rum punch and spiced ale syrup; fill the tumbler with hot water; add a dust of nutmeg.

Seymour's Fancy.

(See also page 47.)

Put into a small tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: grape champagne, cherry brandy, lemon punch, and curaçoa punch; fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

Shandy Gaff.

Mix in a small tumbler one tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: bitter ale, ginger ale, lemon punch, and ginger brandy; mix well, and fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

Sleeper.

(See also page 48.)

Break an egg into a large tumbler, whisk it well, and add a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: lemon punch and orange bitters, with a liqueur-glass of rum punch syrup; fill up the tumbler with boiling water, and add a dust of nutmeg.

Stone Fence.

Put into a large tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: cherry cider, champagne cider, with a wineglass of Irish whisky; fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

Tarragona.

Put into a small tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: curaçoa punch, lemon punch, pineapple punch, and rum punch; mix well, and fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

Tiger's Milk.

Put into a large tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: champagne cider, ginger brandy, cherry brandy, and clove; mix well, then add the white of an egg well whisked, and fill up the tumbler with hot milk, beating all the time; dust with nutmeg.

Union.

Put a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups together in a small tumbler: lemon champagne, raspberry, rum punch, and curaçoa punch; mix well, and fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

Universal Favourite.

Put into a large tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: grape champagne, curaçoa punch, ginger brandy, orange bitters, and rum punch; mix well, fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

Velvet.

Put into a large tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: grape champagne, curaçoa punch, lemon punch, and nectar; add a wineglass of sherry, mix well, and fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

Victoria.

Beat in a large tumbler the yolk of an egg, with a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: curaçoa punch, vanilla, cherry brandy, and champagne cider; mix well, and fill up the tumbler with boiling water while stirring.

White House.

Put into a large tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: curaçoa punch, ginger champagne, lemon punch, pineapple punch, ginger brandy, and rum punch; mix well, and fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

White Lion.

Put into a small tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: lemon champagne, rum punch, curaçoa punch, and raspberry; mix well, and fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

Wood Lawn.

Put into a tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: cherry cider, plum, and raspberry; add a wineglass of canary sack, fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

Wyndham.

Put into a large tumbler a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups: cherry brandy, curaçoa, champagne cider, pineapple punch, and orange bitters; mix well, and fill up the tumbler with boiling water.

SUMMER DRINKS

MADE WITH SYRUPS.

All the before-mentioned drinks may be made into summer drinks by substituting two wine-glasses of cold water or milk, filling the tumbler with shaved ice, mixing well, and then straining, instead of using boiling water or hot milk or ale.

SUMMER BEVERAGES FOR EVENING PARTIES.

(See also some Temperance Drinks, page 123.)

Cherry Brandy Squash.

Put into a large tumbler one wineglass of sportsman's cherry brandy and a good lump of ice, fill three parts full with soda-water; ornament with slices of lemon, brandy cherries, and a few white heart cherries; dash with Angostura. Serve with a straw.

Cherry Drink.

Take any quantity of cherries free from stalks and pound them in a mortar, with stones and kernels; put into a skillet, and to every pint of pulp add one pint of water; bring to the boil, then strain through a bag or sieve, and to every pint of juice put one pound of loaf sugar, broken small; boil for five minutes, let it stand until cold, then bottle. For a drink: to a wineglass of this compound add an equal quantity of water.

Cherry Drink.

Another Way.

If you have no mortar, the cherries must be picked free from stalks and stones, and put into a pan; mash them well, then put on the fire in a bright skillet, and to every pint of pulp add one pint of water; bring to the boil, then strain through a bag or sieve, and to every pint of juice put one pound of loaf sugar, broken small; just bring to the boil, and when cold add a gill of noyau and half a gill of brandy, and bottle. About equal quantities of this syrup and cold water will make a refreshing drink.

Cups.

See page 31.

Currant Drink.

(See also page 137.)

Take any quantity of fresh currants free from stalks, and put them into an earthen pan; mash them well, then put them on the fire in a bright skillet, and to every pint of pulp add one pint of water; as soon as this comes to the boil, strain through a flannel bag or sieve, and then boil this juice for five minutes; when cold, bottle, adding to each bottle a tablespoonful of brandy, which will keep it from fermenting. Icing sugar or syrup must be added to each drink, which may be made by adding a wine-glass full to a tumbler of hot or cold water. Soda-water may be used.

English Champagne.

Mash any quantity of grapes, white or black, and to every pint of pulp put one pint of water; just bring to the boil, and strain through a bag or sieve, and to every pint of juice put a quarter of a pound of loaf sugar, broken small; again bring it to the boil, and when quite cold have sufficient bottles ready (champagne bottles if possible), well fitted with corks; fill the bottles nearly full, and then add to each a teaspoonful of brandy, and the like quantity of carbonate of potash; cork tight immediately. A teaspoonful of maraschino is an improvement.

Fig and Apple Drink.

Put into a skillet twelve fresh dried figs cut open, four apples cut into slices without peeling, and half a pound of loaf sugar, broken small; add two quarts of water, boil for twenty minutes, strain through a sieve, and let it stand till cold, when it is ready to serve.

French Plum Drink.

To every quart of boiling water throw in twelve French plums, and let them boil twenty minutes; let them remain till cold, then add to each quart two or three tablespoonfuls of icing sugar, strain, and add a glass of port to each quart; it is fit for immediate use, or may be bottled.

French Plum.

Another Way.

Put one pound of French plums into a mortar, pound them well, add three tablespoonfuls of sifted sugar and three pints of boiling water; set over a clear fire in a skillet and boil for twenty minutes; strain, and add a small quantity of liquid cochineal to make a good colour. When cold, bottle for use. Half a glass of port wine to each pint of the mixture may be added if approved of.

Fruit Drinks.

To each pound of fruit free from stalks allow half a pound of sifted sugar. Mash the fruit well, place in a skillet, and add to each pound of fruit three-quarters of a pint of water, simmer gently for half an hour, strain through a jelly bag, and bottle. If required to be kept for any length of time, a wineglass of brandy to each quart of syrup must be added to prevent fermentation. All fruit drinks are improved by the addition of a small quantity of lemon juice.

A pleasant syrup may be made with liquor from tinned peaches, pineapple, etc., by boiling with sugar to taste, and adding lemon juice and a tablespoonful of equal quantities of rum and noyau to each pint.

Ginger Beer.

Into a large pan put one ounce of ginger, the peel and juice of a large lemon, half an ounce of cream of tartar, one and a half pounds of loaf sugar, and a dessertspoonful of syrup of ginger. Add six quarts of boiling water, stir well, and when cool add two ounces of yeast spread upon a piece of toasted bread. Stir well, cover with a cloth, and leave in a warm place for twenty-four hours. Strain carefully to avoid disturbing the sediment. Bottle at once, cork, and wire down securely; store in a cool place. It will be ready for use in three or four days.

Hop Beer.

Boil six ounces of hops in two gallons of water for three hours, then strain, and add a quarter of a pound of bruised ginger; boil half an hour longer with four pounds of loaf sugar, and when milk-warm add two ounces of 'Encore' yeast; let it ferment twenty-four hours, and then bottle.

Iced Coffee and Tea.

See page 42.

Imperial Drink.

(See also page 127.)

Put two ounces of cream of tartar, the juice and peel of two lemons, and half a pound of loaf sugar, broken small, into a pan; pour over the whole four quarts of boiling water, and when cold strain and add a gill of noyau or ratafia.

Lemonade.

See also pages 58, and 127 to 129.

Lemon Squash.

See pages 45 and 130.

Orangeade.

See page 130.

Port Wine Negus.

See page 88.

Punch.

Take any of the lemonades, adding a little more sugar, and when strained add a gill of brandy and a gill of Jamaica rum.

Punch.

Another Way.

Take half a pint of brandy and half a pint of Jamaica rum; rub the peel of two lemons and two oranges on one pound of loaf sugar, break small, and dissolve in one quart of boiling water; mix these well together, and add half a pint of stout or strong tea, the juice of the lemons and oranges, and more sugar if required.

Raspberry Drink.

(See also page 132.)

Proceed as directed for Currant Drink, adding three-quarters of a pound of loaf sugar, broken small, and boil for five minutes; carefully remove all scum, and when cold bottle, adding to each bottle a teaspoonful of brandy.

Raspberry Drink.

Another Way.

Take any quantity of raspberries free from stalks, and put them into an earthen pan; mash them well, then put them on the fire in a bright skillet, and to every pint of pulp add one pint of water; as soon as it comes to the boil, pop through a flannel bag or sieve, and then boil this juice for five minutes; when cold, bottle, adding a little cochineal.

NOTE.—To prepare any of these fresh-fruit drinks, put into a tumbler two tablespoonfuls of the juice and one tablespoonful of simple syrup or icing sugar, and fill the tumbler with cold or iced water.

Raspberry Vinegar Drink.

(See also page 133.)

Put two tablespoonfuls of raspberry vinegar into a tumbler, and add sufficient hot water to fill the tumbler; when cold it is ready to serve.

Sherry or other White Wine Negus.

Proceed as directed for Port Wine Negus (see page 88), but add an additional quarter of a pound of powdered sugar; when dissolved, add a bottle of sherry, madeira, or champagne, and a wineglass of noyau or maraschino.

Spruce Beer.

Put one pound of treacle, or the like quantity of raw sugar, into a skillet, with two gallons of water; bring to the boil, and when nearly cold add two ounces of essence of spruce and one ounce of 'Encore' yeast; ferment for twenty-four hours, then bottle.

Strawberry Drink.

This is made exactly the same way as the Raspberry Drink (another way), substituting strawberries for raspberries.

Syllabub.

Put into a bowl four ounces of sifted sugar, the juice of one lemon, also the thinly-pared rind of the same; stir well, then add half a pint of canary sack, half a pint of canary port, quarter of a pint of good brandy; fill the bowl with new milk, remove the lemon-peel, and grate a nutmeg on the top. Ice for an hour; serve in small glasses, giving a portion of the curd to each person.

TEMPERANCE DRINKS,

Hot and Cold.

Almond Water or Drink.

Put six ounces of ground sweet almonds and two ounces of ground bitter almonds into a saucepan with one quart of water, and let it simmer for a quarter of an hour; then add one pound of loaf sugar, broken small, and when dissolved strain through a bag or a sieve. When cold it is ready for use. A tablespoonful of orange-flower water added is a great improvement. One wineglassful of this mixture put in a tumbler with a bottle of soda-water is a most excellent drink.

Almond Water or Drink.

Another Way.

Take half a pound of ground sweet almonds and two ounces of ground bitter almonds, and put them into a stewpan; add one pound of icing sugar and two quarts of water; bring to the boil, and let it simmer for one hour, then strain through a bag or sieve, and when cold it is ready for use.

Apple Drink.

To two quarts of boiling water add eight apples cut into slices, without peeling or coring; keep boiling until the apples are quite soft, then strain through a bag or sieve, and sweeten with icing sugar to taste. This drink is very refreshing when quite cold.

Apple Drink.

Another Way.

Have half a gallon of water boiling, throw into it twelve good sized apples cut into slices without peeling, and keep them boiling until quite tender; then strain dry, but do not let any of the apple pulp pass through the sieve; add enough powdered sugar to taste, and the juice of two lemons. Let it stand until cool, and ice when wanted.

Apple Drink.

Another Way.

Bake six or eight apples without paring them; when quite soft, put them into a pan and pour two quarts of boiling water over them; when quite cold, strain, and add icing sugar to taste.

Cherry Drink.

Take one pound of cherries (Kentish are the best), free from stalks and stones; have ready a pint of boiling syrup (to a pint of water add a pound of loaf-sugar; this makes a very good syrup), and throw the cherries into it; let them boil as fast as possible for ten minutes, add a quart of boiling water; put the whole into a pan, and, when cold, strain through a sieve or bag; it is then ready for use.

Delicious Drink.

Mix together one pint of raspberries, one pint of strawberries, and one pint of white currants, all free from stalks; mash them well together, then add two quarts of boiling water and three-quarters of a pound of icing sugar; let it remain all night, then strain, and it is ready for use.

Drink for Dog Days.

Pour a bottle of soda-water on a lemon ice in a large glass or tankard.

This is a beautifully refreshing drink, but it should be taken with caution.

Egg Nogg, Hot.

(See also pages 37, 62, 89, 101, and 126.)

Beat up one egg in a small tumbler, with a tablespoonful of icing sugar, then fill the tumbler with hot milk, mix well, and flavour with a few drops of essence of vanilla; dash with cinnamon.

Egg Nogg, Cold.

(See also pages 37, 61, 89, 101 and 125.)

Proceed the same as for Egg Nogg, Hot, using cold milk and a little crushed ice; shake well, strain, and dust with nutmeg.

Fig and Apple Drink.

See page 117.

Fruit Drinks.

Put two tablespoonfuls of any kind of fruit syrup into a small tumbler, and add one tablespoonful of simple syrup or icing sugar, fill up with cold water; stir well, and add a small lump of ice.

Fruit Drinks made with Jam.

To every quart of boiling water add a quarter of a pound of any kind of jam rubbed through a sieve; when cold it is ready for use.

Fresh-Fruit Drinks.

Rub a quart of any kind of fruit through a sieve into a pan, add a quart of cold water, mix well, and let it stand for three or four hours; then strain through a sieve, add a quarter of a pound of icing sugar, stir well, and it is ready for use. For all red fruit drinks, add a few drops of prepared cochineal.

Iced Coffee and Tea.

See page 42.

Imperial Drink.

(See also page 119.)

To six quarts of boiling water add two ounces of cream of tartar, two lemons, peel and juice, a quarter of a pound of honey, and one pound and a half of icing sugar; let the whole come to the boil, and when cold strain; a small quantity of ratafia may be added.

Lemonade.

(See also page 58.)

Put into a large tumbler two tablespoonfuls of sugar and the juice of a large lemon, fill the glass three-quarters with shaved ice, the balance with water; shake well, and serve with a straw.

Lemonade.

Another Way.

Put into a large tumbler the juice of two lemons, the thinly-pared rind of one, two tablespoonfuls of sifted sugar; half fill the glass with finely shaved ice, shake well, strain; fill up with soda-water, dash with orange bitters, place two thin slices of lemon on top. Serve with a straw.

Lemonade.

Another Way.

Put into a jug holding one pint the juice of two lemons, thinly pared rind of one, three tablespoonfuls of sifted sugar; stir well, fill up the jug with boiling water, let it stand until cold, then strain and serve.

Lemonade.

Another Way.

Take a quarter of a pint of lemon-juice, two quarts of boiling water, and one pound of icing sugar; mix well, and when cold it is ready for use.

Lemonade.

Another Way.

Put a quart of water into a stewpan with two dried figs cut in two, let it boil for one hour; add the peel of a lemon, and half a lemon cut into slices, and boil these for a short time longer; pour the whole into a pan to cool, then strain, and sweeten with honey or icing sugar.

Lemonade.

Another Way.

Rub six lemons on half a pound of loaf sugar, then break the sugar up small and add two quarts of boiling water, the juice of six lemons, and two tablespoonfuls of orange-flower water; let it remain till cold, then strain through a bag or sieve, and it is ready for use.

Lemonade, Fermented.

To two gallons of boiling water add one pound of loaf sugar and half a pint of lemon juice; ferment with one ounce of 'Encore' yeast, let it stand twenty-four hours, and then bottle.

Lemonade, Ginger.

Boil twelve pounds and a half of lump sugar for twenty minutes in ten gallons of water ; clear it with the whites of six eggs. Bruise half a pound of common ginger, boil with the liquor, and then pour it on ten lemons peeled. When cold, put it in a cask with two table-spoonfuls of yeast, the lemons sliced, and half an ounce of isinglass. Bung up the cask the next day, and it will be ready in two weeks.

Lemonade, Orange.

Put into a large tumbler one tablespoonful of icing sugar, the juice of half a lemon, and two oranges ; then nearly fill the glass with shaved ice and the balance with water ; shake or stir well, ornament with berries, and serve with a straw.

Lemonade, Seltzer.

Put into a large tumbler the juice of one large lemon, two tablespoonfuls of icing sugar, some broken ice ; fill up with syphon seltzers, stir with a spoon, and serve.

Lemon Flip, Hot.

Put into a small tumbler and beat up one egg, with a tablespoonful of icing sugar, and fill up the tumbler with hot water ; mix well, and flavour with essence of lemon.

Lemon Flip, Cold.

Mix the same as for Lemon Flip, Hot, using cold water and crushed ice.

Lemon-Squash.

(See also page 45.)

Put into a tumbler a teaspoonful of icing sugar, with the juice of half a lemon, and pour on these a bottle of lemonade.

Lemon Squash.

Another Way.

Take the juice of eight lemons, sweeten, allowing a tablespoonful of sifted sugar to each lemon. Put into a clean skillet with a pint of water, and simmer gently till the sugar is dissolved. Beat up the white and shell of one egg, add to the syrup, and stir well till the mixture boils; let it boil for a minute or two, and pour gently through a jelly bag. When cold, add a quarter of an ounce of citric acid, bottle, and cork tightly. When required to use, put five drops of Angostura bitters in a soda glass, shake round the glass, then add a wineglass of the lemon mixture, fill up with soda-water, place a thin slice of lemon on top, and serve with two straws.

Orangeade.

Proceed as directed for Lemonade, using the juice and peel of the orange in place of the lemon, and sweeten to taste.

Orangeade.

Another Way.

To half a pint of orange-juice add two quarts of boiling water and one pound of icing sugar ; when cold it is ready for use.

Orangeade.

Another Way.

Dissolve one pound of icing sugar in two quarts of boiling water, add the rind and juice of six oranges ; let it stand till cold, then strain through a bag or sieve, and serve.

Orange Drink.

Slice four oranges and two lemons, without peeling, and put them into a pan, with half a pound of icing sugar ; pour over them two quarts of boiling water, and when cold strain, and it is ready for use.

Orange Drink.

Another Way.

Mix equal parts of orange wine and water, which will be found a very nice drink.

Orgeat Water.

Blanch half a pound of sweet almonds with one dozen bitter ones, pound them well together in a mortar, adding a little orange-flower water, two pints of water, and sugar to taste, mixing all together, afterwards straining ; add rough ice, when it is ready for use.

Peach Drink.

Take a tin of preserved peaches, mash them well up with the syrup, and add two quarts of boiling water; let it stand till cold, then strain; add sugar to taste, and it is ready to serve.

Quince Drink.

Proceed exactly as directed for Apple Drink.

Raspberry Drink.

(See also page 121.)

Rub a quart of ripe raspberries through a sieve into a pan, and add one quart of cold water; let it stand for a few hours, then strain, and it is ready for use. Sweeten to taste.

NOTE.—Almost any other fresh fruit may be treated the same way. With many of the plum class the juice of a lemon is a great improvement, but will require an extra quantity of icing sugar.

Raspberry Squash.

Put into a large soda tumbler one tablespoonful of raspberry syrup, one tablespoonful of lemon squash, a lump of ice; fill up to three parts with soda water; ornament with a slice of lemon and a few red and white raspberries. Serve with a straw.

Raspberry Vinegar.

(See also page 121.)

Take ripe, dry raspberries, and pour over sufficient good malt vinegar to cover ; let them stand for three or four days, stirring occasionally with a silver spoon. On the fourth day strain through a sieve, and let them drain for some hours ; measure the juice, and add equal quantities of good white sugar, put into a lined preserving pan and let it gently boil for six minutes. Carefully remove the scum as it rises. When cold, bottle, and cork well. To make an agreeable drink, add a wineglass to a tumbler of water, or soda-water. It will be found very useful as a cooling drink in illness.

Raspberry Vinegar Drink.

(See also page 121.)

Put two tablespoonfuls of raspberry vinegar into a small tumbler, and fill up with cold water.

Rizine and Milk.

Boil a tablespoonful of rizine in a pint of milk, sweeten with icing sugar, and when cold strain ; add a little grated nutmeg. A glass of wine, or a tablespoonful of brandy, may be added if desired.

SUMMER DRINKS.

(See also page 114.)

Many of the British wines, mixed with an equal quantity of water, with a little ice, make very cool and refreshing drinks.

WINTER DRINKS.

The instructions given for the making of summer drinks may be closely followed, only substituting hot for cold water, and serving as hot as possible. A great favourite is made as follows :

Elderberry Punch.

Put two bottles of elderberry wine into a bowl, with a quarter of a pound of icing sugar and three pints of boiling water ; mix well, then add a lemon cut into slices, and grate some nutmeg on the top. Mulberry wine may be substituted.

RESTORATIVE DRINKS.

Ale Flip.

Break one egg into a large tumbler and beat it up ; add a tablespoonful of each of the following syrups : Pale ale, ginger gin, and spiced ale ; then pour in, whisking all the time, half a pint of boiling water. Dust of nutmeg on top.

Aniseed Cordial.

To one pint of plain syrup add one pint of good brandy and thirty drops of aniseed syrup ; shake well. Use as a cordial either mixed with water or not, as required.

Baltimore Egg Nogg.

Beat the yolks of sixteen eggs and twelve tablespoonfuls of pulverized loaf sugar to the consistency of cream ; beat into this two-thirds of a grated nutmeg, then pour in half a pint of good brandy or Jamaica rum and two wine-glasses of Madeira wine. Have ready the whites of the sixteen eggs whipped to a stiff froth, and beat them well into the above mixture, and then stir in six pints of good rich milk. Made in the above manner, this forms an excellent drink for debilitated people and a nourishing diet for consumptives.

For other Noggs, see pages 61 and 89.

Barley Water.

Mix one tablespoonful of prepared barley to a smooth paste with two tablespoonfuls of water, add the juice and thinly-pared rind of one lemon ; pour on boiling water to make up a pint, stirring all the time ; set aside to get cold, sweeten to taste. This can be made without the lemon, and an equal quantity of good milk added to it, when it makes a nourishing, digestible food for invalids and infants.

Beef Tea Cordial.

Make half a pint of beef tea by adding the required quantity of boiling water to one large dessert-spoonful of bovril ; ice for an hour ; add one dessert-spoonful of brandy. Serve with finger strips of dry toast.

Brandy, Burnt.

Currant Drink.

(See also page 116.)

A useful drink in illness is made by pouring one pint of boiling water over one pound of black-currant jam; let it stand until nearly cold; strain through a sieve. When cold it is ready for use.

Ginger Cordial.

To one pint of the best brandy add one pint of plain syrup, four ounces of essence or syrup of ginger; strain and bottle. When required for use add one tablespoonful to one wineglass of water. A useful cordial may be made by adding the ginger to the syrup without the brandy.

Hot Spiced Rum.

Put into a small tumbler one or two lumps of loaf sugar, half a teaspoonful of mixed allspice, one wineglass of Jamaica rum, and a small piece of fresh butter. Then fill up the tumbler with hot water, and grate a little nutmeg on top.

This will be found exceedingly beneficial in the case of sore throats and colds.

Orange Gin.

Steep one ounce of dried orange-peel (equal parts of Seville and China or Tangerine is preferable) in one pint of gin ; let it remain for ten days, strain, then add one ounce of syrup of ginger and three-quarters of a pound of loaf sugar ; strain through paper, bottle, and cork well. This makes a good tonic.

Orange Quinine.

To a pint bottle of ordinary orange wine add ten grains of quinine in powder, cork well, and let it stand for a few days. A wineglassful may be taken occasionally as a tonic, or a pleasant tonic drink may be made by adding a split bottle of soda-water to half a wineglass of the Orange mixture.

Peach and Honey.

See page 46.

Port Wine Mixture.

Half fill a wineglass with good brandy, fill up with port wine, and grate a quarter of a nutmeg on the top. This mixture is useful in cases of diarrhœa, where there is much exhaustion.

Prairie Oyster.

See page 85.

Raspberry Shrub.

Raspberry Vinegar.

See pages 121 and 133.

Rizine and Milk.

See page 133.

Rock and Rye.

For this drink, which is an excellent remedy against sore throats, etc., the best rock candy syrup and the best rye whisky must be used. It is made by putting half a tablespoonful of rock candy syrup into a large wineglass, and adding rye whisky to taste.

Rue Gin.

To one pint of good English gin add half a pint measure of rue sprigs nicely picked and washed ; steep for one month, when it will be ready for use.

Sherry and Egg.

Beat the yolk of a new-laid egg with a dessert-spoonful of sifted sugar, add a wineglass of good sherry and ten drops of syrup of cinnamon ; dust with nutmeg, and serve with fingers of toast or sponge rusks.

Soda Nectar.

See page 61.

Stimulant Mixture.

For Lowness of Spirits, Fainting.

To five ounces of peppermint water add two ounces of orange syrup, half an ounce of carbonate of ammonia, and one ounce and a half of compound tincture of cardamoms; shake well. A tablespoonful to be taken occasionally.

Turkey Oyster.

See page 85.

Whisky Cordial.

Beat the yolk of a new-laid egg with a dessert-spoonful of sifted sugar, add a quarter of a pint of hot milk, add a wineglass of good whisky, dust with nutmeg; serve with toast fingers.

THE END.

Second Edition, revised to date.

MAKERS OF BRITISH INDIA.

Historical and Biographical.

From 1600 to the Present Time.

By W. H. DAVENPORT ADAMS.

With a Map and 12 Illustrations. Crown 8vo., 482 pages, cloth, price 4s. 6d. ; gilt edges, 5s.

‘The story is told in simple language, without any striving after effect, and the main facts are brought into proper relief, and not buried under a mass of detail.’
—Pall Mall Gazette.

‘Deserving of perusal of every European in India.’—Allahabad Morning Post.

‘Important as is the place India occupies in modern British history, comparatively few people are thoroughly acquainted with the story of the development of that great Empire. All the facts have here been brought within easy range. A good map is provided, and the appendices will prove invaluable to the student.’
—Dundee Advertiser.

‘A succinct history of the gradual development of the British power in India.’
—The Mail and Times Weekly.

‘The characters of Clive, Warren Hastings, Wellesley, and other heroes of India, are splendidly depicted.’—Newcastle Daily Chronicle.

‘Highly calculated to stimulate inquiry, and to supply information on which an intelligent and sound judgment can be formed by the people at home about our great dependency.’—Aberdeen Journal.

‘It is useful, to say the least of it, to be able to gain so easily a bird’s-eye view of the growth of British rule in our largest dependency.’—Bradford Observer.

‘With its map and illustrations, chronological table, bibliography, and copious indices, it is in itself a small reference library of the subject.’—Star.

‘The author has successfully addressed himself to the task of telling the story of the rise and growth of the British Indian Empire.’—Times of India.

‘A superbly got up volume of sterling educational interest.’—Liverpool Post.

‘A handy compendium of the history of British sway in the East.’—Morning Post.
