OF THE

ROYAL MEDICAL SOCIETY OF EDINBURGH.

GENERAL MAXIMS.

1. THE President shall interpret all the Laws in this Code according to the STRICT LETTER; but should the Interpretation of any law given by him appear incorrect, the sense of the Society may be taken upon it, on a Motion being made to that effect, and supported by FIFTEEN Members.

2. The Society's Hall and Library shall be open to Members DAILY, from NINE A.M. to TEN P.M., except on Sundays, on the Fast Days appointed by the Church of Scotland, and during the hours appropriated to Divine Service on the Saturday preceding and Monday following the Communion Services of that Church. No Meeting for business of any kind shall take place either at such times, or on Good Friday or Christmas Day.

CHAPTER I.

OF ORDINARY MEETINGS.

1. The Society shall hold its First Meeting of each Session for Private Business on the FIRST Friday of November. On the SECOND Friday of November the first Dissertation shall be read, and Meetings shall be held on each succeeding Friday, until TWENTY subjects shall have been discussed. But there shall be no Meeting on Good-Friday, nor during the week from Christmas-Day to New-Year's-Day inclusive; and if Christmas-Day should fall on a Friday, the Meeting shall be held on the preceding Thursday.

2. The Ordinary Meetings shall commence at five minutes past SEVEN o'clock P.M., and shall continue until dissolved by the President.

3. The Private Business shall be first considered, but shall not be protracted beyond five minutes before EIGHT o'clock, except for the express purpose of the collection of Fines (Chap. XVII., Law 8), and of Annual Contributions (Chap. VI., Law 8), the Election of Office-Bearers or Committees, or allowing new Members to sign the Laws. If the Private Business shall not be fully considered within the time appointed, it shall be resumed either at the next Ordinary Meeting, or at an Extraordinary one to be appointed for the purpose. There shall be an adjournment for a few minutes between Private and Public Business.

4. The Secretary, at the beginning of Private and end of Public Business, shall call over the names of the Presidents and Ordinary Members, according to seniority. But if the Society be not adjourned at ELEVEN o'clock, instead of the last Roll a Paper shall be signed by the President, and placed in the Library for the signature of Members. The Members absent at either Roll, or who neglect to sign the Paper, shall be fined SIXPENCE for each Roll. If, at any time during the course of Public Business, previous to ELEVEN o'clock, the President shall observe that there are not TEN Members (exclusive of the President in the Chair) in the room, he shall impose the Fine of ONE SHILLING upon every Member on the Roll who may be absent, provided always that this be not done oftener than once in the same evening. No excuse for absence at any of these times shall be deemed valid, except those mentioned in Chapter. XIX., Law 2. For any neglect of what is required of him by this Law the President shall be fined FIVE SHILLINGS.

5. On the Evenings on which there is no Public Business, the Roll shall be called at the commencement and termination of the Meeting, and the Fine for absence at EACH Roll-call shall be SIXPENCE; and the same Law shall apply to Adjourned Meetings for Public Business.

6. If an Adjournment be moved during Public Business, the Society shall immediately ballot on such Motion; if assented to by FIFTEEN Members, the Adjournment shall take place, a notice of it being inserted in the Minutes and placed in the Library. Previously to the adjournment the Roll shall be called.

7. A Petition for leave of absence from the Meetings of the Society, if on the ground of Indisposition, shall be immediately decided by Ballot; if on any OTHER ground, it shall hang for a week in the Library, before being balloted for. In EITHER case, such Petition shall require a majority of THREE-FOURTHS for its admission.

15. No President who has been deposed shall at any time obtain a President's Diploma.

21. If any Member, when called upon by the Chair, shall refuse to make such concessions as the Society may deem satisfactory, he shall incur such penalty as the Society shall decide, not exceeding the sum of TWO GUINEAS.

22. Accurate Minutes of the Proceedings, both of Private and Public Business, shall be drawn up by the respective Presidents, and delivered by them to the Secretaries, to be transcribed into the Records of the Society. These Minutes shall be authenticated by the signatures of the Presidents and the Secretaries.

23. The President in Private Business shall read the Minutes of the preceding Ordinary Meeting, and of all Extraordinary Meetings that may have been since held.
