

A true and particular account of that extraordinary woman, Ann Moor of Tutbury, Staffordshire ; who has lived entirely without food for three years ; giving the particulars of her life ... attested by Mr. Taylor, surgeon, of Lane-End, and Mr. H. Jackson, of Tutbury / [Ann Moore].

Contributors

Moore, Ann, 1761-1825.

Taylor, Mr., surgeon.

Jackson, H., Mr.

Publication/Creation

Kettering : J. Downing, [1810]

Persistent URL

<https://wellcomecollection.org/works/r5wt3ukh>

License and attribution

This work has been identified as being free of known restrictions under copyright law, including all related and neighbouring rights and is being made available under the Creative Commons, Public Domain Mark.

You can copy, modify, distribute and perform the work, even for commercial purposes, without asking permission.

wellcome collection

Wellcome Collection
183 Euston Road
London NW1 2BE UK
T +44 (0)20 7611 8722
E library@wellcomecollection.org
<https://wellcomecollection.org>

37344/B

D XVIII K
19

MOORE, A.

~~TRUE (A)~~ c

F. C. Carter (Hornsey)
157 - (with another)
24 Feb. '29

49432

A TRUE AND

Particular Account

OF THAT

EXTRAORDINARY WOMAN,

ANN MOOR,

Of TUTBURY, Staffordshire;

Who has Lived Entirely WITHOUT FOOD

FOR THREE YEARS;

Giving the Particulars of her Life

TO THE PRESENT TIME;

Attested by Mr. TAYLOR, Surgeon, of Lane-End,

AND

Mr. H. JACKSON, of Tutbury.

KETTERING:

PRINTED AND SOLD BY

J. Downing, Bookseller and Stationer,

PRICE ONE PENNY.

(1810)

usual, though her strength is considerably diminished: she has not power now to move her legs without assistance, and all the parts of her body below the hips appear to her as if they were dead.

She has for some time past discontinued the use of moistened rag, which she used to wipe her mouth with, as she never feels any occasion for it. Her mouth has always a sufficiency of saliva to keep it in a proper state of moisture, but never so much as to occasion her to swallow.

She cannot endure people in the room who have taken the smallest quantity of malt or spiritous liquors; the fumes of their breath affect her in such a manner, as to cause a giddiness in her head like that felt by a person in liquor, attended with violent sickness and illness; yet the fumes of smoking tobacco do not in the least affect her.

Thus it appears, that she has not taken the least particle of solid food since June 1807, nor any kind of liquids since October 1808.

These are all the particulars that are worthy of notice, from the beginning to the present period of her existence. Such an extraordinary instance has never been before established with proofs so undeniable. This is a living fact, which continues to excite the greatest curiosity.

FINIS.

Printed and Sold by J. Downing, Kettering.

