It is with regret that the Council report the loss, for the present at least, of the services of the President of Magdalen College, Oxford, whose position as a member of the Committee appointed by the Education Department to inspect University Colleges in this country precludes his serving on their body.

The Council also regret that the valuable services of Mr. Forster M. Alleyne and the Rev. Dr. Culross are no longer available: Mr. Alleyne leaving England for a lengthened sojourn in the West Indies, and Dr. Culross resigning on the ground of ill-health.

Staff Many changes have taken place in the Staff during the year: Dr. A. Richardson having left for India; Mr. H. A. Garratt, to be Head of the Engineering Department of the North London Polytechnic; Mr. W. J. Bremner Davis, on appointment as one of H.M. Inspectors of Factories; Mr. A. E. Mackett, as Science Master of Ashburton Grammar School; and M. Pellissier to take up an appointment under the Sorbonne, Paris.

The course of Popular Lectures on Natural History Lectures. delivered by the Principal at the Bristol Museum and Library last winter was well attended, the average attendance being between 300 and 400.

The usual Holiday Lectures for young people were given by Mr. Tyack, the Assistant-Lecturer in Physics, who took for his subject "Ice, Water, and Steam."

A short course of Lectures on Oriental Languages and Literature was delivered by Mr. Ernest Sibree, M.A., late Librarian and Assistant-Keeper of the Indian Institute, Oxford. The attendance was such as to justify the continuation of the course during the current Session.

The audited accounts for the past year show that Finance. the current expenditure exceeded the income by £1284 6s. 6d.

An earnest appeal for funds, with the double object of relieving the College from its existing debt and of raising the Sustentation Fund to its original level, was commenced in the early part of 1896. The object was in the first place to raise £10,000, and in response to this appeal promises of Donations amounting to £8,059 have been already received. Of this sum the Bristol Town Council contributes £2,000 on condition that three representatives nominated by their body are elected on the Council of the College. The acceptance of the grant on these terms is recommended, and at the close of the Ordinary Meeting of Governors to-day an Extraordinary Meeting will be held, to which a Resolution to this effect will be submitted for adoption.

The appeal for an addition of £700 per annum to the Sustentation Fund has only so far resulted in an increase of £114. The Council still hope that this may be materially augmented. In view of the great importance attached by the Government to local support, they cannot too strongly urge upon the citizens of Bristol the necessity of making liberal contributions to this Fund. The continuance of the existing Government grant of £1,200 per annum is contingent upon continued local support; and, in the application for an increased grant, which is now under consideration by the Government, additional local contributions will have great weight.

18th November, 1896.

Mr. ALBERT FRY moved the adoption of the Report, and having alluded with regret to the loss of their two colleagues who had been on the Council of the College for many years—Mr. Forster Alleyne and Dr. Culross—expressed satisfaction that the present Principal of the Baptist College, the Rev. W. J. Henderson, was coming upon the Council. The story he had to tell them was almost always the same. They had done very good educational work, and their finances were not in a very good condition. He must say they had been encouraged by the number of people who had already responded to their appeal and had contributed a considerable amount towards the College and towards the liquidation of the debt which had accumulated upon it. The excess of expenditure over income was really their grave difficulty at present. They hoped the Government would see its way to give them an increased grant, together with other English University Colleges, nearly all of which were in the same difficulty ; he could not think that any Government would long let so many colleges, conferring enormous benefit upon the country, languish for the want of the few thousands a year which would put them in a position of comparative ease and comfort. They at Bristol had increased their building, and had a grant from the Town Council in aid of their work ; still, they knew that a larger establishment entailed larger expenditure, and a slight reduction in fees, together with a falling-off in their Sustentation Fund, had left them with a considerable deficit.

The MASTER of Balliol College, Oxford, seconded the motion. He said the public would see that the repeated appeals the College had to make for their benevolent support were not due to want of economy, but that they had become necessary because the institution was giving great advantages to students, often in humble circumstances, who were not able to pay high fees, and that it was doing this in a most efficient way, and at the smallest possible cost. He hoped the effect of the Report would be still larger contributions in future, and that the public would take into consideration the very important service which these colleges were doing to the country. He did not think so much educational work could possibly be done at less expense, and if the Government did not support such colleges it would have to meet a greater outlay in the future.

The resolution was carried.

Mr. G. F. SCHACHT proposed the re-election of the following members of Council—Messrs. J. W. Arrowsmith, Albert Fry, Lewis Fry, M.P., A. C. Pass, the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Hereford, and Mr. Harry E. Thomas, and referred in warmly eulogistic terms to the work in the department of Chemistry, selecting this for mention because it was the one about which his life's work qualified him to form an opinion.

Professor DOBSON seconded the motion, and it was agreed to.

The Rev. HEREFORD B. GEORGE moved the re-appointment of Messrs. E. Stock and C. J. Ryland as Auditors. He trusted at the close of the year the Auditors would have to append their names to a more favourable balance sheet.

Professor C. LLOYD MORGAN seconded the motion, and it was approved.

Mr. ALBERT FRY moved the election of the Rev. J. W. Henderson, Principal of the Baptist College, as a member of the Council in the place of the Rev. Dr. Culross, resigned.

Mr. J. W. ARROWSMITH, seconding this, remarked that Mr. Henderson came to Bristol with a good record, not only as a scholar but as a good business man, and his services would be gladly accepted upon the Council.

The resolution was carried.

Mr. LEWIS FRY, M.P., moving a vote of thanks to the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Hereford for presiding, referred to their indebtedness to that gentleman, who had taken, in the early stages of the history of the institution, a very active and prominent part in the work, and to whom more than to any one person they owed the existence of the College.

Professor R. FANSHAWE seconded the motion, and it was carried.

The PRESIDENT, in reply, said it always gave him pleasure to come to that or any other meeting in Bristol. He should have come with greater pleasure had they not had a deficit in the balance sheet. There were one or two things that occurred to him on that occasion. In spite of the good work the College was doing, he could not think that the opportunities it afforded to large classes of young persons in Bristol were sufficiently known to them, or at any rate sufficiently realised. He could not but feel if the younger people among the multitudes in Clifton and Bristol realised the offers of a good education which were awaiting them there, they would come in much larger numbers, both as day and as evening students. He felt this all the more when he read such an excellent list of distinctions as those won during the last year. If anyone interested in Bristol education would be good enough, when this Report went out on the morrow, to study the list of distinctions obtained by students of the College in various departments they must come to the conclusion they had there, at their very doors, a most admirable institution waiting to instruct the young people as they grew up. As he read such a list the question came into his mind very strongly, "Why do not more come out of this great population and take advantage of this education given at such a very low rate of payment—far below cost price?" Another observation occurred to him with reference to the appeal made to the citizens of Bristol. In the last twenty years they had had to make a great many appeals to the generosity of the citizens for that and other purposes. It was with the greatest pleasure he read the result of that appeal so far as it had gone. They would like it to be known by the Bristol public that the appeal was still crying to those who had not answered it; they did not consider the effort was closed by any means, but it was a special pleasure to see with what liberality the appeal for a capital sum of £10,000 had been so far responded to. The thanks of all friends of good education were due to those very liberal citizens who had come to the support of the College on that occasion. Special thanks were due to the Town Council for their very wise support of the College. He said "very wise" because he was sure for the money they bestowed upon the College the citizens would receive an abundant return. There was another part of the appeal he should like to refer to—the appeal for annual subscriptions to the Sustentation Fund. That fund was supported some years ago on a liberal scale. Naturally as time went on some supporters died and some left the city, and the fund required replenishing. Therefore the Council of the College decided to make this appeal for something like £700 a year additional to the Sustentation Fund. He expected to see rather a larger response than had yet been made. He dared say the response was the beginning of what would grow to much larger proportions. About £100 had been promised per annum. To that they ought to add at least another £600. He thought it deserved to be borne in mind that a great part of the very liberal support given to the College did not come from the class of persons who made the most use of it, but from those public-spirited citizens who gave because they believed the College was a valuable institution for the life and prosperity of the city. Having that feeling, he could not but think they ought to get a larger addition to the Sustentation Fund from persons who could not afford to give large subscriptions to the Capital Fund. The College had now been in operation many years, doing excellent work for large numbers of persons in the city on easy terms, and there must be many old pupils, and many friends of old pupils, who felt they owed a great deal to the institution. There must be pupils of Professor and Mrs. Marshall who felt grateful to them for what they had gained when at the College; pupils of Professor Ramsay, who must have felt proud of having been pupils in his laboratory; and again, pupils of Professor Silvanus Thompson and others. There ought to be somewhere about in that great community 500 or 600 persons having a grateful feeling towards the College, who might give or procure, let them say, a guinea a year. Their contributions would be welcome, not only as helping them to wipe off their deficiency, but as affording a substantial proof of the gratitude of those who had benefited by the College. He hoped when they met again they would be able to report that they had turned the corner and were free from the incubus of their year-by-year deficit. The time had come for their friends to assist them to clear off this constant deficit.

An Extraordinary Meeting followed for the alteration of the 20th Article of Association, as explained in the Report.

Mr. ALBERT FRY moved—"That the 20th Article of Association of University College, Bristol, be altered by the addition of the following sub-section: '(n) Three members, being members of the Council of the City and County of Bristol, nominated by that body.'" He remarked that they welcomed not only the £2000 from the Town Council, but also the three gentlemen whom the Town Council had nominated to be upon the Council of the College. They were anxious the College should be identified with Bristol in every way possible, and the presence of the three Town Councillors would be a distinct advantage, helping them to secure, he hoped, a wider basis of interest among the citizens.

Mr. J. W. ARROWSMITH seconded the motion, and after acknowledging the indebtedness of the College to Mr. Albert Fry, spoke of the readiness with which the Technical Instruction Committee of the Town Council aided the College. The inclusion of the three members of the Town Council on the Council of the College would do the College more good than appeared on the face of it.

The resolution was carried, and Mr. Albert Fry mentioned that the gentlemen nominated were Alderman W. W. Jose, Mr. W. R. Barker, and Mr. W. H. Elkins.
