* Lots 245. 1 & 2. and 253 were most valuable, all the correspondence between Mr Clift & most distinguished people, much relating to the destruction of the Hunterian Manuscripts by Everard Home Esq. also much private correspondence, letters to & from his wife contained in a white satin bag & felt bound. Offer them to his son in-law Prof. Owen, who took out his purse to pay for them saying he gave instructions to the Auctioneer, not to let them go, but when he heard the price (see above) he said I might keep them, giving him the letters & set of false teeth in gold frame, worth alone all I gave them Mr Thomas Bell Esq. called to see them & was very much surprised at Owen, saying they could not have fallen into better hands, after picking out all I could for I sold the remainder waste-paper for double I gave for the lots. & for which I confess I was a great fool; but I had expended more than I left at this sale.
