The following section is blank

The first part of the paper is devoted to a general consideration of the subject. It is shown that the theory of the subject is not yet complete, and that there are many points which require further investigation. The author then proceeds to a detailed examination of the various aspects of the problem, and shows how they are interrelated.
 The results of the investigation are then summarized, and it is shown that the theory is in a state of progress, and that further work is required to bring it to a final conclusion.

It will be moreover extremely difficult at this time of the year to find a suitable house & the cost will certainly exceed the sum de names.

I do not think a change of scene will do any real good but I am quite willing to try & arrange a visit into the country somewhere if the visitors think it desirable.

It is quite clear that Miss Walker is not as strong as formerly
