READ THE PREFACE
BEFORE YOU CONSULT THE BOOK.

P R E F A C E.

THE 'Genealogist's Guide' having been accepted by the public as a useful book of reference renders it almost unnecessary to do more by way of preface than recapitulate the plan which has been followed in constructing it.

It will be asked what kind of genealogy I have considered a pedigree of sufficient importance to be catalogued here. My answer is, that as a general rule, I have included any descent of three generations in male line. A pedigree, therefore, which sets forth the descendants of A in the families of B, C, and D, is referred to under such of the families of B, C, and D, as happen to have three generations in male line given in it; if there be only two and an heiress, it is not noticed. Exceptions to this rule are, however, frequent in references to works such as Peerages and Baronetages, my object being not so much to index every existing genealogy as to place the intelligent student in a position to find out the sources from which he may obtain a clue to the particular pedigree he is searching for. This observation also applies to the references given to 'Notes and Queries,' which in no degree pretend to supersede the necessity of consulting for purposes of genealogical reference the general indexes to that periodical. So far, indeed, as 'Notes and Queries' is concerned, reference is often made only to one or two out of many articles relating to a particular family; but it will be found sufficient to give those consulting the book a clue to further information, as the articles in that publication are headed by references to such as have previously appeared in it.

'Pulls' from the publications of Archaeological Societies, and Periodicals have been carefully excluded from this book, unless they contain additional matter to that given in the work in which their contents originally appeared.

When, as is frequently the case with county histories, a book has passed through more than one edition, reference is made to the best or most easily accessible edition. In consulting the following pages it is therefore necessary to bear in mind that references to

The references to 'Glover's Derbyshire' are to the 4to. edition, and the figures in parentheses refer to the 8vo. edition.

Those portions of the publications of the Powys-land Club which have been re-issued as 'The History of Llangurig' and <sup>1</sup> The pages in parentheses refer to the third edition, which has been published since the first edition of this work was compiled.

<sup>2</sup> References to Croston's Edition have been added to this edition of the Guide.

'The Sheriffs of Montgomeryshire,' are referred to under those headings.

The references to 'Topographical Miscellanies,' 1792, 4to., of which work, edited by Sir E. Brydges, only one volume was issued, have the places under which pedigrees will be found in parentheses, there being no continuous pagination.

When a pedigree is on a folding table, the page which it faces is given. To some books no page is cited; in such cases it must be understood that they are not paged.

It should be remembered when consulting the references to Burke's 'History of the Commoners,' that the second and subsequent editions of that work bear the title 'Landed Gentry.' In these the pedigrees (except in a few instances) being in alphabetical order, the page where a pedigree will be found is not given, the number appended being that of the edition in which it is contained. When, as often happens, more than one family of the same name occurs, its place of residence is given in parentheses, a plan necessary to avoid confusion, and to show that more than one genealogy will be found in the edition referred to. The abbreviation add.=addenda; supp.=supplement; corr.=corrigenda. To the fifth edition there are two supplements. The sixth edition was re-issued in 1882, with an amended supplement. This book contains references to only the first eight editions. The Landed Gentry being now issued at much more frequent intervals than formerly it seems unnecessary to index each edition as it comes out.

Burke's 'Extinct Baronetcies' contains a large number of pedigrees not to be found elsewhere. These pedigrees being in alphabetical order, no page is given; but to those of Baronets of Ireland and Scotland, and descents which are subsidiary to others, the page has been added.

The words 'Caernarthenshire Pedigrees,' 'Cardiganshire Pedigrees,' and 'Pembrokeshire Pedigrees,' refer to a book entitled 'Pedigrees of Caernarthenshire, Cardiganshire, and Pembrokeshire, in continuation of Lewis Dwnn, to about the years 1700-10. From the MS. of John Philipps Allen Lloyd Philipps, Esq., of Dale Castle, co. Pembroke. Typis Medio Montanis, 1859.' Fol. Privately printed by Sir Thomas Phillipps, Bart. Sir Thomas Phillipps printed a considerable number of pedigrees on separate sheets, many of them signed with his initials and sometimes the date of the year when printed thus—T. P., 1870. I have marked all those I know with the initials T. P., and the date when given. An extensive collection of them will be found in the Bodleian Library, from which most of my references are taken.

As a general rule, the surname of a family is the heading under which its genealogy should be sought; but to this one exception is frequently made, viz., where there is a peerage title. In searching, therefore, for titled families, it is necessary to look both under the surname and also under the title, reference being avoidably made now to the one and again to the other. When a family has a double surname the references to both names should be consulted. It must also be borne in mind that many names are spelt in several different ways, so that it is necessary to look under all the various ways in which any name can be spelt. Cross references have been added to assist the reader, especially to such as are not familiar to those who are unaccustomed to genealogical researches.

To have given references in this work to the pedigrees contained in all the Peerages and Baronetages which have been published during the last two hundred years would have increased its cost and size without being a proportionate aid to the reader. But references to the most important Peerages and Baronetages, e.g., Dugdale's 'Baronage,' Brydges' 'Collins,' Edmondson's 'Baronagium Genealogicum,' etc., have been added. Lists of the principal works of this class will be found in Mr. Richard Sims's 'Manual for the Genealogist,' a book so well known as to render it unnecessary to repeat them here. Peerages of England at p. 180, Scotland at p. 187, and Ireland at p. 188. There is also a list of Royal Genealogies at p. 178. Since my first edition was issued, the Index Society has published (vol. v.) 'An Index of Hereditary English, Scottish, and Irish Titles of Honour,' by Edward Solly, F.R.S., F.S.A., a valuable work, and indispensable to every genealogical inquirer who wishes to make a complete search in reference to any name one of whose bearers has been raised to the dignity of a Peer or Baronet.

Private Acts of Parliament frequently contain much genealogical information ; a collection in thirty-nine folio volumes is in the Guildhall Library, with MS. pedigrees by Sir George Naylor, an index to them will be found in 'Genealogical Queries,' by G. F. T. Sherwood, vol. i., p. 21, etc.

The numbers of the Session Papers, printed by order of the House of Lords, which are given as references to the evidence taken on claims to Peerages and to vote at the elections of Irish Peers, refer to the number at the bottom of each paper. The volume in which the paper will be found can be ascertained by referring to the General Indexes to the Sessional Papers. Though these give the page as well as the volume, it would be useless here to refer to the page, because it is the MS. page of the copy arranged for the library of the House of Lords, and not the page at which the particular paper inquired for would be found. An explanatory note to this effect will be seen at the commencement of the General Indexes.

Mention of other works of the same kind as this may not be considered out of place. Sims's 'Index to the Heralds' Visitations' is a useful guide to the MS. collections in the British Museum, though inaccurate and incomplete. The 'Heraldic Calendar,' by William Skey, published in 1846, gives a list of pedigrees and arms recorded in Ulster's Office at Dublin Castle. Whitmore's 'Handbook of American Genealogy' contains much information relative to the pedigrees of English families whose descendants have settled in America. Durrie's 'Alphabetical Index to American Genealogies' gives references to the pedigrees in books published in America, and may frequently be consulted with advantage by English readers. There is a useful list of claims to Scottish Peerages, from 1788-1838, in the 'Gentleman's Magazine' for April, 1839. A catalogue of foreign genealogies will be found in Moule's 'Bibliotheca Heraldica,' pp. 619-648. 'L'Art de vérifier les Généalogies des Families Belges et Hollandaises,' par J. Huyttens (Brussels, 1865, 8vo.), is a work similar to several of those already mentioned. A work, entitled 'A Guide to Printed Books and Manuscripts relating to English and Foreign Heraldry and Genealogy,' by George Gatfield, containing inter alia a list of family histories, pedigrees, and peerage cases, will be found useful. As I have not been able to discover the method pursued by the author of this compilation, I refer the reader to it, merely remarking that by including in his list of pedigrees such works as 'DEVIL. The Pedigree of the Devil, by Frederic T. Hall. Lond., 1883, 8vo.' it will be obvious that his researches into genealogical literature take a much lower range than mine.

The following pedigree indexes are useful, and should be borne in mind :

Genealogical Memoranda. List of Pedigrees in the Candler MS., Harleian MS. 6,071. By G. F. T. Sherwood. Brechin, 1895, 8vo., pp. 4.

Tyssen Library Pedigrees. Genealogical Queries. By G. F. T. Sherwood, i. 7, 15.

Glover's Collection. Harleian MS. 245. Genealogical Queries. By G. F. T. Sherwood, i. 29.

Hasted and Rowe More's Kentish Pedigrees. Add. MS. 5,528. Genealogical Queries. By G. F. T. Sherwood, i. 63, 69.

In inquiries of a genealogical nature, biographical memoirs should not be overlooked, as they often supply information of great value. Phillip's 'Dictionary of Biographical Reference' is an index to the best-known biographical dictionaries. The dictionary of National Biography is an indispensable work, and should find a place on the shelves of every genealogist. 'The Scottish Nation,' by William Anderson, Edinburgh, 1863, 8vo., three vols., though professedly a biographical dictionary, contains extensive pedigrees of many Scottish families.

In deference to the wishes of many persons who have told me that they have derived advantage from this book, I give a list of the volumes issued by the Harleian Society explanatory of their contents :

 „ xl. The Visitation of Kent, 1619.
 „ xlii. The Visitations of Surrey, 1530, 1572, and 1623.

It should also be added that Surtees Soc., vol. xli., is Tonge's Visitation of the Northern Counties, and vol. xxxvi. Dugdale's Visitation of Yorkshire in 1665-6. Camden Soc., vol. xliii., is the Visitation of Huntingdon, 1613. The Visitations of Lancashire, 1533, 1567, 1613, and 1664-5, will be found in the vols. of the Chetham Soc., lxxxi., lxxxii., lxxxiv., lxxxv., lxxxviii., xcvi., and cx.

An index, embracing as this does the pedigrees contained in every important genealogical and topographical work, as well as those in many of minor importance, is certain to contain some errors both of omission and commission. For such I crave indulgence, and to use the expression of an old heraldic writer, 'All errors and mistakings as shall fall out, I entreat the Learned-modest Reader to correct with his Pen.'
