PREFACE

SINCE the foundation of the Royal Colonial Institute in 1868, two Catalogues of the Library have been published; the first in 1881, and the second (the cost of which was undertaken by Mr. C. WASHINGTON EVES, C.M.G.) in 1886. The rapid increase in the number of Books in the Library, however, has necessitated the publication of a new Catalogue, which is compiled in such a manner as will show the full titles of the works upon each Colony in the order of publication, together with an index of Authors and contents, which makes it historical as well as illustrative in its character. The plan of arrangement may be divided into fourteen headings, viz.: (1) Collections of Voyages; (2) Other Voyages and Circumnavigations; (3) the Australasian Colonies, including New Guinea, Fiji, and the Islands of the South Pacific Ocean; (4) British North America; (5) the African Groups of Colonies; (6) the East Indies and the various British Possessions of the Eastern Seas; (7) the West Indies; (8) the Mediterranean and other outlying Possessions; (9) the British Colonies generally, comprising their history, government, trade, resources, and such subjects as Imperial Federation, Emigration, &c.; (10) Colonial Botany and Flora; (11) Colonial Poems; (12) Transactions of Societies &c.; (13) Handbooks, Almanacs, &c.; and (14) Parliamentary Publications. These are subdivided into seventy sections, in which the literature of every Colony is so arranged that the works upon any special subject connected with its history, government, trade, and development may be followed from its foundation to the present time. In order to further increase the utility of the Catalogue for purposes of reference, the contents of all the chief Collections of Voyages, such as Hakluyt, Purchas, Burney, Callander, Harris, Kerr, the Hakluyt Society, &c., together with Articles from the 'Encyclopædia Britannica' and similar works, Magazine Articles, and Papers extracted from the Proceedings of learned Societies, Almanacs, Handbooks, &c., have been placed under the Colonies to which they refer. It will thus be seen that an attempt has been made to embody in this Catalogue all publications of a distinctly Colonial character, the whole of which are carefully indexed, and so rendered easily accessible.

The system adopted is in some respects similar to that of the York Gate Catalogue of the Library of Mr. S. W. SILVER (a former Member of the Council of this Institute), to whom, as well as to Mr. E. A. PETHERICK, I am indebted for many useful hints and suggestions.

JAMES R. BOOSÉ, Librarian.

- THOMSON. The Story of New Zealand, Past and Present, Savage and Civilised. By Dr. Arthur S. Thomson. 2 vols. 12mo. Lond. 1859

Dr. Thomson had special opportunities of collecting oral and written evidence during a residence of eleven years, having held intercourse with representative men, and sojourned for months with the Aborigines in the interior. With privileges of using unpublished and official documents, the author was thus 'able to sketch the natural history of the country; to narrate the story of its people, and the advance of civilisation among them; to show how a few Anglo-Saxons planted and managed a colony in the midst of cannibals, and to describe their bygone dangers and difficulties, their efforts to render a theoretical constitution practically useful, and the progress they have made in developing the resources of England's most distant Colony.' In the Appendix, the author gives a Bibliography of his subject, which includes 'Ninety volumes and two hundred pamphlets, and nearly a hundredweight of Parliamentary Papers.'

and Customs of the Original Inhabitants. III. Of the Spanish Settlements. IV. Of the Portuguese. V. Of the French, Dutch, and Danish. VI. Of the English. Each

Productions, Trade, Genius, and Disposition of their Inhabitants; the Interests of the several Powers of Europe with respect to those Settlements; and their Political and Commercial Views with regard to each other.

POLITICAL ESSAYS CONCERNING THE PRESENT STATE OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE. 4to. Lond. 1772

I. Natural Advantages and Disadvantages. II. Constitution. III. Agriculture.
IV. Manufactures. V. The Colonies. VI. Commerce.

This work is curious as having been written just before the revolt of the American Colonies. It is also worthy of remark that the author anticipates the future importance of Australia even before Captain Cook's discoveries. He says (p. 3)—'One great point of the Dutch superiority in the East Indies is the near neighbourhood of that vast Southern Continent, which will one day make so great a figure in the World; an advantage though not used yet evidently real.' This subject he follows up at greater length on pages 463, 464. The chapter on the expediency of forming New Colonies, and advocating the establishment of Settlements across the Pacific, will be found interesting now that Fiji has been so successfully colonised.
