"The warrior who cultivates his mind polishes his arms."—DE BOUFFLERS.

"The principal point of greatness in any State is to have a race of military men."—BACON.

"England is a land which can never be conquered whilst the Kings thereof have the dominion of the sea."—RALEIGH.

"One of the chief reasons for the maintenance of an army is the advantage of the military system as a method of education."—RUSKIN.

"L'experience prouve que les armées ne suffisent pas toujours pour sauver une Nation ; qu'une Nation défendue par le peuple est toujours invincible."—NAPOLEON.

"Whosoever commands the sea commands the trade ; whosoever commands the trade of the world commands the riches of the world, and consequently the world itself."—RALEIGH.

"The honour and safety of this nation, under the providence of God, chiefly depend upon our strength at sea."—Address of the Parliament to King William III.

"But, above all, it is most conducive to the greatness of Empire for a nation to profess the skill of arms as its principal glory and most honourable employ."

BACON.

"More of the real and practical art of war will be found in the Duke of Wellington's despatches than in all the theoretical works of the German tacticians and strategists."—LORD DE ROS.

"For though it may be said that success in war is the outcome of the three C's —Courage, Common-sense, and Cunning—yet study has also a great say in the matter."—Gen. BADEN-POWELL.

"It is true that theory by itself will avail but little. When he was asked the best means of learning the art of war, Lord Seaton, the famous Colonel Colborne of the Peninsula and Waterloo, replied, 'Fighting, and a d——d deal of it.'"

Col. HENDERSON.

"Before thou undertake a Warre, cast an impartiall eye upon the occasion : If it be just, prepare thy Army, and let them all know, they are to fight for God and thee : It addes fire to the Spirit of the Souldier, to be assured, that he shall either prosper in a faire Warre, or perish in a just cause."—QUARLES.

"There is no theory of war; practice of war is everything." Napoleon was of this opinion. "Read and re-read," he said, "the campaigns of Alexander, Hannibal, Cæsar, Turenne, Gustavus, and Frederick; this is the only method by which you will master the secrets of war."—CUST.

"War is an act of Government. The higher direction of war consequently rests in the hands of statesmen. There is not one of the arts of Empire that requires longer study and more diligent apprenticeship."—'Statecraft and Strategy,' by the TIMES MILITARY CORRESPONDENT, June 10, 1908.

"Diplomacy is the point of most interest and importance in the history of a war. Battles are but incidents, and accounts of them are valuable chiefly for their bearing upon military science and art, and as indicating the preponderance of the one army or the other."

Prof. TEN BROOK, translator of GINDELY'S Thirty Years' War.

"No kind of history so fascinates mankind as the history of wars.....Brilliant exploits, deeds of valour and of self-devotion.....the surrounding incidents, the pomp and circumstance, the actual conflict, the all changing scenery, even the horror and devastation are so picturesque, that the gravest historian must feel how much of the interest of his work will be centred in those pages which glow with the lurid light of war."—HAMLEY.

"The study of military history is not confined to military men, but is also engaging the attention of literary civilians.....It shows that men of thoughtful minds recognize that the lessons to be learnt from the histories of war, if properly understood, are as valuable to the civilian as to the soldier, and that the history of wars is practically the history of nations."—LORD ROBERTS.

"War is to be deeply regretted; it is a scourge and a curse upon nations. It falls not so heavily upon soldiers—it is our calling; but its horrors alight upon the poor, upon the miserable, upon the unhappy, upon those who feel the expense and the suffering, but have not the glory. War is detestable, and not to be desired by a nation; but if it comes, then I will welcome it as a day of glory for the young and gallant army of England."—Sir CHARLES NAPIER.

"By reading you will be distinguished; without it, abilities are of little use. A man cannot learn his profession without constant study to prepare especially for the higher ranks. When in a post of responsibility, he has no time to read; and if he comes to such a post with an empty skull, it is then too late to fill it. Thus many people fail to distinguish themselves, and say they are unfortunate, which is untrue; their own previous idleness unfitted them to profit by fortune."

Sir CHARLES NAPIER, Advice to a Young Officer.

FOREWORDS—LAST WORDS.

AT THE DESIRE of Mr. Edwards, I am writing a few lines introductory to this, probably the last Catalogue I shall have the opportunity of compiling for him, for I am returning to Australia, the "Sunny South," after a long period of years spent in London.

The issue of a catalogue like the present one is rather a bold undertaking for any bookseller, but there is no doubt that with Mr. Edwards the publication will be a profitable one. There are catalogues and Catalogues, on the whole perhaps too much "Cataloguing" in these days: a little less ephemeral work upon which much money is now spent would result in the saving of time to Bookbuyers and Collectors. Though attempts at classification in ordinary Book-lists are common and useful, systematic catalogues are more desirable. Mr. Edwards making a feature of special classes of books, instead of announcing such purchases a few at a time, in his "Miscellaneous" monthly lists, has lately issued a series of priced Reference Catalogues, which will be useful for many years to come: 'American,' 'African,' 'Australasian,' 'Oriental,'—the latter comprehending Asiatic countries and islands. These catalogues include books, old and new, of Geography and Travel, History and Biography, Science and Literature, and have been profitable as well as useful.

This one has been compiled under difficulties and interruptions; for a catalogue containing several thousand items, systematically planned, is not the work of several hands, prepared in a few days or a few weeks. It has absorbed nearly eighteen months' devoted labour, performed not in a luxurious apartment, with peace and quiet all round, but subject to all the interruptions which make up the daily occupation of a bookseller and his assistants.

A number of sacks of books—the "sacking of a Military Academy" and a private military library formed the nucleus of the Collection. To hundreds of volumes "dumped" on the floor of a room, narrow enough already, hundreds more were brought from attics and garrets, cellars and recesses in adjacent warehouses, into the full light of day, sorted, classed, and arranged for "bold advertisement." Then other works, desirable and necessary, had to be hunted for, at home and abroad, to fill up voids. Additions came in daily "all the time," and had to be worked into their places, subject, of course, to the daily or hourly orders for numbers of these particular books. Book Collectors and Booksellers occasionally appeared on the scene, and what is not surprising, carried off many prizes, some as yet impossible to replace, with the result that correspondents at a distance have been disappointed at receiving a Catalogue in which some of the items they most desired were already sold. That was inevitable. When books are rare, some one must be disappointed, but Mr. Edwards and his staff, given time, being always on the " look out " for " books wanted," generally succeed in finding other copies.

The plan of the catalogue is sufficiently indicated on the title-page and in the Table of Contents. The arrangement of the titles is chronological, save in the biographical sections, which are in alphabetical order. An alphabetical index to the whole would certainly have been useful, but would have added very largely to the cost—6,000 or 7,000 lines. It may perhaps be prepared by another hand, when a further ' Supplement ' is issued, for this Catalogue is by no means complete—it contains very few foreign publications on military affairs, except in translations. For convenience, it was issued in sections :—

Part I. The Art of War, General Military History; Army Lists and Costumes; British Regimental Records; Military Biography (A—C). Pp. 1-96	June, 1907
Part II. Military Biography; Imperial and Colonial Defence; Naval History and Biography. Pp. 97-228	October, 1907
The Naval Sections (pp. 161-228) were issued in separate form—a 68 page list.
Part III. Expeditions and Campaigns—Alexander to Napoleon. Pp. 229-324	April, 1908
Part IV. The Same—Wellington—Peninsular War to the Greek War in Thessaly, 1897. Pp. 325-392	June, 1908
Part V. The Same—India and the East. Pp. 393-480	July, 1908
Part VI. The Same—African Campaigns, and Maori Wars. Pp. 481-520	August, 1908
Part VII. The Same—America and the West Indies. Pp. 521-600	October, 1908
Part VIII. Supplement—chiefly Additions to Parts I., II., III. Pp. 601-648	December, 1908

Now that the compiler's task is finished and he is departing " To-morrow to fresh fields and pastures new," he needs scarcely add that he leaves London, the home of British enterprise and commerce, of British politics and literature—more especially its literary and scientific associations—with some pangs of regret. To a host of friends in and out of the Trade he bids adieu, as well as to old colleagues, printers, compositors, and readers, whose generous help will always be gratefully remembered.

EDWARD A. PETHERICK.

"The days are gone by when, for dynastical ends, small armies of professional soldiers went to war to conquer a city or a province.....The wars of the present day call whole nations to arms.....As long as nations continue independent of each other there will be disagreements that can only be settled by force of arms; but in the interest of humanity, it is to be hoped that wars will become less frequent, as they have become more terrible."—COUNT VON MOLTKE.

The work which Sir Walter Scott characterized as "the incomparable armoury."

"While the splendour of the decorations of this work is well calculated to excite curiosity, no previous [or later] work can be compared in point of extent, arrangement, science, or utility with it."—Edinburgh Review.

This is the enlarged edition, in which the author was assisted by Mr. ALBERT WAY and others. It has the advantage of including many manuscript communications from the late FRANCIS DOUCE, Esq., who bequeathed his collection of armour, the Doucean Museum, to Sir S. R. Meyrick.

144 —— Meyrick's Engraved Illustrations of Ancient Arms and Armour: a Series of 154 highly finished etchings of the Collection of Sir SAMUEL RUSH MEYRICK, engraved by JOSEPH SKELTON, and accompanied by Historical and Critical Descriptions by the Possessor, with fine portrait, 2 vols. imperial 4to, half-morocco, uncut, gilt tops. 1840 (pub. £11) £6

"The plates are executed in outline, with a truth and delicacy that cannot be too highly praised. We should imagine that the possessors of Dr. Meyrick's former great work would eagerly add Mr. Skelton's. In the first they have the history of arms and armour; in the second work, beautiful engravings of all the details, made out with sufficient minuteness to serve hereafter as patterns for artists and workmen, should the specimens now deposited in the Meyrick collection be [as they are] unhappily dispersed."—Gentleman's Magazine.

This valuable work is indispensable to all good libraries, comprehending as it does a detailed view of Naval and Military Affairs, Politics, Parliamentary and General History, Commerce, Statistics Biography, &c., British and Foreign, of the last century and a half.

The parts recording events of the American Revolution are usually attributed to BURKE, and begin in Vol. XIX. Dr. Smyth considered this the most concise, able, impartial, and authentic history of the dispute to be found. Americans admit that the Annual Register contains the best foreign summary account of their affairs. Later Military History and records of the French Revolution, Napoleon's Bulletins, the Peninsula and Waterloo Campaigns, are fully and fairly summarized.

831 —— The Rifle Brigade (95th Regiment), by Walter Wood, with Badge, 12mo, cloth. [1901] 2s

Though the Rifle Brigade does not possess the largest number of honours, it has probably seen more fighting than any other British regiment. On sixty occasions prior to the South African War it has had battalions engaged in general actions and campaigns, principally in the Peninsula, Waterloo, and Crimea, perhaps the most interesting being "Copenhagen" and "Khartoum."

1890 —— Another, clean copy of same, 12 pp. folio £3 10s

Sir George suggests that any further mediation with Spain would cause delays and insurmountable difficulties; action, if taken at all, should be immediate, as the Insurgents in New Spain (Mexico), now 100,000 strong, would not lay down their arms without being guaranteed practical independence and British protection; and to prevent New Spain falling into other hands or forming too close a connexion with the United States: "there are now 300 North American officers serving in the armies of the Mexican insurgents.....American vessels have also arrived at Buenos Ayres with arms," &c.

1891 —— Account of the Outfit for Voyage, and other Expenses of His Majesty's Commissioners for Mediation in Spanish America [Messrs. 2073 —— Another edition, translated from the French, with all the plates, 3 vols. 8vo, boards. 1798 £1 4s

La Pérouse's expedition visited Madeira, Teneriffe, Trinidada, and Martin Vaz, the coasts of Brazil, Patagonia, Chili, Easter Island, and the Sandwich group. After the N.W. coast of America was surveyed from Mount St. Elias to Monterey Bay the Pacific was then crossed to China, the Philippines, Tartary, and Kamtchatka. From this point the vessels proceeded to the Samoan and Tongan groups and Port Jackson. Sailing thence early in 1788, no tidings reached Europe of the expedition for nearly forty years. A brief account of La Pérouse's previous career is given in the introduction. He was engaged in eighteen campaigns, including that against the English off Belleisle in 1756, at Grenada in the West Indies 1779, and the capture of the "Ariel" on the coast of New England in the same year. In the following year he engaged an English squadron off Cape Breton, and in 1782 captured the Hudson Bay Company's forts.

(1) (2) (3) Nov. 20, 1798. Announcing, in obedience to the Command of the Earl of St. Vincent, the capture of Minorca, in triplicate (all three copies), each 2 pages, 4to.

(4) Dec. 15, 1798. Acknowledging pleasing news [of Nelson's battle of the Nile and visit to Naples], hoping the Emperor [of Austria] will support the Neapolitan Cause and "bring the miscreant French to a sense of justice..... Buonaparte.....his fate is decided.....A French squadron.....is supposed to have left Brest for the relief of Malta and Alexandria," &c., 3 pages, 4to.

(5) Feb. 15, 1799. Sending a Minorcan vessel, with four Turks, and request for their being landed at Palermo, and the vessel loading back....."two months since we received any tidings from you.....my respectful compliments to Lady Hamilton.....The 'Leviathan' brought in a few days since the Spanish frigate 'Santa Teresa' with 300 of the Walloon Guards on board, &c.....P.S. If you could put the Bearer in the way to purchase me a few bottles of real good sweet Oil and Macaroons for my Table I shall be truly thankful.....J. T. D." 2 pages 4to.

(6) March 15, 1799. Acknowledging communication of the state of things in Naples and Calabria. "I.....trust that the arrival of General Stuart with the two Regiments will in some degree relieve yours and Lord Nelson's mind.....I cannot but be pleased to hear of the Plague in Buonaparte's Army as the French are my abhorrence," &c. 3 pages, 4to.

(7) Extract of a Letter from Capt. JOHN MARKHAM of H.M.S. "Centaur" to Rear-Admiral Duckworth, 3rd May, 1799, announcing the Capture and Scuttling of two vessels after taking out of them a Colonel and above Fifty Grenadiers of the Walloon Guards going to Majorca, also news that the French "have been beat everywhere"—in Suabia and Switzerland; in Venetian territory 15,000 prisoners have been taken; "the Insurrection goes on in Belgium"; "the Russians with 47,000 men are in march for the heart of Italy," &c. Folio, 2 pages.

2248 LORD NELSON to EARL SPENCER, dated PALERMO, Sept. 4, 1799, 3 pp. 4to (stained and repaired) £7 7s

Describing his situation, the object of the Turkish and Russian squadron:—"Malta SOLELY; as to the idea of going to Naples to land troops, in order to go into the Roman State or to prevent anarchy in the Kingdom; those are to him [the Russian Admiral] secondary operations. It is my intention to have six or seven sail of the Line at Gibraltar, and four at Minorca. [He had disobeyed Keith's orders to go there].....I shall send Troubridge to arrange a proper Naval protection for the security of Minorca, which I have never yet considered in the smallest danger, but it has been a misfortune that others have thought differently from me on that point.....plain common sense points out that the King should return to Naples, but nothing can move him. Believe me I shall do the best in all circumstances, but I am almost blind, and truly very unwell.....NELSON."

 This letter, written the day after the entertainment to Nelson and his companions to commemorate the Battle of the Nile, is printed by NICOLAS, 'Dispatches and Letters of Lord Nelson,' vol. iv. p. 63. Nelson was at this time attending upon the absent Court of Naples in Sicily.

2249 NELSON. Autograph Letter to the EARL OF CARYSFORD, Envoy to the King of Prussia, dated H.M.S. "St. George," in the Baltic, May 8, 1801, 3 pp. 4to £16 16s

"The command of the fleet has been for the moment given to me, the duties of which I shall endeavour to execute as well as my abilities and bad health will allow me, it is my intention to send into Carlscrone a letter to the Swedish Admiral, for under present circumstances it would be unpleasant to have a battle with the Swedes; therefore if anything happens after the receipt of my letter, the blame will rest with them.....it is my intention to proceed with a part of the Fleet into the Gulf of Finland.....I wish the new Emperor to see its coming to Revel as a great compliment.....I hope all will end amicably, &c. NELSON & BRONTE."

 Written by Nelson five weeks after the Battle of Copenhagen, when, having superseded Sir Hyde Parker, he immediately weighed anchor and was on the way to the Gulf of Finland, believing that the presence of the Fleet would confirm the sincerity of the new Emperor Alexander in his policy of peace.

Printed by NICOLAS, vol. iv. p. 362, but without the postscript:—

"I wish Granville* had been with me: he will, I think, turn out a fine young man. When you write to Lord Minto pray say every kind thing for me."

* Hon. Granville George Waldegrave, afterwards Admiral and second Baron Radstock.

2250 NELSON. Autograph Letter to HARRY HAREWOOD, Esq., Merton, Oct. 3, 1802, 1 p. 4to £5 10s

On behalf of Mr. George Antrim,* "who has great fears of appearing before you terrific gentlemen.....therefore only beg to introduce him to your notice, and have no fears but that he will acquit himself to your satisfaction.....

"NELSON & BRONTE."

* Lieut. George Antram served under Nelson in the "Vanguard" and "Foudroyant," 1798-99; under Hoste in the "Mutine," afterwards at home on the Thames and Medway.

2251 NELSON. Autograph Letter to Dr. BAIRD, dated from the "Victory," May 30, 1804, 3 pp. 4to £8 8s

"From what we hear of Buonaparte's being Emperor perhaps it will bring about a Peace; and if we give up Malta it will be unnecessary to make a Naval Hospital.....

"The health of this Fleet cannot be exceeded; and I believe that my shatter'd carcase is in the worst plight of the whole Fleet. I have had a sort of Rheumatick fever.....I am now better of that; and with violent pain in my side.....The pain in my heart nor spasms, I have not had for some time. Mr. Magrath.....gives me excellent remedies..... "NELSON & BRONTE."

"I wish it may be in [my] power to be useful to your friend Mr. [afterwards Sir Stephen Love] Hammick [Surgeon] on board the Renown; but I see no prospect at present."

 Printed by NICOLAS, vol. vi. p. 41.

MUDFORD, with a map, plan of the Battles, and a SERIES OF 28 COLOURED PLATES, roy. 4to, half-morocco. 1816-17 £10 10s

This work was written immediately after the great events related, from the carefully tested oral statements of officers who took part in them—amplified and supplemented by the proclamations of the belligerent governments and the despatches of the General Officers.

Of the twenty-eight plates (representing scenes on the road from Brussels to Waterloo, and incidents on the Battlefield) four were drawn and etched by GEORGE CRUIKSHANK—(1) Group of 7 Portraits (Wellington, Blucher, Lord Hill, Prince of Orange, Duke of Brunswick, Sir Thomas Picton and the Marquis of Anglesea); (2) Frontispiece (Costumes and Colours of the British Army); (3) Panoramic View of the Battle of Waterloo, at that period when the French Cuirassiers were attacking the English hollow Squares and the Marquis of Anglesea was leading the Horse Guards to the Charge—a scene delineated under the inspection of Officers who were present at the conflict; (4) The Flight of Buonaparte. The remaining plates by ROUSE, were added to and completed by Cruikshank.

La Vérité Entière sur le Différend entre MM. Maurice de Haber et Jules de Göler; Complément relatif au Duel entre MM. de Haber et de Sarachaga, 8vo (pp. iv.-284). Paris, 1844.

Account of a series of duels arising out of the arrest of a Mr. Hawkins bringing despatches from London to the Bishop of Leon (March 1836). Hawkins accused several persons of being the cause. In 1838 he struck Sir Charles Shaw and was punished. A friend Göler took up the case for Hawkins, some years after (1843) in Carlsruhe, against Baron de Haber whose friend Verefkin, fighting Göler, was killed and Göler mortally wounded. Later on Haber had a duel with M. Sarachaga, when the latter fell.

Notes relating to Baron Maurice de Haber, banker, for whom W. B. acted as Secretary; His Account with de Haber, and de Haber's with Don Carlos, &c.

Baron Maurice de Haber, Banker of Carlsruhe (born 22 Nov., 1798, died Jan. 3, 1872) financed Dom Miguel to the extent of £80,000, and afterwards negotiated French loan for the Miguelites for forty million francs. He was influential in saving the lives of foreign prisoners, and endeavoured to save stores of wine in Oporto worth £1,000,000, but it was all destroyed with other stores (1833). Baron de Haber also supplied Don Carlos with funds and negotiated loans for the Carlists in 1836-37. Too late he learned 'not to put his trust in princes.'

Letters and Testimonials from Admiral W. H. Smyth, Prof. Brande, Dr. Plumptre, vice-Chancellor Cambridge Univ., and others, 1851-72; Letters and Notes of Correspondence with Baron de Haber, 1862-71, with Henri de Haber, 1872.

Twelve Letters to Wm. Bollaert from Sir Charles and Lady Hannah Louisa Shaw (dated Frankfort a M. March to Dec. 1866), and Thomas Charles Shaw.

With reference to a new edition of Sir Charles Shaw's 'Memoirs' (see above No. 3605) thoroughly revised and brought down to this time; also referring to Lady Shaw's pamphlet in favour of Disestablishing the Irish Protestant Church, the publication of which Mr. Bollaert arranged through Ridgway.

Wm. Bollaert (born 1807) before going out as a volunteer to Portugal had been assistant to Sir Humphry Davy, and surveyor of silver mines in Peru. He appears to have acted as private secretary to Baron Maurice de Haber from 1833 to 1838 or 1839. In 1842-43 he was employed in Texas (see F. E.'s American Catalogue, p. 255). In 1849 he revisited Peru. Later on he tried to obtain an appointment at home. He made translations, and wrote numerous papers and articles, 'Researches in Peru,' &c. (see Amer. Cat., p. 366), and his History of 'The Wars of Succession' (see above). In 1861 he was invited by de Haber to go out to Mexico with Maximilian, but declined. In Nov. 1871 he obtained possession of the valueless Carlist bonds lodged in England, and sent them to de Haber, who died Jan. 3, 1872. Bollaert hoped to have received some present from the Baron, as he had long been ill and his family in need, but the Baron had lost heavily by the fall of the French Empire, and he received nothing, but was induced by a member of the family—Henri de Haber—to interest himself in a Petroleum Company. At this time the correspondence ends. Bollaert died in 1876.

3625 DUNCAN. The English in Spain; or, the Story of the War of Succession, 1834-40, by Major FRANCIS DUNCAN, R.A., map and illustrations by Gen. Askwith, R.A., 8vo, cloth. 1877 6s

4276 BRIGGS (Capt., afterwards General, John) Reply to Major Gen. Andrew MacDowall, respecting Treasure captured at Nassuck, April, 1818. MANUSCRIPT (Madras, 18th May, 1831), 75 folios, half-morocco £2 10s

Capt. Briggs in a pamphlet printed Jan. 1828, having made certain statements regarding the disposal of treasure found at Nassuck, valued at 70 or 76 lacs of rupees, Major-Gen. MacDowall denied on oath (Hyderabad, 1829) the truth of some of these statements. Capt. Briggs here clears up discrepancies in the reported amount, and also shows how the treasure was acquired by the Peishwa, of what it consisted (jewels and bullion), its actual value, and so far what it had realized.

A remarkable production which was bravely continued during the whole of the famous siege extending over 216 days. Besides interruptions by shelling the publication was at times almost at a standstill for paper—and other obstacles. When the stock of white, pink, green and brown printing paper was exhausted, the Chief Staff Officer kindly issued fcap. (blue and white—some with cash columns) from the Government Stores. The Subscription was one shilling per week payable in advance. Compelled to reduce the size of the paper and sometimes complaining and apologizing for the dearth of news, there was one thing the Editor could not reduce—the Subscription! The preface tells of some of his troubles which were not all of the mechanical sort—he suffered occasionally from the Press Censor.

5555 [MANUSCRIPT.] "A Scheme or Method for the Reduction of Canada, wherein I shall begin by setting down the state, circumstances, and Situation of that Country," &c. Addressed to the Duke of Shrewsbury, 8 leaves, folio, calf. Circa 1695 £4 4s

A combined sea and land attack was advised—the land expedition to march from Albany, taking Fort Chambly and Montreal on its way to Quebec,—this force to consist of 1,500 English and 500 Indians. In sight of Quebec it was anticipated that the fleet would have at least another 2,000 men. The writer describes the difficulties of the route, the obstacles in the shape of French soldiers and settlers to be met. He computes the whole number of the Canadians as not above 2,000 families. Divers descents were to be made "whereby to ruine the country, by burning houses, destroying cattle and spoiling harvests," which was all the inhabitants had to subsist on, in the absence of supplies from France. The document is unsigned.

5556 WALKER (Sir Hovenden) A Journal; or, Full Account of the late Expedition to Canada, with Commissions, Orders, Instructions, Courts Martial, &c., 8vo, calf. 1720 £4

Admiral Hovenden Walker commanded the unfortunate expedition which sailed from Boston in 1710 for Quebec, intending the conquest of Canada. Half his vessels were wrecked in the St. Lawrence, and, returning to England, his ship the "Edgar" blew up at Spithead with the loss of most of his crew and papers. He went out to Carolina, but afterwards returned and published this vindication.

5623 ALMON'S Remembrancer; or, Impartial Repository of Public Events, 1775 to 1784, 17 vols.; also Collection of Prior Documents relating to the Dispute between Great Britain and America, 1764 to 1775, 1 vol. FINE SET, 18 vols. 8vo, contemporary calf, 1775-84 £50

The "Prior" volume (royal 8vo, fourth edition, original boards, 1775) contains documentary information on the Stamp Act, and Proceedings of Congress in regard thereto, including "Declaration" of Rights and Grievances, with Petitions for its Repeal.

The other volumes contain History of the Disputes, original details regarding the Lexington Affair, taking of Forts Ticonderoga and Crown Point, Battle of Bunker's Hill, Evacuation of Boston, a Journal of Occurrences during Arnold's Expedition to Canada, 1775; Journal of the most remarkable Occurrences in Quebec, 1775-1776; Abstract of U.S. Debts; Spirit and Resources of Great Britain (twelve letters); Franklin's Examination, True State of Proceedings in Parliament from 1761, his Answer to Queries, 1769, Letters to London Chronicle, 1754; Rule for Reducing a Great Empire to a Small One, and Edict of the King of Prussia; the Treaty with France; Manifesto of the French King; Justifying Memorial of the King of Great Britain (written by Gibbon); Observations on the American Revolution (pamphlet published by Congress, 72 pp.); Remarks on the 'Justifying Memorial'; Observations on the 'Memoire Justificatif' by Beaumarchais (translated); Accounts of the Gordon Riots; Battle of Brandywine, Convention of Saratoga, Operations in the South to the Surrender of Cornwallis at York Town; Proceedings in England, Protests against the War; Case of André; List of Subscribers to British Loan of 12,000,000*l.*; Letters of Franklin, John Adams, Washington, John Dickinson (Farmer's Letters), Silas Deane; Speeches of Chatham, Barré, Grenville, Burke, Flood (in Irish Parliament), Hartley and Gov. Hutchinson; Affairs in Barbados, Jamaica, St. Lucia, and St. Vincent, and Rodney's Victories; Treaties with Great Britain, France, Holland, Sweden; Washington's Farewell Address to the Army, &c.

5624 ANNUAL REGISTER (The): a Review of Public Events at Home and Abroad, 1758 to 1906, and Index Vol. (1758 to 1819), 154 vols., 8vo, calf and cloth £30

Vols. 1 to 104 (1758-1862) and Index vol. are in full calf binding, the rest, 1863 to 1906, are in publishers' cloth.

The parts recording events of the American Revolution are usually attributed to BURKE, and begin in Vol. XIX. Dr. Smyth considered this the most concise, able, impartial, and authentic history of the dispute to be found. According to Dr. Gordon (preface, Vol. I., 1788) "The Americans remarked that Dodsley's Annual Register contained the best foreign summary account of their affairs."

A series of addresses similar to the Letters of Junius — some are signed "Junius." All were printed in London, but most of these are New York reprints. No. 2 is on 'A bloody Court, a bloody Ministry, and a bloody Parliament.' No. 3 is addressed to the King, 'the greatest Criminal in England.' Here is a specimen sentence from No. 4 :—

"Consider Sir, if through the late and present iniquitous measures, and an obstinate resolution in your Majesty to pursue them, the SWORD is forced to be drawn in America, it cannot remain long sheathed in England ; we hope there is some virtue here ; and we entertain a better opinion of our countrymen, than to TAMELY see a mercenary army of soldiers who are at all times a terror to the peaceable inhabitants of every free state, BUTCHER their BRETHREN and FELLOW SUBJECTS in America," &c.

No. 12 is in verse 'A Prophecy of Ruin' (pp. 89-104).

5663 [TRUMBULL (John)] McFingal : a Modern Epic Poem ; or the Town Meeting, 8vo (pp. 44) bound full calf (by Cross). 1776 £1 5s

5807 BANCROFT (George) History of the United States from the Discovery of the American Continent, Library Edition, portraits, &c., 10 vols. 8vo, half-calf gilt. 1856-74 £5 5s

Bancroft's history comes down to the year 1782, when American independence was acknowledged by the continental powers. Vols. I. to III. of this edition relate to the colonial period. Vol. IV. and onward to the period of the Revolution.

"Bancroft's 'History of the United States of America' supplies a vast mass of detail, illuminated by a fine spirit of liberty, which is inspired indeed by patriotism, but is not bounded in its scope by any limitations of country or of century."—TREVELYAN, 'American Rev.,' i. 90.

5809 GREENE (G. W.) Nathaniel Greene: an Examination of some Statements in Bancroft's History, 8vo (pp. 86). Boston, 1866 2s

A vindication of the character of General Greene and the part he took in the campaigns of 1776 and 1777, especially in Jersey and Pennsylvania.

5811 LINDSAY (Lord) Lives of the Lindsays, with Correspondence and Personal Narratives, 3 vols. 8vo, cloth. 1858 £1 8s

Alexander, the sixth Earl of Balcarres, commanded the Light Infantry in the expedition of 1776, and under Burgoyne in 1777. He was wounded at Ticonderoga. At Freeman's Farm he saved the British army, but in consequence of Burgoyne's convention had to surrender at Saratoga a few days later. Preferring captivity, he remained prisoner with his regiment for two years. His brother Colin Lindsay served with the Grenadiers through the American War, and was in all the actions fought in the West Indies to 1781. For his evidence before the H. C. Committee, 27 May, 1779, see Burgoyne's Expedition from Canada (above, p. 546).

6245 LEWIS (J. O.) The Aboriginal Port Folio, 39 LARGE PORTRAITS of North American Indian Chiefs, lithographed by Lehman and Duval, and coloured, royal folio, cloth (five original wrappers and 'Advertisements' to Nos. 1, 2, 3, bound in). Philadelphia, 1835 £5 10s

Originally announced to be completed in Ten Monthly Numbers, each to contain 8 portraits, with an eleventh number to contain Historical and Biographical Description of the Indians. These five parts should probably contain 40 portraits. The first part, dated July, 1835, was issued in May, and 2, 3, 4, and 5 in June, July, Aug. and Sept., 1835.

6246 —— Another copy, containing 64 COLOURED PLATES, being Nos. 1 to 8, in 8 folio volumes, half-calf, May to November, 1835 £19

FIELD (Indian Bibliography) describes two large portfolios containing each 36 portraits, with advertisements to first and second numbers only—no text, and nothing bearing the remotest relation to a title—"the portraits," he adds, "are each entitled with the name and rank of the Indian personage represented. They have the appearance of being authentic, although no voucher or explanation of the circumstances under which they were executed accompanies the plates."

The plates in both copies bear the names and description of each portrait, when it was taken, and the name of the lithographer.

Mr. Lewis resided for a long time at Detroit, and had the opportunity of sketching the portraits when he attended Governor Cass at the signing of the various Treaties (1825-27). One plate represents the Great Treaty at which 5,000 warriors of the Chippewas, Sioux, Saes, Foxes, Winnebagoes, Pottowattomies, Menomonies, Ioways, and Ottowas were present and United States Troops.

"At length we are in peace, God be praised, and long, very long, may it continue. All wars are follies, very expensive and very mischievous ones. When will mankind be convinced of this, and agree to settle their differences by arbitration? Were they to do it, even by the cast of a die, it would be better than by fighting and destroying each other."—BEN. FRANKLIN, 1783.
