BRUCK'S

WELL-KNOWN MEDICAL LEDGER

(Specially prepared for the use of Australian Practitioners), is the most simple and practical Ledger issued in the interest of the profession.

The size of the Book is 15 x 10½ inches. It contains 250 numbered pages (affording space for 500 Annual Accounts), printed on good paper, provided with a Letter Index, and substantially bound with leather back and corners.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE.

If the patient is the responsible person, you enter the cyphers only under the respective date, otherwise add above the cypher (under the date) the letter denoting the respective member of the family, i.e., $\frac{B}{\backslash}$ means "Visit, Mother"; $\frac{E}{/}$ denotes

"Advice, Wife," &c., and if medicine is supplied, encircle the cypher, thus $\frac{I}{\circ}$ denoting advice with medicine. At the end of each month carry the total amount for services rendered during that period over to the "owing" column. At the end of the year add the amounts under columns "owing" and "paid" together, and the difference between the two represents the balance due on 31st December, which, if not paid before your professional services are again required, carry over to the new amount, and enter the same above the dates where indicated. Always bear in mind to register the names with number of page in the index, bound together with the book, to enable you to find any patient's account at a moment's notice.

PRICE, 20s. ; or 22s. 6d. POSTAGE PAID to all the Colonies.

BOOK-KEEPING MADE EASY

By the Vastly Improved New Edition of

BRUCK'S

CONDENSED MEDICAL ACCOUNT BOOK.

Of the same size as the Medical Ledger.

It contains 72 double pages, 31 lines on each page, affording space for as many patients. You can use as many pages in each month as may be required, and a new month may be commenced in the middle or any other part of a page, so that no paper is wasted.

ITS ADVANTAGES ARE:—1. It will enable you to keep your accounts without referring to the auxiliary books. 2. It may be commenced or closed at any time. 3. One entry of each patient's name and address suffices for a month of practice. 4. Each day's services are noted in separate columns, without danger of errors or omissions. 5. The charges and payments are carried to the monthly total column on the same page, and if added together, show the total value of the practice for each month, of course deducting the amounts brought forward from the previous month. 6. Each amount is posted at a moment's notice, and may be exhibited item for item, or as a total, without delay. 7. The book is furnished with an alphabetical index for registering names of patients or of responsible persons, with current number, or page of entry. 8. No other book need be kept.

Strongly bound, with Leather Back and Corners,

PRICE, 15s. ; or 16s. 6d. POSTAGE PAID to all the Colonies.

KEPLER ESSENCE OF MALT.

We have recently introduced a new food agent and aid to the digestion of farinaceous substances under the above name. This preparation is manufactured by a modification of the KEPLER process for making the well-known Kepler Extract of Malt.

The Kepler Essence of Malt contains a large amount of Diastase and natural mineral phosphates and a considerable amount of tissue-forming substances. The immense superiority of this preparation over ale and stout is at once apparent when the process of manufacture is considered in detail. In making ale and stout the carbohydrates (so valuable as nutrient material) and the diastase (a most important principle of Malt, being of special service in errors of nutrition accompanied by digestive derangement) are sacrificed for the production of alcohol; whereas in the Kepler Essence of Malt these are carefully preserved intact. This Essence is, therefore, an ideal aid to digestion and nutrient agent. A wineglassful of the Kepler Essence of Malt contains more elements of nutrition than a pint of the finest alimental stout.

The flavour of the Essence of Malt is delicious. It is admirable as a table beverage when diluted with aerated water, and as an addition to milk for infant and invalid dieting, for it sweetens it and facilitates its prompt and perfect digestion. The Essence may be taken in coffee, gruel, aerated or plain water, wine, or mixed with any farinaceous pudding. As an addition to the food for young children its value cannot be over-estimated. It increases the value of all farinaceous food and prevents the starch in such food, and large clots of curd in milk diet, overtaxing the power of the digestive functions.

For Lactating Women the Essence of Malt (Kepler) contains many desirable properties; it quickly increases the flow and enriches the quality of the milk. It is serviceable as a laxative for young children, especially when constipation depends upon the defective digestion of starch. As a food beverage it cannot fail to be productive of the highest benefit, either in acute disease or during convalescence; in fact, wherever there is defective nutrition the Kepler Essence of Malt is useful as a nutritive food.

The Kepler Essence of Malt is supplied to the profession in champagne pint bottles.

KEPLER EXTRACT OF MALT.

This preparation contains all the essential principles of Barley Malt in an agreeable and concentrated form. It is especially rich in diastase—the digestive principle which converts starch into dextrines and maltose. Opinions vary as to whether the immense utility of Extract of Malt depends more upon the diastase than the nutritive principles contained in it. In many debilitated conditions, however, it is generally conceded that the nutritive principles of dextrines, maltose, and natural phosphates are absolutely necessary. A table-spoonful of the Malt Extract under such circumstances is equivalent to a large percentage of farinaceous foods. Undoubtedly diastase, however, is very valuable in converting starchy material into soluble conditions suitable for ready assimilation.

Kepler Extract of Malt is an excellent sweetening agent for gruels, rice puddings, &c. It is an invaluable adjunct to peptonized milk and to foods for infants. The Malt Extract prevents the milk curdling in large clots, and therefore assists materially in the digestion of the food.

VERDICT.

THE LANCET reports: "The Kepler Extract of Malt is the best."

The MEDICAL TIMES AND GAZETTE: "By far the best."

The MEDICAL PRESS: "Delicious to the taste."

The Kepler Extract of Malt is supplied in extra wide-mouthed bottles containing $\frac{3}{4}$ -lb. and $1\frac{1}{2}$ -lb.

KEPLER SOLUTION OF COD LIVER OIL.

This is, according to the BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL, "an ideal form for the administration of fat." It is a well-known fact that when fatty material is ingested en masse, it, to a very large extent, escapes emulsification during its passage through the alimentary canal. If, on the other hand, it is mixed intimately with other foods, the disintegration process has already been accomplished, and the fat is readily acted upon by the secretion of the pancreas, succus entericus and the bile. Cod Liver Oil is no exception to this rule, and according to recent investigations, a very large proportion of the oil taken by a selected number of patients was voided unchanged in the fæces; whereas Oil given in a condition similar to the Kepler Solution of Cod Liver Oil was perfectly absorbed, and merely a trace of fat only was discovered unchanged. The Kepler Solution contains a very large percentage of Cod Liver Oil, the remaining part of it consisting of a rich and nutritious Extract of Malt. Everything considered, this preparation is one of the most perfect foods and resuscitating agents it is possible to prepare. THE LANCET reports: "It has hardly any of the taste of the oil. Many can take it who could not take the oil." The BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL reports: "The taste of the oil is agreeably disguised, its nutritive qualities are greatly increased, and it is rendered easy of digestion." Again, THE LANCET reports: "It is the best known and most largely used." The MEDICAL PRESS AND CIRCULAR: "The most palatable and easily digested."

The Kepler solution of Cod Liver Oil is supplied to the Medical Profession in extra wide-mouthed bottles, containing $\frac{3}{4}$ -lb. and $1\frac{1}{2}$ -lb.

PREFACE TO THE THIRD EDITION.

THE Second Edition of this work, published in 1886, has been out of print for the last two years; and this fact, in addition to my being constantly urged to issue a new edition, has induced me to undertake its re-issue, thoroughly revised and corrected up to date. To enable me to sell the work at a reduced price, I have been compelled to omit the abstract of all those Acts not directly affecting the Medical Profession, as well as the List of Coroners, the matter relating to Colonial Universities, and the List of Unregistered Practitioners.

I have endeavoured to render this edition as free from errors as possible; and any discrepancy which medical men may discover in their qualifications or appointments, is due to their failure to return to me the form which was sent to every Medical Practitioner in Australasia at the beginning of this year.

The second part, consisting of the General Gazetteer and Local Directory, now comprises 1,560 post towns throughout the colonies. This part includes such places as might afford a remunerative practice to a resident medical practitioner, either at the present time or in the near future. To enhance the usefulness of this portion of the book I have, in as many instances as possible, given the mean temperature in summer and winter, the mean annual rainfall, the height above sea level, and the least distance from the coast.

The Preface to the First Edition, published in 1883, will be found on the next page.

L. BRUCK.

SYDNEY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1892.

PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION.

THE aim of the Editor of the "AUSTRALASIAN MEDICAL DIRECTORY AND HANDBOOK" has been to supply a much felt want, and to produce a Book of Reference, the extensive usefulness of which must render its possession material to every Medical Practitioner, and to persons of many other callings, affording, as it does, much information, both useful and interesting, not to be found elsewhere.

The second division, comprising a General Gazetteer of nearly 1,000 post towns in Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand, and Fiji, together with a Local Directory, will be of particular value to any Practitioner desirous of changing his residence, as it shows him at one glance all the particulars he may require to enable him to choose a fresh field of labour.

The Editor feels confident that the "AUSTRALASIAN MEDICAL DIRECTORY AND HANDBOOK" will also be well received by the Profession abroad, especially by those of its members who may have the intention to settle in any of the Australasian colonies, as it will give them the fullest information as to the state of the Medical Profession in Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand, and Fiji.

This work, corrected up to date, has been compiled during a period extending over the last three years, and though the greatest care has been exercised in its compilation, yet possibly some few errors and omissions, which are unavoidable in a work of such scope, especially if it is the first issue, as in this case, will be met with but the Editor will be pleased to receive notification of any necessary alterations or corrections, or names that should be added to the list, also any suggestions for enhancing the practical value of any future edition.

THE MEDICAL ACTS OF AUSTRALASIA.

FIJI.

THE LABOURERS' MEDICAL CARE ORDINANCE (1891).

(Ordinance No. 15.)

Medical Districts.—The Governor, by proclamation in the Royal Gazette, may declare and appoint any part of the Colony to be a Medical District for the purposes of this Ordinance, and every such proclamation shall state the limits of such district and the date on and after which the provisions of this Ordinance shall be applicable to such district. The Governor may also, by like proclamation, from time to time, as may be expedient, alter the limits of any such district, or on sufficient reason being shown may at any time exempt any plantation in such district from the operation of this Ordinance, or may name a day on and after which any such medical district shall cease to be a medical district under this Ordinance. Any district already proclaimed as a medical district shall be deemed to be a medical district duly proclaimed under this Ordinance.

Appointment of Medical Officers.—The Governor may, from time to time, appoint any Government Medical Officer to be a District Medical Officer for any medical district under this Ordinance, and may transfer any Medical Officer so appointed from any such district to any other medical district, or may order that any such district appointment shall cease and determine.

Duties of Medical Officer.—The Medical Officer of any district as aforesaid shall, in addition to any other duties devolving upon him as a Government Medical Officer, visit every plantation in such district once within such regular periods as may be from time to time determined for the said district by the Chief Medical Officer of the colony, and shall also, when desired in writing by the employer on any such plantation so to do, specially visit any immigrant or native labourer on the said plantation. In every such written request there shall be stated the supposed nature of the injury or illness of such immigrant or native labourer.

Medical Officer's Visit-book.—It shall be the duty of the District Medical Officer on the occasion of each of his periodical visits as aforesaid to any plantation, to make an entry in the District Medical Officer's Visit-book (to be provided by the employer on such plantation) of the particulars specified in the form as prescribed in the case of every immigrant or native labourer examined or prescribed for by him at such visit, and to sign his name at the foot of such entry together with the date of such visit.

Special Visits.—In the case of every special visit made by request as aforesaid, the District Medical Officer shall, together with the other particulars of the case, record the fact that such visit is a special one, and for every such special visit there shall be paid to the Medical Officer by the employer at whose request the visit is made a sum of five shillings if the distance from the residence of the Medical Officer to the plantation visited is under ten miles, or the sum of ten shillings if over ten miles.

Extended Powers.—The powers conferred upon District Medical Officers by any Ordinance relating to immigrants are hereby extended to and shall apply in respect of native labourers, and every District Medical Officer shall exercise any of such powers whenever it shall appear to him expedient and proper to do so.

Employer to Provide Hospital Equipment, &c.—Every employer shall provide and keep on his plantation such drugs, medicaments, medical and surgical appliances, medical comforts, food, sleeping accommodation and nursing as may from time to time appear to the District Medical Officer reasonable for the general use of the immigrants or native labourers on such plantation, and shall furnish each immigrant and each native labourer under medical treatment with such articles, accommodation and nursing aforesaid as may be prescribed by such District Medical Officer. Provided however, that in the event of any employer believing any demand made under the provisions of this section by a District Medical Officer in respect of supplies for general use to be extravagant or unreasonable, such employer shall forthwith submit his protest in writing to such District Medical Officer, who shall append thereto his reasons for the demand in question and immediately transmit the protest and reasons to the Chief Medical Officer of the colony for decision. Any employer who shall refuse or neglect to provide or to furnish to any immigrant or native labourer any article, accommodation or nursing as aforesaid when required so to do by the District Medical Officer or Chief Medical Officer, as the case may be, shall, on conviction before a Stipendiary Magistrate, be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds, or in default of payment thereof to imprisonment not exceeding two months.

Hospital Diet Scales.—The employer on any plantation on which there is a plantation-hospital shall, when so required by the Medical Officer of the district, and with his advice and approval, establish a diet scale for regular observance at such hospital, to consist of full-diet, half-diet, dysentery-diet and extras, and may in like manner from time to time alter such diet scale or discontinue its use. But any such full-diet shall always include one or other of the alternative complete daily rations (as the Medical Officer may direct) required to be issued to indentured labourers not in hospital under the provisions of the Ordinances relating to immigrants or native labourers respectively. A copy of such diet scale when so established shall be signed by the employer and by the District Medical Officer, and shall be kept exposed in the hospital for reference.

And if any person shall wilfully, knowingly, and corruptly make any false statement upon such examination or in such declaration, or shall utter or attempt to utter or put off as true before the Board any false, forged, or counterfeit diploma, degree, license, certificate, or other document or writing, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, and being thereof duly convicted he shall be liable to be imprisoned for any period not exceeding three years.

Board may Alter Register and Erase Name Therefrom.—The Board may from time to time make the necessary alterations in the registration of the qualification and addresses of the persons registered under this Division of this Act, and may from time to time write, or cause to be written, a letter to any registered person addressed to him according to his last known address to inquire whether he has ceased to practise or has changed his residence; and if no answer be returned to such letter within the period of six months from the sending thereof the board may erase the name of such person from the register, and may if they shall afterwards think fit to do so restore the same to the register.

Notice of Death or Change of Residence to be sent to the Board.—Every deputy-registrar in Victoria, on receiving notice of the death of any Medical Practitioner, shall forthwith transmit such notice by post to the president of the Medical Board in Melbourne; and on receipt of such notice the Medical Board shall erase the name of such deceased medical practitioner from the register of legally qualified medical practitioners; and any legally qualified medical practitioner on changing his residence shall intimate the same to the medical board.

Provided that any person who shall feel himself aggrieved by any such conviction or order of justices may appeal therefrom to the next court of general sessions of the peace in accordance with the law for the time being in force relating to appeals from justices to courts of general sessions of the peace.

Medical Practitioners may Sue.—Every Medical Practitioner who shall have received such certificate of qualification as aforesaid shall afterwards be entitled to sue in any court of law within Victoria to the extent of the jurisdiction of such court for the recovery of his fees or other remuneration for his professional services, whether medical or surgical; and it shall be sufficient to state in the particulars of demand the words "for medical services," which shall include every demand for medical or surgical aid including medicines when supplied by the plaintiff to the defendant; and no person shall be entitled to recover any charge in any court of law for any medical or surgical advice or attendance or for the performance of any operation or for any medicine which he shall have both prescribed and supplied, unless he shall prove on the trial that he is registered in accordance with the provisions of Division one of this Act.

Chemists or Dentists not Affected.—Nothing in this Division of this Act shall be construed to infringe on the rights and privileges hitherto enjoyed by chemists and druggists or dentists.

DIVISION 3—MEDICAL WITNESSES.

Coroner's Inquests.—Whenever upon the summoning or holding of any coroner's inquest or upon the holding of any inquiry by a justice touching the death of any person it shall appear to the coroner or justice (as the case may be) that the deceased person, was not at or immediately before his death attended by any legally qualified medical practitioner within the meaning of this Act, such coroner or justice may issue a summons for the attendance as a witness at such inquest or inquiry of some legally qualified medical practitioner in actual practice, who shall reside near to the place where such inquest or inquiry is holden; but where the deceased person was attended by any such practitioner, the coroner or justice shall issue a summons for his attendance only; or if the deceased was attended by more than one such practitioner, the coroner or justice may cause all or any of them to be summoned at his discretion.

Post-mortem Examinations.—The coroner or justice either in such summons as aforesaid or by an order in writing may at any time before the termination of the inquest or inquiry direct any legally qualified medical practitioner to perform a post-mortem examination of the body of the deceased, either with or without an analysis of the contents of the stomach or intestines. Provided that if in any case it appear to the coroner or justice that the death of such deceased person was probably caused partly or entirely by the improper or negligent treatment of any medical practitioner or other person, then such practitioner or other person shall not be allowed to perform or assist at any such examination or analysis, although he shall in every such case be allowed to be present thereat.

Additional Medical Evidence.—Whenever it shall appear to the coroner or to a majority of the jury at any such inquest, or to the justice at any such inquiry, that the cause of death has not been satisfactorily explained by the practitioner or practitioners examined in the first instance at such inquest or inquiry, the coroner or justice shall forthwith cause any other legally qualified practitioner or practitioners to be summoned as a witness or witnesses at such inquest or inquiry; and shall direct him or them to perform a post-mortem examination with or without such analysis as aforesaid, whether such an examination shall have been previously performed or not. Provided that where such additional evidence is at the instance of a majority of the jury, it shall be lawful for such majority to name to the coroner any particular legally qualified medical practitioner or practitioners whom they wish to attend; and in that case such practitioner or practitioners shall be summoned, and no other.

Remuneration to Medical Witnesses.—When any legally qualified medical practitioner has attended at an inquest or inquiry in obedience to any such summons as aforesaid, he shall for such attendance and for giving evidence at such inquest or inquiry be entitled to receive the remuneration of one guinea, and (in addition thereto) for the making of any such post-mortem examination the remuneration of two guineas; and if the place of his residence shall be more than ten miles distant from the place where the inquest or inquiry is holden, then such practitioner shall be entitled to a sum of one shilling for every mile of such extra distance in addition. Provided that no remuneration shall be paid for the performance of any post-mortem examination instituted without the previous direction of the coroner or justice. Provided also that where the death shall have happened in any public hospital, gaol, or other public building, no medical officer appointed with salary to attend such hospital, gaol, or building shall be entitled to any such remuneration.

Penalty for Neglecting to Attend.—Where any such summons or order of any coroner or justice as aforesaid shall have been served upon any medical practitioner, to whom the same was directed or shall have been left at his usual residence in sufficient time for him to obey the same and he shall nevertheless not obey such summons or order, he shall for such neglect forfeit and pay a penalty or sum of not less than Three pounds nor more than Twenty, to be recovered in a summary way before any two justices, unless he shall at the hearing of the case show a good and sufficient excuse for such neglect to the satisfaction of such justices.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

THE MEDICAL ORDINANCE (1869).

(33 Vic., No. 8).

Medical Board.—The Governor in Council may appoint a Board consisting of not less than three Members being of the medical profession, one of whom shall be appointed President, under the style and description of "The Medical Board," and the Governor may in like manner remove the said Members or any of them.

Registration.—Every person not registered under the provisions of the Imperial Medical Act, 21 and 22 Vic., cap. 90, but possessed of any one or more of the qualifications described in the said Imperial "Medical Act, 1858," desirous of being registered under this Ordinance, shall submit his degree, diploma, certificate or other proof for the examination and approval of the said Medical Board, and shall thereupon obtain from the said Medical Board a certificate of his being qualified to be registered as a general practitioner.

Board may grant a Certificate without production of Diploma.—The said Medical Board may, by special orders, dispense with the production of such degree, diploma, certificate or other proof as aforesaid, and on due proof to the satisfaction of such Board of his qualification, skill and ability to practise medicine or surgery, may, in their discretion, grant to any person a certificate of his being qualified to be registered as a Medical Practitioner.

Fee for Registration.—Every person who is registered under the Imperial Medical Act, 21 and 22 Vic., cap. 90, and every person who shall obtain a certificate as aforesaid from the said local Medical Board shall, on payment of a fee of one guinea, be entitled to be registered on producing to the Colonial Secretary the document conferring or evidencing the qualification or each of the qualifications in respect whereof he seeks to be so registered, or upon transmitting by post to the said Colonial Secretary information of his name and address, and evidence of the qualification or qualifications in respect whereof he seeks to be registered, and of the time or times at which the same was or were respectively obtained. Provided, nevertheless, any person who was actually practising medicine in this colony before first day of July, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, shall also on payment of such fee as aforesaid, be entitled to be registered on producing to the Colonial Secretary a declaration, signed by him, or upon transmitting to the Colonial Secretary information of his name and address and enclosing such declaration.

Name may be Erased.—The Colonial Secretary may write a letter to any registered person, addressed to him according to his address on the register, to enquire whether he has ceased to practise, or has changed his residence, and if no answer shall be returned to such letter within the space of six months from the sending of the letter, the name of such person may be erased from the register ; provided always that the same may be restored by direction of the Medical Board aforesaid.

Evidence of Qualification to be given.—No qualification shall be entered in the register, either on the first registration or by way of addition to a registered name, unless the Colonial Secretary be satisfied by the proper evidence that the person claiming is entitled to it ; and any appeal from the decision of the Colonial Secretary may be decided by the said Medical Board, and any entry which shall be proved to the satisfaction of the said Medical Board to have been fraudulently or incorrectly made, may be erased from the register by order in writing of such Board.

None but Registered Persons may Sue.—No person shall be entitled to recover any charges in any court of law for any medical or surgical advice, attendance, or for the performance of any operation, or for any medicine which he shall have both prescribed and supplied, unless he shall prove upon the trial that he is registered under this ordinance.

Legally Qualified Medical Practitioner.—The words “legally-qualified Medical Practitioner,” or “duly qualified Medical Practitioner,” or any words importing a person recognised by law as a Medical Practitioner or member of the medical profession when used in any ordinance or Act, shall be construed to mean a person registered under this ordinance.

Medical Certificate.—No certificate required by law from any Medical Practitioner shall be valid unless the person signing the same shall be registered under this ordinance.

Obtaining Registration by False Representations—If any person shall wilfully procure or attempt to procure himself to be registered under this ordinance by any false or fraudulent representation or declaration, either verbally or in writing, every such person so offending, and every person aiding and assisting him therein shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding twelve calendar months.

Falsely Pretending to be a Registered Person.—Any person who shall wilfully and falsely pretend to be, or take or use the name or title of a Physician, Doctor of Medicine, Licentiate in Medicine or Surgery, Bachelor of Medicine, Surgeon, General Practitioner or Apothecary, or any name, title, addition, or description implying that he is registered under this ordinance, or that he is recognized by law as a Physician or Surgeon, or Licentiate in Medicine or Surgery, or a Practitioner in Medicine, or an Apothecary, shall pay a sum not exceeding Fifty Pounds.

Chemists not to be affected.—Nothing in this ordinance contained shall in any way affect Chemists and Druggists and Dentists.

THE AUSTRALASIAN COLONIES GEOGRAPHICALLY DEFINED.

AUSTRALIA.

Australia is a compact mass of land lying between lat. 10° and 39° S., and long. 113° and 154° E., having the Indian Ocean on the N. and W., the Pacific on the E., and the Southern Ocean on the S., and though entirely surrounded by water, it is termed a continent. It is 2,500 miles long from E. to W. on the parallel of 25° S., and 2,000 miles in extreme breadth from N. to S. The area is 2,944,628 square miles, and the coast line about 8,000 miles. Australia is divided into the following five colonies, viz. :—New South Wales, Queensland, South Australia, Victoria and Western Australia. The population is 3,300,000. The area of all the Australasian Colonies (exclusive of Fiji) is 3,161,389 square miles, and the estimated population 4,000,000.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

New South Wales is bounded on the North by Queensland, on the West by South Australia, on the South by Victoria, and on the East by the Pacific Ocean. The extreme latitudes are $28^{\circ} 10'$ and $37^{\circ} 20'$ S., and the extreme longitudes 141° and $153^{\circ} 40'$ E. It contains an area of 310,700 square miles, and a population of 1,180,000. Its metropolis is Sydney, and the other chief towns are—Broken Hill, Newcastle, Maitland, Bathurst, Goulburn, Albury, Parramatta, Grafton and Orange.

QUEENSLAND.

Queensland forms the North-eastern portion of the Australian Continent. It lies between lat. 29° and $10^{\circ} 45'$ S., and long. 138° and $153^{\circ} 30'$ E. The Pacific, Torres Straits and Gulf of Carpentaria form the Northern boundary; the Southern boundary is formed by New South Wales and South Australia; on the West it is bounded by South Australia, and on the East by the Pacific Ocean. It contains an area of 668,497 square miles, with a population of 415,000. Brisbane is the metropolis, and the other chief towns are—Ipswich, Rockhampton, Toowoomba, Gympie, Townsville, Maryborough, Bundaberg, Charters Towers, Mackay and Warwick.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

South Australia embraces the whole central portion of the Continent. From the Great Bight to lat. 26° S. it lies between long. 129° to 141° E., and from lat. 26° S. to the Gulf of Carpentaria, between long. 129° to 138° E. It is thus bounded on the North and South by the Ocean, on the west by Western Australia, and on the East by Queensland, New South Wales and Victoria. It contains an area of 903,690 square miles, and a population of 325,000. Its metropolis is Adelaide, and the other principal towns are—Port Adelaide, Glenelg, Koorunga, Mount Gambier, Kapunda, Port Pirie and Gawler.

VICTORIA.

Victoria is the smallest division of Australia, and forms the extreme S.E. part of the Continent. It extends from lat. 34° to 39° S., and from long. 141° to 150° E. It is bounded on the North by the river Murray, which divides it from New South Wales, on the East by the Pacific, on the South by Bass' Straits, and on the West by the meridian of 141° E., which divides it from South Australia. It contains an area of 87,884 square miles, and a population of 1,170,000. Melbourne is its metropolis, and the other chief towns are—Ballarat, Bendigo, Geelong, Stawell, Clunes, Echuca, Warrnambool, Maryborough, Kyneton, Hamilton, Ararat, Castlemaine, Daylesford, Sale, Bairnsdale and Creswick.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

Western Australia is formed by that portion of the continent situated to the West of long. 129° E., which divides it from South Australia; on all the other sides it is bounded by the ocean. It lies between lat. $13^{\circ} 44'$ and 35° S., and long. 129° to 113° E. It contains an area of about 1,060,000 square miles, and a population of 55,000. Perth is the metropolis, and the other chief towns are—Fremantle, Albany, Geraldton and York.

TASMANIA.

Tasmania is an island situated south of the eastern part of Australia, from which it is separated by Bass' Strait, 150 miles wide. It lies between lat. $40^{\circ} 44'$ and $43^{\circ} 39'$ S., and long. $144^{\circ} 38'$ and $148^{\circ} 24'$ E. It contains an area of 24,330 square miles, or 26,375 square miles including the other islands belonging to the colony. The total population is 155,000. Hobart is the capital, and Launceston is the chief town in the north of the island; the other principal towns are—Beaconsfield, Longford, Westbury, New Norfolk, Waratah, West Devonport, Green Ponds, and Ulverstone.

NEW ZEALAND.

New Zealand consists of a group of islands in the South Pacific Ocean, lying between lat. $34^{\circ} 12'$ and $47^{\circ} 20'$ S., and extending diagonally between the extreme long. of $166^{\circ} 30'$ and $178^{\circ} 40'$ E. The two principal islands are the North Island and the South or Middle Island, and a third off the south coast of the South Island is called Stewart Island; besides these there are the Chatham and Auckland Islands, and other groups belonging to the colony. The North Island is divided from the Middle or South by Cook's Strait, and the South Island from Stewart's by Foveaux Strait. The area of the whole group is about 104,403 square miles. The total population is 700,000, including about 41,500 Maoris. The North Island is divided into four provincial districts, viz. :—Auckland, Taranaki, Hawke's Bay, and Wellington. The South Island has five provincial districts—Nelson, Marlborough, Canterbury, Otago (with Southland), and Westland. Wellington is the capital of New Zealand and the seat of Government—Auckland was the former capital: and the other chief towns on the North Island are—Napier, Thames, Wanganui, and New Plymouth. The principal towns on the South or Middle Island are—Dunedin, Christchurch, Nelson, Oamaru, Invercargill, Lyttelton, Timaru, Greymouth, Blenheim, and Hokitika.

FIJI.

The Fiji Islands, in the Pacific Ocean, extend from lat. 16° to 21° S., and from long. 177° E. to 178° W. There are 200 islands in the group, about 80 of which are inhabited. The largest islands are—Viti Levu on the Western side and Vanua Levu on the Northern side of the group. The seat of Government is at Suva on Viti Levu; the former capital was Levuka, on the island of Ovalau. The white population of this Crown colony is about 2,500, and the native population 115,000. The principal districts are—Taviuni, Rewa, Navua, and Ba.

NEW GUINEA.

New Guinea lies wholly to the south of the equator, extending between lat. $0^{\circ} 22'$ and $10^{\circ} 42'$ S., and between long. $130^{\circ} 50'$ and $150^{\circ} 50'$ E. Its extreme length is 1,490 miles, and its greatest breadth about 410 miles. Its area is about 300,000 square miles. Port Moresby, on the S.E. shore of the large Papuan Gulf, is the principal port.

SAMOA.

The Samoa or Navigator's Islands are situated between lat. $13^{\circ} 13'$ and $14^{\circ} 30'$ S., and long. 168° and 173° W. They consist of two groups, the eastern containing four islands, and the western thirteen; the largest island is Savaii, or Salovohi, which is 120 miles in circuit. The finest island is Upolu, on which is Apia, the chief town of the group. The native population is reckoned at about 35,000.

TONGA.

The Friendly or Tonga Islands lie 200 miles E. of the Fiji Group, between lat. 13° and 23° S., and long. 173° to 176° W. They consist of three separate groups, comprising in all about 120 islands, of which about 40 are inhabited by a population of about 30,000. Tonga, or Tongatabu, is the largest island.

CLIMATOLOGY OF THE AUSTRALASIAN COLONIES.

* * The mean temperature in summer and winter, and the mean annual rainfall of the various districts will be found under the respective towns in the Gazetteer.

THE CLIMATE OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

The climate of New South Wales is very similar to that of Southern Europe, but, as the colony extends from latitude south, 28° to 37°, much variation is experienced, from the cold at Kiandra, where the mean minimum temperature is 21° F., to the heat in the Inland plains, where it is generally from 100° to 116° F. in the shade for the greater part of the summer. The summer temperature of the coast regions of New South Wales is much the same as that of Lisbon and of the Mediterranean coast, i.e., like Naples, Algiers, and Gibraltar, whilst the winter temperature is like that of Sicily or the south of Africa. The summer heat on the coast is less than in the interior, but to many persons it is more trying, because it is a moist, tropical heat; whereas in the interior, to the west of the Great Dividing Range, it is extremely dry, and though hot, it is not enervating; on the contrary, it produces great elasticity of frame, and an increased power of endurance. This region, and especially the Riverina district, consisting of vast inland plains, bounded on the south by the River Murray, and lying between its chief affluents, the Darling, Lachlan, and Murrumbidgee Rivers, can, in dry seasons, be strongly recommended to the consumptive as possessing one of the most suitable climates in the world for the effectual climatic treatment of phthisis, even if attended with hæmoptysis, provided out-door occupation, especially station life, is resorted to.

In most parts of the colony the winter mornings and evenings are very cool and a fire is found agreeable. The temperature of the coast districts is beneficially affected by a warm equatorial current setting south along the coast, furnishing moisture in summer and mitigating the cold of winter. Snow lies for months on the mountains, i.e., at Kiandra (4,600 feet above sea level), where eight feet of snow have fallen in a single month, whilst it is almost unknown in the coast districts. The average annual rainfall to the east of the Dividing Range is over 40 inches, and the number of rainy days 102; but in the interior, on the western side of the mountains, it is only about 14 inches, with 70 rainy days, and sometimes two or three years have passed by without rain in some parts, or at least not sufficient to wet the ground. Moreover, the evaporation is enormous, sometimes reaching 12 inches a month for several consecutive months; at these times the rivers cease running and the whole country gets burnt up with the heat. Such seasons of drought occur at regular intervals, and, of course, produce the greatest distress. The heavy rains come with winds from eastward, and are often intercepted by the mountains, therefore it sometimes happens that floods on the coast districts are simultaneous with droughts inland. Southerly "bursters" frequently set in between the months of November and February, and are always attended with clouds of dust, penetrating everywhere.

June, July, and August are the coldest months, December, January, February, and March are the hottest; and with the exception of these last four months the climate is delightful and highly salubrious.

The diseases most prevalent in Sydney and Suburbs during the summer months are dysentery and diarrhoea, and enteric fever, and in winter the greatest number of deaths are due to phthisis.

THE CLIMATE OF NEW ZEALAND.

New Zealand, extending as it does from latitude south 34° to 47°, has of course a very varied climate; it is not unlike that of Great Britain, but it is more equable, the extremes of daily temperature only varying throughout the year by an average of 20° F., whilst London is 7° F. colder than the North, and 4° F. colder than the South Island of New Zealand. The mean annual temperature of the North Island is 57° F., and of the South Island 52° F., whilst that of London is 51° F. The mean annual temperature of the different seasons for the whole colony is—in spring 55° F., in summer 63° F., in autumn 57° F., and in winter 48° F. The climate on the west coast of both islands is more equable and agreeable than on the east, the difference between the average summer and winter temperature being nearly 4° F. greater on the south-east portion of the North Island, and 7° F. on that of the South Island than on the north-west. Especially the climate of Canterbury, on the east side of the South Island, is extremely variable; it has been said to be a mixture of the climates of the south of France and the Shetland Islands, the winter being most severe, whilst the summer is very hot; moreover the annual fluctuation of temperature at Christchurch (Canterbury), on the east coast, is greater by fully 18° F. than at Hokitika, on the opposite west coast of the South Island, which has a mild winter and cool summer; whilst Invercargill, 11° further south than Auckland, has hotter days in summer than Auckland. In the North Island the probability of rainfall in winter is twice as large as in summer. In the South Island, however, the rainfall, though irregular, is distributed more equally over the year, with the difference that on the West Coast spring rains prevail and summer rains on the east coast. The contrast between the rainfalls on the east and west coasts is most striking; thus in the North Island, Napier on the east has only half the amount of rain that falls in Taranaki on the west; and in the South Island, at Christchurch, on the east coast, the average annual rainfall is 26 inches, and at Hokitika, on the west, 112 inches. The winter snow line on the Southern Alps is 3,000 feet on the east side, and 3,700 feet on the west side. The south-western coasts of New Zealand and the straits between the islands are exposed to stormy weather: thus at Wellington, on Cook Straits, and at Invercargill, on Foveaux Straits, the winds are generally very boisterous throughout the year, but no part of the islands suffers from hot winds. On the whole, the climate, being free from extremes of heat or cold, is mild and bracing, and in almost all parts highly salubrious, the death-rate being lower than in the healthiest rural districts of England. The diseases most prevalent during the summer months are diarrhoea and dysentery, and throughout the year a number of deaths occur from phthisis.

THE CLIMATE OF QUEENSLAND.

In a country like Queensland, containing 669,520 square miles within 17 or 18 degrees of latitude, a variety of climate must be experienced, and no accurate conception of its wide diversities can be given in any general account. In the interior, to the west, comprising the districts of Maranoa, Warrego, Mitchell, North and South Gregory, the atmosphere is pure, extremely dry and hot, yet exhilarating, and it has one of the most suitable climates in the world for phthisical patients. The summer heat in the daytime is very great, but by no means oppressive, for a fresh and singularly invigorating breeze plays incessantly over the downs and plains. When the sun sets the temperature falls rapidly, and there is hardly any dew at night. In winter the cold is quite severe, and 4° or 5° of frost during the night or early morning are not uncommon. The rainfall is scanty and irregular, and varies from 20 to 10 inches, and even less, according to the distance from the coast; the greater the distance the less is the rainfall, and becomes altogether uncertain, whilst the evaporation increases.

Another portion of the interior, the Darling Downs, the so-called "Garden of Queensland," on the western slopes of the Main Dividing Range, comprising the important towns of Toowoomba, Warwick, and Dalby, enjoys many of the advantages of the coast districts. The climate is temperate and bracing, the atmosphere is fairly charged with moisture, and the rainfall more regular.

Following the coast districts from south to north, the first division at the southern extremity of the colony is that of East and West Moreton, lying between the Main Dividing Range and the sea, the principal towns of which are Brisbane, the capital, and Ipswich, twenty-three miles to the south-west of it. The mean temperature at Brisbane is 70° F., or about the same as at Funchal, on the Island of Madeira, and the changes of the thermometer are far less extreme than at Sydney or Melbourne, while cool southerly breezes prevail throughout the year, so that the heat, which is, of course, greater than in the more southern colonies, is rarely felt to be oppressive; besides, the nights are longer and cooler, producing a revival after the heat of the day, and moreover, the hot winds from which the other colonies suffer are here not experienced. The winter season, say from May to November, throughout Southern Queensland is most delightful: the mornings and evenings are cool, the days bright and warm, the sky cloudless, the atmosphere dry and exhilarating; frosts are experienced, but they are not severe.

The rainfall is more evenly distributed throughout the year, though the largest amount generally falls between December and April. The air is fairly charged with moisture, and a nightly fall of dew is the rule, not the exception. The mean annual rainfall at Brisbane is 50 inches, with 128 rainy days. The next districts are those of Wide Bay and Burnett, including the towns of Gympie, Maryborough and Bundaberg. The climate here is very similar to that of the Moreton district, though perhaps a little warmer—but even frosts are not unknown here. At Gympie, 30 miles from the coast, the annual amount of rainfall is 44 inches. Further north are the districts of Port Curtis and Leichhardt, with the important seaport of Rockhampton, just within the tropic of Capricorn. In climate these districts occupy an intermediate position between the temperate and tropical portions of the coast country, and the temperature is decidedly high. The rainfall is unevenly distributed throughout the year, but the total amount is satisfactory—about 50 inches during the 12 months. The next districts going northward are those of North and South Kennedy, with the towns of Mackay, Bowen, Townsville and Cardwell on the coast, and the mining centres of Charters Towers and Ravenswood in the interior. The climate in these districts is distinctly tropical and free from frost; the summer, though hot, is not unhealthy, and there is a pleasant, exhilarating, cool season—the climate in the neighbourhood of Bowen especially is noted for being so temperate and equable that the place is used as a sanatorium by the residents of the far north; and even at Townsville the temperature is as a rule most enjoyable during the winter months. The summer months, from December to March, are of course very hot, and as a marvellous amount of rain falls at this time, tropical heat and moisture are combined. All along the coast the rainfall is great, being about 90 inches at Cardwell. In the interior of these districts the air is pure and dry, and the climate generally is not unhealthy for Europeans. The temperature, as a matter of course, is more prostrating in the northernmost districts of Cook and Burke, and the heat of the tropical sun, with moisture combined, is too fierce to be endured with comfort by Europeans. The north-west coasts are visited with periodical rains of great regularity, and are quite free from the seasons of drought that occur in the more southern parts.

Queensland is almost entirely free from endemic diseases; epidemics are rare, and the climate throughout the colony is on the whole very favourable to the European constitution.

THE CLIMATE OF SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

The climate of South Australia is very hot and dry, but owing to its dryness the heat, except on hot wind days, is seldom oppressive. The hottest months are December, January, and February, when the temperature on the plains frequently exceeds 100° F. in the shade; but then the wet bulb thermometer will show only about 65° F., and it is this extreme dryness of the air which enables the residents to bear the heat of the summer without much inconvenience, as perspiration generally affords instantaneous relief. November and March are also hot, but the heat is seldom of long duration; and moreover the nights are much cooler, producing a revival after the heat of the day. The mean temperature in October is 62° F., in November 66° F., in December 71° F., in January and February 73° F., and in March 70° F. in the shade. After March the temperature falls rapidly, very rarely reaching 90° F. in the shade in April, the mean temperature for that month being 64° F., whilst for May it is only 58° F. The coldest months are June, July, and August, the mean temperature of which are 54° F., 51° F., and 53° F. respectively. The weather from April to October is delightful and most enjoyable; the heat is less excessive, the atmosphere wonderfully transparent, and the rains which generally fall during the winter months produce a delightful freshness in the air. The mean quantity of rain registered in these seven months is 16·721 inches, whilst for the whole year it is 21·091 inches, with 114 wet days. The average number of wet days in May is 13 days, in June 14 days, in July 16 days, and 16 days in August; the average rainfall being respectively 2·814, 2·915, 2·801, and 2·621 inches for May, June, July, and August. These quantities refer to the plains only, as on the hills and in the south-eastern portion of the colony the rainfall is much heavier, and the temperature of course is also much lower than on the plains above referred to.

Occasionally, during the summer the colony suffers from the hot winds which blow from the interior of the continent and generally last for three days; the temperature of the air is raised to 100° F. and 120° F. in the shade, and the heat of the wind can only be compared to the blast from a furnace. Clouds of fine dust are a most painful concomitant; in short these hot winds are very much like the sirocco of North Africa. Infants and old persons severely feel these hot winds; in delicate persons they produce determination of blood to the head, inflammation of the throat and eyes, &c., yet they are not unhealthy, as they purify the atmosphere, drying up and rendering innocuous all decomposing animal and vegetable matter; and, moreover, as settlement proceeds, the hot winds become less frequent and less severe.

On the whole the climate of South Australia is highly salubrious, although a large number of deaths are recorded every year as due to diarrhoeal diseases, phthisis, pneumonia, bronchitis, whooping cough, and enteric fever, principally due, as in all the other colonies, to the toleration of nuisances and bad drainage in townships, bad water, unsuitable dwellings, and a general disregard of many other indispensable observances conducive to health.

THE CLIMATE OF TASMANIA.

Tasmania, the sanatorium of the south, has a climate equal, if not superior, to that of the healthiest part of Europe; the winter is not more severe than that of the South of France, and the summer is not hotter than that of London. The temperature is not marked by extremes of heat or cold, and, as in summer the nights are always cool and refreshing, the heat of the day is never felt relaxing. The mean temperature at Hobart, in the south of the island, is 54° F.; the mean maximum temperature is 61° F., and the mean minimum temperature 45° F.; the mean daily range is 16° F. The hottest months are November, December, January, February, and March, when the extreme temperatures are 92° F., 91° F., 100° F., 86° F. and 96° F., respectively. The coldest months are May, June, July and August; the mean monthly temperatures of which are 49° F., 46° F., 45° F., and 48° F. respectively. At Launceston, in the north of the island, the mean annual temperature is 55° F., the mean maximum temperature 64° F., the mean minimum temperature 43° F., and the daily range 20° F. The monthly mean temperature is highest in December and January, viz., 74° F. and 77° F. respectively, and lowest in May, June, July and August, viz., 38° F., 34° F., 35° F. and 38° F. respectively.

Rain varies in quantity in different parts of the island, Hobart having little more than 21 inches, with 189 wet days; Launceston nearly 31 inches, with 119 wet days, while Mount Bischoff, 28 miles from the north coast, has 78 inches, with 264 wet days; and Corinna, in the north-west, nine miles from the coast, has nearly 69 inches of rain. The climate of the island is certainly much cooler and more equable, and therefore more pleasant and healthy, than in Australia, and it is especially favourable to enfeebled constitutions from warmer climates.

THE CLIMATE OF VICTORIA.

The climate of Victoria is very similar to that of the more favoured portions of Southern Europe, such as Madrid in Spain, Marseilles, Bordeaux, and Nice in France, and Bologna and Verona in Italy; however, the difference between the coldest and warmest months is much less in Melbourne than in any of these places. The annual mean temperature in the shade is 58° F.; the highest temperature in the shade has been 111° F., and the lowest temperature 27° F. The spring season generally sets in about the beginning of September, during which month the weather is usually mild and often quite warm, the average temperature being 53° F. The weather in October is genial and pleasant, with a mean temperature of 57° F.; November is characterized by fine, warm, and sometimes even hot weather, the mean temperature in this month being 61° F. The hottest months are December, January and February, with a mean monthly temperature of 64° F., 67° F., and 66° F. respectively. The greatest heat and dryness of the atmosphere occurs towards the end of January or the beginning of February. With March the autumn season sets in, which although subject to stormy weather, gales of wind, and a large rainfall, is the most genial and beautiful portion of the year; the mean temperature in March is 64° F., in April 59° F., and in May 53° F. June inaugurates the Victorian winter; July is the coldest month, the mean temperature being 48° F.; at this season cold northerly winds are experienced. In the higher altitudes it often freezes at night, although the days may be of a summer temperature, but in the lowlands the temperature only occasionally falls below freezing point. The suddenness of the atmospheric changes is felt by some to be trying, but as a rule the climate in autumn, winter and spring is exceedingly agreeable; the atmosphere is transparent, dry and exhilarating. The sky is brightly blue, and soft breezes breathe a delicious freshness, and temper the rays of the sun. Even the summer is not oppressively warm, and the dry heat, being cooled by southerly and south-westerly winds, is rather stimulating, and not so exhausting as the moist heat of the coast regions of New South Wales and Queensland. The hot winds and dust storms which occasionally occur are certainly not pleasant, but they generally terminate the second day, and never last longer than three days; besides they also act as a kind of scavenger, as explained in the description of the climate of South Australia; it is during these hot winds that the highest temperatures occur. The rainfall is very variable in the different parts of the colony. The average yearly rainfall at Melbourne is 26 inches, with 137 wet days, but the rainfall has been as low as 16 inches and as high as 44 inches. In the highlands, especially towards the east, the rainfall is greater, while the Wimmera district, in the north-west of the colony, is extremely dry, having rarely above 14 inches; and moreover, the evaporation, which in most parts of Victoria is greatly in excess of the rainfall, is especially large in the Wimmera district, but in sheltered localities, as in the valleys and gulleys at the foot of the mountain ranges, the evaporation is almost reduced to a minimum. On the whole, Victoria has probably one of the finest climates in the world, though of course not without its drawbacks.

The principal diseases prevalent in Victoria are enteric fever, diarrhoeal diseases, diphtheria, pneumonia, phthisis and heart disease.

THE CLIMATE OF WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

The climate of Western Australia, as might be expected from the enormous size of the Colony, varies a good deal in the different parts. In the South and South-west it is unrivalled, being temperate and cool, and with a quite sufficient rainfall. The mean annual temperature recorded at Perth is 65° F.; the highest temperature has been 109° F., and the lowest 34° F. The hottest months are December, January, February and March, with a mean monthly temperature of 72° F., 75° F., 79° F., and 76° F., respectively. The coldest months are July and August, both having a mean monthly temperature of 53° F. The average annual rainfall is nearly 33 inches, with 111 wet days. Practically there are only two seasons. At the South the wet season usually commences in April and ends in October, the rest of the year being extremely dry, but with occasional showers and thunderstorms; and from October to April the climate is generally most delightful. In the North the true wet season ranges from December to March, occasionally continuing into April, during which period tremendous cyclonic storms, locally called "willy-willies," frequently occur, often causing great damage to both life, stock, and property. Out towards the Eastward the climate is drier, but the soil still appears to receive a fair rainfall; little accurate information has, however, yet been obtained, settlement having only lately spread out any distance in this direction. On the Murchison and Gascoyne extremely heavy dews are said to make up to a great extent for the apparent lack of rainfall; and the great heat occasionally experienced is tempered by strong and cool breezes. In the North District the heat, although often excessive, is for the most part a very dry heat, and therefore rarely oppressive; the settlers from there frequently complain that the heat in the Southern part of the colony, at a far lower temperature, is much more trying. Further North, in the Kimberley District, the heat during the hot months is extreme, but the heat and damp once over, the climate is excellent, particularly in the tablelands of the interior. In winter, frosts are experienced in the south, but only in the morning, and the greater part of the winter is temperate and fine. Hot winds do occur, but they are neither so frequent nor so severe as in South Australia and Victoria. There is little luxuriant vegetation, and there are no swamps or marshes to produce fevers and ague, and on the whole the climate of Western Australia is one of the healthiest of any of the Australian colonies, and very suitable for invalids and consumptive persons.

The diseases most prevalent in the colony are heart disease and dysentery; and with the exception of an epidemic of whooping cough, which made its appearance in the latter part of 1885, epidemics are unknown.

HOW TO OBTAIN A SURGEONCY ON BOARD HOMEWARD-BOUND STEAMERS.

All the different lines of Mail Steamers, without exception, engage their Surgeons in Europe or America, where the medical officers have to sign articles and bind themselves to take the steamer home again; consequently vacancies occur only in cases of death, severe illness, sudden aberration of mind, and other emergencies.

All other lines of steamers and sailing vessels, though frequently accompanied by a surgeon on their voyage from Europe, do not as a rule take a surgeon on the return trip; however, any surgeon who desires such an appointment should call on the Captain, who generally is part owner, and offer his services and eventually a small part of the passage money, say £10, which offer in most cases will be accepted. Medical gentlemen, who can introduce a few passengers to the ship, will find no difficulty in obtaining a free passage in return for their services. Sailing vessels frequently leave Newcastle (N.S.W.) for the West Coast of North and South America.

Medical men desirous of a cheap trip to China and Japan should leave their names and addresses with Messrs. Lorimer, Rome and Co., 34 O'Connell Street, Sydney (Agents of the "China Navigation Company,") and with Captain Green, the officer in charge of the Eastern and Australian S.S. Co.'s wharf at Miller's Point, Sydney, who invariably engage their Surgeons in Sydney for the round trip. The "China N. Co." pays the Surgeon a salary at the rate of $60 a month, but the E. and A.S.S. Co. (Agents—Gibbs, Bright and Co., 37 Pitt Street, Sydney), do not pay any remuneration.

Is the Best for Practitioners in Australia.

Caffyn's Liquor Carnis.

THE
50 Holborn Viaduct, E.C.

"The Lancet," April 4th, 1891, says:—"We have already had occasion to examine this excellent preparation. LIQUOR CARNIS is now flavoured with a 'dash' of Celery, which gives it a very pleasant taste. That this in no way interferes with the admirable condition in which the meat juice is preserved in the Cold, is evident from the fact that the simple experiment of boiling resulted in the coagulation of the fluid."

"The Lancet," July, 1890, says:—"This is evidently a meat extract prepared in the Cold, and preserved by glycerine. It is extremely rich in nitrogen, and the ash contains phosphates in considerable quantity. So well are the soluble albuminoids of the meat preserved that the fluid when heated turns into a semi-solid jelly. It is a really valuable nutrient."

"The British Medical Journal," August 23, 1890, says:—"CAFFYN'S LIQUOR CARNIS is undoubtedly a nourishing fluid, consisting of the Uncooked Juice of Meat, or muscle plasma, permanently preserved by the addition of a definite quantity of a carbo-hydrate . . . a valuable Food and Tonic for infants and invalids."

Again, on March 28, 1891:—"We have examined specimens of this preparation, and find that the statements made by the proprietors as to its composition are substantially correct. It is a brownish-red fluid of very sweet taste and slight acidity, and is rich in unaltered albuminoids, having, no doubt, been obtained from flesh by a cold process."

"The Dublin Journal of Medical Science" says:—"It is rich in albuminoids, and contains no excess of salts or nitrogenous waste matter."

"The Edinburgh Medical Journal," August, 1890, says:—"CAFFYN'S LIQUOR CARNIS is a preparation which is yet destined to take a foremost place among our foods for invalids. It is both nutritious and easily assimilated."

MEAT JUICE obtained by a COLD PROCESS
WITH THE ADDITION OF A CARBO-HYDRATE.

The Lancet says "The desideratum of the age is not a new medicine but a new food, a food that while containing all constituents necessary for the support of life, contains them in a form that allows of their direct absorption."

CAFFYN'S LIQUOR CARNIS fulfils all these conditions.

It is rich in albuminoids and other nutritive material, nourishes by direct absorption and requires no digestion.

NOTE.

CAFFYN'S LIQUOR CARNIS, MALTO-CARNIS, AND ALLIED PRODUCTS OF RAW-BEEF-JUICE ARE PREPARED FROM BRITISH BEEF ONLY - IN LONDON - AT THE LABORATORIES OF THE LIQUOR CARNIS CO., IN FARRINGDON STREET, SMITHFIELD WORKS, CLOSE TO SMITHFIELD MARKET.
