ROYAL SOCIETY

OF LONDON

CONSTITUTION OF

As the Royal Society of Physicians is a body of learned men, and the first and foremost of the medical profession in this country, it is a matter of course that the Society should be a body of men of high character and high attainments, and that it should be a body of men who are not only learned in their own specialty, but who are also well versed in the general principles of medicine and surgery.
