CUSTOM HOUSE

The original Custom House stood slightly to the east of the present site. It was burnt in the Great Fire of 1666 and rebuilt by Wren. Another fire destroyed it in 1714, and it was rebuilt only to be burnt again in 1814. A new building to the designs of David Laing was erected on the present site, and the centre of this was replaced with the handsome river front by Robert Smirke in 1828 which appears in the view. The various barges depicted are laden with dutiable goods, and on the quay a crane lifts a cask from one of them. On the far left can be seen the Monument.

For comprehensive treatment of depression and anxiety

TRIPTAFEN-MINOR
TRIPTAFEN-DA
TRIPTAFEN-FORTE

"When anxiety dominates a depressive state a combination of a phenothiazine and a tricyclic antidepressant is more appropriate, such as amitriptyline with perphenazine..."

(Brit. med. J., 1975, 1, 723)

The Triptafen range provides a comprehensive selection of amitriptyline/perphenazine combinations to meet individual patient's needs in anxiety and depression.

TRIPTAFEN-MINOR –
