The Unsurpassed Natural Home Remedy

A wonderful
Oil

OLBAS (Oleum Basileum) is a unique blend of potent, non-poisonous, non-suppressive essential oils from herbs.

And its Healing Virtues

Full details of its manifold uses will be found in this leaflet.

Its use is deeply refreshing and nerve soothing, highly invigorating, swiftly bactericidal, and genuinely healing. Its influence in bringing about the loosening of catarrhal congestion is one of its many outstanding virtues.

In detailing the extraordinarily beneficial applications of Olbas, we are fully aware that they will seem to many too good to be true and too numerous to have a sound scientific basis. But every detail is supported by clinical evidence from European physicians of the highest repute.

In line with Natural Curative Methods

In connection with the principal disorders which have been observed to yield to the correct administration of Olbas we wish to emphasise Dr. Huttig's statement: "The benefits of Olbas are strongly reinforced by the adoption of a predominantly alkaline (anti-acid) diet, especially if this consists mostly of uncooked food." Thus it will be seen by all who are acquainted with modern advances in dietetic knowledge that Olbas is completely in line with Natural Therapy

OLBAS — THE UNSURPASSED NATURAL HOME REMEDY

(Nature Cure) whose basic principle is the release and support of the inherent healing impulse of the human body-mind.

Supreme Internal Disinfectant

A special feature of Olbas is its remarkable disinfecting properties. No bacillus with which it comes in contact can resist it. According to a report of the Institute for the Study of Infectious Disease of Berne, Switzerland, all bacteria used when testing the oil were killed in five minutes, except the staphylococci which showed a heavy decrease in five minutes and were completely destroyed at the end of a quarter of an hour.

Method A. General Direction for External Use.

First cleanse the part with warm water and dry. Then apply a few drops of Olbas and firmly massage into the skin. Then cover with woollen material. Relief is speedy. This applies to small local applications, but is equally efficacious for larger areas, or even for the whole body. The first sensation is of coolness, but this is followed by pleasant warmth, and there usually follows profuse perspiration, the sign of Nature's strong response. Allow this to continue for an hour; then sponge quickly with warm water and wrap in dry blanket. Unlike other methods of inducing perspiration, this affects the heart's action very slightly, if at all.

Method B. Directions for Swallowing.

Add from three to six drops of Olbas to a small teaspoonful of pure honey or warm milk, or a dessertspoonful of hot water.

Method C. Directions for Inhaling.

Put one or two drops of Olbas on the tip of the little finger (which must be perfectly clean), and with this gently massage the inside of the lower nostrils. Then inhale strongly and slowly, keeping the mouth closed. Clogging catarrhal congestion is quickly dissolved.

Method D.

Cleanse the chest with warm water, and dry; then sprinkle ten drops of Olbas on the chest and rub in. At once cover with warm woollen material. Then sprinkle ten drops on the pillow, both sides of the head, so that every breath of the patient facilitates the curative process.

Method E.

After rubbing the oil into the chest as in Method D draw the bed-clothes over the head, and tuck in round the shoulders and neck. The patient then breathes in deeply and as slowly as possible, as many as fifteen times. Then turn the clothes down, just under the chin. This method gives wonderful results in even acute cases.

Method F. Directions for Bowel and Vaginal Irrigation.

Add ten drops to the warm water immediately before using a 4 pint douche. This thoroughly disinfects the lower bowel and thus greatly assists recovery. The same applies to vaginal douche.

Method G. Directions for Treatment of Neuritis.

First well massage with warm olive oil. Then immediately after with Olbas.

Method H. Directions for Application to Inflamed Tonsils, Boils, Open Wounds, etc.

Apply one or two drops of Olbas to the part with a clean camel's-hair brush. In the case of open wounds, paint only close round the wound, but not on the exposed interior.

Method J. Gargling.

Add 3 - 4 drops of Olbas to a small glass of cold or tepid water. First swallow half of this, in small sips. Use the remainder for gargling.

Method K. For Piles (External).

Seven drops of Olbas in $\frac{1}{2}$ pint warm water. Into this dip clean piece of white cotton cloth. Wring out lightly and bathe piles for a few minutes, gently pressing the warm cloth to aching spot.

OLBAS — THE UNSURPASSED NATURAL HOME REMEDY

Medical Evidence There are some remedies of which one knows beforehand that they will drop out of fashion sooner or later. I have now been using Olbas for some six years and my patients are full of praise for the magnificent results.

—Dr. H. Keller, Cademario, Switzerland.

Whatever may be the explanation of the therapeutical effects of the oil, they certainly do exist. What is more, often in such a surprising measure that one is nonplussed. Thus Olbas can be used in any complaint, effecting, in some cases by itself, a rapid recovery, or it can be used in conjunction with other healing methods and especially herbs, as it is capable of very quickly soothing aches and pains. It is, therefore, an ideal household remedy, which should be found in every family.

Unsolicited Evidence from Users of Olbas

Please send me two bottles of Olbas. I am using it freely for a friend who has a stiff neck and intercostal rheumatism. It is the only thing that touches it.

—N. S., High Wycombe, Dec. 28, 1943.

I am delighted with Olbas. Please send me two more flasks, as I find, after going from one remedy to another (previous to Olbas), that nothing equals it for indigestion and stomach troubles, also headaches.

—E. A. S., Taunton, Jan. 3, 1945.

Mrs. H—— has found Olbas the best remedy for sinus and antrum trouble from which she suffered for years and had a lot of treatment.

—Brighton, Jan. 23, 1946.

For over two months I have been suffering from laryngitis and no treatment would cure me. I started using Olbas, as prescribed, last Saturday, when I had no singing voice at all. At once I felt improvement and to-day, four days after, my singing voice is perfect. I need hardly tell you how delighted I am.

—C. W., Woodford, Nov. 6, 1946.

Olbas is giving me great relief from rheumatism and neuritis.

—M. A., Yeovil, July 2, 1947.

I have found your Olbas all that it says. I use it on many of my patients and they also cannot sing its praises too highly.

—A. R., Skewen, Aug. 1, 1947.

I have found Olbas a great help during attacks of asthma and feel I cannot be without it.

—W. H., Montrose, Dec. 26, 1947.

We all have had bad throaty colds. Olbas gave us great relief, particularly at night and I would like another bottle.

—D. B., Birmingham, Dec. 27, 1947.

I enclose a P.O. for another bottle of your wonderful Olbas. I have had great relief from pain by its use and thank you very much. I suffer from neuritis, especially in my eyes.

—M. I., Llanon, Jan. 10, 1948.

Miss H—— thanks Ashley & Co. for the wonderful Olbas, which she has found greatly helpful for bronchial and nasal catarrh. Olbas has helped where ordinary inhalations have failed.

—London, S.W.12, Dec. 9, 1948.

I would like to tell you that since I have been taking Olbas for sinus trouble, I have not had one headache, and I was getting very bad headaches.

—G. S., Bristol, Oct. 26, 1949.

I find Olbas equal to all the claims you make for it.—V. B., Kenton, Nov. 7, 1949.

I feel that I must write and tell you how excellent we find your product called Olbas. This is a large Girls' Boarding School and for several years now we have had Olbas in our surgery. We find that it keeps down colds and throat infections, and for burns of any kind it is quite miraculous.

—E. H., Headmistress, Wales, March 31, 1950.

I am a persistent sufferer from rheumatism and obtained great relief when taking Olbas. Of all the cures I have tried it is the only one which has given me relief from this wearying and excruciating pain.

—E. M. G., Herts, Feb. 8, 1953.

The use of your Healing Oil has helped me wonderfully in my old age and I am very grateful for the ease I am getting.

—A. C., Warrington, Nov. 9, 1955.

Your Olbas completely cured fibrositis in my husband's arm and shoulder.

—L.K., York, Feb. 2, 1956.

I cannot speak too highly of your Olbas Oil. It helps me with my bronchial asthma and rheumatism where all else fails.

—N. P., London, Nov. 29, 1956.

Please send me six bottles of Olbas Oil, we have had a fair amount of sickness recently, and have found it invaluable in every case.

—E. Y., Gateshead, Dec. 28, 1956.

I take this opportunity of paying tribute to Olbas. A friend recommended it to me over a year ago. Since then I have proved its worth and efficacy in every emergency. It is indeed an ideal household remedy.

—P. B., Dunfermline, April 4, 1957.
