snake in the spring grass

Neophryn with Antihistamine spray combines Neophryn (0.5%) with thenyldiamine hydrochloride (0.1%), an antihistamine with two to three times the activity of antazoline. In the recommended dosage Neophryn with Antihistamine gives highly effective relief without rebound congestion, C.N.S. stimulation or other unpleasant side effects, and is safe even for young children.

Ready to strike at any sensitive individual from May until late summer. Bite produces inflammation of the eyes and upper respiratory tract, often with severe nasal congestion. Best antidote for latter symptom—Neophryn with Antihistamine.

For safe relief of nasal congestion and local irritation in hay-fever and allergic rhinitis prescribe supplied in convenient plastic atomiser ( $\frac{1}{2}$  oz.).

Method of application:

The top of the atomiser should be inserted into the nostril and the bottle squeezed sharply twice, the patient breathing in simultaneously. Repeat for other nostril. This dosage may be repeated every three or four hours if necessary.

Basic N.H.S. cost: 2/8d.

Plain Neophryn (0.5%) is also available in spray form and as nasal drops (0.25%).

Basic N.H.S. cost: 2/4d.
