The Terrence Higgins Trust

OVER TEN YEARS AGO TERRENCE HIGGINS DIED WITH AIDS. His family and friends were deeply shocked at the ignorance and discrimination they encountered. They wanted to ensure all those subsequently affected, received all the care they needed.

Today, The Terrence Higgins Trust is the second largest charity fighting HIV and AIDS in the world.

1600 people, mainly volunteers, work tirelessly for the Trust – preventing further spread of HIV as well as providing counselling and practical help for those already affected and infected.

Buying these products means you are contributing to a charity whose resources, sadly, are increasingly called upon. An additional donation with your order would do so much to help.

The more you can give, the more we can help all those so desperately in need.
