Why test?

Having an HIV test and knowing the results allows you to make clear decisions about your life. If you are worried about HIV, having a test can give you peace of mind.

- Whether you are HIV positive or negative you can control and plan what to do next
- There will be no more stress of trying to guess your HIV status
- You can get information and support you need.

Waiting for an HIV test result can be a worrying time, so we run an HIV testing service that can give you your results in just 1 hour.

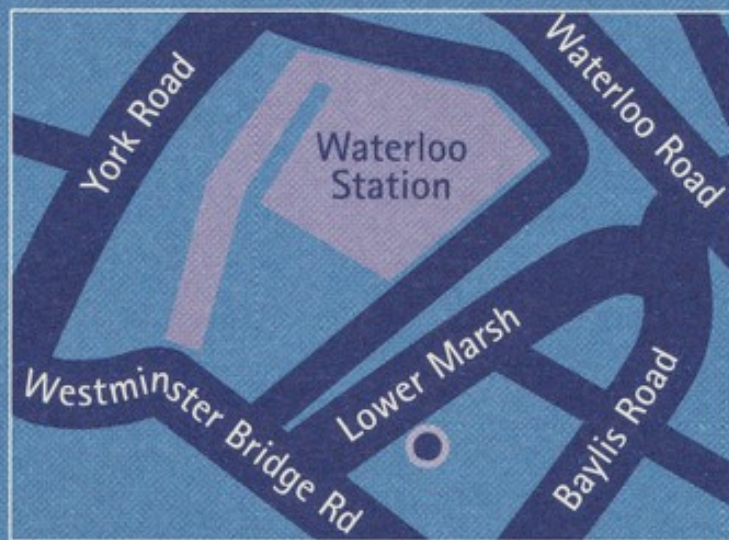

Tests are free and confidential for everyone. The clinics are run by trained health professionals with experience of providing counselling both before and after the test. No one else will know your test results unless you choose to tell them.

If the result is positive, we can help you get the support and advice you need from local services.

The service is offered on a 'first come, first served' basis. There is no need to book an appointment. The number of tests that we can do each day is limited, so it's worth arriving early to ensure that you can be seen.
