If he'd joined GMFA... ...he could have been running a bondage course.

You're in a room with twenty men. They've all got different opinions about sex and they're all looking to you for some quick-fix advice on safer sex. Are you going to jump in and start dishing out information or will you let them talk through their own situations to come up with their own solutions? All twenty of them? How are you going to do it?

GMFA's training corps is looking for men with natural communication skills, who are self-motivated and itching to pass on new skills to other gay men, in the greater London area.

We'll give you training, the confidence to stand in front of a group of strangers and the sense of achievement you get from making a difference.

The challenge is there. We're giving you the opportunity to fight back. But nothing will happen unless you've got the motivation and drive, so take the first step, and fill in the form on the back.

GMFA - READY TO TAKE YOU.
