Dear Caroline Akehurst

Some time ago you were kind enough to list the titles published by that time in our series Your Rights in the AIDS Era. As the series is now almost complete - the last title appears next month, I'm writing to you to beg another listing - this time for the full series: Testing, Discrimination at Work, Rights at Work, Wills, Power of Attorney, Homelessness, Security from Eviction, Benefits, Going into Hospital, Immigration, Acting as an Executor, Debts and Pensions, Insurance and Mortgages.

All are written by the principal solicitor at Immunity's Legal Centre, David Taylor, and all are at a mystifyingly complex structure of prices. I enclose a copy of the price list, which explains the pricing better than I could ever hope to.

I enclose a copy of each of the leaflets in the series - and of each of the three titles so far published in the Women and AIDS series, which we copublish with Positively Women and distribute.

The editorial matter in the Women and AIDS series is the work of Positively Women. As you'll see the titles out so far are: Prevention, Positive Result? - Look after Yourself and HIV and Pregnancy and Children. The fourth title in the series, Women Drugs and HIV, will appear later this month.

The pricing structure for Women and AIDS is the same as for Your Rights in the AIDS Era. I should be very grateful if you could give this series a mention, too.

Yours sincerely

Peter Holmes
