THE CHALLENGE OF AIDS

A Talk/Workshop with Arif Dyrud, B.A.Dip.Ed. D.S.H.

Tuesday 7th March 1989

The Evergreen Clinic of Homoeopathy

Up until now AIDS has been viewed as a disease mainly affecting the gay community and drug users but now we are beginning to see its steady rise among heterosexuals. Many of us already know someone with AIDS or HIV and a time may come when all of us will know someone affected by the disease. Thus, the impact of AIDS will be felt throughout the whole community.

It confronts us with many issues both as a community and as individuals. What can we do to protect ourselves? What are the facts about AIDS and HIV? How can we live side by side with someone who has been diagnosed as having AIDS? These are the kinds of questions which Arif will consider in the workshop.

Arif Dyrud is a Homoeopath and Psychotherapist currently training at the Terence Higgins Trust and treating people with AIDS and Aids related conditions.
