AIDS

YOUR QUESTIONS ANSWERED

FREE information service

Our comprehensive information service is available to the general public as well as specialist health professionals.

It is regularly used by nurses furthering their training, students with degree assignments and pupils carrying out projects at school, for whom a special factual booklet is available. Where appropriate, referrals to other relevant organisations are suggested.

Also free on request are recommended reading lists for various groups such as parents, teachers and young people.

These lists are drawn up from resources held in our own library, which also includes an extensive collection of videos, press cuttings, journals and materials on topics relating to HIV and AIDS. Visitors may use this collection for research by prior appointment.

Information enquiries are welcome by either post or telephone.

“What is the latest advice on breast feeding?”

“I’ve chosen AIDS for my project – please send me some information.”

“How many people are infected in the UK, how does this compare with Spain & Malawi?”

“Please send a copy of your leaflet on Nutrition & HIV Infection.”

“What books are available to help teachers of those with learning difficulties?”

To help answer your questions, contact the free Information Service at the address below.
