Granada

The gayness of colour the name invokes is captured in the petals of Granada—a bi-colour of the brightest hues, running the scale from nasturtium red to bright lemon yellow. The flowers are beautifully formed and are borne in abundance throughout the season. Fragrance rises from this riot of colour to satisfy the most exacting. Good for both bedding and cutting. With a decorative holly-like foliage and a lusty growth, it's small wonder that it gained the highest award in the American Rose Calendar, the All American Rose Selection for 1964. A most attractive emigrant from the United States of America. Available Autumn 1964.
