STERLING SILVER

this exciting modern rose with the old-fashioned fragrance originally came from America, but Harry Wheatcroft, the well-known British rose-grower, has done much to popularise it over here. Sterling Silver a hybrid tea-rose of an unusual shade of soft lilac pink, is often called the 'blue rose' of which it is the acknowledged forerunner. This study of Sterling Silver was painted for CIBA by Charles Raymond.

Prints of the rose, on enlarged mounts for framing, are available on request.
