INTRODUCTION.

BY WALTER LINDLEY, M.D., LL.D.

Editor of the Southern California Practitioner.

THIS work will for many years be a valuable book of reference. History in revealing the past becomes the guide board of the future. Read herein of the first meetings of the Los Angeles County Medical Association forty years ago, of the organization of the College of Medicine of the University of Southern California (now the Los Angeles Department of the College of Medicine of the University of California) more than a quarter of a century ago, the Salutatory in the first number of the Southern California Practitioner, published nearly twenty-five years ago, and you will gain an insight into the motives and ambitions that actuated the medical pioneers of Los Angeles and of Southern California.

These records make a most creditable showing.

For thirty-five years the writer of these lines has been a participant in the current medical history of Southern California and he is proud to see it collected and recorded in this permanent form.

There were some striking characters in the profession in Los Angeles thirty-five years ago. There was that impressive looking Irishman, Dr. Richard S. Den, who always rode a magnificent black horse groomed to glossy perfection. Dr. Den himself was invariably well groomed, being at all times dressed as though he were going to a wedding. But he never attended his own, and died at an advanced age a bachelor. Dr. Den never made a visit for less than twenty dollars.

Then there was Dr. John S. Griffin, a Southern gentleman, graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, who carried a brusque and somewhat forbidding mask to cover a tender, generous heart.

Another figure of those days was Dr. W. F. Edgar, a retired army surgeon of distinction. He was a delightful man, and commanded the respect of all who knew him. He bought a lot on Broadway, another on Main Street, another corner of Figueroa and Washington Streets and other realty, so that his widow—still living in Los Angeles—has a valuable estate.

Now and then in those early days there were in the profession those who evinced a spirit of the wild and breezy west. For instance, two physicians—still with us—who drew their “guns” on each other on Main Street near Temple Block. No blood was shed and their goreless duel did much to relieve the monotony of life.

Then there was in those days Dr. Joseph P. Widney, the ideal student, philosopher and kind practitioner.

Every young physician found in him a practical friend and wise counselor. Dr. Widney is a prophet and a seer. His great work, "Race Life of the Aryan Peoples," is an authority wherever the English language is read. Dr. Widney has a charming home in the suburbs on a street that bears the euphonic name of Marmion Way. The doctor is a profound lover of nature. His library windows command a beautiful view of the Sierra Madre Mountains. While he was away from home a church was built that cut off this view. This gave him great distress. He immediately, at his own expense, had the church torn down and rebuilt in another location. Today, as evening approaches, the doctor can sit in his library and feast his eyes and his soul on the fascinating shades and colors of the cañons, crags and peaks of our delectable mountains.

Dr. Joseph Kurtz was another stalwart figure in Los Angeles thirty-five years ago. He drove a good horse, rode in an excellent "buggy," and was always followed by his favorite bulldog. The doctor was then as ever considerate of the young physician. He was one of the founders of the Los Angeles Medical College (now U. C.), and has been a most efficient teacher there ever since.

April 8th, 1910, on the instructor's register at the college there was this entry:

"Joseph Kurtz
Good-bye to all."

For on that day this forceful teacher, beloved by all, retired from the work.

The younger physician who comes to Los Angeles from the East and from the North and the South should read these pages and by so doing he will gain a well merited respect for those who did the pioneer work.

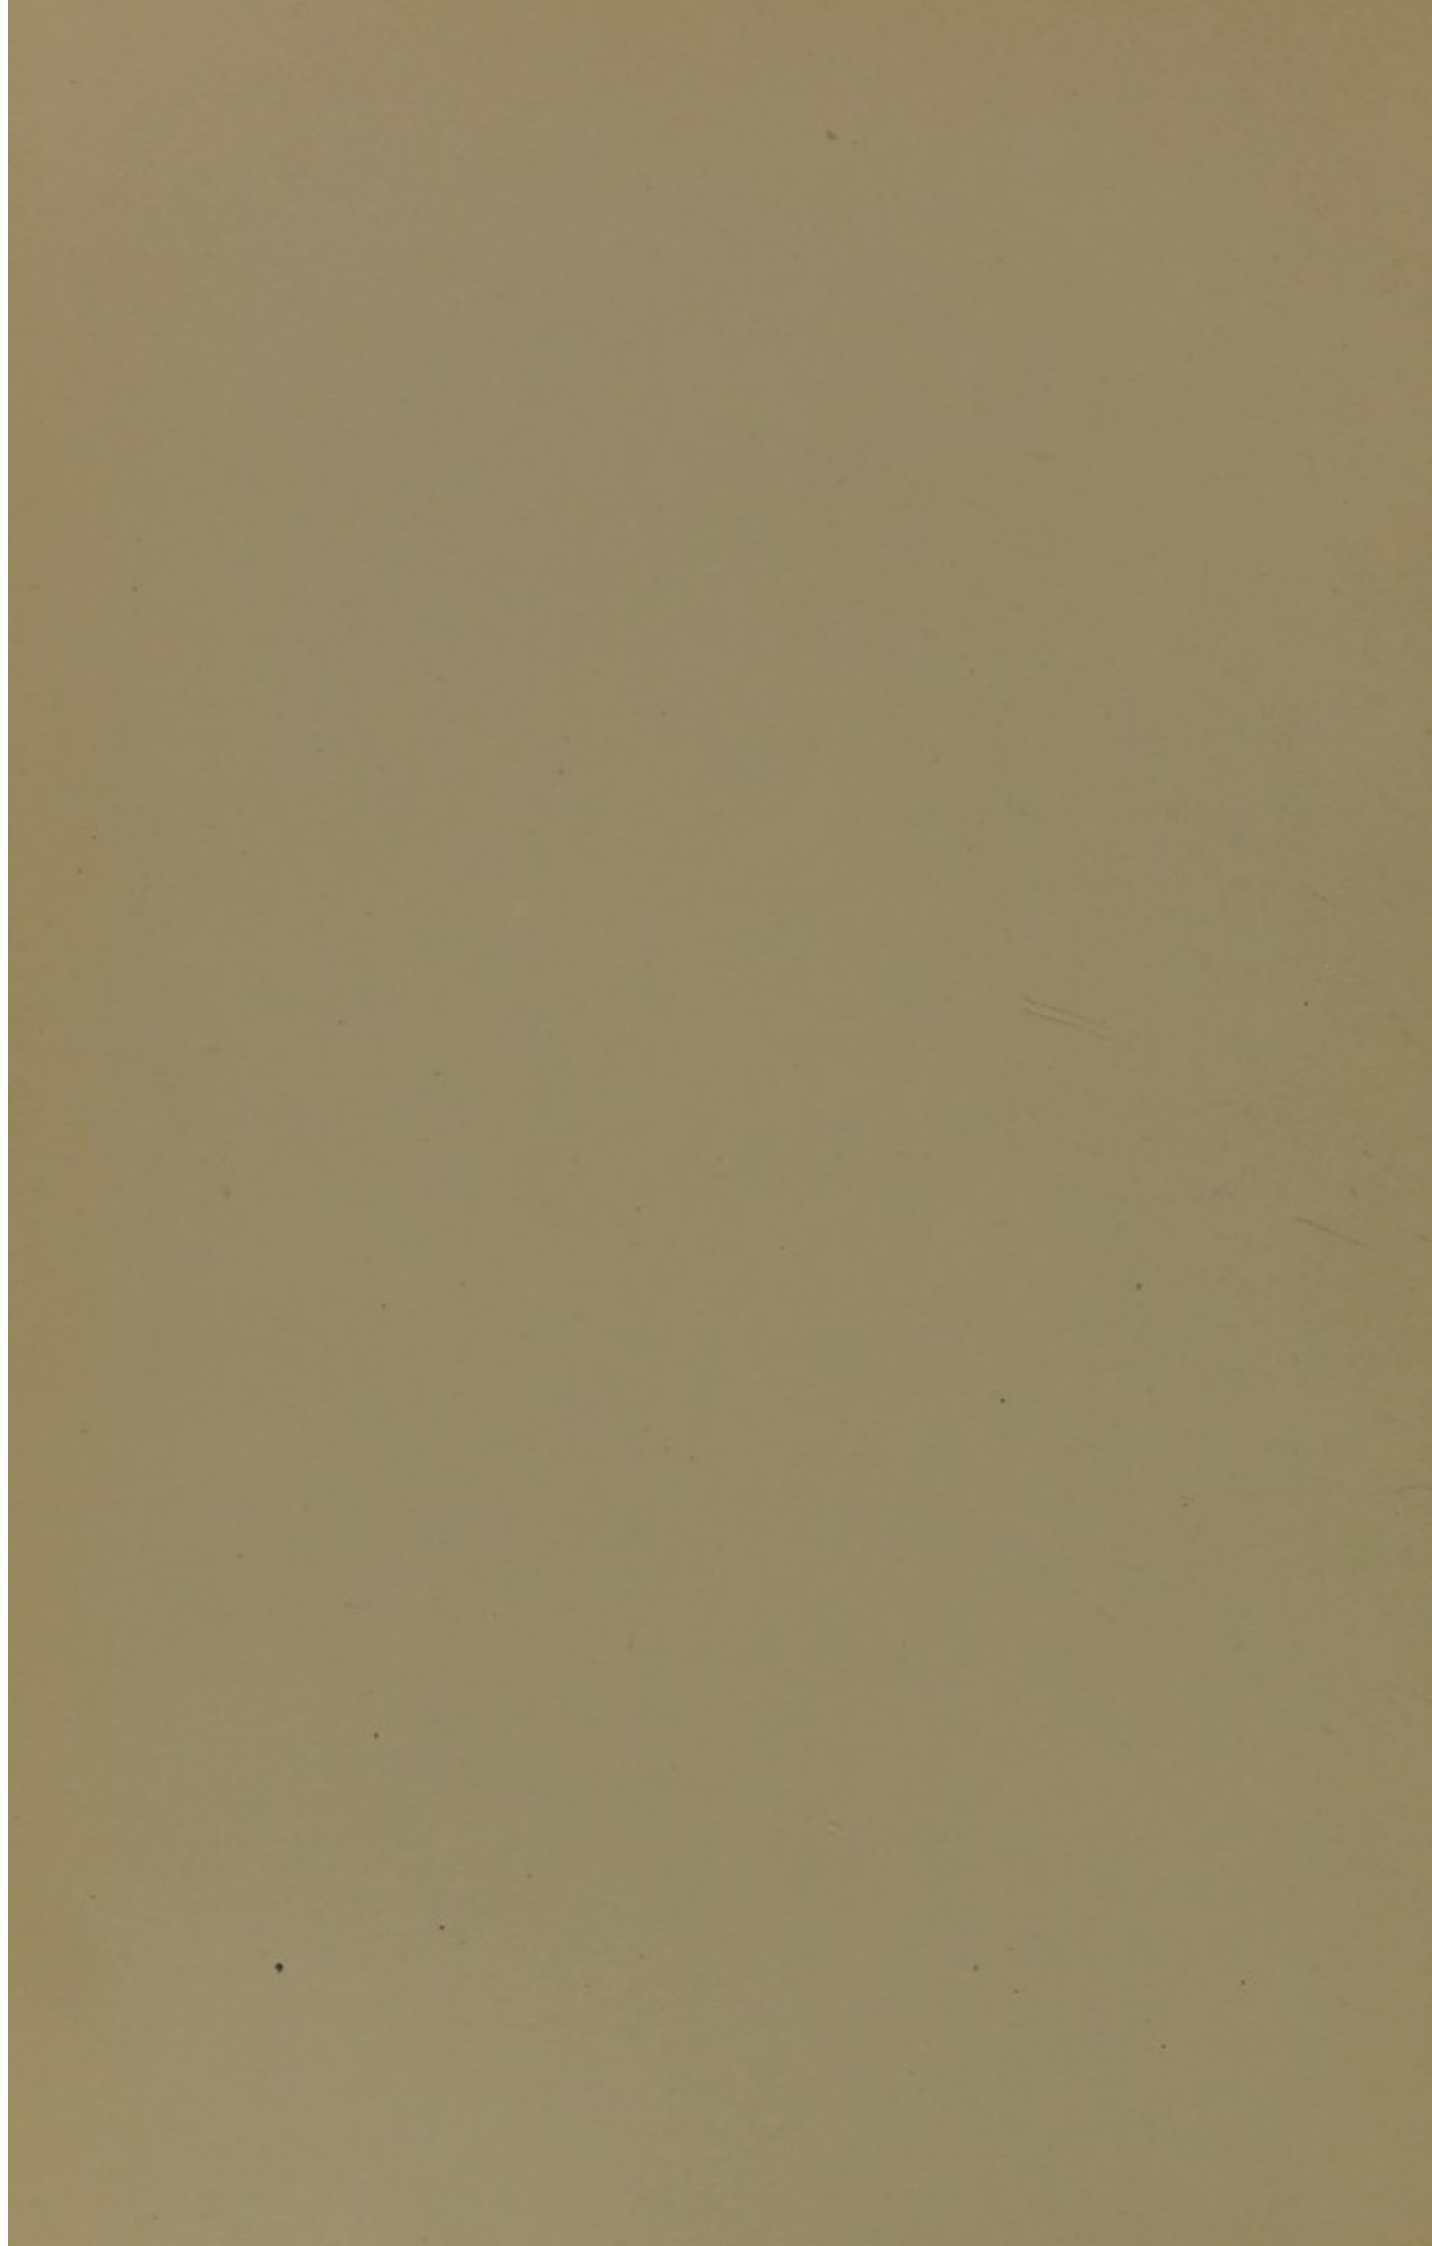

A history of medicine in Southern California would be incomplete without the mention of Dr. Francis L. Haynes, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, who on account of his health left a large practice in Philadelphia and came to Los Angeles in 1887. He was a genuine APOSTLE OF ASEPTIC SURGERY. For ten years he did brilliant work for the poor as well as the rich, and then death's hand was laid upon him. His surgical work attracted the favorable attention of the profession of the whole coast. He was indeed a genius.

Los Angeles is becoming an educational center. Its climate, fertility of soil, beauty of scenery and commercial prosperity are drawing a population that demands the best. In medicine there is an abundance of clinical material, and a large corps of excellent instructors, yet there must be, in addition, a scientific spirit that will overshadow the commercial spirit if the worthy college is to be developed. It is the hope that this modest little work will do something toward quickening the conscience and pointing the way.

THE MEDICAL PROFESSION IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

An Historical Sketch Compiled by GEORGE H. KRESS, B. S., M. D.

CHAPTER I.

GENERAL HISTORY.

LANDMARKS IN CALIFORNIA HISTORY.

In order to have some landmarks for the discussion of facts to be later considered it may not be amiss to present a brief summary of a few of the important events in the history of California.¹

California has fulfilled in unexpected ways the romantic fancies that were inspired by its name. When the great Cortez sent out his expeditions to explore the northwest coast of America he was fired with the hope of finding another and richer Mexico. What he did find was the bare and forbidding coast of Lower California. In derision, or perhaps with the hope of reanimating the flagging courage of his men—he gave the desolate land the name of California. It was already the name of romance. Montalvo, in his fanciful tale of "Sergas de Esplandian," published in 1510, tells that "on the right hand of the Indies there is an island called California, very near to the terrestrial paradise, which was peopled with black women without any men among them because they were accustomed to live after the fashion of Amazons. Their arms were all of gold, and so were the caparisons of the wild beasts they rode after having tamed them, for in all the island there is no other metal." So, in bitter jest at the contrast between his hopes and reality, Cortez christened the new land, and in due time California astonished the world with its stores of gold and the marvelous fertility of its soil.

The State of California is peculiar in its physical conditions as well as in its history. It stretches for 700 miles along the western coast of the continent, from the latitude of Cape Cod to the latitude of Charleston, S. C. On all that stretch there are few good harbors, yet the central harbor of San Francisco is one of the largest and finest in the world. The State is walled off from the rest of the continent by the range of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, running parallel to the coast 7,000 to 15,000 feet high. This configuration produces such modifications of climate that for the 600 miles from San Diego to Redding there is a substantial likeness of climate along north and south line. Snow and ice are practically unknown outside the mountain regions, rains fall in Winter and not in Summer, and fruits of the temperate and sub-tropical lands reach a high development.

The history of California is naturally divided into three eras—the Spanish, the Mexican and the American. The settlement of Upper California was begun under the Franciscan friars and the Spanish Government in 1769.

The missions of California were established by the Franciscans, who were given exclusive control of Lower California in 1767, when the Jesuits were expelled. Later the Dominicans supplanted the Franciscans in the peninsula, when the latter withdrew to Upper California, where they built missions and prospered until Mexico became independent of Spain in 1822. This change in governmental control was fatal to the Franciscans and their religious institutions, and they lost ground from year to year, until 1840, when they were obliged to disband and the missions were broken up. These establishments are still regarded with great interest as monuments of the devotion and zeal of their founders in the spread of their religion. Some of the mission buildings have fallen into ruin, some have passed out of the possession of the padres and several are still used as places of worship. The names of some of these missions, with dates of establishment, are as follows:

Name.	Founded.	Name.	Founded.
San Diego.....	July 16, 1769.	Santa Barbara.....	Dec. 4, 1786.

The Spanish era was that of mission government, the ecclesiastical overshadowing the civil government, but in later years gradually losing its hold. Mexico achieved its independence in 1822 and governed California as a Mexican Territory; the civil arm was strengthened; the missions were stripped of their authority and their lands given to settlers. The American period begins with the hoisting of the American flag at Monterey on the breaking out of the war with Mexico in 1846, followed by the discovery of gold in 1848, the rush of immigration, the admission of the State in 1850 and a rapid development of material resources. The Spanish and Mexican eras were pastoral in their character, the wealth of the inhabitants consisting largely in their herds of horses and cattle. Hides and tallow were the principal exports. In the American era mining was at first the great pursuit, and the product of gold rose rapidly to about $66,000,000 a year. The placers were then largely exhausted, and the gold product soon declined to a secondary interest. The great productiveness of the soil had meanwhile attracted the attention of the men who had come only to make a fortune and return to their homes, and the agricultural interests grew rapidly, until at the taking of the census of 1900 the farm products were reported at a total of $131,690,606. The gold product in the same year was $15,730,000, or a little under the average of the production of the past forty years.

A few of the interesting events in California's history are here enumerated:

1534—Fortuna Ximenes discovers the peninsula of California.

1535—Cortez lands at La Paz (May 3); attempts to establish a colony; names the country California.

1542—Cabrillo discovers Upper California.

1569—Drake lands near Point Reyes; names the country New Albion.

1769—Padre Junipero Serra and Gaspar de Portola found the first mission and permanent settlement of Upper California at San Diego. San Francisco Bay discovered by Portola.

1769-1822—Foundation of missions and presidios from San Diego to Sonoma.

1811—Russians establish stations at Fort Ross.

1822—California passes from the control of Spain to Mexico.

1834—Mission government abolished. Indians freed and major part of lands and stock divided among those theretofore subject to the missions. First printing press brought to California.

1835—Establishment of the village of Yerba Buena, which afterward grew to the city of San Francisco.

1836—California, under the lead of Alvarado, declares independence, under the name of "El Estado Libre y Soberano de la Alta California." Declaration lapses (1837), when Alvarado is appointed Governor of Alta California by the Mexican Government.

1842—Russians abandon Fort Ross and withdraw from California. Gold first discovered in California near Los Angeles; placers yield moderate returns for many years. Commodore Jones, in command of the frigate United States and the sloop of war Cyane, seizes Monterey (Oct. 20), in the belief that war had broken out between Mexico and the United States; later in the same day, being satisfied that the report was a mistake, withdraws, with apology.

1846—Fremont expedition reaches California with sixty-two men (January). "California Republic" declared by a band of American settlers under the leadership of W. B. Ide, and the bear flag raised at Sonoma (June 14-17). War between United States and Mexico; Commodore Sloat occupies Monterey (July 7) and raises the American flag over California; Commander Montgomery occupies Yerba Buena and the presidio of San Francisco; Commodore Stockton supersedes Sloat and, with Fremont, defeats and scatters the Californian and Mexican forces under Castro and Pico; General Kearny arrives from Santa Fé with United States forces and completes the subjugation of California; Kearny becomes Military Governor.

1848—Gold discovered at Coloma, on the American River, by Marshall (Jan. 19); prodigious yield of the metal causes great excitement and brings great immigration to California.

1849—General Bennet Riley, Military Governor, calls a constitutional convention to prepare for State government; convention elected (Aug. 1); meets at Colton Hall, Monterey (Sept. 1); finishes constitution (Oct. 13); instrument ratified by the voters (Nov. 13); Governor Riley turns civil government over to new government (Dec. 20).

1850—California admitted as a State of the Union (Sept. 9).

1849-1851—San Francisco swept by great fires.

1851—First Vigilance Committee organized (June).

1854-1855—Panic and commercial depression; many failures. San Francisco falls into hands of disorderly element.

1856—Vigilance Committee reorganizes (May 15), with W. T. Coleman, president; 1,500 enrolled first day, 4,000 later. Committee closes its business, parades 4,000 military (Aug. 18) and disbands forces.

1861—Floods in the Sacramento Valley do much damage (Nov. to Jan., 1862); Sacramento City inundated; loss estimated at $10,000,000.

1863-1865—Minor Indian war in Humboldt and Trinity counties; Indians reduced to subjection by militia.

1865—Earthquake shocks along the coast, from Petaluma to Santa Cruz (Oct. 8); damage $250,000.

1868—University of California founded by charter from the Legislature (March 23). Destructive earthquake on the Pacific Coast occurs (Oct. 21); central in the bay regions; many buildings in San Francisco suffer from cracked walls, falling chimneys, etc., five persons killed; damage $300,000. Severe shock follows on Oct. 23, but no damage done.

1869—Transcontinental railroad completed (May 10).

1871—Riot in Los Angeles, in which fifteen Chinese were hanged and six shot by a mob roused by the killing of a policeman by Highbinders.

1872—Heavy earthquake occurs along the line of the Sierra Nevadas, from Inyo to Alpine counties; the effects were felt to the ocean on the west, to Mexico on the south and far into Nevada on the east.

1873—Uprising of the Modoc Indians; Brigadier-General Canby and party murdered (April 11) while negotiating with them; vigorous pursuit through the lava beds by troops results in capture and surrender of Indians (June). First cable railroad built (Clay street, San Francisco).

1875—Bank of California suspends (Aug. 26); William C. Ralston drowned; bank reopens in September; commercial stringency follows.

1877—Commercial depression and many idle men. Anti-Chinese riots break out in various towns; serious riots in San Francisco (July). Vigilance Committee reorganized, puts down rioters and disbands. Workingmen's party formed. Anti-Chinese agitation continues during following years, becoming less violent after 1880.

1879—New Constitution adopted (May 7).

1882—Injunctions issued against discharging of débris from hydraulic mining into the Sacramento River and its branches.

1893—Hydraulic mining resumed under conditions prescribed by Congress.

1894—Midwinter International Exposition held in San Francisco (Jan. to June). Great strike on the railroads and all through travel stopped (July); strikers hold the Sacramento depot for several days. Strike broken (July 21), after inflicting great losses on fruit-growers through inability to ship crops.

1898—Bay region shaken by earthquake (March 30); Mare Island Navy Yard damaged $340,000 and city of Vallejo $50,000. San Francisco adopts new charter drawn by board of fifteen freeholders (ratified by Legislature, 1899; goes into force, January, 1900).

1899-1903—Enormous development of oil fields in Kern County, furnishing fuel oil in abundance.

1906—April 18, earthquake and fire at San Francisco.

The long Spanish domination in Southern California and its slow development until the arrival of the gold hunters to the north of the Tehachepi, played a powerful role in the history of the medical profession of the Southland. An inspection of the population figures of Los Angeles may be taken somewhat as an index of other Southern California sections and reveals at a glance why the "pioneers" of the medical profession of Southern California are few and far between.²

CLIMATE OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

The wonderful climate of Southern California has been the lodestone that has attracted a very large portion of the thousands of persons who have come to this greatly favored section of the United States. In connection with a discussion of the history of the medical profession of Southern California, it may not be amiss to present an account of the climate of Southern California and some of its advantages, written years ago by a special committee of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, on request of the Los Angeles Board of Trade.³ The report of the committee, which consisted of Doctors J. P. Widney, H. S. Orme and George W. Lasher, and which is later referred to in the historical sketch of the Los Angeles County Medical Association in the minutes of the meeting of November 7, 1874, reads as follows:

“The interest felt in the climatic features of this portion of California by people abroad and the heads of families especially, is perhaps paramount to all others. By those who, from their extended knowledge acquired both by study and practical experience in travel, are best qualified to judge, the climate of Southern California is pronounced the best in the world and alike beneficial to those in health, the invalid and those liable to become victims of hereditary diseases.

“While the climate of the whole State has many features in common, as the wet and dry seasons, instead of the eastern winter and summer, and the prevalence, during the summer or dry months, of the great northwest trade winds, sweeping steadily from the sea over the land, yet there are many points of divergence in different localities. This difference in climate is especially marked between Northern and Southern California. The mountain ranges and the valleys of all the northern portion of the State have a generally north-westerly trend, leaving the country open to the harsh sweep of the north winds. In Southern California, however, the trend of both mountains and valleys is from east to west, and the high Sierra, like a wall, shelters the land from these cold northerly currents. The result is a climate much milder and more equable than in the upper portion of the State. It might be supposed that the country lying in the same latitude as the Carolinas would have some oppressive and debilitating summer heat. From this it is saved, however, by the tempered westerly trade wind, which daily blows inward to the land, bringing with it the coolness of the sea. There is a peculiar stimulus in this air coming in from the thousands of miles of salt water. One has to live by the sea to understand it. The key of the climate lies in this, that it has a warm sun and cool air; hence the cool nights. One picks ripening figs and bananas grown in his own dooryard, and then goes to sleep under a blanket. The warm, yet not debilitating day, furnishes one of the requisites in a climate for invalids. The cool, restful night, with its possibility of refreshing sleep, furnishes the other. The question is asked daily in letters from the East what disease and what class of invalids may hope for benefit in coming to Southern California. In reply it might be stated:

“1st. Persons of delicate constitution, either inherited or acquired, and who resist poorly the extremes either of heat or cold—persons who need a warm, equable, yet rather bracing climate.

“2nd. Persons inheriting consumption, but in whom the disease has not yet developed, or only to a slight degree. Many such persons seem to throw off the tendency and remain strong and well. Even if parents, coming with the disease, do not in the end recover, their children, growing up in this climate, have a strong chance in their favor of eliminating the inherited tendency entirely from their blood and casting off the family taint.

“3rd. Persons well advanced in consumption are often temporarily benefited. Such persons should think well, however, before leaving the comforts of their own home and undertaking the fatigue of even a week of travel by railroad. It should not be done unless under the advice of the family physician, and if they do come it should be accompanied by friends. The despondency of loneliness and homesickness diminishes greatly the chance of benefit.

“4th. Persons suffering with bronchial troubles are often much benefited. Such cases, however, and indeed many others, too often make the mistake of remaining for weeks or months without seeking the advice of a physician as to the particular locality suited to their complaint. The varieties of climate in Southern California are many. Some portions of the county have nightly a heavy fog; other portions only a few miles away have no fog. Some sections are exposed to strong winds; others are sheltered. Some are low and damp; others high, warm and dry. Often persons go away disappointed, possibly worse, who, had they sought proper advice as to the especial locality suited to their complaint, might have received much benefit from their sojourn in the country. There are certain precautions, also, rendered necessary for invalids by the coming on of the cool night air after the warm day, and by the cool breeze from the sea, which can only be learned by experience, which to an invalid is a costly teacher, or from the advice of a physician familiar with the climate and the peculiarities of the different localities.

“5th. Those coming from malarious sections of the country, with systems depressed by the dregs of fever, are especially benefited. It is a common custom with the people here to go down to various pleasant points upon the sea coast and camp out for weeks upon the beach, enjoying the surf bathing. There are also well furnished and well kept hotels at different localities by the sea. This seaside life is especially beneficial to the persons suffering from the various complications of malarial poisoning.

“6th. The open-air life which is here possible, and the great variety of fresh vegetable foods to be had at all seasons, help to break up the dyspeptic troubles which make life a burden to so many overworked men.

“7th. Many persons suffering from asthma have derived much benefit from the climate. The capricious character of the malady—no two persons suited to the same surroundings—make it difficult to give advice in most countries to the sufferer, because of the limited range of elevation and climatic differences from which to choose. Here, however, within a circle of a hundred and fifty miles one may find spots below the sea level, at the sea level, or with an elevation of 10,000 feet above it; spots with nightly a heavy fog, and spots that never know the presence of a fog; places swept by an almost constant breeze, and others sheltered from all wind; the odors and gases of asphaltum and petroleum springs, or the air of the mountain pineries; the scent of the orange blossom, or the balsamic odor of the plants of the desert. Differences of elevation, which elsewhere one travels a thousand miles to find, here he finds within a radius of fifty miles.

"8th. Some cases of chronic rheumatism are benefited by the climate. Certain hot mineral springs and iron sulphur springs have gained quite a reputation in such affections. The climate of the coast line, however, has rather too much fog. Such cases do better in the portion of the country back from the sea and among the mountains. There are points along the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, as it crosses the Colorado Desert, where the hot, dry air, both night and day, and the warm springs for bathing, offer the very best climatic requisite for the relief of such affections.

"9th. Chronic kidney and bladder troubles find in the mild climate, with its possibility of constant outdoor life and the equable winter and summer temperature, the surroundings best suited to at least stay the course of the disease.

"10th. Cases of nervous prostration, and all the innumerable train of tormenting ills that come to an overtaxed or deranged nervous system, may hope for relief by a residence in some one of the many pleasant spots that dot the land. The warm, clear day tempts to the outdoor life, and the cool night gives the refreshing sleep so needed in this class of maladies. Strangers speak almost invariably of the restful slumber of the night.

"In conclusion, there are a number of facts which have an important bearing upon the subject of Southern California as a health resort, and yet are not in themselves directly questions of disease. Among these may be mentioned exemption from the epidemics of yellow fever, which visit the Gulf States; ease of access, the country being tapped in all directions by branches of the Southern Pacific Railroad. It is an agricultural and business center, with business openings for a largely increased population. It is the educational center of a large scope of territory, with its institutions of learning solidly established. It is well supplied with churches, and offers all the advantages of the best society. Food is abundant, varied and cheap, so that the expense of living is not great. And finally, it is not across the ocean or upon some foreign shore, where the invalid is an alien or a stranger, but within our own land, under our own flag, and among our own people."

CHAPTER II.

THE PIONEER PERIOD.

A FEE TABLE OF 1850.

Mr. H. D. Barrows of Los Angeles, whose contributions to the Southern California Historical Society have been so valuable, gives the following interesting account of some old papers, particularly a fee table of the year 1850, with remarks on some of the Los Angeles physicians of that period, whom he personally knew.⁴

"In turning over to the Historical Society the accompanying brief historical document, (which I lately received from Ex-Sheriff Wm. R. Rowland,) containing the signatures of four early physicians of Los Angeles, I have thought that some account of two of the signers whom I knew quite well, would be of interest to the members of our society.

"The document referred to, which Ex-Sheriff Rowland found among old papers of the Sheriff's office, was a public notice or "Aviso," of the scale of charges, (in Spanish,) by the doctors of that period, (January, 1850,) for their professional services, as follows:

"Dr. Guillermo B. Osbourn, one of the signers, who was a native of New York, came to California in 1847 in Col. Stevenson's regiment. He established the first drug store in Los Angeles in 1850, which was succeeded in '51 by that of McFarland and Downey. Daguerreotypes were first taken in Los Angeles by Dr. Osbourn and Moses Searles, on Aug. 9, 1851. In fact, Dr. Osbourn's versatility was something remarkable. It is not easy to recount all the official positions he filled, or the numerous important public functions he performed. In those early days immediately after the change of government, by means of his rare intellectual ability, together with his knowledge of the Spanish language, he made himself a very useful citizen in various capacities. When, as often happened in that period, an acquaintance with Spanish was a necessity, he often acted as Deputy Sheriff. In 1853 he was appointed Postmaster of this city by President Buchanan. In 1855 he projected the first artesian well in Southern California, at the foot of the hills not very far from the present junction of First street and Broadway. It reached a depth of about 800 feet in June, 1856, being still in blue clay, when it was abandoned for want of funds.

"In 1852 fruit grafts of improved varieties had been introduced by Mayor J. G. Nichols. In 1855 Dr. Osbourn imported from Rochester, a grand collection of roses and other choice shrubbery as well as many varieties of the best American fruit trees, which up to that time were almost unknown here. He was the first, too, in October, 1854, to ship East, fresh Los Angeles grapes, which were exhibited and commanded admiration at a meeting of the business committee of the New York Agricultural Society at Albany. And it is worthy of mention in this connection, that as late as November, 1856, when Matthew Keller sent a like specimen, it was almost doubted at the U. S. Patent Office, 'if such products were common in California.'

"Henry Osbourn, a son of the doctor by his first wife, was for years and until recently, an interpreter in our local courts. He lost his life through an accident not very long ago.

"Dr. Osbourn's second wife, who was a native Californian, is, I believe, still living in this city.

"Dr. Osbourn with all his versatility, was not always overscrupulous as to the means he sometimes employed in carrying out his schemes. He once recounted to me, without even a semblance of self-reproach, but on the contrary with a palpable chuckle because of his success, how he took an active part on a certain occasion in a political contest. Sometime in the early '50's, when an election was on for a State Senator, and San Bernardino was a part of Los Angeles county, he was exceedingly anxious to carry the precinct of Agua Mansa, which was mostly settled by Mexicans, who knew very little or no English. So he went to the Padre who had more influence in his parish than any other person, and used his most suave methods of electioneering with the Dominie in behalf of his candidate; and then to clinch the matter, he asked the Padre to pray for the repose of the soul of his mother—who was then alive and well in New York State. And on the next feast day the wily doctor was on hand at the church and on his knees, joining the Padre and his flock, in praying for the repose of his mother's soul. He added with just a shade of exultation, that his candidate was elected.

"Drs. Blackburn and Dodge, two other signers of the accompanying document, I was not acquainted with.

"Dr. Charles R. Cullen I knew intimately, as he was my room-mate for a considerable portion of the time, from my arrival in Los Angeles in 1854, till he left for his home in Virginia in the latter part of '56.

"Dr. Cullen was a native of Virginia and a graduate of Brown University. He and his brother John came to California soon after the discovery of the mines. The doctor was a cultivated and genial gentleman whom all who made his acquaintance, could not help liking. The Spanish-speaking portion of our community of that period were especially attached to him, both as a sympathetic friend and as a physician; and for years after he went away, I remember that if his name was mentioned in the presence of those native Californians who had made his acquaintance, they would invariably manifest pleasure at the recall of his memory and would exclaim: 'Ay Don Carlos! donde esta el?' or, 'Que buen hombre era!' or similar expressions of kindly feelings towards him.

"When the San Francisco Bulletin was established, Mr. C. O. Gerberding, (father of several persons of that name in California, and also, I believe, of Mrs. Senator Bard,) was the business manager, and James King of William was the brave and accomplished editor. Mr. Gerberding and Dr. Cullen had been old friends in Richmond, before they came to California; and as the management of the paper desired to have a permanent resident correspondent at Los Angeles, they entered into an agreement with Dr. Cullen to fill that position, paying him at the rate of ten dollars a column. Late in November, '56, Dr. Cullen concluded to return East, and stopping on his way at San Francisco, it appears he recommended me, without my knowledge, as his successor as correspondent of the Bulletin; and accordingly he wrote me at their request, asking me to keep up the correspondence, on the same terms, etc., which I did for several years thereafter, writing generally by each semi-monthly steamer, giving a general resumé of current events in Southern California. The doctor's letters, as were mine, were headed in the columns of the Bulletin—in small capitals: "Letter from Los Angeles"—"From Our Own Correspondent," and were signed "Observador." This signature, however, I soon dropped. My first letter was dated Dec. 6, 1856. I would like to add that in all my dealings with Mr. Gerberding, the business manager, I found him to be a thorough gentleman and a good friend.

"Before I had any connection with the paper, the assassination of James King of William had given the paper much prominence, and it had already become and it long remained the leading journal of the Pacific Coast. It was very ably edited ostensibly by a brother of James King of William, but in reality by Mr. James Nisbet, a Scotchman, one of the most industrious and the finest literary journalists whom I ever had any acquaintance with. Afterwards, Dr. Tuthill was associated with Mr. Nisbet and they made a very strong editorial team.

"In 1857 I made a trip East, and I went to Richmond to visit Dr. Cullen. I found his mother and sisters and also his uncle, the widely known and venerable Dr. Patrick Cullen, by whom I was very cordially welcomed. Dr. Charley Cullen was then located and practicing his profession near Hanover Court House, a very few years afterwards the locality of some terrific fighting in the great Civil War.

"In after years I kept up a more or less intermittent correspondence with the doctor, till his death several years ago.

"Dr. Cullen was a thoroughly conscientious man and a religious man—co-operating with Parson Bland, Rev. Mr. Brier and Woods as they came and made brief stays—in all sincerity, in which he differed widely from Dr. Osbourn, whose only church affiliation, so far as I knew, was that serio-comic episode at 'Agua Mansa.'

"When the late Dr. J. C. Fletcher first came to Los Angeles, Dr. Cullen wrote me asking me to hunt him up, which I did, and I found him to be a very cultivated and widely-traveled gentleman. He told me that he had resided for a lengthy period at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, where he had made the personal acquaintance of Don Pedro, the venerable Emperor of Brazil, and also that he had lived at Naples, Italy, 18 years.

"Dr. Cullen and Dr. Fletcher were classmates and graduates of Brown University."

SOME PIONEER PHYSICIANS.

And in an interesting account of pioneer physicians of Los Angeles by the same writer, most interesting sketches of Doctors John Marsh, Richard S. Den and John S. Griffin are given.

The first three educated physicians who practiced their profession in Los Angeles for longer or shorter periods, of whom we have any record, were:

Dr. John Marsh, who came here in January, 1836;

Dr. Richard S. Den, who arrived in California in 1843;

Dr. John S. Griffin, assistant surgeon, U.S.A., who arrived in 1846.

A brief account of each of these trained physicians and surgeons ought to be of interest to the present generation.

Dr. Marsh was a native of Massachusetts, and a graduate of Harvard College, and also of its medical school. He came to Los Angeles by way of Santa Fé. In the Archives of this city, Translations, Vol. 2, p. 113, (session of the Ayuntamiento or Town Council, of 18th February, 1836) the following record is found:

" . . . A petition from foreigner, Don Juan Marchet (John Marsh; the sound of sh at the ending of a word is unknown to the Spanish tongue;) a native of United States of the North, was read. He asks that this illustrious (honorable) Ayuntamiento consider him as having appeared, he declaring his intention of establishing (locating) in this city, and also that he is a physician and surgeon. The Ill. Ayuntamiento decided, in conformity with the law of April 14, 1828, Art. 3, as follows: Record and forward the certified copy, solicited, reminding said Marchet (Marsh) that he cannot practice surgery until he has obtained permission from the Ayuntamiento." . . . (Minutes of this meeting were signed:) "Manuel Requena, Pres.; Tiburcio Tapia, Rafael Guirado, Sasilio Valdez, José Ma. Herrera, Abel Stearns, Narcisco Botello." (Each with his proper Rubric attached.)

At page 117 of Archives (session of 25th February, 1836,) this minute occurs: . . . "A petition from Mr. Juan Marchet (Marsh) asking to be permitted to practice his profession, was read. The Ill. Body decided to give him permission to practice medicine, as he has submitted for inspection his diploma, which was found to be correct, and also for the reason that he would be very useful to the community."

His diploma being in Latin, it is said that, as no one could be found in Los Angeles who understood that language, the document had to be sent to San Gabriel for the Mission priest to translate, and which, as noted, was found correct.

He entered upon the practice of his profession, but as money was an almost unknown quantity in the old pueblo, he had to take his fees in horses, cattle and hides, a currency exceedingly inconvenient to carry around. So early in 1837 he abandoned the practice of medicine, quitted Los Angeles and went up north to find a cattle range. Yerba Buena, now San Francisco, at the time the letter was written, contained two houses. He located on the Rancho Los Medanos, near Monte Diablo, where he lived until he was murdered by a Mexican in 1856. A letter written by him descriptive of California, and published in a Missouri paper in 1840, was instrumental in causing the organization in the spring of 1841 of the first immigrant train that crossed the plains to California.

YERBA BUENA, March 27, 1837.

J. M. GUINN:

DEAR SIR:—I have been wandering about the country for several weeks and gradually becoming acquainted both with it and its inhabitants. This is the best part of the country, as you very well know, and is in fact the only part that is at all adapted to agriculturists from our country. Nothing more is wanted but just and equal laws and a government—yes, any government that can be permanent and combine the confidence and good will of those who think. I have good hope, but not unmixed with doubt and apprehension. News has just arrived that an army from Sonora is on its march for the conquest and plunder of California. Its force is variously stated from two to 600 men. This, of course, keeps everything in a foment.

I have had a choice of two districts of land offered to me, and in a few days I shall take one or the other. A brig of the H. B. Co. (Hudson Bay Co.) is here from the Columbia with Capt. Young (who has come to buy cattle) and other gentlemen of the company. I have been at the headwaters of the Sacramento and met with near a hundred people from the Columbia; in fact, they and the people here regard each other as neighbors. Indeed, a kinder spirit exists here and less of prejudice and distrust to foreigners than in the purlieus of the City of Angels.

It is my intention to undergo the ceremony of baptism in a few days, and shall shortly need the certificate of my application for letters of naturalization. My application was made to the Most Illustrious Council of the City of Angels, I think in the month of January, last year (1836). I wish you would do me the favor to obtain a certificate in the requisite form and direct it to me at Monterey to the care of Mr. Spence. Mr. Spear is about to remove to this place. Capt. Steele's ship has been damaged and is undergoing repairs, which will soon be completed. His barque is also here. I expect to be in the Angelic City some time in May.

Please give my respects to Messrs. Warner and William M. Prior and all "enquiring friends."

Very respectfully,

Your ob't servant,

JOHN MARSH.

Dr. R. S. Den was born in Ireland in 1821. After receiving a thorough education as a physician, surgeon and obstetrician, he was appointed surgeon of a passenger ship bound for Australia in 1842. From thence he came via Valparaiso to Mazatlan, where he received with delight news from his brother, Nicolas, from whom he had not heard for some years, and who was then living at Santa Barbara. Resigning his position as surgeon, he came to California, arriving at San Pedro August 21, and at Santa Barbara September 1, 1843, at the age of 22 years.

In the winter of 1843-4, Dr. Den was called to Los Angeles to perform some difficult surgical operations, when he received a petition, signed by leading citizens, both native and foreign, asking him to remain and practice his profession. And so, in July, 1844, he returned to Los Angeles. From that time on, till his death in 1895, he made his home here, with the exception of a brief period in the mines, and about twelve years, from 1854 to 1866, in which he had to look after the interests of his stock rancho of San Marcos, in Santa Barbara county.

A much fuller account of Dr. Den and his long and honorable career in Southern California during the pioneer times, may be found in the "Illustrated History of Los Angeles County," published in 1889, pp. 197-200, which also contains a steel engraving and good likeness of Dr. Den.

In the Medical Directory of 1878 the following paragraph appears: "It is of record that Dr. R. S. Den, in obedience to the laws of Mexico relating to foreigners, did present his diplomas as physician and surgeon to the government of the country, March 14, 1844, and that he received special license to practice from said government." The document here referred to, Dr. Den, in the latter years of his life, showed to me. It was signed by Gov. Micheltorena; and, as it was an interesting historical document, I asked that he present it to the Historical Society, which he promised to do. At his death, I took considerable pains to have the paper hunted up, but without success. His heirs (the children of his brother Nicolas) apparently had but little idea of the historical value of such a document, and therefore it probably has been lost.

Dr. John S. Griffin, who for nearly half a century was an eminent citizen, and an eminent physician and surgeon of Los Angeles, was a native of Virginia, born in 1816, and a graduate of the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania. After practicing his profession some three years in Louisville, he entered the United States army as assistant surgeon, serving under Gen. Worth in Florida and on the southwest frontier. As I presented the Historical Society a condensed sketch of Dr. Griffin's life on the occasion of his death, three years ago (published in the society's Annual of 1898, pp. 183-5,) I would here refer members to that sketch; and for further details, to the account that I wrote, taken down mainly from his own lips, for the Illustrated History of this county of 1889, pp. 206-7, which latter is accompanied by an excellent stipple steel portrait of Dr. Griffin. There are many citizens of Los Angeles and, in fact, of California, still living who knew Dr. Griffin well and esteemed him highly. His death occurred in this city, August 23, 1898.

Of other physicians and surgeons who practiced their profession in Los Angeles in early times, there were Doctors A. P. Hodges, the first Mayor of the city (July 3, 1850, to May 15, 1851;) and A. W. Hope, who was the first State Senator (1850-51,) of the First Senatorial District (San Diego and Los Angeles;) and Doctors McFarlane, Downey (afterwards Governor of the State;) Thos. Foster, T. J. White, R. T. Hayes, Winston, Cullen, etc.; and during the fifties and sixties and later, many others too numerous to mention, within the limits and scope of this brief paper.

Mr. Barrow's friend, Mr. Moulton, who came to Los Angeles in 1845, informed him that he knew two other doctors, who practiced here for a short time between '45 and '49; one of them a Frenchman, who went to San Diego with Dr. Griffin to assist him in treating the wounded soldiers, and who, Dr. Griffin said, was a first-class surgeon; and an American named Keefe. The Frenchman's name has been forgotten.

From "California Pamphlets," on page 42 of the Centennial History, we excerpt the following item, which is of interest in connection with the above:

For physicians, 1850 has Wm. B. Osborne, A. P. Hodges, W. W. Jones, A. W. Hope and Overstreet; in 1851, John Brinckerhoff, Thomas Foster and James P. McFarland; in 1852, James B. Winston, and others. Dr. John S. Griffin returned to reside here in August, 1854. Dr. Richard S. Den was a physician esteemed highly, prior to 1843. Dr. Osborne was a native of New York, came to California in 1847, in Col. Stevenson's regiment. He put up the first drug store in 1850, which was followed by that of McFarland and Downey in 1851. Our first daguerreotypes were taken by him and Moses Searles, August 9th, 1851. He often acted as Deputy Sheriff—impossible to recount his various functions; a most useful man anywhere—friendly among his neighbors, of intelligence and public spirit. He was the projector of the famed artesian well near the hills on the west side of the city. It reached the depth of 780 feet June 7th, 1856, but was abandoned by the company for want of funds. In 1852, fruit grafts had been introduced from New York by J. G. Nichols. In 1855 Dr. O. imported from Rochester a grand collection of roses and other choice shrubbery, as well as fruit trees. He was the first, too, in October, 1854, to ship fresh Los Angeles grapes, which were exhibited with admiration at a meeting of the business committee of the New York Agricultural Society at Albany. As late as November 17th, 1856, when Matthew Keller sent a like specimen, it was almost doubted at the U. S. Patent Office—"if such products are common in California." The third drug store was that of A. W. Hope, September, 1854; the fourth of Dr. Henry R. Myles, in 1860; then Winston & Welch—Dr. James C. Welch; then Dr. Theodore Wollweber, 1863. The first dentist was J. W. Gaylord. Dr. J. C. Welch died August 1st, 1869; he was a native of South Carolina. Dr. Hope was born in Virginia; died in the year 1855.

AN ECCENTRIC CHARACTER OF EARLY LOS ANGELES.

On page 273 of the publications of the Historical Society of California is an account of some eccentric characters of early Los Angeles, one of whom, named William Money, among numerous other accomplishments, was also a "doctor" and an author of a medical work as well. Particular attention is called to his statement published in a newspaper of Los Angeles in 1855 that his book, "The California Family Medical Instructor," contained a list of five thousand patients who had been under his care, of whom only four to his knowledge died while under his treatment—a statement sufficiently suspicious to make one think him related to some of the originators of modern-day isms. The sketch to which we refer gives the following account of his very interesting career:

The early years in the history of the new towns of the West were productive of eccentric characters—men who drifted in from older civilizations and made a name for themselves or rather, as it frequently happened, had a name made for them by their fellow men.

These local celebrities gained notoriety in their new homes by their oddities, by their fads, their crankiness, or some other characteristic that made them the subject of remark. With some the eccentricity was natural; with others it was cultivated, and yet again with others force of circumstances or some event not of their own choosing made them cranks or oddities, and gave them nicknames that stuck to them closer than a brother.

No country in the world was more productive of quaint characters and odd geniuses than the mining camps of early California. A man's history began with his advent in the camp. His past was wiped out—was ancient history, not worth making a note of. What is he now? What is he good for? were the vital questions. Even his name was sometimes wiped out, and he was rechristened—given some cognomen entirely foreign to his well-known characteristics. It was the Irony of Fate that stood sponsor at his baptism. "Pious Pete" was the most profane man in the camp, and Pete was not his front name. His profanity was so profuse, so impressive, that it seemed an invocation, almost a prayer.

There was another class of eccentricities in the cities and towns of California where life was less strenuous than in the mining camps. These were men with whims or fads sometimes sensible, sometimes half-insane, to which they devoted themselves until they became noted as notorious cranks.

San Francisco had its Philosopher Pickett, its Emperor Norton and a host of others of like ilk. Los Angeles had representatives of this class in its early days, but unfortunately the memory of but few of them has been salted down in the brine of history.

In delving recently among the rubbish of the past for scraps of history, I came across a review of the first book printed in Los Angeles—the name of the book, its author and its publisher. But for that review, these would have been lost to fame.

It is not probable that a copy of the book exists, and possibly no reader of that book is alive today—not that the book was fatal to its readers; it had very few—but the readers were fatal to the book; they did not preserve it. That book was the product of an eccentric character. Some of you knew him. His name was William Money, but he preferred to have the accent placed on the last syllable, and was known as "Money." Bancroft says of him: "Scotchman, the date and manner of whose coming are not known, was at Los Angeles in 1843." I find from the old archives he was here as early as 1841. In the winter of 1841-42 he made repairs on the Plaza Church to the amount of $126.00. Bancroft, in his Pioneer Register, states: "He is said to have come as the servant of a scientific man, whose methods and ideas he adopted. His wife was a handsome Sonorena. In '46 the couple started for Sonora with Coronel, and were captured by Kearney's force. They returned from the Colorado with the Mormon battalion. Money became an eccentric doctor, artist and philosopher at San Gabriel, where his house, in 1880, was filled with ponderous tomes of his writings, and on the simple condition of buying $1000 worth of these I was offered his pioneer reminiscences. He died a few years later. His wife, long divorced from him, married a Frenchman. She was also living at Los Angeles in '80. It was her daughter who killed Chico Forster."

Bancroft fails to enumerate all of Money's titles. He was variously called Professor Money, Dr. Money and Bishop Money. He was a self-constituted doctor, and a self-anointed bishop. He aspired to found a great religious sect. He made his own creed and ordained himself Bishop, Deacon and Defender of the Reformed New Testament Church of the Faith of Jesus Christ. Dr. Money had the inherent love of a Scotchman for theological discussion. He was always ready to attack a religious dogma or assail a creed. When not discussing theological questions or practicing medicines, he dabbled in science and made discoveries.

In Book II of Miscel. Records of L. A. County, recorded Sept. 18, 1872, is a map or picture of a globe labeled "Wm. Money's Discovery of the Ocean. Around the North Pole are a number of convolving lines which purport to represent a "whirling ocean." Passing down from the north pole to the south, like the vertebrae of a great fish, is a subterranean ocean. Beyond this on each side are the exhaustless fiery regions, and outside of this a rocky mountain chain that evidently keeps the earth from bursting. At the South Pole gush out two currents a mile wide marked Kuro Siwo. There is no explanation of the discovery and no statement of which ocean, the whirling or the subterranean, that Dr. Money claimed to have discovered. The record was made, no doubt, on the principle of protecting his discovery by a sort of patent right on the ocean he found swirling around in the interior of the earth. The theory of his discovery can only be inferred from the drawing. Evidently a hole at the North Pole sucks in the waters of the whirling ocean, which pass down through the subterranean ocean and are heated by the exhaustless fiery regions which border that ocean; then these heated waters are spurted out into space at the South Pole. What becomes of them afterwards the records do not show. From some cause Dr. Money disliked the people of San Francisco. In his scientific researches he made the discovery that that part of the earth's crust on which that city stands was almost burnt through, and he prophesied that the crust would soon break and the City of the Bay would drop down into the exhaustless fiery regions and be wiped out like Sodom and Gomorrah of old!

The review of Dr. Money's book, which I have mentioned, was written by the genial Col. John O. Wheeler, then editor of the Southern Californian, a paper that died and was buried in the journalistic graveyard of unmet wants, forty-eight years ago. Col. Wheeler was a walking library of local history. He could tell a story well and had a fund of humorous ones, but I could never persuade him to write out his reminiscences for publication. He died, and his stories of the olden times died with him, just as so many of the old pioneers will do, die and leave no record behind them.

Dr. Money's book was written and published in 1854. Colonel Wheeler's review is quite lengthy, filling nearly two columns of the Californian. I omit a considerable portion of it. The review says: "We are in luck this week, having been the recipients of a very interesting literary production entitled 'Reform of the New Testament Church,' by Wm. Money, Bishop, Deacon and Defender of the Faith of Jesus Christ.

“The volume by Professor Money comes to us bound in the beautiful coloring so much admired by the Woman in Scarlet who sits upon seven hills, and is finely gotten up and executed at the Star office in this city. Its title denotes the general objects of the work which have been followed out in the peculiar style of the well-known author, and in the emphatic language of the Council General, Upper California, City of Los Angeles, we pronounce it a work worthy of all dignified admiration, a reform which ecclesiastics and civil authorities have not been able to comply with yet.”

The work opens with an original letter from the aforesaid Council General, which met August the 7th, 1854, near the main zanja in this city; said letter was indited, signed, sealed “by supplication of the small flock of Jesus Christ” represented by Ramon Tirado, president, and Francis Contreras, secretary, and directed with many tears to the great defender of the new faith, who, amid the quiet retreats with which the rural districts abound, had pensively dwelt on the noble objects of his mission, and, in fastings and prayer, concocted, this great work of his life.

“The venerable prelate, in an elaborate prefix to his work, informs the public that he was born, to the best of his recollection, about the year 1807, from which time up to the anniversary of his seventh year, his mother brought him up by hand. He says, by a singular circumstance (the particular circumstance is not mentioned) I was born with four teeth, and with the likeness of a rainbow in my right eye.”

It would seem that his early youth was marked by more than ordinary capacity, as we find him at seven entering upon the study of natural history; how far he proceeded, or if he proceeded at all, is left for his readers to determine. At the age of twelve, poverty compelled him to “bind himself to a paper factory.” Next year, being then thirteen years of age, having made a raise, he commenced the studies of philosophy, civil law, medicine, relation of cause and effect, philosophy of sound in a conch shell, peculiar habits of the muskrat, and the component parts of Swain’s vermifuge. Thirsting for still further knowledge, four years afterwards we find him entering upon the study of theology; and he says, “In this year (1829) I commenced my travels in foreign countries,” and the succeeding year found him upon the shores of the United States, indefatigable in body and mind; the closing of the same year found him in Mexico, still following the sciences above mentioned, but theology in particular.

About this time he commenced those powerful discussions with the Romish clergy in which our author launched forth against the Old Church those terrible denunciations as effective as they were unanswerable, and which for thirty years he has been hurling against her.

Perhaps the most memorable of all his efforts was the occasion of the last arguments had with the Roman clergy concerning abuses which came off in the Council of Pitaquitos, a small town in Sonora, commencing on the 20th of October, 1835, and which continued to May 1st, 1840, a period of five years. This convocation had consumed much time in its preparation, and the clergy, aware of the powerful foe with whom they had to deal, and probable great length of time which would elapse, selected their most mighty champions; men who in addition to a glib tongue and subtle imagination, were celebrated for their wonderful powers of endurance. There were seven skilled disputants arrayed against Money, but he vanquished them single-handed.

“The discussion opened on the following propositions: The Bishop of Culiacan and he of Durango disputed that Wm. Money believed that the Virgin Mary was the mother of Jesus, but not the mother of Christ. William Money makes his application to God, but not to the Virgin Mary.”

These and other learned propositions were discussed and re-discussed constantly for five years, during which writing paper arose to such an enormous price that special enactments were made, withdrawing the duties thereon. Time would not admit of detailing the shadow of what transpired during the session.

Suffice it to say that through the indomitable faith and energy of Mr. Money, his seven opponents were entirely overcome; one sickened early in the second year and was constrained to take a voyage by sea; two others died of hemorrhage of the lungs; one went crazy; two became converted and left the council in the year 1838 and were found by Mr. Money on the breaking up of the council to have entered into connubial bonds, and were in the enjoyment of perfect happiness. The other two strenuously held out to the year 1840, when, exhausted, sick and dismayed, the council, in the language of the author, was broken up by offering me money to give up my sword, the Word of God, but I protested, saying, "God keep me from such treacherous men, and from becoming a traitor to my God."

Thus ended this famous disputation of which history furnishes no parallel. From the foregoing our readers can form an idea of this great work. It forms a volume of twenty-two pages, printed in English and Spanish, with notes, etc.; price not yet determined. We would advise all to procure a copy, as there being no stereotype edition, the present few numbers will end the supply.

This strenuous review brought forth a vigorous protest from Dr. Money, and in the Star, over his many titles—Bishop, Deacon and Defender of the Faith—he challenged the editor to a discussion, but, warned by the fate of the friars at Pitaquitos, the genial colonel declined the combat.

Dr. Money seems to have considered his call to preach paramount to his call to practice. In a card to the public, published in the Star of November 3, 1855, he says: "I am sorry to inform the public that since the Reformed New Testament Church has unanimously conferred on me the office of Bishop, Deacon and Defender of the Faith of said apostolic church, it is at present inconvenient for me any longer to practice my physical system. My California Family Medical Instructor is now ready for the press, containing my three physical systems, in about 200 pages and 50 plates of the human body. It will likewise contain a list of about five thousand patients that I have had under my physical treatment in the course of fifteen years' practice, from the port of San Diego to that of San Francisco. Out of this large number only four, to my knowledge, have died while under my treatment. I do not publish this for the purpose of getting into practice, but only to get out of it."

His Family Medical Instructor was probably the second book written in Los Angeles, but whether it was ever published I cannot say. Some twenty-five years ago, when the Public Library was in the old Downey Block, he had on file in it a set of plates of the human body. They long since have disappeared. He removed to San Gabriel, where he lived in a curiously constructed adobe house. He died in 1890, at San Gabriel. His books and papers were lost.

CHAPTER III.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT OF LOS ANGELES.

Of interest as showing the wonderful advancement in methods, due to the almost marvelous increase in population and material development of the last several decades in Southern California, should be a resumé of the growth of the Health Department of the city of Los Angeles. From an admirable historical sketch in the annual report of Dr. L. M. Powers for 1904, we have gathered the following facts:

The first record we find referring to the sanitation of the City of Los Angeles is as follows:

To the Honorable Town Councils

It being one of the principal duties of any municipal body when it sees that an epidemic begins to attack the community, to enforce cleanliness, fumigation and similar measures, I respectfully suggest that you instruct the Syndic to spend three or four dollars in causing all the heads and remains of cattle as well as the dead animals that can be found, to be gathered into a heap in the borders of the town and set on fire at the hour of six in the evening, to be thoroughly consumed and the air purified. Also that you admonish the people to keep their premises clean and sweep in front of their houses and on no condition to throw any garbage, filth or offal of the cattle they slaughter in the streets. Also that the work on the zanja be pushed to an early completion, because our citizens who live further below are suffering greatly for lack of water, which is also one of the causes why the epidemic lasts so long. In making these recommendations, I beg of you to give them your immediate consideration.

Los Angeles, March 27, 1847.

Signed: JULIAN CHAVEZ.

Los Angeles, March 29, 1847. The foregoing proposition having been submitted to the Honorable Town Council, at its meeting held today, it was resolved that the Syndic be authorized and instructed to make the expenditure as suggested for the purpose of cleaning the city.

JOSE SOLAZAR,
Ygnacia Coronel, Secretary.

Again we find in city records for July 27, 1850, a resolution of the Common Council declaring it the duty of the police to attend to everything touching the comfort, health and adornment of the City. On August 8, 1850, under police regulations we find the following:

Article 6. On Saturdays every householder shall clean the front of his premises up to the middle of the street, or for the space of at least eight varas.

Article 7. No filth shall be thrown into zanjias, carrying water for common use, nor into the streets of the City.

On April 2, 1853, the City Council passed an ordinance concerning the making of bread, requiring the use of good and wholesome flour, and uniform size of the loaves, etc.

On February 28, 1855, the Common Council passed an ordinance regulating the conduction of a city slaughter house or corral and requiring a monthly fee or rental for the use of the same and the disposal of the offal in such a manner as not to be offensive. Also created the office of stock and meat inspector, who was to give a bond of $500.00 and to receive fees for inspecting stock as follows: For neat cattle, 50 cents per head, and for sheep, goats and hogs, each 75 cents.

In 1868, when the county hospital was only in name and the Sisters of Charity were paid per capita for the care of the indigent sick, and the police force consisted of the Town Marshal and one policeman, and the board of health, the Mayor and two councilmen, appointed by the president of the Council, an epidemic of smallpox occurred and Dr. H. S. Orme was appointed health officer at a salary of $10.00 per day, to care for smallpox patients and look after the sanitary conditions of the City.

In July, 1868, the main building now existing in Chavez Ravine and known as the pest house, was built jointly by the City and County, for a smallpox hospital. Smallpox was quite prevalent, many cases occurred among the Indians who were employed to pick grapes in the city and vicinity. These Indians when first attacked with the fever would often plunge into the zanja or river, and then lie around the banks until they were picked up in a critical condition or perhaps dead. The mortality during this epidemic was great. The Sisters of Charity with self-sacrifice and regardless of their health, rendered most faithful and efficient service during this epidemic. Vaccination was enforced as thoroughly as possible and the disease was ere long eradicated.

In 1869 Dr. Orme resigned. Here is the following resolution:

Mayor's Office, City of Los Angeles, June 30, 1869.

Dr. H. S. Orme:

SIR:—I am instructed by the Board of Health of the City of Los Angeles to return to you from the Board of Health, their warmest thanks for the efficient manner in which you discharged your duties as Health Officer and attending Physician at the City Smallpox Hospital.

Respectfully, W. G. DRYDEN, Secretary.

It seems from 1869 that Drs. Pigne, Dupuytren, T. C. Gale, and J. H. McKee, served as health officers at different times. Dr. J. H. McKee was elected Health Officer on June 25, October 15, and again December 31, 1874.

On April 11, 1873, the City Council passed an ordinance creating the Board of Health to consist of the Mayor, President of the Council and two members of the Council to be appointed by the President of the Council. The salary of the Health Officer was $50.00 per month, and he was to be appointed by the Board of Health, subject to the approval of the City Council.

On August 9, 1874, the City Council passed an extensive sanitary ordinance providing for free vaccination, reports of births, deaths and contagious diseases, etc., and another resolution regulating the prevention of nuisances and providing for the public health, etc., including a section prohibiting the sale of adulterated milk.

On June 22, 1876, the Council passed a resolution fixing the Health Officer's salary at $75.00 per month. March 1, 1877, the Council passed an ordinance repealing ordinances of July 11, 1873, and August 1, 1874, pertaining to the creation of the Board of Health and prescribing the duties of the Health Officer, etc.

In 1877, a report was made to the Council that one Mrs. Dominguez had broken quarantine because of the want of food. The Council authorized the Health Officer to supply food to families in quarantine for smallpox.

Again in 1878, the Common Council passed a resolution relating to the health of the City of Los Angeles, to prevent the spread of contagious diseases by providing quarantine regulations for the incoming trains, etc.

On January 2, 1879, Dr. Walter Lindley was elected Health Officer; at that time there was no Board of Health and the City Council elected the Health Officer. Dr. Lindley inaugurated the system of free vaccination of children attending the public schools and succeeded in securing the passage of an ordinance prohibiting the handling of swill and garbage through the streets between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. He established the system of registering births and deaths, and secured a sewer system for the main streets; he also made an annual report of the transactions of the office. Dr. Lindley's report made November 13, 1879, for the ten months previous to November 1, 1879, shows estimated population to be 16,000, number of births 223, and number of deaths 175, including still births.

Dr. J. B. Winston served as Health Officer in 1880-81-82, and made annual reports of transactions of the office with tabulated reports of deaths and births, etc.

In 1883 and 1884, Dr. T. C. Gale was Health Officer and made annual reports of the work performed in the office and tabulated reports of deaths and births, etc.

In 1885 and 1886, Dr. J. S. Baker served as Health Officer making several reports of smallpox and diphtheria outbreaks, also an annual report for the year ending November, 1886, in which he recommends the building of a filth crematory. The number of deaths during this year was 454, and the number of births, 438. Of the 454 deaths, 120 were caused by consumption, 12 died from typhoid fever, 15 of scarlet fever, 7 of diphtheria and 14 of pneumonia. The report shows the amount of sanitary work performed during the year, and accompanying the report is a tabulated report of deaths.

In 1887 the City Board of Health consisted of the Mayor, W. H. Workman; President of the Council, L. N. Breed, and J. Lovell, J. Frankenfield and M. T. Collins, members of the Council. Dr. Martin Hagan was elected Health Officer; Dr. George L. Cole was Assistant Health Officer and Acting Police Surgeon. When the city was on a boom, rapidly increasing in population and extending in territory, an epidemic of smallpox set in. The Health Officer reports that vaccination was vigorously enforced, and as many as 30,000 people were vaccinated within a period of four weeks.

In 1888, the Board of Health consisted of the Mayor, W. H. Workman; President of the Council, J. F. Humphrey, and James Hanley, M. T. Collins and E. A. Gibbs, members of the Council. Dr. J. W. Reese was elected Health Officer, Dr. J. J. Choate, Dr. Fenner and Dr. Thompson were the assistants. During this year the epidemic of smallpox was stamped out. The Health Officer made an annual report of work performed and recommended the appointment of at least three additional sanitary inspectors, a market inspector and a plumbing and drain inspector.

In 1889 the new charter went into effect. Drs. Martin Hagan, J. H. Davisson and Jos. Kurtz, and Mr. H. E. Wright were elected members of the Board of Health, and Dr. Granville MacGowan was elected Health Officer. During this term they obtained an office in the City Hall, with the necessary furniture, etc. They established the system of monthly reports, adopted sanitary rules, and obtained the passage of a number of sanitary ordinances; established the system of placarding houses for diphtheria, scarlet fever and smallpox, and also took measures toward the betterment of our water supply by forcing the water companies to use covered mains between the sources of supply and the city.

In 1889, this Board took much interest in securing park facilities. Dr. MacGowan succeeded in securing the passage of a plumbing ordinance, which was to be enforced by the Building Superintendent.

In 1890 the Health Officer in addition to attending to the duties of Health Office, acted as Police Surgeon; at this time all cases of accident were taken to the Police Station and were cared for in the large open room in which the prisoners had their bunks. Dr. MacGowan succeeded in getting an appropriation of $600.00, with which he changed the old battery room into an operating room, by having a cement floor put in, a large skylight made and the walls tinted. He also had an operating table and other necessary apparatus put in. This room, though small, made a very comfortable room for this purpose. Dr. E. A. Bryant assisted Dr. MacGowan in his duties as Police Surgeon.

After a great deal of trouble, and against great opposition, the Board of Health succeeded in establishing a regular system of collection of garbage, under the contract, and a crematory for the burning of the garbage was built.

In 1891, Dr. MacGowan succeeded in having two new cottages built and the old pest house building repaired, so that it was storm proof and fairly comfortable. The Health Officer was instrumental in causing the construction of an outfall sewer, etc., to be built.

In September, 1892, Dr. MacGowan prepared an ordinance including the provisions of all ordinances which was twice recommended by the Board of Health.

In January, 1893, Dr. Granville MacGowan and Dr. W. W. Hitchcock, Dr. Jos. Kurtz and Dr. C. F. Gillingham were elected members of the Board of Health. Dr. L. M. Powers was elected Health Officer for the ensuing two years. The inspection of public buildings, including schools, was systematically conducted and reports made of the same. The office of meat inspector was created and the system of meat inspection installed. During this term, a new plumbing ordinance creating a Board of Examiners was passed and a plumbing inspector to act as assistant building inspector was appointed. This ordinance was revoked in November, 1893.

The inspection of the water and ice supply to the City which had been conducted by Dr. Granville MacGowan was continued.

The Board of Health adopted for the first time, written rules governing the reporting of contagious and infectious diseases, regulating the quarantine of the same, etc. Also secured the passage of an ordinance requiring the registration of physicians, dentists and pharmacists, midwives and medicine vendors.

A new plumbing ordinance was passed by the City Council. The old ordinances regulating the sanitary conditions of the city being imperfect and inadequate, a new ordinance, No. 2888, was passed by the City Council, including a new milk ordinance. During the fall a room in the attic of the City Hall, a part of the room used by the library girls for their lunch apartment, was secured for the purpose of a laboratory for the examination of milk. Dairy inspections and milk analyses were made by the Health Officer.

In January, 1895, the first case which received the antitoxin treatment for diphtheria was Thomas Hanlon, of 147 Hays Street, a patient of Dr. M. M. Cannon. The antitoxin, which was secured from the Pasteur Institute in New York City, was administered by Dr. L. M. Powers.

In January, 1895, Drs. S. S. Salisbury, E. R. Smith and Carl Kurtz, and M. L. Moore, were elected members of the Board of Health and Dr. F. W. Steddom was elected Health Officer.

During this year the meat inspector was made also milk inspector. In the annual report the Health Officer says: "There were 152 cases of diphtheria reported to the office, twenty-eight of which proved fatal, showing the percentage of deaths to be 18.42; under the limited use of antitoxin, the death rate has been reduced from 25.03 per cent. last year, to 18.42 per cent. this year. Enough antitoxin has been used to prove conclusively that it has saved the lives of many of our children." According to the reports obtained, antitoxin was used in about 50 per cent. of the cases reported.

In the report of dairy inspection, we see that there were five cows condemned and killed because of tuberculosis. The Health Department secured the passage of an anti-expectorating ordinance.

In 1897, Dr. J. E. Cowles, Dr. John R. Colburn, Dr. M. L. Moore and Dr. S. S. Salisbury were elected members of the Board of Health; Dr. L. M. Powers was elected Health Officer.

The inspection of milk and meat was continued under difficulties. The first eight months much of the time was consumed in settling the question as to who had the right to the appointment of the sanitary inspectors, the Board of Health, or the City Council. For three months pending the decision of the Court, we had two sets of inspectors calling at the office every morning, and there was also much trouble in securing the proper control of the street sweeping. During the fall a new inspector was appointed for street sweeping. The meat and milk inspector having resigned, one of the sanitary inspectors was appointed milk inspector and a practical butcher was appointed meat inspector, thereby creating two offices.

In the fall of 1897, Prof. A. J. Maclatchie, who was connected with the Academy of Sciences, gave the department much encouragement and aid in inspecting milk.

In 1898, with an appropriation from the Council of $50.00 and apparatus owned by Dr. Powers, a bacteriological laboratory was established in the attic of the City Hall building, and by February with the kind assistance of Dr. S. P. Black, the department was fully prepared to make diphtheria cultures and from that time on, serum tests for typhoid fever and examinations of sputum and various other examinations for diseases in stock were made, and also bacteriological examinations of water supplied to the city were made from time to time.

In the latter part of this year an epidemic of smallpox was started in the city by a number of tramps or other persons infected in some of the railroad camps, and with the concealment of a case of smallpox in the family of a grocer. Tents and new cottages were constructed on the pest-house grounds in order to accommodate the patients. The number of cases occurring during this epidemic and which lasted into 1899, were 121, of which 22 died. The most severe form of smallpox existed, being of hemorrhagic nature.

In 1899, Drs. J. H. Davisson, E. R. Smith, Wm. LeMoyne Wills and S. S. Salisbury, were elected members of the Board of Health. Dr. L. M. Powers was elected Health Officer. During the spring the epidemic was stamped out. Dr. R. V. Day and Dr. W. H. Fox assisted in this work. In 1900, but three cases of smallpox were reported during the year.

In 1901 Dr. E. R. Smith, Dr. J. H. Davisson, Dr. W. W. Beckett and Dr. S. S. Salisbury were elected members of the Board of Health; Dr. L. M. Powers was elected Health Officer. During this year a number of cases of mild smallpox were reported. Dr. S. J. Quint was appointed Assistant Health Officer.

In many cases the milk was found to contain formaline and other preservatives, and the Department prosecuted many violators of the milk ordinance. Through the aid of the Court during the year 1901-1902, the nefarious practice of adulteration and substitution for milk was more or less stopped.

In 1901 when the plague was creating much excitement in San Francisco, the Health Department of Los Angeles City, to protect the City from an invasion of the dread disease, made thorough inspections of Chinatown for sick Chinamen or suspected cases of plague, and autopsies were made on all dead Chinese, Dr. S. P. Black being employed to make bacteriological examinations in all cases. This kept up during the year 1901, and at various times after that by the Department and Dr. S. P. Black and Dr. E. L. Leonard.

In 1903, Dr. W. W. Hitchcock, Dr. S. S. Salisbury, Dr. Milbank Johnson and Dr. R. V. Day, were elected members of the Board of Health. Dr. L. M. Powers was elected Health Officer, with Dr. S. J. Quint as Assistant Health Officer.

In 1903, the City Council made a contract with Messrs. Koebig and Fosdick, Chemists, and a more vigorous enforcement of the pure food law was undertaken, convicting parties for coloring olives and using preservatives in meats, etc.

The services of the Settlement Nurse were commenced in the Public Schools in April, 1903. In 1904, the office of Bacteriologist was created, Dr. E. L. Leonard was elected bacteriologist.

In 1904, the City Council appropriated money to build an annex to the City Hall for the occupation of the Health Department. The office of City Chemist was created in 1904. Dr. R. V. Day was elected as such. On resignation of Dr. Day as a member of the Board of Health, Mr. A. S. Petterson was elected a member of the Board. The office of School Nurse was created in September, 1904. The number of employees in the Health Department during this term reached 25.

In 1905, Dr. Carl Kurtz, Dr. E. M. Pallett, Dr. E. C. Manning and Dr. S. S. Salisbury were elected members of the Board of Health, Dr. L. M. Powers being elected Health Officer, and Dr. Harris Garcelon, Assistant Health Officer. Dr. E. L. Leonard was elected bacteriologist.

CHAPTER IV.

DISTRICT MEDICAL SOCIETIES.

THE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA MEDICAL SOCIETY.

With the reorganization of the American Medical Association a great development of the county and State medical societies took place. In California, the Medical Society of the State of California in the last few years has grown from an organization of about 300 to 2,000 members, with every indication of increased growth in the near future.

Prior to the reorganization of the American Medical Association, the Medical Society of the State of California was largely a northern society.

The need of a district medical society that would reach the members of the profession south of the Tehachepi had long been felt and the Southern California Medical Society came into existence in response to that need in the following manner.

At a meeting of the Los Angeles County Medical Society, April 6, 1888, Dr. W. G. Cochran offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

“Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to communicate with the regular physicians of Southern California to ascertain their wishes in regard to the organization of a District Medical Society.”

In accordance with the resolution, the president, Dr. George Lasher, appointed such a committee, consisting of Drs. W. G. Cochran, H. G. Brainerd and John L. Davis.

The committee met and prepared a circular explaining the purpose of the resolution; this circular, together with an addressed postal card for responses, was then, on April 14, 1888, sent by the committee to about two hundred and fifty physicians of Southern California. The list used for addresses was the Official Register of January 31, 1887; the circulars and cards were sent to all regular physicians there named, living in the following counties: Kern, Los Angeles (excepting such physicians living in the city of Los Angeles), San Bernardino, San Diego, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura.

In response to the circular about eighty replies were received, all with two or three exceptions, favoring the proposed organization.

On May 4, 1888, the committee made its report to the Los Angeles County Medical Society; its action was approved and the committee was continued and authorized to call a meeting for the purpose of organizing a District Medical Society.

The committee thereupon issued the call for Los Angeles, June 8, 1888. The invitation was sent to the list of physicians before-mentioned and also to the members of the Los Angeles County Medical Society.

The meeting for the organization of a District Medical Society comprising the counties of Kern, Los Angeles, San Diego, Santa Barbara, San Bernardino, San Luis Obispo and Ventura, was held in the Hollenbeck on June 8, 1888, some eighty physicians being present during the day. The meeting was called to order by Dr. W. G. Cochran, who stated the object of the meeting to be three-fold, namely, the advancement of medical knowledge, the elevation of the professional character, and the encouragement of social intercourse and harmony among the members of the profession.

Dr. M. F. Price of Colton was elected temporary chairman and Dr. H. B. Lathrop of San Pedro, temporary secretary.

Upon motion of Dr. Cochran three committees were appointed—one on Constitution and By-Laws, one on Permanent Organization, and one on Credentials, each consisting of one member from each of the several counties represented, viz, Kern, Los Angeles, San Bernardino and San Diego.

The Committee on Constitution and By-Laws consisted of Drs. W. G. Cochran, R. B. Davy, C. A. Rogers and W. R. Fox; the Committee on Organization consisted of Drs. J. P. Widney, P. J. Parker, C. A. Rogers and K. D. Shugart, and the Committee on Credentials consisted of Drs. E. A. Follansbee, W. N. Smart, C. A. Rogers and W. R. Fox.

The Committee on Credentials, through its chairman, Dr. Smart, moved that all members of the regular profession holding licenses from the State Board of Examiners be admitted as members at this meeting.

The Committee of Permanent Organization presented its report, and the secretary was directed to cast the ballot of the society for permanent officers as recommended, viz: President, Dr. M. F. Price of Colton; First Vice-President, Dr. C. C. Valle of San Diego; Second Vice-President, Dr. C. R. Rogers of Bakersfield; Secretary, Dr. John L. Davis of Los Angeles; Treasurer, Dr. W. G. Cochran of Los Angeles.

The second meeting convened at San Bernardino, December 5, 1888, Dr. M. F. Price of Colton presiding. Twenty-three new members were elected at this meeting.

The third meeting was held at San Diego, June 5 and 6, 1889, Dr. M. F. Price presiding. The following persons were elected to membership: Doctors Thos. E. Taggart, Kern county; A. F. Shafer, Kern county; A. R. Rhea, San Bernardino county; A. C. Rogers, A. F. Darling, Jas. J. Choate, O. D. Fitzgerald, Siegmund Knopf, J. H. Utley, J. P. Widney, W. L. Wade, M. H. Alter, W. W. Hitchcock, F. A. Seymour, R. W. Miller, J. W. Harris, W. M. Boyd, all of Los Angeles; C. M. Johnson, R. G. Hulbert, G. C. W. Barkok, Fred Baker, Charlotte Baker, F. R. Hurmham, Edwin Carson, Thos. A. Davis, J. R. Doig, Rudolf Eicher, D. Cochenauer, Lucia Lane, W. W. McKay, J. P. Moore, T. L. Magee, V. D. Rood, D. C. Remondino, W. A. Winder, Virginia Smiley, H. W. Yemane, J. E. Hall, all of San Diego.

The secretary reported that the society had been organized with 48 charter members distributed as follows: Kern county, 1; San Bernardino county, 4; San Diego county, 6; Los Angeles county, 37.

At the second meeting twenty-three new members were added, twenty-one from San Bernardino county, thanks to Dr. Price.

At the third meeting forty-one members were added, making a total of one hundred and twelve. Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo and Ventura were not represented.

The Committee on Nominations reported as follows: President, Dr. W. N. Stuart of San Diego; First Vice-President, Dr. C. A. Rogers of Bakersfield; Second Vice-President, Dr. W. Thompson of San Bernardino; Secretary, Dr. J. L. Davis; Treasurer, Dr. W. G. Cochran.

On motion of Dr. Cochran it was agreed that the secretary fill the position of treasurer.

The fourth meeting was held at Pasadena, December 4 and 5, 1889. Hon. A. G. Throop,* Mayor of Pasadena, delivered an eloquent address. The matter of length of papers early thrust itself before the society and Dr. W. E. Scott moved the adoption of the following resolution: "That in the future the length of a paper be limited to thirty minutes, the discussion to thirty minutes, no one speaker being allowed more than five minutes, except the member opening the CHAPTER V.

COUNTY AND LOCAL MEDICAL SOCIETIES.

THE LOS ANGELES COUNTY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

Frequently in organizations having no permanent quarters, it happens that the records of such a society, in being transferred year by year, from one set of officers to another, are scattered or lost. Some of the papers of the Los Angeles County Medical Association have disappeared in this fashion.

A brief sketch written by the Secretary of the Society in 1891, Dr. H. Bert. Ellis, presents a summary which can be used as an introduction to the detailed historical sketch of the Los Angeles County Medical Association which will follow:

The Los Angeles County Medical Association was organized January 31, 1871.

A preliminary meeting had been held at the office of Dr. H. S. Orme on January 25, at which six physicians were present, and at which time Doctors Orme and Hayes were appointed a committee to draft a constitution and by-laws.

On January 31, at the office of Drs. Griffin & Widney, this committee reported. Seven physicians were present and organized themselves, adopted a constitution and by-laws and adjourned to meet at the same place on February 7. The seven charter members who signed the constitution on the evening of February 7, 1871, were John S. Griffin, Henry S. Orme, Joseph P. Widney, William F. Edgar, R. T. Hayes, L. L. Door and T. H. Rose.

On January 4, 1876, the Society discussed and endorsed the bill for the Regulation of the Practice of Medicine. It was this bill which became a law April 3, 1876, and which was amended April 1, 1878.

February 1, 1876, the Society appointed a committee to draw up a communication to the City Council "showing the sanitary condition of the city and urging the importance of the establishment of a Board of Health and appointment of Health Officer," and on June 6 of the same year the City Council requested the Society to select a suitable and competent physician for the position of Health Officer, whereupon the Society elected Dr. J. H. McKee.

In March, 1878, Dr. Joseph Kurtz reported a case which is certainly worthy of being placed upon record. He had shortly before delivered a woman of a child weighing a little over eighteen pounds.

Along in the spring of 1878, there evidently was a lack of interest in the Society, and the following resolution was entered upon the minutes: "Resolved, that any member of this Society absenting himself for three successive meetings be dropped from the list of members, unless reasonable excuse be offered and accepted, by the Association." The resolution was, however, indefinitely postponed.

On July 3, 1878, the Society was incorporated according to the laws of this State, under the name of "Los Angeles County Medical Association," and on July 5 the Society adopted the motto "Scientia et honor" for its seal.

In the minutes of the same date appears the following: "By the unanimous vote of the Association, _____ was placed on the blacklist. Thus prohibiting any member from consulting with him on pain of expulsion."

The following throws some light on the origin of the Southern California Medical Society. In August, 1884, the following communication was read to the Association: "We, the undersigned, move that a committee of three be appointed by this Association to arrange for the organization of a medical society to be known as the Southern California Medical Society, etc., etc.

“F. A. SEYMOUR,
“H. H. MAYNARD.”

At the December, 1885, meeting The Southern California Practitioner was endorsed and papers and discussions were voted to be given to it.

In January, 1888, the Board of Supervisors requested the County Medical Association to recommend a successor to Dr. H. H. Maynard as County Physician, he having resigned. The Society unanimously requested Dr. Maynard to reconsider his resignation.

In April, 1888, a committee of Drs. Cochran, Brainerd, Davis, Lasher and Babcock was appointed to ascertain the sentiment in regard to formation of district society. As a result of the efforts of this committee the Southern California Medical Society held its organization meeting at the Hollenbeck Hotel June 8, 1888.

The officers of the Society during these years were as follows:

1892	W. W. Hitchcock.	John R. Colburn..	Lula T. Ellis.....	Wm. Dodge.....

The presidents since 1892 have been Doctors Wm. Dodge, 1893; D. Granville MacGowan, 1894; O. D. Fitzgerald, 1895; H. G. Brainerd, 1896; E. R. Smith, 1897; E. A. Praeger, 1898; F. D. Bullard, 1899; George L. Cole, 1900; H. Bert Ellis, 1901; J. H. Utley, 1902; Rose T. Bullard, 1903; W. W. Beckett, 1904; Joseph M. King, 1905; Fitch C. E. Mattison, 1906; F. M. Pottenger, 1907; Raymond G. Taylor, 1908; Stanley P. Black, 1909; W. W. Richardson, 1910; and W. Jarvis Barlow, 1911.

The vice-presidents since 1892 have been Doctors George L. Cole, W. M. Lewis, L. M. Powers, E. A. Praeger, J. E. Cowles, R. W. Miller, F. W. Steddom, J. H. Utley, George E. Abbot, R. T. Bullard, F. C. Shurtleff, A. L. Kelsey, E. W. Fleming, Albert Soiland and O. O. Witherbee.

The secretaries since 1892 have been L. T. Ellis, R. T. Bullard, D. S. McCarthy, C. G. Stivers, Joseph M. King, Raymond G. Taylor, W. W. Richardson and George H. Kress.

The treasurers since 1892 have been R. W. Miller, Joseph Kurtz, A. L. Macleish, John C. Ferbert, W. W. Richardson and George H. Kress.

It will be observed that there were no officers between the years 1871 and 1876, nor were there any new members after the charter members till October, 1875.

The following figures give the number of new members who have been elected, from the beginning, together with the year of their accession; besides these there are nine—seven active members and two who have until recently been active members—of whose election there appears no record in the minutes of the Association. These are: E. A. Follansbee, J. M. Radebaugh, D. G. MacGowan, W. D. Babcock, J. J. Choate, H. E. Hasse and George Deacon.

On November 5, 1880, at a meeting of the Society, held at the office of the Secretary, Dr. Walter Lindley, a resolution was offered and carried declaring the office of president vacant. During 1881 there was but one meeting of the Society, and no officers were elected till January, 1882.

I will now call your attention for a few minutes to the condition of the Society during 1891.

MEETINGS.

During the year 1891 there have been twenty-four regular meetings, with an average attendance of twenty-one. On May 15 and June 19 there were thirty-four present; while on August 21 but six were in attendance. The attendance at the different meetings has been as follows:

Having read this synopsis of the Association's history, its career, year by year, may now be considered:—

The Los Angeles County Medical Association was organized on January 31, 1871. The minutes of the first meetings are of sufficient interest to be worthy of permanent record. They read as follows:

Jan. 25th. At a preliminary meeting of the Physicians of Los Angeles county held at the office of Dr. H. S. Orme, January 25th, 1871, for the purpose of organizing a Medical Association, there were present Doctors Edgar, Hayes, Orme, Widney, Kurtz and Dorr.

Dr. W. F. Edgar was elected temporary chairman, and Dr. L. L. Dorr temporary secretary.

On motion the chair appointed Drs. Hayes and Orme a committee to report a Constitution and By-laws, to report at the next meeting.

On motion, Drs. Griffin and Edgar were appointed a committee on credentials.

The Committee on Constitution and By-laws were instructed to notify the physicians of this county through the public press of a meeting for permanent organization to be held at 7 o'clock p.m., January 31st, at the office of Drs. Griffin and Widney.

Meeting adjourned until January 31st, 1871.

January 31st. Met pursuant to adjournment.

On motion, Dr. Edgar resumed the chair and Dr. Dorr acted as secretary.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

The Committee on Credentials reported having examined the credentials of the following-named physicians and found them satisfactory: John S. Griffin, M.D., Wm. F. Edgar, M. D., Russel T. Hayes, M.D., Henry S. Orme, M.D., J. P. Widney, M.D., T. H. Rose, M.D., Levi L. Dorr, M.D., all of Los Angeles city. Report received and committee discharged.

Dr. Hayes proposed, verbally, Dr. Gelsich for membership. Dr. Gelsich said he did not have his diploma with him. Dr. Griffin proposed the name of Dr. Wallace of Santa Barbara as honorary member. The chair ruled both out of order, as the Constitution and By-laws had not been acted on, but would probably govern both cases.

The Committee on Constitution and By-laws reported the constitution and By-laws of the Alameda County Medical Association with slight amendments. They were read, slightly amended, and adopted article by article.

The committee was discharged.

On Motion, proceeded to the election of officers for the first six months.

Drs. Griffin and Hayes were nominated for President. Election by ballot. Dr. Griffin received five votes and Dr. Hayes two. The election of Dr. Griffin was made unanimous. Dr. Hayes received the unanimous vote for Vice-President. Dr. Orme received the unanimous vote for Treasurer. Dr. Dorr received the unanimous vote for Secretary.

Dr. Griffin now took the chair.

The President, by authority of Article VI of the Constitution, appointed Drs. Edgar, Rose and Widney a Board of Censors.

Adjourned until Tuesday, 7 o'clock p.m., Feb. 7, 1871, to meet at the same place.

Present at this meeting: Drs. Griffin, Edgar, Hayes, Orme, Widney, Rose, Gelsich and Dorr of Los Angeles city, Dr. Wallace of Santa Barbara, and Mr. Caldwell, reporter for the L. A. News.

February 7, 1871. Met pursuant to adjournment.

Present: Drs. Edgar, Hayes, Orme, Widney and Dorr; also Messrs. Caldwell and Mitchell, reporters.

In the absence of Dr. Griffin, the President, Dr. Hayes, the Vice-President, took the chair.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

Committee on Admission reported that Dr. V. Gelsich of Los Angeles city had applied for membership. That his papers consisted of a recommendation signed by many physicians of San Francisco for the position of Resident Physician at the California State Prison in 1862. A discharge as Surgeon from the 4th Cal. Vol. Infantry in 1865. A letter from General Drum regretting his departure from the army. A paper granting him the contract for furnishing medical attendance and medicine to the Los Angeles County Hospital and Jail. And the affidavit of Maleo Brazzanovich of San Francisco, 1862, that a medical diploma belonging to Dr. Gelsich had been burnt up in his house in 1853.

The committee also reported that it would not be best to take any further action in his case at present.

On motion the Secretary was instructed to inform Dr. Gelsich in writing of the committee's report, and state to him that it is the advice of this association that he apply to the college he graduated from for a copy of his diploma or the Dean's certificate that one was issued to him.

The Secretary reported the following bills for action: Los Angeles News, for advertising, $2.00; Los Angeles Star, for advertising, $5.00; Brod-ench & Riley, for books, stationery and stamps, $1.00. They were approved and ordered to be paid.

The constitution was now signed by Drs. Edgar, Hayes, Orme, Widney and Dorr, and the initiation fee of $2.00 and the monthly dues of 50 cents a month for February and March, 1871, paid to the Secretary.

The Secretary reported as unfinished business the proposition of Dr. Griffin at the last meeting, to make Dr. Wallace of Santa Barbara an honorary member, and stated that the constitution does not provide for it.

Dr. Widney reported the following as an amendment to the constitution to be acted on at the next regular meeting:

"Any regular Physician of good standing may be made an honorary member of this Association under the same rules of election as regular members. Honorary members shall have the right to take part in all medical discussions, but shall not vote or voice in the business of the Association, and shall be subject to no dues or fines."

On motion, the chair appointed Drs. Edgar, Widney and Orme a committee to report a fee bill at the next meeting.

The Secretary was instructed to write to the physicians of this county not already members, giving them the essential points of the constitution and by-laws, the steps to take to become members, impressing on them the necessity of joining us, and adding to our influence and numbers that the greatest good may result.

Adjourned to meet at the office of Dr. Hayes Tuesday, March 7th, 1871, at 7 o'clock p.m.

March 7, 1871. Met pursuant to adjournment.

Dr. Rose, as a member of the Committee on Admissions, said that Dr. Montgomery of Los Nietos had told him he intended to be present tonight and join us.

The Committee on a fee bill reported the fee bill on the Alameda County Medical Association. It was read and adopted. The committee was discharged.

The amendment to the constitution proposed by Dr. Widney at the last meeting was read and adopted.

Dr. Widney proposed the name of Dr. R. M. Wallace of Santa Barbara as an honorary member. Carried.

Adjournment to meet at the office of Dr. Dorr on the first Tuesday in April, 1871.

The constitution which was adopted is no less interesting than the record of these meetings, and excerpts from it are here given:

Constitution and By-Laws of the LOS ANGELES COUNTY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.
Organized January 31st, 1871.

Article I. This Association shall be called the Los Angeles County Medical Association.

Art. II. The objects of the Association shall be:

First—The cultivation and advancement of the Science of Medicine by united exertions for mutual improvement, and contributions to medical literature.

Second—The promotion of the character, interests and honor of the fraternity by maintaining the union and harmony of the regular progression of the county, and aiming to elevate the standard of the medical education.

Third—The separation of regular from irregular practitioners.

Fourth—The association of the profession proper for purposes of mutual recognition and fellowship.

Art. III. The members shall be graduates of a recognized regular medical college, and shall be in good moral and professional standing. They shall be proposed in writing, at a regular meeting by two members of the Association, and may be elected by a majority vote at any subsequent meeting.

Art. IV. No empirical or irregular practitioner nor any practitioner who shall consult with or recognize professionally any such irregular practitioner shall either be admitted to or retained in the membership of this Association.

Art. V. The officers of this Association shall consist of a President, Vice-President, Treasurer and Secretary, who shall be elected semi-annually at the first meetings in January and July of each year by a majority vote of the members present.

No member shall be eligible to the office of President for two successive terms.

Art. VI. There shall be a Board of Censors consisting of three, appointed semi-annually by the President.

Art. VII. The Association hereby reserves the right of punishing violations of its regulations with the concurrent vote of three-fourths of the members present at any regular meeting by reprimand, suspension or expulsion, and no member who shall have been expelled shall be again admitted to membership.

Any member who shall have removed permanently from the county, shall be considered as having vacated his membership, and his certificate at any time thereafter may be recalled.

Amendment. (See proceedings of meeting March 7, 1871.)

Art. VIII. Any regular physician in good standing may be made an honorary member of the Association under the same rules of election as regular members. Honorary members shall have the privilege of taking part in all medical discussions, but shall have no vote or voice in the business of the Association and shall be subject to no dues or fines.

BY-LAWS.

Article I. This Association adopts the code of medical ethics of the American Medical Association and it shall be read by the Secretary at the meetings of January and July of each year.

Art. II. The stated meetings of the Association shall be on the first Tuesday evening in each month.

Special meetings may be called at any time by the President on the written request of five members. (A majority of all members of the Association shall constitute a quorum.)

Art. III. The President, or in his absence, the Vice-President, shall preside at the meetings, and enforce the rules of order, appoint all committees not otherwise provided for, give the casting vote in case of a tie, and perform such other duties as his position requires.

The fee bill which was referred to in the meeting of March 7, 1871, is likewise worthy of record:

FEE BILL OF THE LOS ANGELES COUNTY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

Adopted March 7, 1871.

Miscellaneous.

For each visit during daytime, $3 to $5.

For each visit during nighttime, $5.

Additional patients in same family, each $2.

In cases of extraordinary service, detention, or attendance, or when for any reason the case is one of unusual importance or responsibility, the charge should be proportionately; and the duty to make such increased charge shall be obligatory upon the practitioner.

For a visit in consultation, $5 to $10.

In case of a consultation the attending physician may also charge the usual consultation fee for an ordinary visit. For each subsequent visit in consultation where the attendance is continuous, the fee may be from $3 to $5.

For visits over three miles from town, $1 to $2 per mile additional.

For advice at home or office, from $2.50 to $10.

For an opinion involving a question of law in which the physician may be subpoenaed, $5 to $10.

In case of an opinion involving special study or experimental investigation, such additional service shall be charged in proportion to the time and labor expended.

For a post-mortem examination made at the request of friends of deceased, from $25 to $50.

For a post-mortem in case of legal investigation, $100 to $500.

Vaccination, $2.50.

Gonorrhoea or syphillis, fee in advance $25 to $50.

Obstetrics.

Ordinary midwifery cases, $25 to $50.

Delivery by turning or forceps, additional $25 to $50.

Delivery by embryotomy, $100 to $300.

Attendance after ninth day, ordinary rates.

For attendance during tedious labor, it shall be considered obligatory to make such additional charges as in the discretion of the practitioner the extraordinary detention of service shall seem to demand.

In cases of labor, when the child is born, but not the placenta, before the arrival of the accoucheur, the whole fee is to be charged.

When both child and placenta are born before the arrival of the accoucheur, half or the whole fee bill may be charged according to circumstances. This rule is intended to apply to cases in which the services of the accoucheur have been previously engaged, and in which the delay does not arise from his fault.

If in any case of labor a second physician is called in consultation and subsequently detained in joint attendance, both attending and consulting physicians shall be entitled to the full fee for attendance and also to such additional amount as may be deemed proper, in view of the importance of the case, the unseasonableness of the hour, or any extraordinary detention of service rendered.

Surgery.

For capital operations, or operations of unusual difficulty, such as amputation of large limbs; ligation of large arteries; operations for stone in the bladder; removal of breasts; or of other large tumors; operations for cataract; for strangulation of the hernia; for vesicovaginal fistula; for cleft palate, etc., $100 to $500, according to the importance of the case and pecuniary circumstances of the patient.

For operations of secondary importance or difficulty, such as operations for fistula-in-ano; for hare-lip; for the radical cure of hydrocele; tapping and injection of ovarian cysts; reduction of dislocation or fractures of large bones; tracheotomy; removing of small tumors, not involving important organs; ligation of arteries of secondary size; passing catheter in case of obstructions, etc., $25 to $100.

For minor operations, such as excision of tonsils, removal of nasal polypi; tapping in hydrocele or for ascites; opening abscesses, catheterism, stitching recent wounds, cupping, passing setins, amputation of fingers or toes, excision of wens, etc., $5 to $25.

After surgical operations, all subsequent visits shall be charged as in ordinary cases of attendance.

Any case not specified in the foregoing per table, to be charged at rates as nearly corresponding to the list of prices as practicable.

Nothing here stated shall be construed to prevent any physician or surgeon from charging more than the usual rates in any case where a due regard for equity may seem to demand such an increase in price.

At the meeting on January 4, 1876, the regulation of the practice of medicine was taken up:

After a general discussion of the Society of the bill for the "Regulation of the Practice of Medicine," proposed by the State Board of Health, and now before the State Legislature, upon motion of Dr. Hoffman, the Association vote endorsed said bill, and directed the Secretary to so notify the Secretary of the State Board of Health, and the Representatives of Los Angeles county.

And at the meeting of February 1, 1876, the following reference is made to the sanitary condition of the city and to the need of a Board of Health and Health Officer:

"Upon motion of J. P. Widney, a committee of three was appointed to draw up a communication to the City Council upon the sanitary condition of the city, and urging the importance of establishment of a Board of Health, and an appointment of a Health Officer; the statement to be presented to the Medical Society at next meeting, subject to its approval and order.

"President appointed as said committee J. P. Widney, H. S. Orme and J. H. McKee."

At the next meeting, held on February 15th, the following reference was made to the same subject:

"Report of committee appointed at meeting of February 1st, to draw up a communication to City Council upon need of a 'Board of Health,' was received. Communication as drafted by committee was adopted, and by vote was ordered to be sent to City Council.

"Same committee was continued and instructed to inquire into the State law upon the subject of 'Boards of Health' for cities."

According to the minutes April 4, 1876, there must have been malarial fever in Southern California, for the minutes of that meeting contain these particulars:

"General discussion of the Society upon the peculiarities of malarial fevers manifested in this locality. Also upon the anti-malarial virtues of the eucalyptus tree."

The efforts of the committee appointed to petition the Council to provide a Board of Health resulted in the following action being taken at the meeting of June 1, 1876:

"In accordance with request of the Public Health Committee of the City Council that the Los Angeles County Medical Association should designate some suitable and competent person for the position of City Health Officer, the Association, upon third ballot, selected Dr. J. H. McKee.

"Upon motion, the Secretary was directed to certify such action to the Health Committee of the City Council."

The State law of California providing for a definite mode of procedure regarding dissection material, the Association, at its meeting of January 2, 1887, passed the following resolution:

"Upon motion, the Secretary was directed to give to Dr. Barton a certificate that 'He is a person properly entitled to have in his possession a dead body for purpose of dissection,' as specified by the California State law upon that subject."

At the meeting of February 6, 1887, in a discussion of irregular practitioners, it was moved and seconded,

"That the members of this Association, as individuals, report to the Secretary the names of irregular practitioners, known by them to be practicing medicine and surgery within the county limits contrary to law, and that he is hereby instructed to report the same in his official capacity to the District Attorney and urge the prosecution of the same."

At the same meeting, "On motion, a 'Committee on Ethics' was appointed, of which the President was to be the chairman, who were requested to present a report at the next meeting of the Association, in which they were to recommend such measures for the prevention of irregularities in the conduct of members as are called for by the publication in the daily prints of cards calling attention to specialties, etc., the sending of matter through the mails, having reference to removals, etc., the publication of articles in the press signed by the title of M.D., the placing of signs, etc., in places other than the office or residence of the practitioner, and such other matters as in their judgment require attention. The committee as appointed consists of the following gentlemen: Chairman, the President, Dr. Widney; Dr. Orme, Dr. McKee and Dr. Barton."

At the meeting of March 1, 1878, in a report of cases, it is stated that Dr. Joseph Kurtz reported the birth of a child weighing a little over 18 pounds. Delivery was performed by craniotomy and the use of great traction. Several other interesting cases were presented.

The Secretary reported receipts of the evening $12.

At the meeting of May 3, 1878, it is written that "Dr. J. Kurtz moved that a committee be appointed to prepare a blacklist to contain the names of practitioners with whom the members of the Society would not consult. Carried.

"Drs. Kurtz, McGuire and Widney appointed as committee.

"Dr. McGuire presented the following resolution, that was carried unanimously:

"We, the members of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, urgently request as a special favor that neither the editors nor the local reporters of the daily and weekly papers of this city will permit any of our names to appear in connection with any accident or surgical operation or private professional matter in which we may be engaged. Such publication being in direct violation of the code of medical ethics adopted by the American Association and of the by-laws of our local Society."

Minutes of June 7, 1878, contain the following reference to a seal for the Association:

"Dr. Kurtz for the Committee on Seal reported in favor of a seal bearing the name of the Association, the date of its organization and the motto 'Scientia et Honos.' Report accepted, adopted and committee discharged. Secretary ordered to procure seal in accordance.

"By the unanimous vote of the Association, Dr. ——— was placed on the blacklist, thus prohibiting any member from consulting with him on pain of expulsion."

At the meeting of March 7, 1879, a new fee bill was established:

"Committee on Fee Bill, through Dr. Widney, reported as follows:

"Day visit, $2.50 to $5.

"Night visit, $5.

"Extraordinary time, service or responsibility, extra charge.

CONSULTATIONS.

"First consultation, $5 to $10.

"Subsequent consultations, $3 to $5.

"Attending physicians the same.

"Advice at office, $2 to $10.

"Visits in the country, $1 for each additional mile over two.

"Opinion involving question of law, $50 to $100.

"Post-mortem examination, $25 to $50, but if for legal investigation, $100 to $200.

"Vaccination, $1.

"Gonorrhoea or syphilis, $25 to $50 in advance.

OBSTETRICAL.

- “Ordinary case, $25 to $50.
- “Turning of forceps, $25 to $50 additional.
- “Embryotomy, $100 to $300.
- “Attendance after ninth day, ordinary rates per visit.
- “Tedious labors additional.

SURGICAL.

“Capital operations, amputations of leg or arm, ligation of artery when large, stone, removal of breast or large tumor, cataract, strangulated hernia, vesico vaginal fistula, cleft palate, $100 to $500.

“Operations of secondary importance, as fistula in ano, hare-lip, hydrocele, tapping of ovarian cysts, dislocations and fractures of large bones, tracheotomy, small tumors, catheterism in cases of obstruction, ligation of small arteries, etc., $25 to $100.

“Minor operations, $5 to $25.

“After an operation, at usual rates.

“The foregoing is intended as a general guide. Physicians and surgeons shall have liberty to receive less than regular fee when the poverty of patient renders it impossible for him to pay full rates, but in such cases he must be told what the regular fee is and that the reduction is made on account of his limited means.

“Also, with patients of wealth it is considered only proper and just that the physician or surgeon shall not be restricted by the foregoing table, but shall receive such increased compensation for his services as the greater means of the patient may render proper.

(Signed) J. P. WIDNEY, M.D., WALTER LINDLEY, M.D., Committee.”

The minutes of June 6, 1879, state that

“Dr. Kurtz read an instructive paper entitled ‘Why Do We Use Spectacles?’ The reading was followed by discussion and a vote of thanks tendered Dr. Kurtz.” (From which one would infer that Dr. Kurtz had answered his own question.)

On March 4, 1881, the minutes state that

“The Committee on Irregular Practitioners reported that a complaint had been filed with the District Attorney against the so-called ‘Dr.’ C. S. Hastings and that his case would come before the next grand jury.

“Dr. Kurtz gave notice that he would file a complaint against B. F. Bragg—quack.”

At the annual meeting held March 7, 1884,

“Dr. L. K. Riley asked if it would not be advisable for the Society to take the necessary steps as soon as possible to secure some property that could be used by the Society as a place to hold its meeting or for its members to make dissections, scientific experiments, etc. On motion, a committee was appointed to ascertain the feeling of the profession on the subject. The President appointed Drs. L. K. Riley, H. S. Orme and W. L. Wills such a committee.”

At the meeting of April 4, 1874,

“On motion, Drs. Kurtz, Orme and Lindley were elected delegates to the meeting of the Medical Society of the State of California to be held at the city of San Francisco, April, 1884, and they were instructed to invite and also to request the Society to hold its next annual meeting in Los Angeles.”

At the meeting of Jan. 6th, “Dr. Lindley offered the following preamble and resolution:

“ ‘WHEREAS, We, the members of the Los Angeles County Medical Association have read with profound regret the announcement of the death of that most distinguished of American surgeons, Professor S. D. Gross,

“ ‘Resolved, That the President of our Association is hereby requested to appoint a committee to prepare a memoir of Prof. Gross to be read at our next regular meeting.’ ”

The meeting of August 1, 1884, contains the following concerning the organization of a Southern California Medical Society :

“LOS ANGELES, CAL., Aug. 1, 1884. We the undersigned move that a committee of three be appointed by this Association to arrange for the organization of a medical society to be known as the Southern California Medical Society, which Society shall include the territory embraced in the following counties, viz: San Diego, San Bernardino, Kern, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura and Los Angeles. And that the committee be authorized to issue a circular letter to members of the profession residing in the above-named counties and to call a meeting for organization to be held in the city of Los Angeles on the — day of October, 1884.”

Also the following notice :

“I hereby give notice that at the next regular meeting of the Association I shall propose the following amendment to the Constitution: After the list of officers, add the following: ‘And a librarian, who shall also be pathological curator.’

F. A. SEYMOUR, M.D.

“The President opened a discussion which was participated in by the physicians in attendance, relating to the unsanitary condition of our city and the probability of yellow fever being introduced by persons coming from the infected districts.

“On motion, Drs. Lathrop, Bicknell and Lasher were appointed a committee to confer with and make suggestions to the Board of Health respecting the best plan to improve the sanitary condition and also to prevent the introduction of yellow fever in the city of Los Angeles.”

The minutes of November 7, 1884, contain the following note :

“The Board of Trade of the city of Los Angeles, having requested the Los Angeles County Medical Association to prepare for publication by the said board a paper expressing the views of the Association on the climate of Southern California as a health resort, on motion Drs. J. P. Widney, H. S. Orme and G. W. Lasher were appointed a committee for that purpose. The Chairman, Dr. J. P. Widney, read the report of the committee, which, on motion, was adopted and the Secretary was instructed to notify the Board of Trade that the desired report was ready for publication.”

(This report appears in Chapter One on a previous page.)

At the same meeting, on November 4, 1884,

“Dr. F. A. Seymour read a paper entitled ‘Rules Governing the Los Angeles County Medical Association Library.’ On motion, Drs. F. A. Seymour, H. B. Lathrop and G. W. Lasher were appointed a committee to report on these rules at the next meeting of the Association. On motion, Dr. Lindley was appointed a Committee on Room for Library.”

At the meeting of November 6, 1885,

“Extracts from Petaluma Courier, October 7, 1885, in regard to malpractice suit of Winters vs. Graves, were read by the Secretary. A letter from Dr. Wm. Watt Kerr, Secretary of the San Francisco County Medical Society, asking for contributions to help set aside the rascally verdict, was read; also a circular from Dr. Graves of Petaluma—Dr. Graves was mulcted for $8000 damages—the verdict in the case. Remarks on the case, as to advisability of appeal to profession of the State, were made.”

At the meeting of December 4, 1885,

“Dr. Lindley mentioned the establishment of a new medical paper, The Southern California Practitioner. The editors requested the official endorsement of the Society.

“Dr. Bicknell moved endorsement and reports and minutes be reported in the journal. Seconded by Dr. Nadeau and carried unanimously.”

At the annual meeting January 8, 1886,

“No written communications except that of the President’s annual address were given. Congratulations on thorough work of committees. Would papers be more creditable if issued as transactions of Medical Society? Enforcement of medical laws and what has been done and what has not been done here. Communications with Homeopathic Board on enforcement of discipline in their ranks. With some hope of success. Medical events of the year. Establishment of the College of Medicine, U. S. C., on Aliso street. The founding of the Southern California Practitioner.

“President had intended to deliver an address on ‘Shakespeare’s Ideas of Medicine,’ but will deliver such semi-medical address at an open meeting of the Society.

“After a graceful farewell and hopes for a coming year’s success, motion passed to have address delivered as planned.

“Committee appointed was Drs. Cochran, Orme and Willis to make such arrangements.”

“The Committee on Halls, through the Chairman, Dr. MacGowan, reported on July 1, 1887, that diligent search for a place of meeting, but as yet no definite place fixed upon. Suggested that this court room could be obtained for the purpose by a petition to Council. Action upon this matter was deferred until a fuller meeting should be held.”

A special meeting was held January 11, 1888. The minutes state that

“The chair called upon Dr. W. Lindley to state the object of the meeting. ‘To take action on the request of the Board of Supervisors for the medical profession of Los Angeles county to recommend a successor to Dr. H. H. Maynard as County Physician.’ After a short discussion upon the subject, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

“‘WHEREAS, We, the members of the Los Angeles County Medical Society, having heard with regret of the resignation of Dr. H. H. Maynard as County Physician of this county, and

“‘WHEREAS, He has most ably and efficiently fulfilled the duties of that position, and

“‘WHEREAS, We believe that the best interests of this county will be subserved by his continuation in the position, therefore be it

“‘Resolved, That we unanimously request Dr. H. H. Maynard to reconsider his resignation, and that a copy of this resolution be sent him.’”

In the minutes of the meeting of May 4, 1888, is found a reference to the plan which led up to the organization of the Southern California Medical Society:

“The report of the committee looking to the formation of a District Medical Society was read by Dr. Davis. Some sixty replies were received to inquiries sent out; all were favorable. Report accepted. The committee was continued with power to act further and complete arrangements for a meeting to be held with the Los Angeles County Medical Society on the day of their next regular meeting, and they were instructed to notify the outside doctors."

Quackery flourished then, as now, as witness the minutes of a special meeting of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, held on August 2, 1888, when the following action was taken:

"Finally, upon motion, a committee of three was appointed to confer with the District Attorney and ascertain the means and methods necessary to rid the community of non-licensed practitioners; the committee was requested to report at the next regular meeting of the Society. The committee is as follows: Dr. M. Hagan, Chairman; Dr. H. S. Orme, Dr. F. Seymour."

So, also, was Los Angeles at that time sensitive to its civic reputation, for at the meeting of October 14, 1889, it is said that "Dr. Turpin called attention to a comment in the Journal of the American Medical Association about the sewerage of Los Angeles, the comment being unfavorable. A committee of Drs. Turpin, Davisson and Wise were appointed to report, confuting the comment."

And attached to the minutes of the next meeting is a newspaper clipping as follows:

A CLEAN BILL OF HEALTH.

REFUTATION OF CHARGES ADVANCED DURING THE LATE CAMPAIGN.

"The committee of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, appointed recently to investigate the criticism of our sanitary condition published in the Journal of the American Medical Association of September 28th, has reported as follows. The committee consists of Messrs. L. J. Turpin, M. L. Moore and J. H. Davisson:

"During the recent sewer-bond contest, which, from the very nature of the case, resolved itself into two systems for the ultimate disposal of the sewage, viz: "outfall to the sea" and "sewer irrigation," the heated newspaper contest led certain local papers, in their zeal, to carry their system, then before the people, to exaggerate our sanitary conditions, and thus placed the city of Los Angeles at a disadvantage before the country at large. Our eastern rivals have seen fit to reproduce these misleading articles to our detriment. By reference to the official records of the Health Department, we find a death rate for 1888 of 8.5 per 1000, and for the current year of 8.89 per 1000. In these figures are included all the deaths of invalids from other States and foreign countries, many of whom were in a dying condition upon their arrival. The Los Angeles Medical Society, independent of the merits of either sewer system, being familiar with the facts, deprecates such prejudicial procedures. The business and most populous residence portions of the city are already well supplied with sewers of ample capacity and in good sanitary condition. On the contrary, Los Angeles has less general sickness, and, consequently, a lower mortality, than any other city of equal size in the United States.'"

The need of a medical library was early recognized, and at the meeting of December 19, 1890,

"The Library Committee reported that they had secured two dozen chairs, in addition to those previously reported on, also a chair for the President, and a new desk, and a seal for the Society's use. The committee also reported that they had written a circular letter to publishers of all of the known journals of medicine published in the United States, numbering something over two hundred, requesting them to send their respective journals, gratuitously, to the library of the Los Angeles County Medical Association."

At the same meeting it is stated that "The Secretary also called the attention of the members to the faulty condition of the Constitution and By-laws, and moved that a committee of three be appointed by the chair to revise the same and report. After some discussion the motion was put and carried and the chair appointed."

In the minutes of the meeting of June 5, 1891, it is stated that

"It being understood that the Women's Friday Morning Club desired rooms, Dr. Arlls was instructed to offer the Society quarters for a consideration."

The minutes of February 5, 1892, state that

"A letter was read from Mr. C. D. Willard, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, containing the following resolution passed at the meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, January 29, 1892:

"Resolved, That the President of the Los Angeles County Medical Society be requested to furnish the leading medical journals of the United States, for publication, the meteorological reports as furnished by the U. S. Weather Bureau of Los Angeles, and also the mortuary report of the city, with such comments as in his judgment are necessary to enable the citizens of other places to correctly compare the healthfulness of this place with their own."

"The subject was discussed at some length by Drs. Davisson, Hitchcock, Orme, H. Bert. Ellis, Miller and FitzGerald, after which Dr. H. Bert. Ellis made the following motion:

"Moved: That it is the sense of this Society that it is unexpedient and unwise to send the mortuary and meteorological reports to eastern journals, because they are incomplete and inaccurate and hence liable to harm rather than benefit Los Angeles.'"

At the meeting of September 6, 1892, it is stated

"Dr. M. L. Moore offered the following resolution:

"To His Honor, the Mayor, and the Honorable Members of the City Council:

"WHEREAS, The presence of cholera is at our shores, we cannot tell how soon it will be in our midst, and

"WHEREAS, Filthiness is a predisposing cause and cleaning our city is necessary, therefore we, as representing the medical profession of this city, do request that as many inspectors be granted at once as the Board of Health may deem advisable.' which was adopted."

On October 20, 1893:

"Dr. H. G. Brainerd made a motion to accept the offer of City Librarian to take the medical journals as the committee reported. Seconded by Dr. Davidson.

"After being discussed by several, on putting the question it resulted in a tie. The President, Dr. Dodge, cast the deciding vote in favor of the negative.

“Dr. H. Bert. Ellis made a motion to have the medical journals discontinued, which was lost.”

At the meeting of January 19, 1894:

“Dr. H. Bert. Ellis stated that the State Medical Society met in Los Angeles five years ago, and if we wished to have it meet here in 1895 it was time some action should be taken, and to bring it before the Society; he made the following motion:

“‘Resolved, That the Los Angeles County Medical Association invite the State Society to hold their meeting in Los Angeles April, 1895, but if the State Society show a disposition to fight and divide the delegation from the southern part of the State, to withdraw the invitation in order to keep ourselves out of local difficulties of the San Francisco faction.’ The motion was seconded.

“Dr. Wills said that it would be better not to invite the Society if we had reason to believe there would be an attempt made to divide the southern delegation.

“Dr. Bicknell opposed any motion which contained any provision to withdraw it.

“That the entertaining of the State Society meant considerable outlay of money, and it should be well considered, and, if we should decide to send an invitation, to fight it out.

“Dr. Wills said the matter was presented tonight in order to find out whether or not we want the State Society to meet in Los Angeles in 1895, and certainly we do not want an invitation sent without the hearty co-operation of all the members.

“Dr. Lasher stated that the State Society does not meet until April, and more time should be taken to consider the matter, and with permission of the mover of the motion, he moved the question to be withheld until a later meeting.”

At the meeting of October 18, 1895, it is stated that “Dr. T. J. McCoy read a very interesting paper on ‘Forty-nine larvae or Texas screw-worms removed from the naso-pharynx and soft palate (showing specimens.)’”

In the discussion that followed

“Dr. George L. Cole stated that he had personal experience in the ear. Was driving one afternoon when he felt a buzzing in the ear, removed almost immediately. Following morning he was awakened about 4 o’clock by rumbling in ear and great pain; sought physician, who injected cocaine solution and removed half a dozen larvae with ear-spoon. Next day one-half dozen more, but they were dead. Ear was healthy previously.”

The matter of contract practice came up in the October, 1896, meeting, the following communication signed by about one hundred members of the Santa Clara County Medical Society:

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY THE PHYSICIANS OF SANTA CLARA COUNTY.

“Whereas, Rendering professional services at a stipulated fee per capita per annum is derogatory to the dignity of the Medical Profession, we, the undersigned physicians of Santa Clara County, California, enter into the following agreement:

“First. We mutually, jointly and individually, pledge our word of honor not to enter into any contract or agreement, or renew any existing contract or agreement, either written, verbal or implied, to render medical or surgical services to any lodge, society, association or organization.

“Second. We will not render medical or surgical services to the members of the above mentioned bodies for less compensation than we charge the general public for similar services.

“Third. This agreement shall not be construed to affect existing contracts between physicians and surgeons and the above-mentioned bodies.

“Fourth. These pledges shall take effect and be in force for a term of three (3) years from and after May 22, 1896.

“This agreement shall not apply to hospitals and purely public charitable institutions.”

A very interesting scientific meeting in May, 1896, in which Dr. S. A. Knopf, now of New York, read a paper entitled, “Should We Treat Consumption as a Contagious or as a Communicable Disease?” was followed by the filing of charges against a member for unprofessional conduct. The action of the Society was interesting as the following excerpts show:

The Board of Censors wishing to make a report, Dr. Hitchcock moved, seconded by Dr. Dodge, that executive session be declared. Carried.

The Board of Censors then reported having received the following communication: “We hereby formally charge Dr. _____, a member of the Los Angeles County Society, with having violated Article IV of the Constitution of this Society, in that he operated on two patients for the German-English Specialists, said operations having been exploited in the advertisement of said German-English Specialists in the Sunday Times of April 26.” And recommended that the Society hear the explanation of the accused.

After Dr. _____’s explanation and a free discussion, the Board of Censors reported, recommending that the charges be not sustained. This report was adopted by the Society by a vote of 17 to 10.

Dr. Cole moved that it was the sense of the Society that Dr. _____ acted indiscreetly in accepting patients from German and English Specialists and in allowing Dr. _____ to be present.

Dr. Hitchcock moved an amendment that he should not do so any more. Dr. Knopf an amendment that he should not swear again in the Society.

Amendments were accepted by mover and the motion was carried.

As a result of a communication from the Santa Clara County Medical Society on Contract Practice, after much discussion, resolutions as follows were finally adopted by the Los Angeles Society:

Whereas, Rendering professional services at a stipulated fee per capita per annum is derogatory to the dignity of the Medical Profession, we, the undersigned physicians and surgeons of Los Angeles County, California, enter into the following agreement:

First. We mutually, jointly and individually pledge our word of honor not to enter into any contract or agreement, or renew any existing contract or agreement, either written, verbal or implied, to render medical or surgical services to any lodge, society, associations, or organizations for less compensation than we charge the general public for similar services. Provided ninety per cent. of the legal practitioners in the county sign the same.

Second. This agreement shall not be construed to affect existing contracts between physicians and surgeons and the above-mentioned bodies.

Third. These pledges shall take effect and be in force for a term of three (3) years from and after February 1, 1897.

This agreement shall not apply to hospitals and purely public charitable institutions.

The need of a more intimate affiliation between the State Medical Society and the county units led to the presentation of the following letter by a committee from the Medical Society of the State of California in December, 1896, several years prior to the reorganization of the American Medical Association:

1200 VAN NESS AVE., SAN FRANCISCO,
December 15, 1896.

GENTLEMEN:—At the last meeting of the Medical Society of the State of California, a committee was appointed to consider methods by which the State Society would be brought in closer affiliation with the local societies and thus be more representative of the profession.

The committee has decided that these objects could best be obtained if membership in the local Society entitled each one to membership in the State Society; provided that the secretary of each local Society forwarded to the secretary of the State Society on or before the 31st day of May in each year a list of members together with a fee of two dollars per head. This fee to take the place of the present annual dues. A very trivial increase of the monthly dues of the local Society would easily enable its secretary to pay the per capita.

Should any local Society fail to send in its annual list and dues, all the members would, of course, be suspended from the State Society until payment was made.

It is very evident that such a plan would increase the influence of the County Societies as they would become the local representatives of the State Society.

Members of the profession residing where no County Society exists would be admitted to membership on the present basis.

Please present this proposition to your Society as soon as possible and let us know its action in the matter. Yours sincerely,

WM. W. KERR,
H. M. SHERMAN,
W. B. LEWITT,
CHAS. C. WADSWORTH,
WM. FITCH CHENEY,
Committee.

The reply to this communication, after considerable discussion, was postponed for a subsequent meeting, the committee report being as here appended:

The committee recommends that the Secretary reply to the communication from the committee of the State Society that the proposed change in requirements for membership in State Society do not meet with the approval of this Society, in that they require all the members of the local Societies to become members of the State Society, or else allow none of them. We would recommend that all members of local Societies, who are in good standing, should be entitled to membership in the State Society, by having their names and $2 for each name forwarded by the Secretary of the local Society to the Secretary of the State Society, and we believe it would be advisable to make the annual dues $1 instead of $2 as proposed, with perhaps an increase of the initiation fee to $5.

In this way we believe that the autonomy of the local Societies would be preserved and the membership of the State Society increased from 285, its present membership, to many times that number.

Anent the mercury treatment for tuberculosis which has recently caused so much discussion, it is interesting to read in the minutes of a discussion on syphilis at a meeting in October, 1897, the remarks of Dr. Granville MacGowan should be of interest:

Dr. MacGowan—I can tell Dr. Cole how to recognize syphilis, if he can see it. One papule is good, two is better, and three are sure. All lesions under microscope are seen to be made up of smaller cells as closely packed as possible. All eruptions except the macular have an appreciable hardness, are copper colored; the papular have dirty scales; there is something under the skin like a foreign body—it is infiltrated. These cells do not have a very good lease on life. Mercury acts like a tonic to restore life by sending red blood to tissues. When secondary lesions are present you will have a peculiar sallow anemic appearance, differing decidedly from other anemias.

I would warn against making diagnoses on the use of mercury or iodide of potassium. These remedies are good for almost all depressing diseases. Have seen cases where the tubercle bacilli was present get well under these remedies. The lesions here also consist of cells closely packed together, but not so much so as in syphilis. If you apply stick nitrate of silver to syphilis, it will not sink in, but in tuberculosis it will.

The need of steps to fight tuberculosis, the disease responsible for such a large proportion of California mortality, owing to the constant influx of infected persons from the East, no doubt led Dr. John McCoy to present the following resolution at the meeting of November 3, 1899:

Resolved, that we request the Governor of California to call the attention of the next Legislature to the importance of legislation on the subject of tuberculosis, and of a State Sanitarium for tuberculous people.

Dr. Powers suggested that the matter be referred to State Board of Health, but Dr. McCoy said they would not meet until after the Legislature, when it would be too late, so motion was put and carried.

The controversy which waged not only in California, but throughout, as to whether bubonic plague did or did not exist in and about San Francisco in 1900, led to the passage of the appended resolutions at the July meeting of that year:

Whereas, The quarantine officer of San Francisco, Dr. J. J. Kinyoun, being considered by his colleagues a most competent officer in the Marine Service and regarded throughout the country as an authority on bacteriology, and

Whereas, The said Dr. Kinyoun, having faithfully and courageously discharged his duties to the best of his abilities, has been most unkindly and unreasonably dealt with by the Governor, Federal authorities and newspapers who are not competent judges of quarantine regulations, nor capable of passing on bubonic plague nor other diseases which may come to the port of San Francisco; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, members of Los Angeles County Medical Association, who know Dr. Kinyoun's reputation and ability, express our entire confidence in his judgment and ability, and are glad that we have so efficient, competent and courageous an official to guard the largest port of entry in California. Be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Los Angeles County Medical Association forward a copy of these resolutions to Dr. J. J. Kinyoun, that he may be advised of the esteem and confidence in which his work is held by his colleagues in this part of the State.

The interest of the Society in the work of the Health Office of Los Angeles, as well as in the weeding out of illegal practitioners of medicine, is evidenced by the following excerpts taken from the minutes of the meeting held January 8, 1901:

Dr. Wills then presented the following resolution:

"Whereas, The Mayor has not yet nominated and the Council not yet confirmed the appointment of the Health Officer, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we, the Los Angeles County Medical Association, in regular session assembled, respectfully and urgently request that the present efficient and thoroughly satisfactory Health Officer, Dr. L. M. Powers, be at once appointed, and we, the members, pledge ourselves to use all our influence to this end."

This being put to motion, it was seconded and carried unanimously. The Secretary was instructed to write the Mayor, inclosing a copy of the resolutions, and also to send a copy to the Council and to the morning papers.

It was moved and seconded and carried that the Society go into executive session, after which the committee for prosecution of illegal practitioners then made its report verbally and presented a letter from its attorney, showing the arrests, convictions and fines to date, and it is here appended:

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Dec. 21, 1900.

To Messrs. Wills, Johnson and Dodge:

DEAR SIRS:—I herewith present a report of investigations and prosecutions against illegal practitioners up to date. The following cases have been pressed to a final determination and with the following results:

In the case of People vs. Igleles prosecuted in the Police Court of Los Angeles City upon two charges, was found guilty and fined $100 in each case. The same individual was arrested for practicing illegally in Long Beach and upon examination was held to appear before Superior Court, plead guilty and was fined $50.

Benj. Perez was prosecuted in the Police Court, found guilty and fined $100. Minnie Wells was fined $100.

There is now pending in the Police Court in some stage or other six cases, and I have complaints ready in five other cases to file within the next day or two. In addition to these we have located some fifteen or twenty illegal practitioners which we believe it is almost impossible to reach under the present statutes of our medical law, but with some amendments to the same there would be no difficulty in stopping their practice.

Very respectfully yours,

W. M. BROWN.

The reorganization of the American Medical Association and of the state and county units is noted in the minutes January 17, 1902, thus:

"Mr. Chas. Marshall, organizer for the American Medical Association, then addressed the Society. He told of the organization of the A. M. A. at St. Paul last year and of the wish that all County Medical Societies and Associations would ally themselves with the State Societies and through them with the A. M. A. He said that many Los Angeles physicians were joining the A. M. A."

At the succeeding meeting held February 7, 1902, it is noted that Dr. LeMoyne Wills read a fine paper on the subject of the Federation of the Medical Societies.

Dr. J. H. Davisson, who was to have read a paper, made an address on the subject of the evening, "The Federation of Medical Societies."

While favoring the organization plan recently adopted by the A. M. A., he said in reality it was not a new idea, having been the aim of the first years of the history of the A. M. Association. He brought up several points in favor of the County and State Medical Societies. One point to be adjusted was the matter of dues, which at the present time were apt to be excessive especially to men of slender means. He was heartily in favor of organization and affiliation with the State Medical Society on equable basis as regards dues.

Dr. W. W. Hitchcock said in part that he was heartily in favor of organization and a closer affiliation with the State Medical Society.

The medical profession should be more of a unit on matters of legislation so as to secure equal rights for all. A plan of reorganization which would unite the County Medical Societies with the State Medical Societies should be agreed on and all doctors should be members of the State Medical Society. The only way to suppress quackery and inefficiency was to organize for mutual protection and advantage. The question of dues is an important one and I believe they can be placed on a more economical basis than at present. Many young men wish to join the State Medical Society, but while it always meets in or near San Francisco, they feel that the outlay is not justified because of the great expense of attending the meetings. No body of men does such a great amount of good work for such small pay as the medical profession.

Further discussion favorable to the object of affiliation was heard from Drs. Bullard, Bicknell, Dodge, Wills, Brainerd and Stivers and E. R. Smith.

It was moved by Dr. W. Lemoyne Wills, seconded by Drs. Dodge, Bicknell, Smith and others, that a committee be appointed by the President to confer with a like committee of the State Medical Society on the subject of closer affiliation, the matter of dues and other details to be left with the committee. The motion was carried and the President named Drs. Wills, Bicknell, Dodge, Hitchcock, Cole, Smith and Stivers as members.

At the meeting of October 3, 1902, the following written communication was received from Dr. H. Bert. Ellis:

Mr. President and Fellow Members: I move that a committee be appointed tonight to revise our Constitution and By-laws, to comply with the Constitution and By-laws of the California State Medical Society, and report at next regular meeting.

The motion being secured and put to vote it was declared carried. The President appointed the following committee: Dr. H. Bert. Ellis, Dr. F. D. Bullard, Dr. Geo. L. Cole.

The recurrent fight against the medical law of the State was felt as usual during the meeting of the Legislature in 1903, and at the close of the meeting of the Society held February 6 of that year, which was devoted to a discussion of the bubonic plague in San Francisco, Doctors E. S. Pillsbury, Bewley, L. M. Powers, Cobb and Stanley P. Black agreeing that it had existed there for a number of years, the matter of medical legislation came up for discussion.

Dr. W. Lemoyne Wills offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Whereas, The existing medical law, while not as perfect as it might be, is a decided improvement on former laws, and is doing much to raise the standard of qualifications of those admitted to the practice of medicine in this State, and

Whereas, The medical bills introduced in the present session of the Legislature are calculated to lower the standard and undo the good that has been accomplished in the past two years, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the desire of this Association that our representatives in the State Legislature do all in their power to defeat said bills and continue the present law in force; and further be it

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to each representative from this section of the State.

This was carried unanimously and the secretary ordered to send copies to each Senator and Representative from the southern part of the State.

The Los Angeles County Medical Association at the meeting of January 6, 1905, passed the appended resolutions relating to proprietary medicines:

Whereas, The principles of Medical Ethics promulgated by the American Medical Association wisely state that "It is derogatory to professional character for physicians to prescribe or promote the use of secret remedies." And

Whereas, Advertising secret remedies in the pages of medical journals is considered to promote their use, and

Whereas, A remedy is well defined as "Any agent or substitute used in the treatment of disease" and such a remedy is a secret remedy unless its exact nature or composition or the quantities of its active ingredients are plainly stated in the advertising statements relating to such remedy; therefore be it

Resolved, That the council and officers of the Medical Society of the State of California, in conference assembled, instruct the secretary to respectfully call these matters to the attention of the Trustees of the A. M. A. of which journal we are, jointly with all other members of the Association, the owners.

And in further requests, that the trustees in the conduct of our said journal apply the rules adopted by the Association at its last meeting, as recommended by the special Committee on Proprietary Remedies, governing the rejection of advertisements submitted for publication in the journal of the Association, which rules are as follows:

ARTICLES TO BE REFUSED ADMISSION.

1. Medical articles of secret composition.
2. Articles for internal medical use advertised or in any manner exploited as remedies or cures to the laity.
3. Medicinal articles of known composition whose formulae do not give the exact quantities of the active medical agents and their names in recognized scientific terms.
4. Articles with trade names, without the true scientific chemical name, or if mixtures or pharmaceutical preparations, without a pharmaceutical title which describes its pharmaceutical character and the principal active ingredients.

We also respectfully ask that the Trustees call the attention of the Association, through the editorial pages of the Journal, to that portion of the principles of ethics therein referred to, and the desirability of living up to it and of refraining from the use or promotion of secret remedies.

With the history of the Association since this time, the readers of the sketch are probably familiar. There are now more than four hundred members, the officers and committees for 1910 being as follows:

W. Jarvis Barlow, M.D., President.

O. O. Witherbee, M.D., Vice-President.

George H. Kress, M.D., Secretary-Treasurer.

Board of Councilors:—W. Jarvis Barlow, M.D., Chairman (ex-officio); George H. Kress, M.D., Secretary (ex-officio); Stanley P. Black, M.D., (At Large); Dudley Fulton, M.D., (At Large); A. S. Lobingier, M.D., (At Large); O. O. Witherbee, M.D., (At Large); H. Bert. Ellis, M.D., (Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Branch); A. T. Newcomb, M.D., (Pasadena Branch); Albert Soiland, M.D., (At Large); George L. Cole, M.D., (At Large); F. C. E. Mattison, M.D., (At Large); F. M. Pottenger, M.D., (At Large); Frank Garcelon, M.D., (Pomona Branch); J. W. Wood, M.D., (Long Beach Branch); W. H. Kiger, M.D., (Santa Monica Branch).

Branches:—Pasadena—J. E. Janes, M.D., Chairman; Eliot Alden, M.D., Secretary. Pomona—T. Hardy Smith, M.D., Frank P. Kenyon, M.D., Secretary. Long Beach—A. C. Sellery, M.D., Chairman; W. H. Newman, M.D., Secretary. Santa Monica—W. H. Parker, M.D., Chairman; John A. Balsley, M.D., Secretary. Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat—E. W. Fleming, M.D., Chairman; Herbert F. True, M.D., Secretary.

Committees:—L. M. Powers, M.D., Chairman Membership Committee; W. LeMoyné Wills, M.D., Chairman Medico-Legal Committee; Fitch C. E. Mattison, M.D., Chairman Certified Milk Commission; W. W. Beckett, M.D., Chairman Public Policy and Legislation Committee; Stanley P. Black, M.D., Chairman Public Health Committee; H. Bert. Ellis, M.D., Chairman A. M. A. Committee.

PASADENA BRANCH OF THE LOS ANGELES COUNTY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

Through the kindness of Doctor D. B. Van Slyck, we are able to present the following interesting account of the Pasadena branch of the Los Angeles County Medical Association.

On September 6th, 1888, the following postal card was sent to each physician of the city of Pasadena:

DEAR DOCTOR:—It has been suggested that the resident physicians of Pasadena should form an association for the promotion of social and professional interests. For that purpose, it is purposed to call a meeting at the parlors of the Carlton Hotel at 5 p.m. Thursday, September 13th, 1888. A dinner will be served at that time at $1.00 per plate. Should you desire to participate, will you please notify Dr. A. H. Davis, lock box 891, on or before Thursday, September 11th? Respectfully,

GEO. DEACON, M.D.

D. B. VAN SLYCK, M.D.

A. H. DAVIS, M.D.

FORDYCE GRINNELL, M.D.

Pursuant to this call, there assembled at the Carlton Hotel at the appointed time, Drs. Davis, Van Slyck, Deacon, Grinnell, Hall, Swennengen, Slaughter, Pinkney, Sherk, Eveleth, McAllister, Dalrymple, Radebaugh and Rowland—fourteen physicians in active practice, excepting Dr. Slaughter, retired.

After an hour of social converse and informal discussion of the object of the meeting, and the enjoyment of an excellent dinner, Dr. Van Slyck was called to the chair and it was voted to organize as a permanent Medical Association.

In accordance with a vote of the meeting, the chair appointed Drs. Rowland, Radebaugh and Grinnell a committee to draft a constitution and by-laws.

The meeting adjourned to meet October 30th in the rooms of the Pickwick Club.

At the second meeting, on the date and at the appointed place, a constitution and by-laws were adopted, and Dr. Davis elected President; Dr. Radebaugh, Vice-President; Dr. Rowland, Secretary, and Dr. Hall, Treasurer.

At this meeting Drs. Arnott, Fraser, Kelsey and McWilliams joined the Society.

It is interesting to note that, of these seventeen original members, there are still in practice in Pasadena Drs. Deacon, Grinnell, Radebaugh, Van Slyck, Swearngen, Sherk and Rowland.

During the first year of the Society the attendance of members varied from six to twelve in number.

At the next annual meeting, October 30th, 1889, Dr. John Adams was elected President, and the other officers re-elected.

It appears from the record that Dr. Adams served as President until February 20, 1892, when, I infer, he either left town or the Society ceased to hold regular meetings or elect officers. During the presidency of Dr. Adams, the interest of members in the Society was at a very low ebb. Drs. Sherk and Radebaugh had resigned March 3rd, 1890, and the attendance on the meetings had dwindled to two or three, or at most four.

There are no records of a meeting from February 20th, 1892, until October, 1894, when the physicians of the city were called together to provide for the entertainment of Southern California Medical Society, which met in Pasadena October 19th.

The profession responded liberally, and the entertainment was in every way satisfactory.

This meeting of the Southern California Medical Society had a very salutary local effect, equal to a "revival effort," convicting of sin and bringing backsliders back into the fold—the result of bringing us all together once more.

November 2nd, 1894, the Society met and elected Dr. Van Slyck President, Dr. Mohr Vice-President, and Dr. Rowland Secretary-Treasurer.

At the next annual meeting the election of officers was postponed, and did not take place till February 28th, 1896, when Dr. F. F. Rowland was elected President.

January 28th, 1897, Dr. R. J. Mohr was elected President. From this time on there was an annual election of officers, and the presiding officers served in the following order: 1898, Dr. Grinnell; 1899, Dr. King; 1900, Dr. McBride; 1901, Dr. Abbott; 1902, Dr. Lockwood; 1903, Dr. Sherk; 1904, Dr. Mattison; 1905, Dr. Roberts; 1906, Dr. Fenyes; 1907, Dr. Hoag; 1908, Dr. Sherry; 1909, Dr. Newcomb; 1910, Dr. Janes; 1911, Dr. Dilworth.

The last four presiding officers were elected under the new constitution of the State Society, by which all local Medical Societies were merged in the County Societies, and the Pasadena Medical Society became the Pasadena Branch of the Los Angeles County Medical Society. Its presiding officer is called chairman and is elected annually.

This Society, since its organization in 1888, has had but three Secretary-Treasurers, Dr. F. F. Rowland to 1896, Dr. J. E. Janes to 1910, and Dr. Alden since that date.

It is only fair to say that the apparent apathy of the profession in Pasadena up to about '94 and '95, was but a reflection of the general depression, discouragement, sense of property loss and depreciation incident to the collapsing of the great "boom" of 1887. About '94 and '95 values seem to have been adjusted, and the city commenced a career of growth and prosperity which has continued to the present time.

In 1890 its population was only 5000; in 1900, 10,000. At the present time it is believed to be not less than 30,000. With this rapid increase in numbers, there have come to us from the East many physicians—specialists in all lines, as well as general practitioners—and fortunately for the profession and the city, their talents, character and qualifications, professional and scientific, will average as high as any equal number in the land.

This Society, like everything in nature, has been an evolution, constantly taking higher and higher ground, and increasing its influence for good in the community.

We have reason to be proud of our Society, of its standing in comparison with other similar bodies, County or State, and of the work it has done and is doing.

It has always taken the lead in every matter of sanitary improvement, the construction of sewers, in cleaning up the city, in enforcing the cleanliness of all occupied premises, in the inspection of milk and all food supplies, and last, but not least, in bringing about the medical inspection of schools; indeed, it has always been foremost in discussing all questions of public health, as well as most measures pertaining to the general welfare of the city. I am sure we were practically a unit in desiring the municipal ownership of water, and regret the defeat of the bonds in the recent election. From a sanitary point of view we must deeply deplore the defeat of the bonds for an incinerator. The disposal of the city's garbage as at present conducted is a disgrace to the city, and a menace to the public health.

I trust we can effectively exert our influence to bring about a better state of things in this regard in the near future.

The School Inspector, the Health Officer, and the members of the Board of Health are all members of this Society. The former has already, in less than one year, fully demonstrated the value and importance of his office, and that he is the "right man in the right place." The Health Officer has won golden opinions for his industry and thoroughness, and his department is a model of efficiency and so considered everywhere in Southern California.

When the addition and improvements to our hospital, now in progress, are completed, we can justly claim that we have an institution of which a city of three times our population might be proud. Its inception began with this Society and in its developments it has relied upon and received our unqualified support.

In looking over the records of the Society, I was struck by the admirable synopsis of the papers generally, as given by the secretaries, and also of their interest and practical value. It was also exceedingly interesting to note how thoroughly they kept in touch, as time went on, with the advancement of medical science and practice, and the high order and scientific value of many of the papers, especially of those of the last few years.

With this brief sketch of the Society's history for twenty years, I leave to the members, old and new, to add such reminiscences as may occur to them, and to correct any errors I may have inadvertently fallen into.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY.

A San Diego County Medical Society was founded July 26th, 1870, and continued for one year.

The names of the founders were as follows: Dr. H. B. Hoffman, President; Dr. Jacob Allen, Vice-President; Secretary and Treasurer, Dr. T. C. Stockton. Dr. Robt. J. Gregg.

In July, 1886, a San Diego County Medical Society was organized with Dr. R. J. Gregg as President. No meetings were held after the organization.

On December the 1st, 1886, the present County Society was organized with Dr. McSwegan as President; Dr. C. C. Valle, Vice-President, and Dr. D. B. Northrup as Secretary and Treasurer.

The names of the officers and the years they served were as follows:

ORANGE COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY.

To the courtesy of Dr. John Dryer of Santa Ana we are indebted for the facts in the following interesting account of the Orange County Medical Society:

In prefacing this short account of the first twenty years of this Association, I will, I trust, be pardoned for using the first person in leading up to the actual beginning or formation of an organization which has meant so much to the medical profession in Orange county.

On the 4th day of June, 1889, the election for the formation of a new county resulted favorably for county division, and a legal separation of what is now Orange county from the mother county of Los Angeles. This led at once to a segregation of interests of all kinds and every sort of business began to adjust itself to the new régime.

There were at the period mentioned nearly as many physicians practicing in the new county as there are now, a careful estimate showing a very small net gain, and this has been mostly in outside places. Santa Ana, excepting Osteopaths, has but two more doctors than were here in 1889. Fullerton, Anaheim and Orange have each gained from one to four, while in some smaller outside places there has been a loss. Westminster then had none. Huntington Beach was not on the map. Fairview, Tustin, Capistrano, Bolsa neighborhood and McPherson each had one, now none.

The profession was wholly unorganized with but few memberships even in the Los Angeles Medical Society, and only two in the State organization.

On the evening of June 12th, just eight days after county division had become an assured fact, the late Dr. J. A. Crane and myself were in conversation over medical matters, and the question of organizing a county society was mentioned. Dr. Crane expressed an ardent desire for immediate action, and for him to think was to act. Accordingly at noon of the next day he appeared at my door with a request that I at once see certain members of the profession, that he had already notified some and that it was the purpose to meet at 2 p.m. in Judge Humphrey's office on Main street, situated where the building occupied by the Sunset Club now stands. The reason for such hasty action was that certain undesirable parties were that day proposing a county organization which would necessarily include some very objectionable elements. It was to forestall such action and secure recognition from the Medical Society of the State of California that the meeting of June 13th was called.

A summary of the minutes of this first assembling of the doctors is as follows: There were present the following gentlemen: Dr. W. B. Wall, Dr. J. A. Crane, Dr. J. M. Lacy, Dr. S. B. Davis, Dr. J. L. Dryer, Dr. C. D. Ball, Dr. J. P. Boyd—seven in all.

Dr. Crane called to order and stated the object of the meeting. Dr. W. B. Wall was elected temporary president and Dr. J. P. Boyd temporary secretary.

The following agreement was drawn up and signed by all present: "We, the undersigned physicians of Orange county, agree to form ourselves into an organization to be known as the Orange County Medical Association, and to be governed by such rules as may hereafter be determined upon."

On motion of Dr. Crane the secretary was authorized to receive the signatures of Dr. J. R. Medlock and Dr. L. H. Fuller, who had signified their willingness to become members, but were unable to be present. The following resolution was offered and unanimously carried:

"Resolved, That any regular physician of Orange county against whom no objection is raised at a subsequent meeting may be admitted and allowed to participate in the organization of this society."

Under this resolution Dr. J. H. Bullard of Anaheim and Dr. W. B. Wood of Orange were received and became participants. The names of the charter members, so to speak, together with their colleges of graduation to show the wide range of places from which they came to Southern California, are as follows, there being eleven in all:

W. B. Wall, M.D., Tustin, Jefferson Med. College, Pennsylvania; J. A. Crane, M.D., Santa Ana, Med. Dept. Wes. Res., Ohio; J. M. Lacy, M. D., Santa Ana, Med. Dept. U. of Nashville, Tenn.; C. D. Ball, M.D., Santa Ana, Univ. Bishops' Col., Quebec, Canada; J. P. Boyd, M.D., Santa Ana, Med. Dept. U. City of New York, N. Y.; J. L. Dryer, M.D., Santa Ana, Cin. Col. of M. & S., Ohio; S. B. Davis, M.D., Santa Ana, Med. Dept. U. of Michigan, Michigan; J. R. Medlock, M.D., Santa Ana, St. Louis Med. Col., Missouri; L. H. Fuller, M.D., Tustin, Med. Dept. Dartmouth Col., N. H.; J. H. Bullard, M.D., Anaheim, Harvard Med. Col., Massachusetts; W. B. Wood, M.D., Orange, Mo. Med. Col., Missouri.

The next meeting was held June 25th, at which time a Constitution and By-Laws were adopted, and under the permanent organization the following officers were elected and installed to serve until the first annual meeting in 1890:

President, Dr. W. B. Wall; Vice-President, Dr. J. M. Lacy; Treasurer, Dr. W. B. Wood; Secretary, Dr. J. P. Boyd. Board of Censors, Dr. C. D. Ball, Dr. J. R. Medlock, Dr. J. H. Bullard.

The first members elected under the Constitution were Dr. I. D. Mills, Santa Ana, Indiana Med. Col., Ind., and Dr. D. W. Hunt, Anaheim, Med. Dept. U. of Mich., whose applications were received in August and favorably acted upon in September. On Nov. 5th Dr. J. A. Blake of Fullerton was elected to membership, but there is no record of his ever having at any time honored the Association with his presence.

The year 1889 closed with fourteen members upon the roll, and no additions to this list occurred until 1894, while there was during this period a net loss of three on account of changes of location. These were the Dr. Blake above mentioned, Dr. S. B. Davis and Dr. L. H. Fuller, the two last named, charter members.

The minutes of these years show excellent work in the way of papers and discussions and study. The first paper was read by Dr. C. D. Ball at the meeting of July 2nd, 1889, who reported some interesting cases of pulmonary disease and exhibited some pathological specimens. From this time until the present, meetings have been regular and well attended, and the interest has never abated. Especially was this true of 1890. The first annual meeting was a public one held in Spurgeon's Hall, and addressed by Dr. Walter Lindley and Professor, now Judge Conrey of Los Angeles.

The year 1890 was full of interest, an important event occurring in the spring, when the Medical Society of California met in annual session in Los Angeles.

This was the successful fight against professional indecency and unethical conduct, the contest being carried into the State Society and into the Medical Society of Southern California, and resulting in the expulsion from both bodies of an offending member of those societies, although his membership with said societies antedated the formation of our own organization. The moral effect of this action has proven an excellent one for this Association, and has enabled it to uphold a high standard of medical ethics.

Under a provision of the Constitution, Drs. T. A. Davis and C. M. Fenn of San Diego and Dr. Elizabeth Follansbee of Los Angeles were elected honorary members of the Association. This action was taken in recognition of their eminent services in the profession and also as a token of appreciation for their sympathy and assistance in the contention before the State Society the previous year. Under a new by-law providing for associate members, Dr. F. A. Wood of Orange, a retired physician, was elected an associate member in 1891.

In June of this year, 1891, the Association entertained the Medical Society of Southern California, the meeting and banquet being held in what was then the Odd Fellows' Hall in the First National Bank building. The meeting was well attended and a good time was had by all. An excursion about and through the valley was greatly appreciated by the visiting doctors, although there was a marked absence of automobiles. Twice since then this Association has entertained the Southern Society, one of these times being in 1899, again without automobiles; the other being in 1908, when a crowd of machines were ready, but the weather was not.

From the very beginning of this organization, good work in the preparation of papers and presentation of cases for clinical study have been the rule. The average number of papers read annually for twenty years has been eight, making a grand total of one hundred and sixty. Until the completion of the Carnegie Library building the meetings have usually been held in the office of the physician whose time it was to read a paper or lead a discussion. For the most part these have been in Santa Ana, though many interesting sessions have been held in the surrounding towns when the physicians in such towns have seen fit to invite the members there. Since the Carnegie Library has been completed the sessions, when in Santa Ana, have been there in the Executive Committee room, adjoining which a growing library has been established in a convenient alcove containing at the present time several hundred volumes. All classes of subjects have been treated in the papers and discussions, and one who is disposed to search the records for the nature of these will find they have all kept pace with the progressive spirit of the profession. Though from the first organization in 1889 until 1894, the membership declined in numbers, it never fell below the original number eleven. Death has dealt kindly with us, only three active members having passed away during this period. In 1903 the loved and honored physician and gentleman, Dr. J. A. Crane, died suddenly in his home in Santa Ana. He had recently returned from a four years' service as superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane at Agnews, Cal. During this absence he retained his membership in the Association and came back to Orange county on account of failing health. In his splendid character, his attainments as a physician, his success in the public position above mentioned, this body has every reason to be proud, and as long as the Orange County Medical Association exists it will cherish and honor his memory.

Another, Dr. J. G. McCloud of Garden Grove, died while in active membership. Dr. McCloud joined the Association in 1903, but failing health prevented his attendance except on one or two occasions. He died at Newhall, where he had formerly practiced his profession. Of those who have left the county or retired from active membership, Dr. L. W. Allingham, who served as president in 1898, died a few years later in Ramsberg, Cal. Dr. Allingham was always an earnest and conscientious worker in the society, and added much to the interest as long as he remained a member, or until failing health caused him to remove from our midst. The next of the honored and revered ex-presidents to go was the late Dr. Wm. Burgess Wall, a man whose great interest not only in his profession but in all things relating to his fellow-men, brought him in contact with almost every social, business and professional interest in Orange county. Although a retired physician he was chosen the first president of the Association and served in the same capacity three successive terms several years later. His sympathies and his aspirations were always with the doctors of his time, and he strictly continued his relations to the Medical Society of California as well as the local organization. So far as known there have been no other deaths either among members or ex-members, although during the twenty years of the existence of this Association an even fifty names have been borne upon its roll of membership. Some have come into the county, affiliated with the Association for a longer or shorter period, and then moved on to other fields. Since under the rules of this Association membership is vacated by removal from the county and residence elsewhere, it is impossible to give the exact duration of any membership so terminated.

Beginning with the new influx of members in 1894, the first after the three accessions mentioned in the latter part of 1889, the list of members to the present time is as follows:

1894—J. G. Berneike, M.D., Santa Ana; L. N. Wheeler, M.D., Tustin; C. W. Rairdon, M.D., Santa Ana; F. E. Wilson, M.D., Westminster.

1895—A. F. Bradshaw, M.D., Orange; G. J. Rubleman, M.D., Santa Ana; L. W. Allingham, M.D., Tustin.

1896—None. The only year since 1894 up to date without accessions.

1897—J. B. Cook, M.D., Santa Ana; W. V. Marshburn, M.D., El Modena.

1898—G. S. Eddy, M.D., Anaheim; D. F. Royer, M.D., Orange.

1899—Wm. Freeman, M.D., Fullerton; H. S. Gordon, M.D., Westminster; F. M. Bruner, M.D., Santa Ana.

1900—A. Bennie, M.D., Santa Ana; J. A. Tyler, M.D., Anaheim.

1901—E. M. Freeman, M.D., Santa Ana; John Wehrly, M.D., Santa Ana.

1902—R. A. Cushman, M.D., Tustin; G. H. Dobson, M.D., Santa Ana.

1903—H. A. Johnson, M.D., Anaheim; Ida B. Parker, M.D., Orange; J. G. McCleod, M.D., Garden Grove; J. W. Jones, M.D., Orange.

1904—J. I. Clark, M.D., Santa Ana; J. M. Berlew, M.D., Santa Ana; G. A. Shank, M.D., Westminster.

1905—J. H. Beebe, M.D., Anaheim.

1906—C. C. Violet, M.D., Garden Grove; J. S. Gowen, M.D., Fullerton; C. L. Rich, M.D., Fullerton.

1907—F. J. Gobar, M.D., Fullerton; H. E. Barnes, M.D., Santa Ana; W. H. Syer, M.D., Anaheim.

1908—S. G. Huff, M.D., Westminster.

1909—H. M. Robertson, M.D., Santa Ana.

The present membership is twenty-four, embracing nearly all of the regular physicians in Orange county.

Of the original membership but five of the eleven remain upon the list, viz., Dr. J. M. Lacy, Dr. J. R. Medlock, Dr. C. D. Ball, Dr. J. P. Boyd and Dr. J. L. Dryer.

There have been seventeen presidents, Dr. W. B. Wall having served four years, first in 1889, again in 1894, 1895, 1896. Each of the others served single years as follows: 1890, Dr. Lacy; 1891, Dr. Medlock; 1892, Dr. Dryer; 1893, Dr. Ball; 1897, Dr. Crane; 1898, Dr. Allingham; 1899, Dr. Berneike, 1900, Dr. Wood; 1901, Dr. Gordon; 1902, Dr. Boyd; 1903, Dr. Wm. Freeman; 1904, Dr. Wilson; 1905, Dr. Jones; 1906, Dr. Dobson; 1907, Dr. Bruner; 1908, Dr. Wehrley.

There have been ten secretaries, viz: Dr. Boyd, Dr. Ball, Dr. Fuller, Dr. Dryer, Dr. Rubleman, Dr. J. B. Cook, Dr. Berneike, Dr. Gordon, Dr. Clark, Dr. Burlew. Dr. Boyd served three years, Dr. Ball two and a half years, Dr. Fuller one-half year, Dr. Dryer six and one-half years, Dr. Berneike one and one-half years, Dr. J. B. Cook one-half year, Dr. Gordon four years, Dr. Clark one-half year, Dr. Burlew one and one-half years.

In 1895 Dr. C. W. Rairdon was elected secretary, but never acted in that capacity.

The first constitution and by-laws were formed to meet the requirements of the Association and to conform to the code of ethics of the American Medical Association. These were afterwards remodeled under the constitution of the Medical Society of the State of California, each member of a county organization in affiliation with the parent society being also a member of the latter.

The endeavor has always been to promote harmony and good fellowship among physicians. Many knotty points in medical ethics have been thrashed out, sometimes to the satisfaction of all, at others to the disappointment of a part of the membership. The records which are to be preserved in the library of the Association contain all details of these disputes and controversies, and have no place in such a review as the present one. They are matters of history recorded in black and white, and if in the future any curious reader of this historical sketch, which is also to be a matter of record, should desire to read them, it will be an easy matter to find them. It will be better, however, to forget them and to ever bear in mind the good which this society has accomplished. May the next twenty years be as prosperous.

SAN LUIS OBISPO COUNTY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

The San Luis Obispo County Medical Association was founded September 29th, 1892. It was first known, in 1892, as the "S. L. O. and Northern Santa Barbara County Medical Association."

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY.

The San Bernardino County Medical Society was organized June 7, 1902, at a meeting of the regular physicians of San Bernardino County which met in San Bernardino and organized by electing Dr. J. P. Booth of Needles, President; Dr. Hoell Tyler, Vice-President; Dr. J. M. Hurley, Second Vice-President; Dr. C. O. Mackehnie, Secretary and Treasurer.

The society was organized with a membership of 16 and meetings were held in San Bernardino monthly.

Officers for the year 1903 were Dr. C. C. Browning, Highlands, President; Dr. J. M. Hurley, Vice-President; Dr. Harris, Secretary; and Dr. Wesley Thompson, Treasurer. At this meeting the rules and regulations adopted by the American Medical Association regarding County organizations were adopted.

Officers for 1904 were elected in December of that year: Dr. C. C. Browning, President; G. K. Scott, Vice-President; J. M. Hurley, Secretary; and Wesley Thompson, Treasurer.

Officers for 1905 were: Dr. Thomas M. Blythe, President; Vice-President, J. A. Champion; Secretary, D. C. Strong; Treasurer, Dr. John H. Evans of Highland.

Officers elected December 14, 1906, were: D. C. Strong, President; H. M. Mills, Vice-President; J. A. Shreck, Second Vice-President; M. A. Bennett, Secretary; W. A. Taltaval, Treasurer.

In 1907 the San Bernardino County Medical Society and the Redlands Medical Society consolidated and changed the place of meeting from San Bernardino to Redlands. The officers for this year remained the same as for 1906.

Officers for 1907 were: Dr. W. P. Burke, President; Dr. Tyler, Vice-President; Dr. Moseley, Secretary; Dr. Taltaval, Treasurer. During the year 1909 the society met Tuesday evening of each week and took up the regular post-graduate work according to the outlines as given by the American Medical Association.

In December, 1909, the same officers were elected to serve for the year 1910. A physicians' club was formed, which has secured club room and furnishes free of charge a meeting-place for the County Society. The society has started a library and has subscribed for a number of works of general reference and a number of the members have donated medical magazines, so there is on file at all times practically all of the leading medical publications of the United States.

LOCAL SOCIETIES.

LOS ANGELES ACADEMY OF MEDICINE.

The Los Angeles Academy of Medicine was founded July 8th, 1899.

The founders were as follows: Dr. J. T. Stewart, J. S. Turner, C. W. Fish, A. B. Newkirk, B. O. Webb, S. L. Kistler, C. E. Bacon, C. W. Bryson, B. F. Church, E. S. Carlisle, J. K. Carson and J. W. Trueworthy.

The names of the presidents and the years they served were as follows:

Dr. Newkirk, to January, 1900; Dr. J. W. Trueworthy, 1900; Dr. B. F. Church, 1901; Dr. B. O. Webb, 1902; Dr. F. W. Pottenger, 1903; Dr. F. C. Shurtleff, 1904; Dr. C. B. Nichols, 1905; Dr. J. H. Seymour, 1906; Dr. R. W. Miller, 1907; Dr. R. V. Day, part of 1908; Dr. F. S. Byington, balance of 1908-1909.

The general aim of the society is to organize the medical profession, to encourage a high standard of professional qualification and to promote professional brotherhood and to labor for the advancement of medicine and surgery.

The present officers are as follows: President, Dr. F. S. Byington; Vice-President, Dr. Thos. Powell; Secretary and Treasurer, Dr. A. Tyroler.

At present there are forty members.

LOS ANGELES CLINICAL AND PATHOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

The Constitution and By-laws of the Los Angeles Clinical and Pathological Society state that its object shall be the scientific advancement of medicine and surgery and promotion of sociability and good fellowship.

The minutes of the meeting of organization read as follows:

"Pursuant to call sent by Dr. A. S. Lobinger of Los Angeles, looking to the formation of a clinical and pathological society to 53 physicians and surgeons of Los Angeles and vicinity, 30 responded in person and five sent regrets and valid excuses for inability to attend the initial meeting.

"It was announced that the Society, if formed, would be limited in number, at whose meetings there would be no stated paper, but exhibition of specimens, cases, and clinical reports, and it should be the especial object of the Society to promote scientific advancement and social good fellowship.

"The following physicians were present in person:

W. W. Beckett	Milbank Johnson	L. M. Powers
S. P. Black	Joseph King	S. J. Quint
F. D. Bullard	Geo. W. Lasher	Albert Soiland
Geo. L. Cole	A. S. Lobinger	F. C. Shurtleff
T. J. Coffey	C. D. Lockwood	E. R. Smith
B. F. Church	F. W. Miller	H. H. Sherk
A. M. Dodge	F. C. E. Mattison	J. H. Utley
H. Bert. Ellis	Ross Moore	L. G. Visscher
E. W. Fleming	C. B. Nichols	Chester L. Magee
J. R. Haynes	P. C. H. Pahl	O. O. Witherbee.

The following gentlemen, unable to be present, were also regarded as charter members:

W. J. Barlow	E. B. Hoag	L. S. Thorpe.
Norman Bridge	F. M. Pottenger

Dr. A. S. Lobinger was appointed temporary chairman and Dr. F. D. Bullard secretary, for the meeting.

On motion, the chair appointed a Committee on Constitution and By-laws, of which the chair was made ex-officio a member.

The chair appointed Drs. E. R. Smith and Wm. Dodge.

The meeting took a recess of 15 minutes.

After the recess, the meeting reconvened and adopted the report of the committee with such alterations and additions as now appear in the Constitution and By-laws.

The meeting, on motion, adopted the second Saturday of the month as the stated monthly meeting.

The Society then proceeded to the election of officers.

A. S. LOBINGER, President.

F. C. E. MATTISON, First Vice-President.

J. H. UTLEY, Second Vice-President.

F. D. BULLARD, Secretary.

JOHN R. HAYNES, Treasurer.

The first scientific meeting was held on December 12, 1903.

The career of the organization has been unique in many respects, and has been particularly notable because of the excellent manner in which the hopes of its founders have been carried out.

The membership is limited to 50 physicians, and there is nearly always a waiting list.

The character of the meetings may be understood from the section of the by-laws relating thereto:

"At each regular meeting after disposing of the regular business, the first order of the program will be the presentation of patients, followed by the exhibition of pathological specimens and new instruments. Finally, upon the roll call of the Secretary, each member, in response to his name, shall have the opportunity of briefly reporting cases, which shall be open for general discussion.

"A member must be present at the roll call to be credited as present at the meeting.

"No papers shall be read before this Society."

The officers of the Society have been as follows:

1904—President, A. S. Lobingier; 1st Vice-President, F. C. E. Mattison; 2nd Vice-President, J. H. Utley; Secretary, F. D. Bullard; Treasurer, John R. Haynes.

1905—President, J. H. Utley; 1st Vice-Pres., C. B. Nichols; 2nd Vice-Pres., C. D. Lockwood; Secretary, Chas. L. King; Treasurer, W. W. Beckett.

1906—President, Geo. L. Cole; 1st Vice-Pres., H. H. Sherk; 2nd Vice-Pres., O. O. Witherbee; Secretary, Albert Soiland; Treasurer, Carl Kurtz.

1907—President, W. W. Beckett; 1st Vice-Pres., E. R. Smith; 2nd Vice-Pres., M. L. Moors; Secretary, Titian Coffey; Treasurer, Carl Kurtz.

1908—President, H. G. Brainerd; 1st Vice-Pres., Wm. A. Edwards; 2nd Vice-Pres., W. H. Roberts; Secretary, Harvey McNeil; Treas., Harvey McNeil.

1909—President, H. Bert. Ellis; 1st Vice-Pres., Carl Kurtz; 2nd Vice-Pres., Ross Moore; Secretary, C. W. Pierce; Treasurer, C. W. Pierce.

1910—President, M. L. Moore; 1st Vice-Pres., Frank Bullard; 2nd Vice-Pres., O. O. Witherbee; Secretary, Dudley Fulton; Treasurer, Dudley Fulton.

1911—President, Dr. H. H. Sherk; 1st Vice-Pres., Dr. Stanley P. Black; 2nd Vice-Pres., Dr. W. H. Hibbard; Secretary-Treasurer, Dr. Dudley Fulton.

The Society meets once every month, and following the presentation of specimens, patients and verbal case reports, there is a buffet luncheon, which has been found to add greatly to the development of good fellowship among the members of the Society.

The membership at the time this sketch is written includes the following physicians:

Dr. C. W. Anderson	Dr. W. E. Hibbard	Dr. P. C. H. Pahl
Dr. Chas. L. Allen	Dr. W. W. Howard	Dr. C. W. Pierce
Dr. W. W. Beckett ✓	Dr. Chas. L. King	Dr. F. M. Pottenger ✓
Dr. H. G. Brainerd ✓	Dr. Jos. M. King ✓	Dr. L. M. Powers ✓

THE MEDICAL SYMPOSIUM SOCIETY OF LOS ANGELES.

In the fall of 1905, several of the younger medical men of Los Angeles conceived the idea of organizing a society whose membership was to be confined to the young men, and whose object was to be the study of advanced medical thought, teaching and procedure as indicated by its name; its meetings were to take the shape of a symposium upon the subject for study.

Organization was effected in October, 1905, with Dr. H. G. McNeil as its first President and with Dr. Dudley Fulton as Secretary. The following were charter members:

Dr. Titian J. Coffey	Dr. George Laubersheimer
Dr. Guy Cochran	Dr. E. C. Moore
Dr. J. B. Cook	Dr. Albert Moore
Dr. E. J. Cook	Dr. Ross Moore
Dr. John Colliver	Dr. H. G. McNeil
Dr. A. J. Downs	Dr. Wm. R. Molony
Dr. Frank Dillingham	Dr. C. W. Pierce
Dr. E. J. Dillon	Dr. Leon Roth
Dr. Dudley Fulton	Dr. Don Skeel
Dr. John C. Ferbert	Dr. Albert Soiland
Dr. Alfred Fellows	Dr. Rea Smith
Dr. Harry Garcelon	Dr. Raymon Taylor.
Dr. L. J. Huff

The meetings were held in the offices of the various members, were well attended and full of instruction and profit to all.

The first meeting of each year took the form of a formal dinner, which occasions were the scene of great pleasure and friendly feeling to all members.

The year 1906-07 saw Dr. John C. Ferbert as President and Dr. E. C. Moore as Secretary.

During 1907-08 Dr. Wm. R. Molony was President and Dr. Arthur Godin was Secretary.

1908-09 saw Dr. Rea Smith in the chair and Dr. Don Frick as Secretary. During this year the policy of the Society was modified so as to provide for the consideration of case reports, clinical cases and pathological specimens at each regular meeting. This feature has proved to be a success and has added much to the interest of the programs.

The officers for 1909-10 were: President, Dr. Don Frick, and Secretary, Dr. C. W. Anderson; and for 1910-11, were Dr. E. C. Moore, President, and Dr. F. L. Anton, Secretary-Treasurer.

Since the organization of the Society several members have dropped out and their places have been filled by Drs. W. W. Richardson, E. H. Wiley, P. H. Lunde, Harry Voorhees, T. R. McNab, M. Creamer, Don Frick and H. H. Lissner, and as honorary member, Dr. E. L. Leonard.

The Society has a membership limited to thirty; this number seems to be most satisfactory, in that it provides ample opportunity for all members to present a paper from time to time and to frequently take part in the discussions.

The Society has proven its value and its future success seems assured, in that the interest of its members and the quality of the work done has improved year by year.

CHAPTER VI.

MEDICAL COLLEGES.

THE LOS ANGELES DEPARTMENT OF THE COLLEGE OF MEDICINE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA.

This institution during the years 1885 to 1909 was the medical department of the University of Southern California. In July, 1909, the property of the college was deeded to the State University of California, and its faculty became the faculty of the Los Angeles Department of the College of Medicine of the University of California. The history of the institution deals therefore with two periods: the University of Southern California period, from 1885 to 1909, and the State University of California period, beginning in the latter year.

First as regards the origin of the institution:

In the year 1880 the State of California chartered the University of Southern California, and the College of Liberal Arts began its work of teaching in the following year. Five years later, the Board of Trustees empowered Dr. J. P. Widney to take steps toward the organization of a medical department of the University and upon his call, the first faculty met at his office and formally established "The College of Medicine of the University of Southern California."

The minutes of the first meeting give the following account of the proceedings:

"A preliminary meeting of the Profession was held in the office of Dr. J. P. Widney in the Widney Building on First Street near Spring on March 31, 1885, to consider the advisability of organizing a Medical Department of the University of Southern California.

"Dr. Widney, who had been elected Dean of the Faculty by the Board of Directors of the University, with power to organize the Medical Department, occupied the chair. On motion of Dr. Lindley, Dr. Percival was elected Secretary of the meeting.

"The opinions expressed were largely in favor of prompt and energetic action in regard to the matter, and one and all without exception, recommended that the institution be placed at once on a footing equal to any, and superior to the majority of medical colleges of the United States. Many expressed themselves as being unwilling to have any hand in the organization of any school, other than the very best."

This thought of a college aiming to do work equal to the very best, which was laid down by the founders of the College, many of whom are still associated with the institution, has been kept constantly in mind. This College was the fourth in the United States to insist upon a three-year course of medicine and from its inception almost, has been a member of the Association of American Medical Colleges, subscribing in all particulars to its requirements, and endeavoring always to raise the standard of medical education and attainment in the Great Southwest.

The first session of the College was held in a brick building still standing at 447 Aliso Street, and there, for many years, the work of instruction was carried on.

In 1895 the College came into possession of its present extensive site extending from Buena Vista to Castelar, between Ord and Alpine Streets, on which lots the buildings named below have been erected. This location is in the oldest portion of the city, founded more than a hundred years ago, and it is in this section of the city that the Mexican and foreign population is crowded. For these reasons, it has an admirable environment to draw from for clinical material, more than 15,000 patients receiving aid at this Dispensary annually.

The Founders' Building.—In 1895, this building, a three-story structure facing Buena Vista Street, was erected at a cost of $20,000. This structure has been named the Founders' Building, as a tribute to the loyalty and work of the original members of the Faculty and their immediate successors, whose efforts made the erection of this building possible. The original Faculty included Doctors M. M. Bovard, J. P. Widney, W. G. Cochran, H. H. Maynard, Joseph Kurtz, W. LeMoyné Wills, G. W. Lasher, H. S. Orme, Walter Lindley, F. T. Bicknell, J. H. Utley, W. B. Percival, C. A. H. de Szigethy, A. McFarland, E. A. Follansbee, J. S. Baker, N. Nadeau, A. F. Darling and R. M. Widney. Among those who later became identified with the original faculty were Doctors W. L. Wade, F. L. Haynes, J. R. Haynes, H. Bert. Ellis, D. G. MacGowan, H. G. Breanerd, D. C. Barber, N. P. Conrey, Wm. D. Babcock, F. D. Bullard, W. W. Beckett, George L. Cole.

The Hendryx Pathological Laboratory.—On January 6th, 1899, Dr. W. A. Hendryx, as a memorial to his wife, Lucy Sheppard Hendryx, presented to the College an admirably arranged and equipped two-story building, designed by Prof. Stanley P. Black, for the Department of Pathology. This building, which cost $10,000, is located some distance from the noise and dust of the street.

The Dispensary Building.—The dispensary clinic rooms, until 1905, were in Founders' Building, but in that year, at a cost of $20,000, a new building to the rear and south of the Hendryx Laboratory, was erected.

The Barlow Medical Library.—In 1906, Dr. W. Jarvis Barlow, a member of the faculty, erected on Buena Vista Street, just opposite Founders' Building, a library which he presented to the medical profession of the Great Southwest. It is a handsomely equipped fire-proof concrete-brick structure costing more than thirty thousand dollars. In this building the College has placed its library of more than five thousand volumes. The library facilities are open to the medical students and profession of the city and of the entire Southwest.

The careers of the alumni of the institution as measured by professional attainments and honors, during this brief quarter of a century, may be taken as an index of the standards and character of instruction which has pervaded this College of Medicine from its inception. The list of graduates is as follows:

The desirability of having all medical education under the direct supervision and control of the State was foreseen by him who may be said to have been the moving spirit among the founders of the College of Medicine of the University of Southern California, Dr. J. P. Widney, the first and for many years the Dean of the medical department, and for a number of years also the President of the University of Southern California.

In two addresses of more than twenty years ago, printed in Volume II of the Southern California Practitioner, he voiced views of so advanced a stand that it has taken the score of years since for the majority of practitioners to fully appreciate the wisdom of his foresight and plans.

The first of Dr. Widney's articles from which we quote, is from his address as chairman of the Committee on Medical Education delivered before the Medical Society of the State of California in the year 1887. Therein he said:

HOW WOULD THIS PLAN DEAL WITH THE SO-CALLED NEW SCHOOLS OF MEDICINE?

"In this way. The only point upon which these schools base their claims for recognition is upon some peculiarity in the use of drugs.

"This leaves the great fields of anatomy, physiology, chemistry, pathology, surgery, obstetrics, and in fact the whole range of medical science except therapeutics, unquestioned even by the schools which teach what to us seem unsound views in medical treatment. Let the State, then, by law grant the right to confer the degree of Bachelor of Medicine to all schools teaching in good faith the branches which have been enumerated, together with such others as may be designated, requiring a three years' course of a specified number of months each year, and certain clinical facilities.

"Let the graduates of that school, whatever may be the peculiar views held upon points of therapeutics, have the right to enter the State University for their final year, and if they can pass the examination let them be graduated with the degree of Doctor of Medicine, this degree carrying with it the right to practice medicine.

“With this enforced high standard of education the question of therapeutics may safely be left to settle itself. The important point is to see to it that every practitioner of medicine shall be an educated man. There will be no more speedy way of putting an end to unsound views upon such points than to give to the student a thorough training in the great underlying principles of disease, its causation, its phenomena, and its pathological results in the human body.

“The men who have been thoroughly trained in these points may, as a general thing, be safely left to judge of principles of practice. I believe that the safest, the best, the most speedy, and in fact the only, way to put an end to narrow and unsound views upon therapeutics, and to schools which may be based upon them, is not outlawry, but education.”

The other excerpt which we quote is from a paper on “Rational Medicine,” delivered the same year before the Unity Club of Los Angeles. Here Dr. Widney speaks as follows:

“AND THE QUESTION OF SCHOOLS? OF DOGMAS? OF THEORIES?—WHAT OF THESE?”

“Time will settle these: time, and more knowledge. As I have already said, one of the merits of Rational Medicine of today is, that it has learned to beware of positive dogmas and theories, and the schools which are based exclusively upon them. It has found that they are short-lived, and die out; for they are based not upon science, but upon one view of science. Then, if that view proves to be narrow, or mistaken, or false, there is nothing left, and of course they die. It has felt in its own history the evil of these things, and how they may become a clog and a bar to progress. It has learned that even today, with all the great advance which has been made in the accumulation and classification of facts, the stock is not yet sufficient for final generalization; and so has learned to work and to wait. In so varied a field, with a causation so varied, will a single general theory of disease, its causation and its management, ever be possible? It may be doubted. It certainly is not as yet. And so Rational Medicine, grown wiser than the old, aims to waste no time, no labor, upon problems which are as yet of necessity unsolvable. Instead, its aim now is to delve yet more deeply into the facts, and to push ever higher the standard of medical education. It feels that by this road, and by this road only, is the way to the higher truth.

“And to the various schools of medical practice, schools basing themselves upon rigid dogmas and theories, it has only this to say: ‘We cannot feel that you are doing the most worthy work. ‘We cannot feel that you are best furthering the advancement of human knowledge. We can only feel that, whether you perceive it or not, you are dropping out of the current of progress; that by your premature generalization, and your rigid dogmas, you are tying your own hands in the battle. It is with no feeling of unkindness we look upon you; yet, standing as you do upon your narrower basis, we cannot recognize you as most worthy members of a liberal science.

“‘Only, we plead with you to weed out the low-grade institutions of learning in your ranks. Raise, as we are doing, the standard of education, and keep advancing it ever higher. If you are honest in your belief, and we do not propose to question this, you need not fear the light, and increased knowledge. Let these be the test: the dross will disappear, and whatever of good there may be will remain.’

“And the time will come, in that newer day, upon that higher plane of science, when schools will drop away; and no one shall say, ‘I am of Paul, and

I of Apollon,' but the science of medicine shall be one: the Doctor shall become Doctissimus, and he shall be only a physician, a healer of men."

All of which goes to show and to demonstrate to the Editor that if we would be wise today, it will be well for us to know and study somewhat of what those who have gone before us have done and advocated.

What Dr. Widney advocated two decades ago, in due time came to pass, the story of how the College of Medicine of the University of Southern California became the Los Angeles Medical Department of the State University being briefly outlined in an editorial in the March, 1909, Southern California Practitioner.

The affiliation of the College of Medicine, the University of Southern California, with the University of California has now been consummated. The physicians who founded this medical college, of whom the leading spirit was Dr. Joseph P. Widney, the first Dean, and the physicians who have become actively interested in its welfare during later years, of whom the leading spirit is Dr. W. Jarvis Barlow, the present Dean, have done a noble work in bringing this institution to its present respectable efficiency.

The founders have devoted time and money for a quarter of century and those who have joined the staff later, for their proportional time, have done as much.

This has been an unselfish effort to maintain the standard of medical education in Southern California and to assist in making Los Angeles the metropolis of the Pacific Southwest educational center.

This College was one of the very first to require a three years' course and then again it was right in the van when a four years' course was adopted.

Time passed, the maintenance of a medical college became more and more expensive, and the University of Southern California, with which it was affiliated, was obliged to use all the income of its endowment for the support of its College of Liberal Arts.

A committee, consisting of Dr. W. Jarvis Barlow, Dr. H. Bert. Ellis, Dr. H. G. Brainerd and Dr. Granville MacGowan, met and decided that the best plan to perpetuate the College as a high-class educational institution would be to have it made an affiliated branch of the University of California. In pursuance of this idea this committee, increased by the addition of Dr. Joseph P. Widney, the first Dean of the College, went to Berkeley to present the plan to President Benjamin Ide Wheeler and the Board of Regents of the University of California. President Wheeler took great interest in the proposition, but said the movement must first receive the indorsement of President Bovard and the trustees of the University of Southern California, as he would take no step that would mar the happy relations that had always existed between the two institutions. Drs. Widney, Brainerd, Barlow and MacGowan each made a brief presentation of the plan to the Board of Regents, who listened with deep interest. President Wheeler, Dean Barlow and the attorney for the Board of Regents then drew up a tentative plan, which provided:

1st. That nothing must be done that would destroy the entente cordiale between the University of California and the University of Southern California.

2nd. That all property used by the Medical College of the University of Southern California must be deeded to the University of California free from all debt, and that the College of Medicine should take care of itself financially for two years from July 1, 1909, without help from the University of California.

It was also agreed that: In the event that the University of California should ever cease to conduct a medical college in Los Angeles, this property shall revert to the Los Angeles College Clinic Association.

On returning to Los Angeles Dr. Barlow presented the matter to President Bovard and the Board of Trustees of the University of Southern California. With that broad-mindedness which has always characterized their attitude towards the medical department they agreed to the sequestration of the Medical College and bade that department Godspeed in its new relations. Dr. Barlow then presented the necessity of paying a mortgage of $20,000, that was the only lien on the college property, to Mr. Jackson A. Graves, vice-president and manager of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank of Los Angeles. Mr. Graves, with that clear-sighted wisdom and promptness of decision for which he is noted, immediately saw the force of Dr. Barlow's statement and said he would give the $20,000 needed in memory of his son Selwyn Emmet Graves, who was completing his senior year in the College at the time of his death.

There was in addition to this mortgage of $20,000 a note of $2,000, which several members of the faculty personally united in paying.

This matter being settled, Dr. Barlow attended another meeting of the Board of Regents at Berkeley, when he demonstrated that the Medical College was ready to comply with all the requirements. The final papers were ordered prepared and signed.

This closed one of the most important events in the educational history of Southern California. It also brings the University of California closer to us of the South.

We believe it will prove of advantage to the University of California. We can now hear its heart beat. It pulsates with red blood. It is not simply a Berkeley institution, a Los Angeles institution or a San Francisco institution; it is a great CALIFORNIA University.

With that broad outlook on humanity, for which the administration of President Wheeler has a reputation that is co-extant with civilization itself, the University of California does not necessarily follow precedents, but it creates examples that will be followed with pride for ages yet to come.

The following resolutions are of interest in connection with the transfer of the College of Medicine of the University of Southern California to the State University, and the gift of Mr. J. A. Graves of $20,000 to pay a mortgage of that amount existing on the property.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED AT THE MEETING OF THE FACULTY OF THE COLLEGE OF MEDICINE, UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, ON FEBRUARY 13, 1909.

WHEREAS, The Faculty of the College of Medicine and the Board of Trustees and different departments of the University of Southern California have for twenty-four years harmoniously and successfully worked together in their efforts to give to Southern California a medical college of highest standing;

AND WHEREAS, The whole trend of modern medical education, as well as the public health interests of California, have made it desirable that the Los Angeles College of Medicine, U. S. C., should identify itself as a department of the State University, so that both the interests of medical education and of public health throughout the State might be the better conserved;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That in bringing about the consolidation of the College of Medicine with the State University of California, the Faculty of the College of Medicine express to the Board of Trustees of the University of Southern California, its appreciation of the generous manner in which that Board co-operated with the Faculty, in bringing about such union; and further, that the Faculty of the College of Medicine assures the Board of Trustees and the various faculties of the University of Southern California of its continued interest and best wishes for the success of that University.

GEO. H. KRESS, Secretary.

W. JARVIS BARLOW, Dean.

THE MEDICAL COLLEGE TO MR. GRAVES.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 19th, 1909.

J. A. Graves, Esq.

DEAR SIR:—In accepting your gift of $20,000 to the Los Angeles Medical Department of the University of California we wish to convey to you our sincere thanks and gratitude. We believe that in so doing you have erected a most fitting monument to the memory of your son, whose ability, industry and character we had hoped would have placed him in the front rank of his profession as it had already done among his college mates.

In the practical side of his studies your son was most interested, and your gift enables this College to continue its gratuitous treatment of the poor, empowers its profession to instruct the students of the future in a much more satisfactory way, and enables the institution to enter into its wider field untrammelled.

Although your son has passed beyond, through your tender love as his father, his spirit will for all time be at work in a most practical and efficient way in the relief of human suffering and the furtherance of professional skill among the students.

In acknowledgment of this service and in memory of so talented and beloved a young man, the faculty of the Medical College has recommended that the Clinical Building of this institution shall be called "The Selwyn Emmett Graves Memorial Free Dispensary."

JOSEPH KURTZ,
H. G. BRAINERD,
H. BERT ELLIS,
Committee.

REPLY OF MR. GRAVES.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26, 1909.

Dr. Joseph Kurtz, Dr. H. G. Brainerd and Dr. H. Bert Ellis, Los Angeles, Cal.

GENTLEMEN:—I beg to acknowledge your kind favor of the 15th inst. I trust that what I have done for the Medical College will not only prove a lasting memorial to my son, but be a great benefit to suffering humanity through all the days yet to come.

With kindest regards, believe me

Very truly yours,

J. A. GRAVES.

THE COLLEGE CLINIC ASSOCIATION TO MR. GRAVES.

Mr. Jackson A. Graves.

DEAR SIR:—At the regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Los Angeles College Clinic Association held in Los Angeles, Feb. 23rd, 1909, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted and ordered spread upon the minutes of the Association, and a copy of the same ordered to be engrossed and presented to yourself:

WHEREAS, The love and affection of a father and a broad interest in his fellow-man has inspired Jackson A. Graves to assume the payment of a debt of twenty thousand dollars incurred by this Association for the erection and equipment of a free dispensary building for the cure and relief of the indigent sick of Los Angeles and the better instruction of medical students; and he by so doing has aided and facilitated the establishment of a co-ordinate branch of the Medical Department of the University of California in the City of Los Angeles—thereby greatly advancing the cause of higher medical education in the State of California. And all this through and by cause of the fond memory of a son who had devoted almost four years of his life to generous, thoughtful work in this dispensary, while at the same time fitting himself for a brilliant career in medicine, these beneficent plans being suddenly and tragically subverted by his untimely death.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, That this building in memoriam be called after and hereby is and shall be known as the Selwyn Emmett Graves Memorial Free Dispensary, and that a tablet upon which these facts are inscribed be erected within and made a part of this building; and further

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees of this Association acting for the Regents of the University of California accept the Selwyn Emmett Graves Memorial Dispensary building at the hands of Jackson A. Graves and hereby express their gratitude for this thoughtful, gracious and timely act of charity and educational assistance.

GRANVILLE MACGOWAN,
W. LEMOYNE WILLS,
WALTER LINDLEY,
Committee.

The significance of control of the College of Medicine by the Regents of the State University lies in the fact that the University of California is an integral part of the public educational system of the State. As such it completes the work begun in the public schools. Through aid from the State and the United States, and by private gifts, it furnishes facilities for instruction in literature and in science, and in the profession of art, law, medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy. In the Colleges of Letters, Social Sciences, Natural Sciences, Commerce, Agriculture, Mechanics, Mining, Civil Engineering, and Chemistry, these privileges are offered without charge for tuition, to all residents of California who are qualified for admission. Non-residents of California are charged a tuition fee of ten dollars each half-year. In the Professional Colleges, except that of Law, moderate tuition fees are charged. The instruction in all the colleges is open to all qualified persons, without distinction of sex. The Constitution of the State provides for the perpetuation of the University, with all its departments.

The organization of the University comprises the following legally constituted colleges and departments:

I. IN BERKELEY.

- | | |
|---------------------------------|--|
| 1. College of Letters. | 7. College of Mining. |
| 2. College of Social Sciences. | 8. College of Civil Engineering. |
| 3. College of Natural Sciences. | 9. College of Chemistry. |
| 4. College of Commerce. | 10. College of Medicine, first and second years. |
| 5. College of Agriculture. | |
| | 6. College of Mechanics. |

II. AT MOUNT HAMILTON.

Lick Astronomical Department (Lick Observatory).

III. IN SAN FRANCISCO.

1. San Francisco Institute of Art.
2. Hastings College of the Law.
3. San Francisco Department of the College of Medicine, third and fourth years.
4. College of Dentistry.
5. California College of Pharmacy.

IV. IN LOS ANGELES.

Los Angeles Department of the College of Medicine.
Second, third and fourth years.

The College of Medicine of the University therefore carries on its work in three cities, the student doing his first and second year work at Berkeley and choosing the San Francisco or Los Angeles departments in which to complete the work of the third and fourth years.

In order that it may carry out its obligations to students already matriculated at Los Angeles, the Medical Faculty in that city has been permitted by the Board of Regents of the University to carry on the work, not only of the third and fourth years, but also of the second year of the medical course. This arrangement applies, however, only to the session of 1909-1910; thereafter, the work of the first and second years of the medical course will be carried on at Berkeley, the instruction in both Los Angeles and San Francisco dealing only with third and fourth-year students.

All students matriculating in 1909 for the Los Angeles Medical Department of the University will be required to do their first and second years' work at Berkeley.

All such first-year students of the session of 1909-1910 who matriculate at Los Angeles will be required to present as entrance credentials the full high school course of fifteen units (or thirty credits) as outlined elsewhere in this circular.

All students who matriculate for first-year work after June, 1910, in addition to the high school credits noted above, must have completed at least two full years of preliminary training in the undergraduate department of the University of California, or of an institution of acceptable standing.

As noted above, beginning with the session of 1910-1911, the studies of the Los Angeles Department will be limited to the clinical work of the junior and senior years, training in the laboratory and scientific branches of the first two grades being obtained at Berkeley.

For entrance into the first year of medicine, two years' previous work in a College of Liberal Arts, covering the studies outlined in the pre-medical course of the State University will be required. Students who take three years of work in the College of Natural Sciences will be eligible to the degrees of both A.B. and M.D.

Just how this entire change of affiliation will work out, time alone can decide, but with freedom of worry over the first two years, and concentration of energy and thought on the clinical branches of the last two years in which medical practitioners are particularly interested, it would seem, that with State support, the future of the institution could not be otherwise than most successful. Such at least is the thought and belief of those who have labored long and earnestly for the development of this institution and whose past services and loyalty may be taken as an index of their desire to place it under those conditions most conducive to its highest development and usefulness.

THE COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

The first public notice of the intention to establish a second college of medicine in the city of Los Angeles, probably appeared in the Los Angeles Medical Journal of January 1, 1904, in the following editorial:

"Los Angeles is to have one more medical school, The College of Physicians and Surgeons, a charter for which has already been issued, a part of the faculty have been chosen from the great abundance of available material here, plans for college building and hospital are being perfected, several available and well-located sites are under consideration, and the institution, which is to be a high-class medical school in every particular, will be open to students the coming fall. Los Angeles already has one medical school, and it is not the aim of the medical gentlemen who are connected with the new school to in any way antagonize the school that now exists here. Los Angeles is a great city, with a great future, with a climate unexcelled, and one particularly adapted to student life; a city redolent with the breath of flowers and orange blossoms, just far enough inland to enjoy the sea breeze, and be free from the dampness of the immediate sea shore. What more could be desired by the young man or woman engaged in the study of medicine? Snow and cold is unknown in Los Angeles, the student can enjoy out-of-door life the whole year round, thereby keeping his health up to the standard, all of which should be an inducement to students to come to Los Angeles for their medical education.

"Los Angeles now has a population, approximately of 150,000, which will increase materially each year. We have here a large floating population, which will furnish much clinical material, especially when they know they will receive the very best of service in the dispensary clinic. Many physicians come to Los Angeles for pleasure every year and would gladly take post-graduate work if the opportunity afforded, and with one other first-class college in the field, it will stimulate both institutions to do their best work. It will advertise Los Angeles as a medical center, will turn the attention of students this way, and thereby this new medical school, instead of being a detriment to the school now here, will be a benefit to it and each to the other, and consequently there should be no jealousy between the two institutions as doubtless there will not be. The rivalry there should be, is for each school to endeavor to make its course more thorough, and their qualification of entrance and exit equal to the best schools in the country. The trustees of the new 'College of Physicians and Surgeons,' are determined to make this a high-class school in every respect, and under these conditions this Journal extends to the new college a hearty welcome, and to the old, assurance of our good will and support, and it shall be the policy of this Journal to assist in every way possible the trustees and faculties of the two schools to make the word 'Los Angeles,' synonymous with high-class medical education."

In the May, 1904, issue of the same journal appeared the official announcement and faculty of the institution, as follows:

The College of Physicians and Surgeons, Los Angeles, California, was granted a charter by the State of California on December 11, 1903.

The first college year will open October 6, 1904. Examination for entrance will be held October 3, 4 and 5.

Course, four years of eight months each year.

The standard of entrance is that adopted by the Association of American Medical Colleges. Special attention will be given in teaching Anatomy, Pathology, Bacteriology and Chemistry.

The college building will be new and thoroughly equipped with the latest and most approved apparatus in all departments for demonstration and the practical teaching of medicine in its broadest sense, thoroughness in all the departments being the aim of the teachers.

The Board of Trustees consists of Charles B. Nichols, M.D., President; Fred C. Shurtleff, M.D., Vice-President; Benjamin F. Church, M.D., Dean; Charles W. Bryson, M.D., Vice-Dean; James H. Seymour, M.D., Treasurer; James H. Shults, M.D., Secretary; M. R. Toland, M.D., and Earl Rogers, Esq.

The original faculty roster contained the names of Charles William Bryson, B.A., M.D., Vice-Dean of the Faculty and Professor of Gynecology and Abdominal Surgery; Charles Byron Nichols, M.D., Professor of Surgery; Benjamin Franklin Church, M.D., Dean of the Faculty and Professor of Ophthalmology and Otology; Fred Cazeaux Shurtleff, M.D., Professor of Surgery; James Harvey Seymour, M.D., Professor of Obstetrics; Frederick John Kruell, M.D., Professor of Therapeutics; Marcellus Randall Toland, A.B., M.D., Professor of Electro-Therapeutics; James Henry Shults, B.A., M.A., M.D., Professor of Physiology and Dietetics; John Ridlon, M.D., Professor of Orthopedic Surgery; Ernest Bryant Hoag, B.S., A.M., M.D., Professor of Pathology, Bacteriology and Clinical Microscopy; Robert Harry Burton, M.D., Professor of Anatomy; George Ball Rowell, M.D., C.M., M.R., C.S.Eng., Professor of Medicine; Adalbert Fenyess, M.D., Professor of Nervous Diseases; Henry Parrish, M.D., Professor of Materia Medica and Pharmacology; Clare Cook Young, B.A., M.D., Professor of Chemistry; Robert Verne Day, M.D., Professor of Toxicology and Lecturer of Surgery; John William Harpster, M.D., Professor of Mental Diseases; Francis Oliver Yost, M.D., Professor of Pediatrics; Samuel Jones Mattison, M.D., Professor of Physical Diagnosis; Earl Rogers, Esq., Professor of Medical Jurisprudence; John Jay Still, A.M., M.D., Adjunct Professor of Surgery; William H. Fales, M.D., Associate Professor of Obstetrics; Zachery Taylor Mallaby, M.D., Associate Professor of Gynecology; Richard J. Stovall, M.D., Associate Professor of Gynecology; George Jesse Lund, M.D., Associate Professor of Laryngology and Rhinology; Francis Marion Parker, LL.B., D.D., Lecturer on Dental Surgery; Frank Smith Byington, M.D., Associate Professor of Genito-Urinary Diseases; Walter Sidney Johnson, A.M., M.D., Associate Professor of Obstetrics; Thomas M. Hurd, Jr., M.D., Instructor in Clinical Medicine; Charles W. Girdlestone, A.M., M.D., Instructor in Clinical Medicine; Rose A. Bebb, M.D., Instructor in Bacteriology and Clinical Microscopy; Clarence Gains Toland, B.S., M.D., Instructor in Therapeutics.

The laying of the corner-stone of the College of Physicians and Surgeons was commented on as follows by the editor of the Journal:

"The ceremony of laying the corner-stone of a new Educational Institution is worthy of public notice, especially one designed to take an advanced position in teaching medicine, founded upon the plan of academical institutions.

"The time has been when all the medical education obtained by men graduated consisted of reading medicine with a physician in more or less active practice and 'attending two full courses of lectures the last one of which must be at this college.' Those days have gone by; it has been found that the student cannot fit himself to compete with thoroughly educated physicians by listening (if not too sleepy, or the lecture too dry) to a course of didactic lectures only.

"The laboratories, clinical instruction, and hard study, is the new order of getting a medical education. The course has been lengthened from three years to four; the term from three months to eight; new departments have been added, the corps of instructors greatly increased. Young men tired of farming, and seeing how easy the country doctors get rich, cannot leave the plow or shop and enter the nearest medical school without some preliminary studies, for with the advance made all along educational lines, the up-to-date medical school demands that the aspirant for a diploma from this school shall have had the advantage of preliminary education, for the science of medicine is so broad, it is found that it requires some preparatory training of the mind, before the student is capable of pursuing the study of medicine advantageously. The school designing to produce the best graduates looks well to the entrance examinations, for upon this depends the quality of the future medical student.

“The College of Physicians and Surgeons of Los Angeles has been founded by a body of men thoroughly in earnest, and keenly alive to the requirements of a first-class modern medical education; and the young man or woman desiring such an education, and willing to study, will find a corps of teachers competent and willing to teach them.

“As far as possible didactic lectures are to be abolished and their place taken by recitations, laboratory work, and clinical instruction. Teachers will be required to know that the student understands the subject in all its parts before passing to others. The aim of the College of Physicians and Surgeons is to graduate only such persons as come up to our high ideal of what we believe medical practitioners should be.

“With appropriate ceremonies, the corner-stone of the new and elegant College of Physicians and Surgeons will be laid, Saturday, August 13, 1904. It will be a day of rejoicing for the Trustees and Faculty of the College, a year of hard and earnest work accomplished; only by men endowed with indomitable courage and persistency seldom equaled could this have been consummated. We now exultantly give notice to our friends and foes alike, that the realization of our fondest hopes is an accomplished fact.”

The catalogue of 1909-1910 contains in its Proem the general outline of the aims and scope of the work done at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, as given below.

This Sixth Annual Catalogue Number and Announcement of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Los Angeles would cease to be that which is customary among up-to-date medical colleges—a mere reminder of time and place—of it were to endeavor to set forth fully the many advantages offered the student of medicine in this institution. It is not our desire nor purpose to hand you an exhaustive summing-up of the many and varied details that have been planned and followed out, in bringing our curriculum up to the highest plane of efficiency. You, doubtless, are not particularly interested in the minutia underlying the perfect system that has brought out laboratory, recitative, didactic and clinical departments up to the very highest standard; you are not, I dare say, particularly interested either in knowing how it is that the Faculty of this College work so in unison as to be able to accomplish the best from laboratory to clinic; but you, doubtless, are interested in knowing that the success of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Los Angeles has been almost phenomenal and this College stands today in the front ranks, along with the leading medical institutions of the country. This result has not been achieved easily but has been brought about by the united efforts, properly applied, of the officers and Faculty. It is too often the case that institutions exist primarily to foster the personal ambitions of some one or more who have not the ability and are not fitted, either by nature or education, to fulfill their undertakings, so when those men go—as they ultimately must—they attempt to drag their institution and others down with them. This College has been and is strong enough to resist such influence, and our motto is "A survival of the fittest"—a Faculty carefully selected, conditionally that their work must be up to the highest standard, else they must step aside to make room for others who can and will. The College of Physicians and Surgeons of Los Angeles is building for the future and in keeping pace with the requirements of the leading medical colleges of this twentieth century, this institution has advocated in the past, and will continue to advocate, means and methods that tend to elevate and to place medical education and medical training upon a higher plane. We believe that the young man, or the young woman, who has in view and contemplates entering upon the study of medicine should, when possible, plan their preliminary training accordingly, embracing in their groundwork studies the branches leading up to a medical course, but, where this is not possible and when the student can only meet our minimum requirements, as set forth elsewhere in this announcement, this College, by the thoroughness of its first and second years' work, is able to assist the student materially in those departments which, probably owing to circumstances, have not been open to him. In this we are aided materially by the thoroughness of our laboratory facilities. The student who is not endeavoring, as is too often the case, to skim through his medical course, but to profit by the advantages offered by an up-to-date medical school, will realize that, owing to the vastness of modern medicine, four years, of eight months each, do not afford sufficient time to thoroughly cover the course. This College believes that the modern and progressive medical school must increase the time required to complete the course, therefore we have taken the first step along these lines, and have made our course nine months instead of eight—nine months of solid work in each and every department, each and every day, except Sundays and legal holidays, from eight o'clock in the morning until six o'clock in the evening.

The City of Los Angeles, with a population of about 300,000, is but little less talked of, written about, and wondered at, than any other city in the world, located as it is, in the very heart of Nature's most favored spot on earth, surrounded by a semi-tropic panorama so inviting and so enchanting that all those who come within its gates are amazed at the lavishness of Nature's gifts to the City of the Angels—the brightest gem in the diadem of America's most charming cities of refinement and culture.

Here will be found all the elements that tend to make student life pleasant and attractive. The ideal climatic influences permit the student to spend much time in the open air, 'mid surroundings of historic interest, 'neath sunny skies, with semi-tropic foliage, flowers and blossoms on every hand, while, stretching away into the distance, are found orange orchards and lemon groves, leading up to the very base of the mountain range, with towering peaks perpetually covered with snow and half surrounding this garden spot that Nature has so well endowed.

The curriculum of this College is so full and so broad that it requires and exacts the greater portion of the student's time, but still there must be some time for relaxation and recreation, and here Nature has prepared in abundance opportunities for these necessities. The rigorous climate of the East and the Middle West keeps the student too much indoors, and, as a consequence, he becomes the subject of the devitalizing influences of a physically inactive life. We invite the attention of students whose health has become impaired by climatic conditions elsewhere, and yet we do not encourage invalids to come to Los Angeles for study in this College, for we do not believe that invalids should enter upon the study of medicine. The requirements are too exacting and the work too arduous, and the man or woman who is weak, mentally or physically, should not attempt the study or the practice of a profession requiring so much self-sacrifice and untiring effort.

The population of Los Angeles is essentially cosmopolitan. People in the different walks of life, from all quarters of the globe, are to be found here, and we have, therefore, an abundance of clinical material, which this College utilizes to the very best advantage.

THE COLLEGE BUILDING.

Located at 516 East Washington Street, in a charming section of Los Angeles, surrounded by splendid homes and easy of access, not on the outskirts of the city, nor yet too near the business center, is to be found the modern and commodious building of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. Our college building was designed, planned, and erected especially for our use, and contains all of the elements of a modern and up-to-date college building. It is three-story, with basement, built of brick, with stone facings, and is practically fire-proof.

In the basement is located our instantaneous water heating system; a furnace which conveys heated air to each department, with apparatus for forcing cool and pure air into each room when needed; storage tanks for anatomical material; a receiving and preparation room for same; a clay modeling room for the use of the Anatomical Department; also a gymnasium, well equipped, and with shower bath for the use of students.

On the first floor is located the college office, faculty room, two chemical laboratories, thoroughly equipped with all modern apparatus and appliances, clinical rooms for each department of medicine and surgery, operating room, sterilizing room, clinic waiting room and drug room.

Located on the second floor are the Pathological, Bacteriological, Histological and Physiological laboratories, which have east, north and west exposures, affording an abundance of light, and all well heated and equipped with all modern appliances. Glass covered tables are arranged around the north and west exposures, and all the latest apparatus has been installed. Each student is supplied with microscope (Bausch and Lomb's), with oil immersion lens, for use when required. Private laboratories form a part of the main laboratory hall, thus affording opportunity for private research. On the second floor is also located one large amphitheater, seated with two hundred modern opera chairs; one lecture hall seated with opera chairs; an Electro-Therapeutic room, equipped with Static Machine, X-Ray apparatus, and all necessary appliances; a chart room, supplied with imported charts, manikins, etc., arranged for use in various illustrative and didactic work; also a library and reading room, commodious, well lighted and ventilated, and arranged for the convenience and use of students. Many valuable volumes are found upon the library shelves, periodicals and journals are also there for the use of our students, and, upon the shelves of the College Museum, may be found many rare and valuable pathological specimens.

Much new apparatus has been added in the Physiologic and Electro-Therapeutic departments. Stereopticon illustration is one of the leading features in our primary departments, and, in fact, no expense has been spared to most thoroughly equip this College with the latest and best paraphernalia and equipment for the teaching of modern medicine and surgery. Several thousand dollars in apparatus is being installed for the opening of our 1909-1910 session.

On the third floor is located our Anatomical Department, and it is most complete in every detail. Opening into our main Anatomical Department, by sliding doors, is our anatomical amphitheater, seated with opera chairs and arranged so that the most delicate operations and demonstrations upon the cadaver can be witnessed, a revolving table being used. All these features, and many more, serve to make our equipment modern and up-to-date in every detail and, at the same time, provide for the comfort and the health of our teachers and students.

When the College of Medicine, located on Buena Vista Street, in order to become a department of the State University, severed its connection with the University of Southern California in the spring of 1909, that rapidly growing institution was left without a medical department.

The work and standards of the College of Physicians and Surgeons had been such that the institution had been elected to membership in the Association of American Medical Colleges, in the spring of 1909. Through friends interested in both institutions, arrangements were made whereby the College of Physicians and Surgeons became the Medical Department of the University of Southern California, retaining, however, its name, its official title being the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the University of Southern California.

The control of the institution is vested in the Board of Trustees of the University of Southern California. The preliminary education demanded are the high school credentials laid down by the Association of American Medical Colleges, but beginning with the session of 1910-1911, one year of college work will be demanded in addition.

The faculty of the institution under the new union, has as its dean, Dr. Charles W. Bryson, a leader among the founders, and whose loyalty, enthusiasm and energy have played a powerful part in bringing the institution up to its present standing.

The complete roster of the faculty is as follows:

GEORGE F. BOVARD, A.M., D.D.....	President of the University
CHARLES WILLIAM BRYSON, A.B., M.D.....	Dean of the Department of Medicine, and Professor of Gynecology and Abdominal Surgery
JAMES HARVEY SEYMOUR, M.D.....Member of the Judicial Council and Professor of Clinical Surgery
ORVILLE O. WITHERBEE, M.D.....	Professor of Clinical Surgery
LYMAN BRUMBAUGH STOOKEY, A.M. Ph.D.....Professor of Physiology and Chemistry
JAMES TUCKER FISHER, M.D.....	Professor of Neurology
THOMPSON B. WRIGHT, A.M., M.D.....	Professor of Medicine
SYLVESTER GWALTNEY, A.M., M.D.....	Professor of Clinical Medicine
WALTER SYDNEY JOHNSON, A.B., M.D.....	Professor of Obstetrics
FRANCIS OLIVER YOST, M.D.....	Professor of Pediatrics
WILLIAM LEANDER ZUILL, M.D.	Professor of Otology, Laryngology and Rhinology
FREDERICK JOHN KRUELL, Ph.G., M.D.....Professor of Materia Medica and Therapeutics
THOMAS JEFFERSON MCCOY, M.D.....	Professor of Ophthalmology
ANDREW FREMONT WAGNER, A.M., M.D.....Associate Professor of Bacteriology and Pathology
ROBERT HENRY BURTON, M.D.....	Associate Professor of Anatomy
RAPHAEL BURKE DURFEE, M.D.....	Associate Professor of Anatomy
E. L. LEONARD, B.S., M.D.....	Associate Professor of Histology
ALBERT B. ULREY, A.M.....Associate Professor of Embryology and Comparative Anatomy
.....	Associate Professor of Medical Jurisprudence
GEORGE JESSE LUND, M.D.....Associate Professor of Otology, Laryngology and Rhinology
WILLIAM HARRIMAN JONES, A.B., M.D.....	Associate Professor of Gynecology
HENRY MICHAEL ROONEY, A.B., M.D.....	Associate Professor of Anatomy
JOHN JAY STILL, M.D.....	Associate Professor of Surgery
WARREN NICHOLS HORTON, M.D.	Associate Professor of Genito-Urinary Diseases
CHARLES E. ZERFING, M.D.....	Associate Professor of Medicine
GEORGE WASHINGTON MCCOY, A.M., M.D.	Associate Professor of Ophthalmology
REGINALD S. PETTER, M.D.....	Associate Professor of Materia Medica
HENRY HERBERT, M.D.....	Associate Professor of Medicine
HOWARD WHITE SEAGER, M.D.....Associate Professor of State Medicine and Hygiene
ANSTRUTHER DAVIDSON, C.M., M.B., M.D.....	Associate Professor of Dermatology
JOHN C. FERBERT, M.D.....	Associate Professor of Surgical Anatomy
THOMAS JAMES CUMMINS, M.D.....	Assistant Professor of Neurology
ALANSON HOLDEN JONES, A.B., M.D.	Instructor in Physiology and Chemistry
WILLIAM ELMER CARTER, M.D.....	Instructor in Medicine
EDWARD DOUGLASS JONES, M.D.....	Instructor in Therapeutics
RALPH LOUIS BYRON, M.D.....	Instructor in Osteology
CHARLES WORTH NORTON, M.D.....	Instructor in Minor Surgery
EDWARD WILLIAM HANLON, M.D.....	Instructor in the Medical Department
CLARENCE H. CRILEY, Ph.B., M.D.....	Instructor in Anatomy
PETER C. REMONDINO, M.D.....Lecturer on History of Medicine and Medical Bibliography
DALLAS CASE RAGLAND, M.D.	Laboratory Instructor in the Medical Department

CALIFORNIA ECLECTIC MEDICAL COLLEGE.

The movement for starting an eclectic college began in the Alameda County Eclectic Medical Society, which held its first regular meeting at the office of Dr. J. W. Webb in Oakland, Nov. 5, 1877. Its first president was Dr. O. P. Warren, and its secretary Dr. J. H. Bundy.

Although the college was an Eclectic institution, originally the word Eclectic did not appear in the name. To correct this defect the trustees concluded to alter the name and make it conform to its teaching, so changed it to the California Eclectic Medical College, in which form it was legally adopted April 9, 1906.

The old college was completely destroyed by the earthquake and fire in April, 1906. After more than a year of uncertainty it was finally decided not to rebuild or open the college again in San Francisco; and after due deliberation its charter and goodwill were tendered to the Eclectic practitioners of Los Angeles and accepted.

An entire new faculty, building and equipment were secured in the short time of six weeks and the school opened in its new location on the appointed day with eight students in attendance. The work of the first year was eminently satisfactory, considering the inexperience of the promoters in such work and the many difficulties which had to be overcome. The second year the number of students was increased by one, making nine names on the roster.

The lease on the building occupied, at No. 846 Lyon street, was for two years and expired July 1, 1909. A new and better location was then secured at No. 337 South Hill street, right in the heart of the city, where the college is now conveniently and comfortably established. A number of the local Eclectic physicians united in giving the institution financial backing so that the college has acquired no debts and has reasonably prospered.

All the chairs on the faculty are filled and it was a pleasant surprise to find so much capable teaching talent in its members. The number of students for the current term is more than twice the number in either of the previous years—nine freshmen and twenty-two matriculated in all classes.

The California Eclectic Medical Journal is the organ of the college, and is devoted to the development and welfare of Eclectic medicine on the Pacific Coast. Dr. O. C. Welbourn is its editor.

The faculty consists of the following practitioners:

- J. A. MUNK, M.D.
-Dean and Professor of Climatology, Hygiene and Public Health
- D. MACLEAN, M.D.Emeritus Professor of Obstetrics
- A. P. BAIRD, M.D.Professor of Principles and Practice of Medicine
- G. W. FINCH, M.D.Professor of Materia Medica
- B. ROSWELL HUBBARD, M.D.Professor of Principles and Practice of Surgery
- H. SCOTT TURNER, A.B., M.D.Professor of Clinical Medicine
- O. C. WELBOURN, A.M., M.D.Professor of Operative Gynecology
- M. M. RING, B.S., D.O.Professor of Chemistry and Toxicology
- M. BLANCHE BOLTON, M.D.Professor of Diseases of Women
- B. E. FULLMER, M.D.Professor of Physiology
- E. R. HARVEY, M.D.Professor of Pediatrics
- W. H. NEWMAN, A.M., M.D.Professor of Osteology and Comparative Anatomy
- P. M. WELBOURN, A.B., M.D.Professor of Bacteriology
- L. A. PERCE, M.D.Professor of Physical Diagnosis
- E. R. MONK, A.B., A.M.Professor of Medical Jurisprudence
- C. S. HUTCHINSON, M.D.Professor of Obstetrics

O. S. LAWS, A.B., M.D.....	Professor of Specific Diagnosis and Medication
M. S. AISBITT, M.D.....	Professor of Mental and Nervous Diseases
Q. A. R. HOLTON, M.D.....	Professor of Dietetics
L. C. LIGHT, M.D.....	Professor of Minor Surgery
M. E. EASTMAN, M.D.....	Professor of Hydro-Therapy
M. B. KETCHUM, M.D, Phar.D..	Professor of Pharmacology and Ophthalmology
H. C. MAY, M.D.....	Professor of Pathology
A. O. CONRAD, M.D.....	Professor of Electro-Therapeutics
W. W. WIMER, M.D.....	Professor of Descriptive Anatomy
JAMES BEARD, M.D.....	Professor of Therapeutics
T. C. YOUNG, D.O.....	Professor of Histology and Embryology
C. E. JOHNSTON, M.D... ..	Professor of Genito-Urinary Diseases and Dermatology

CHAPTER VII.

MEDICAL PUBLICATIONS.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRACTITIONER.

This journal, now in its twenty-fifth year, came into existence because there was a need a quarter of a century ago, of a periodical that would serve as a medium of intercourse among the members of the medical profession of Southern California. Its quarter of a century of useful existence has more than justified its reason for being, and it may be safely asserted that there have been few, if any, agencies that have worked so greatly for the unification of the profession in Southern California as has this medical publication, which has appeared without lapse every month for the last twenty-five years. Its founders were Drs. J. P. Widney, Walter Lindley and Joseph Kurtz.

The spirit of its first editorials has been that which has dominated its career throughout, and as presenting the view point of the leaders of the profession of this region a quarter of a century ago, it may be interesting to quote somewhat from several editorials of the first three issues of the magazine.

From the Salutatory we take the following:

“The question may be asked, Why add one more to the long list of medical journals? The answer is the old, stale one, which has probably ushered in the birth of many a similar publication, because we feel that for this journal there is a field and a work.

“Of journals devoted to the science of medicine in general, there are probably already enough. Of journals devoted to the wants and the local peculiarities of the different climatic belts of America, there will only be enough when every such climatic belt is represented. A reference to the opening article of this number, The Anglo-Teuton in a New Home, will show what some of the race questions are for the climatic belt embracing this southwestern portion of America. The article is the first of a series upon similar topics. It is expected to make this line of investigation an especial feature of the journal, and to take up and carefully discuss the climatic peculiarities of the different sections distinctively known as Southern California, and of the great inland plateau embracing Arizona, New Mexico and the elevated part of the Mexican interior, a region already widely known throughout the East and in Europe for its salubrity. It is the expectation of the editors to secure carefully-prepared articles from the different portions of this belt descriptive of local peculiarities of climate and disease, for while certain climatic features are common to the whole, local variations and peculiarities are at many points strongly marked, and should be carefully considered before selecting a home for invalids or health-seekers. Carefully-prepared original articles upon medical and surgical topics will be sought and published, especially those of a practical character. It is hoped also to make this journal a means of still more closely uniting the medical profession of Southern California.

“Distance, rugged intervening mountains, and entirely diverse commercial and industrial interests, which are making of California two separate and distinct sections, have also, in a great measure, prevented a close union of the medical profession. Southern California has developed its own intellectual life and its own educational system. We believe the time has come for the establishment of its own medical journals and societies.

“It is with no feeling of jealous rivalry, therefore, toward the journals of the upper portion of the State that we enter upon our work, but because we feel that the field is broad and our roads are different. In this spirit, we send greetings to our brethren of the north.”

From the second editorial on “What Medical Men Should Write,” equally entertaining knowledge may be derived:

“It has been said that a man never really knows a thing until he can tell it. The statement would be much more correct if it were that a man never really knows a thing until he can write it, for many a hazy, ill-understood and ill-defined idea daily passes muster in speech, the weakness of which would be detected in a moment if written. Nothing so conduces to accuracy of thought and clearness of expression as the habit of writing.

“The effect upon the mind of much writing is seen in the members of the legal profession, a profession noted for the exactness of its mental work. Here the work of the profession is largely done in writing, and to the mental training thus given may be attributed much of the preponderating influence of the gentlemen of the law in public affairs. They simply are the men most trained to accurate thought.

“The number of physicians who make a practice of writing upon topics pertaining to their profession is much smaller than it should be.

“The ideal state of the profession would be with every physician a writer, at least every one in active practice; for every man who takes the responsibility of human life upon his hands should neglect no means of educating himself for the conscientious and successful practice of his high calling, and the habit of thinking upon paper is possibly of all means the most productive in solid results. This part of the professional work should not be left to the professors in medical colleges, or to men of literary taste. If they only were allowed to treat disease there might be some reason in it, but when all men in the active work of the profession must take daily upon themselves this responsibility, they have no moral right to neglect any means of education.

“What shall a physician write about?

“His own work. His own locality. These are his fields. He need not wait for some strange, seldom-heard-of case. While such cases do happen, they belong rather to the curiosities of medical and surgical literature than to the practical, every-day work of the physician’s life. A plain, carefully studied, carefully reported case of phthisis, or of fracture of one of the large bones will be of more profit to both writer and reader than an article upon morbus Addisonii or ligature of the common carotid.

“A carefully and accurately compiled original report upon the topographical and climatic features of any locality will be of far more value than an ambitious article upon the yellow fever microbe, which, from the pen of an ordinary practitioner, can be only copied from the writings of those who are making this line of investigation a specialty.

“How shall he write?

“In the plainest and shortest of Anglo-Saxon English. The busy man of any profession wants the facts and the logic, not the embellishment and rhetoric. The day for the stilted Latinized English of Milton and Johnson is gone, never to return to the English-speaking peoples. And so in science. While scientific and technical phraseology has its proper place and is indispensable within that place, many a medical and surgical article is loaded down with an ultra technical jargon which is simply barbarous. Such a style does not necessarily show knowledge. The editorial chair has in mind one such book upon its shelves, a recent work upon nervous diseases, which is such a bewildering medley of defective English, bad Latin, worse French and newly coined so-called scientific terms especially manufactured by the author to help out the combined poverty of these tongues, that to open its pages fairly makes the hair of a modest, quiet linguist stand erect.

“Dear friends, beware of the too utterly utter, and read Job xxxvii:2.

“When shall he write?

“Not simply when the spirit moves him, or some divine afflatus breathes upon him. The spirit is apt to cease moving one to write as cares and practice and money accumulate. It is better to let the sense of duty be the moving spirit. And it is a duty that he should pay back into the common fund of medical knowledge some small portion of the debt for that which he received, and should cease to be only a species of professional sponge, ever absorbing, never producing. And so shall he not only pay his debt, but shall also grow in mental stature and professional power.

“And when he has written, what then?

“Then re-write. Condense. Strike out. Clear up the ambiguities. Erase the long word and use a shorter if it will express the idea. And when he can improve no more pick out the best and send it to a medical journal for publication. And above all let him remember that what is written carelessly and hurriedly is generally of little worth; and also remember that no man can afford, for his own sake, to have published what he has carelessly prepared.”

LOS ANGELES POLYCLINIC.

The first number of this publication, which was intended to be a monthly journal of medicine and surgery and the allied sciences, came off the press in June, 1895, under the editorship of Drs. J. F. T. Jenkins and A. Davidson, and having as collaborators the staff of the Los Angeles Polyclinic.

The Polyclinic existed for some fifteen months, and the publication was then discontinued.

LOS ANGELES MEDICAL JOURNAL.

The Los Angeles Medical Journal first appeared November 15, 1903, under the editorship of Ernest S. Pillsbury, M.D., of Los Angeles, and was stated to be a monthly journal devoted to medicine, surgery, dentistry, hospital and nursing. Subsequently Dr. Charles B. Nichols became editor, and in 1906 the late James P. Boothe, M.D., assumed the editorship. The last number of this publication was issued in March, 1909, at which time it was merged into the California Medical and Surgical Reporter.

CALIFORNIA MEDICAL AND SURGICAL REPORTER.

This is a monthly journal of medicine and surgery brought into existence by the late Charles P. Wagar, M.D., the first number appearing in January, 1905. Since his death in June, 1908, it has been published under the supervision of M. L. G. Wagar as managing editor.

HISTORY OF THE MEDICAL PROFESSION IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

This publication, which is herewith placed in the hands of the reader, owed its origin to Mr. M. A. Raines, who persuaded Dr. George H. Kress to write an historical sketch and Dr. Walter Lindley an introduction for the work. While the book was being compiled, Mr. Raines' home was burned to the ground and much of the manuscript was lost. An accident at the printer's destroyed a considerable amount more. In the meantime, Mr. Raines fell heir to an estate of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars in England and lost no time in returning to that country. Under these circumstances the Times Job Office took over the responsibilities of the publisher, the book being gotten into form and completed as far as possible by the editor. The first edition was printed and all the copies outside of the City of Los Angeles were delivered, when the fearful catastrophe occurred which destroyed the Times plant. In the fire every plate and vestige of this volume were destroyed.

In order to keep faith with the subscribers who had paid part of their subscriptions to Mr. Raines, it was necessary for the Times Office to print an entirely new edition, of which this volume is a copy.

Whatever its defects may be, and of course in a work of this kind many could be pointed out, the volume has at least served the purpose of gathering together a somewhat interesting array of historical and biographical data, which to those of a succeeding generation may not be without some value, as it is hoped they will be of interest to its present readers and subscribers.

EDWIN CHARLES BUELL, M. D.

BUELL, EDWIN CHARLES. After this book had gone to press, news was received of the death of Dr. E. C. Buell at Genoa, Italy, on July 26, 1910. For biographical data, the reader is referred to page 114. It may not be out of place to here print the resolutions passed by the California State Board of Medical Examiners.

"Whereas, Dr. E. C. Buell, who had practiced medicine and been noted as a surgeon in Los Angeles for over twenty years, and who was a member of the California State Board of Medical Examiners from 1901 to 1907, and who served as the first president of the board, died of appendicitis in Genoa, Italy, July 26, 1910; therefore be it

"Resolved, that we, the members of the California State Board of Medical Examiners in session assembled in San Francisco, August 1, 1910, hereby register our deep sorrow at the untimely taking away of our friend and confrere.

"Dr. Buell was eminent in his professional work, universally respected by all physicians who knew him, and deeply beloved by those who were thrown in close association with him.

"As a citizen he was honorable, upright and public spirited, as a man he was delightful, lovable and generous. One year ago he was moving into a beautiful residence to enjoy the well-earned comforts of an ideal home. In December, 1909, his wife suddenly died from an organic heart disease. This trip around the world, which his friends hoped would bring him surcease of sorrow and renewed health, ended with a distressing death in a foreign land.

"To his brother and sister in Ohio we send this as a testimonial of the high character of Dr. Buell, and the love and esteem that we bore him."

THOMAS ALBERT DAVIS, M. D.

Among the leading physicians and surgeons of Southern California stands the name of Thomas Albert Davis, whose early demise at the age of 42 occurred in San Diego on the last day of the year 1892. Dr. Davis was born in Fredericksburg, Md. Studied medicine in Missouri, graduating from the St. Louis Medical College. After his graduation he engaged in practice in Arnoldsville, Mo., but soon afterwards entered the army as an actg. asst. surgeon, serving actively in the field with troops on the plains in protracted Indian campaigns, where on many occasions he exhibited great personal courage in attending to the wounded under fire. After leaving the army he practiced in Socorro, N. M., from whence he came to San Diego. His early death was due to pyemia, which he contracted from a patient with an infectious wound. His wife, who died some years later, was formerly Miss Nancy Jane Hosick of Leavenworth, Kansas. Three children survive the couple, John Henry, Mabel Sue and Carlotta Darcus.

The estimate of his character, as understood by his fellow practitioners in San Diego, was best summarized in the dedication of a small work on climatology wherein its author, Dr. P. C. Remondino, dedicates it to the memory of Thomas A. Davis, "a brave soldier, unassuming physician, exemplary citizen and true Christian."
P. C. R.

EDWARD GROVE, M. D.

GROVE, EDWARD, San Diego, Cal. Born in Rutherglen, Scotland, in 1873. Received the M. D. degree from the Cleveland University in 1897, and began practice in San Diego that year. Member of the California State Homeopathic Society, the Southern California Homeopathic Society, and of the San Diego County Medical Association. Was Vice-president of the Agnew Sanitarium, San Diego, and was a member of the Municipal Board of Health for a number of years. Was ex-president of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce and served the city in numerous capacities. Married Ynez Bradshaw in 1899, and had one daughter. To the extreme regret of his many friends and patients, Dr. Edward Grove was the victim of an automobile accident which happened while on a call of duty October 19, 1909. His loss as a physician, a citizen and a friend is keenly felt by the whole community in which he resided.

FRANCIS LEADER HAYNES

HAYNES, FRANCIS LEADER, was born in Philadelphia, July 11, 1850; died in Los Angeles, October 18, 1898. He graduated from the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania in 1869. On account of his youth he was not permitted to go upon the stage with his class. A frail, delicate boy of nineteen, yet he was, over several influential competitors, chosen as interne for the Episcopal Hospital. After eighteen months in the hospital, he began practice in Philadelphia, just as he reached twenty-one. The practice that came to this beardless youth was phenomenal. On account of his health he came to Los Angeles in 1887.

The following resolutions were adopted at the regular meeting of the Southern California Medical Society, held in Los Angeles in December, 1898, and tell of his position here:

"Whereas, in the wisdom of Divine Providence, Dr. Francis L. Haynes, one of our most active and valued members, has, in the prime of his manhood, been summoned from his earthly labors to receive his reward above, therefore be it

"Resolved, That in his death we recognize that the foe with whom we are engaged in an eternal combat has taken from our ranks one who cannot well be spared, and one who, by his works, has not only reflected honor upon the society which he adorned, but also upon the community in which he has so successfully followed his profession.

"Resolved, That the committee desire, in behalf of the society, to express its deep appreciation of a faithful, talented, skillful member, who ever will be regarded as having been an apostle in Southern California in promulgating the doctrines of aseptic surgery, and whose efforts here have given an impetus to local surgery, which will be felt for many years to come.

"Resolved, That the committee, also in behalf of the society, desires to express its acknowledgment of his superior surgical skill; of the courtesy universally shown by him to those who desired to profit by his knowledge; and of his efforts towards furnishing the local profession with trained nurses.

"Resolved, That this report be spread upon the minutes of the society, and that the secretary be instructed to furnish copies to his brothers and sisters and his aged father.

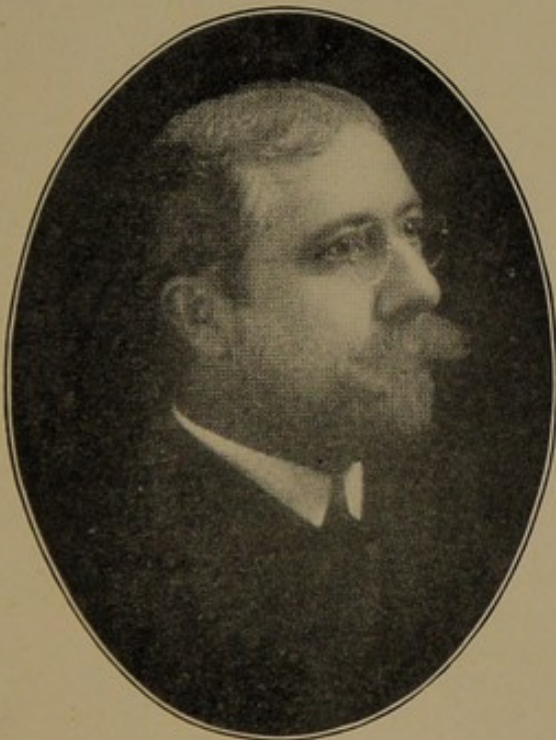

CEPHAS L. BARD, Chairman.

H. B. WING.

CARL KURTZ."

Dr. Haynes was the author of numerous articles on surgical subjects, in all of which he made prominent the importance of asepsis. The articles which he wrote then would be considered up to modern ideas today. He was also the author of a primer on surgical nursing, which was published fifteen years ago, and was a great missionary document, carrying the gospel of surgical cleanliness to every nurse in Southern California.
