Dear Sir,

I have much pleasure in enclosing the formal notice of Mrs. Clare's discharge from certificates.

I was rather surprised to hear that the balance of account, including Mr. Jalland's account for the operation, has not been paid. I am aware that you have had very heavy expenses, but it would seem to me that this ought not to stand longer unsettled, the more so as this operation was the means of saving Mrs. Clare's life.

Yours very truly,

Dear Sir,

Dear Salter,

If they would take Miss Rowley at Bethlem it would be an excellent thing. I would gladly go over to certify her if I were free to do so. I shall be over on Saturday, but the whole day will be occupied. One of my colleagues, probably Dr. Kemp, will be over tomorrow, and will be glad to help if required.

Mrs. Clare's bodily condition is first class, but we are disappointed that the mental condition remains so unsatisfactory. The hallucinations of sight and hearing continue.

Yours very truly,

Dear Bedford Pierce,

I saw Clare this morning and explained matters - and he was very thankful for your bringing the matter up. He said the question of expenses was a serious matter with him - and he would be very glad if Dr. J. H. Ward could be induced to be lenient with him in the matter of fees - and attendance.

So I told him I would say you a line & you would understand -
Yours very sincerely

Dear Bedford Pierce,

Clare has had two fairly sensible letters from his Wife, and would be very glad to know how you think she is; so I promised to write.

I am quite well now and am going off for a jaunt with my Boys soon cycling. Miss Monkhouse has seen Five Doctors in Torquay and now wants to return to Scarborough.

With kind regards
yours very sincerely,

Dear Salter,

I am extremely sorry to hear of your being laid up. Otitis Media sounds like being a very painful affair. I hope it is passing off satisfactorily. My boy had it when a child, and it cleared up entirely; but for a time he was very bad.

Mrs. Clare is doing tolerably well, but I cannot say she is convalescing or approaching that any yet. She is so variable that one expects her to relapse any moment.

Yours very truly,

Dear Bedford Pierce,

I thank you for your letters about Mrs Clare ; I have been laid up with Otitis Media, of Influenzal origin, for the last fortnight or I should have written you before.

I am very thankful she is with you and somewhat better, the appendix trouble should settle down and go away leaving nothing but some adhesions ; it always does after a certain point has been reached.

She was very much on my mind before she went to you, and I am glad to have her in safe hands.

With many thanks and kind regards

I am

Dear Salter,

Mrs. Clare continues to be most delightfully confused. Not rarely she has that extraordinary symptom of things looking bigger than they are, and again things looking much smaller than natural size. Some of her attacks of fear, which at times are quite severe, are due to the nurses appearing to be enormous, terrifying beings. This symptom reminds one of Lewis Carroll's "Through the Looking Glass". There is now and then a rise of temperature, but it is not constantly felt. The lump can still be felt in the Iliac Fossa.

Yours very truly,

Dear Salter,

We have a vacancy now at the Retreat, in case Mrs. Clare should need to come here; and I, therefore, send a set of forms.

I suppose that poor Miss Monkhouse went off to Torquay. What a funny experience that was! However, you created a great impression of sympathy and kindness and patience. Perhaps when you "cast your bread upon the waters" etc.

Yours very truly,

March 14, 1912

Dear Mr. Clare,

Many thanks for the cheque, 2 guineas, safely received.

I find that we shall have a vacancy at the Retreat earlier than I expected, and I am, therefore, sending to Dr. Salter the necessary forms for admission, in case Mrs. Clare is no better.

Yours very truly,
