Dear Sir,

Emily Earl,

We are in receipt of your letter of yesterday for which we are obliged.

The only reason for urgency in this matter is that we wish to issue a summons in Lunacy for the purpose of having someone appointed to deal with Miss Earl's estate, and wish to set out in the summons the amount paid to the Committee of the Retreat, so before we can ascertain the amount, it is necessary to know the exact amount to be refunded.

Dear sir,

Emily Earl

I am informed by Mr Earl that on visiting his daughter on Monday he found her very much better than when he and I made a visit on the 14th ultimo

Arrangements were being made for an Application for the appointment of a Receiver of Miss Earl's estate under sec 116 of the Lunacy Act 1890 but if there is any hope of her getting better the proceedings will not be gone on with so will you please write and tell me the present condition of Miss Earl and if you are now anticipating her recovery and whether she is still troubled with delusions

Goole 17th January 1908

I am in receipt of and thank you for your letter of yesterday and am sorry you are unable to send a more satisfactory account in regard to Miss Emily Earl.

The whole trouble seems to have arisen through anxiety to save money as Miss Earl has been secretly putting money away in her own name from what she could save out of the earnings of her Father's small business, ^{it} and was not until quite recently that she disclosed these savings to her Father and the money so saved still stands in her name.

I saw Miss Earl on several occasions prior to her being sent to York, and could generally manage to get her calmed down by saying she was very ill, and that it was necessary for her to go away, to be made better and stronger so that she could come back home to look after her father, but of course the excitement and unrest soon came on again.

If you think a visit by Mr Earl, would be desirable he can come over any Thursday afternoon but that is the only day in the week he is able to get away from Goole

Yours truly,

R. Haldenby

17th January

Dear Sir,

I am in receipt of and thank you for your letter of yesterday and am sorry you are unable to visit me personally in person in a visit to Miss Emily Smith.
The whole incident seems to have been a very serious one to you, and as Miss Farnham has been seriously ill, money was in her the case that she could save out of the savings of her father.
I understand, and was not really ill, possibly that she had the money to pay for her and the money to save with a little in her name.
I saw Miss Farnham on several occasions prior to her being sent to York, and could possibly have been of some assistance during the very ill, and that it was necessary for her to be away, to be made better and returned to her home and school.
Return home to her father and mother, but of course the excitement and trouble would cause an illness.
If you think a visit by F. Farnham, would be desirable, he can come over any day, and I am sure that he will find the visit to the home to be very good indeed.
Yours truly,

Dear Sir,

Emily Earl.

Adverting to the Form of particulars filled up & signed by me I gave the best answers I could with the limited time at disposal for my enquiries.

My inability to satisfactorily reply to some of the queries caused me to make further enquiries, the result of which being that I am informed that the ¹maiden name of Miss Earl's Mother was Jane Londesbrough that she died in 1873 at the age of 41.

Emily Earl having been born when her mother was about 18

I am informed that Thomas Appleyard the father of Emily Earl "went blind and died in York Asylum." That a brother of Thomas Appleyard "cut his throat on account it was presumed of money difficulties," and I am also told that the Mother of the Appleyards "went wrong."

These are important matters for you to know, so I am communicating with you directly the information has come to my knowledge and of course, you will treat the matter as strictly confidential as of course, I am relying upon the statements of other people.
