Dear Mr. Rowell,

I told Miss Rowell that she was free to leave on Saturday but she would like to stay until later in the week. She will be then a Voluntary Boarder.

She talks of going to Harrogate to-morrow to look for rooms. A nurse will accompany her.

Yours very truly,

unless there is an obligation to tell her the exact date in which case you might write me here tomorrow early as I go south in the afternoon.

If I hear nothing I shall assume the arrangement will do - with many thanks you

Dear Dr. Peira

My sister Mrs. Curzon who lives in London very kindly has asked her sister to go to her next Tuesday & I have told her in my letter

As the latter understands

Dr. Pierce wishes me

Dear Dr. Pierce,

I am very glad to hear that my sister is at any rate apparently well in the meantime + I think we should take advantage of the position to see what a change to the more usual conditions of life would effect - The difficulty - + I suppose it is one which frequently presents itself in these circumstances is - is where she should go -

The most natural place seems here but I fear the effect of my sisters presence on my daughter who is very highly strung + they are devoted to each other, + to the same subjects. My sisters illness has already made a great impression on her.

Do you know of any people who take these sort of paying guests, & who would be the sort of people that a woman with literary, artistic & musical tastes would feel sympathetic to?

If not could you refer me to any means by which I could get into communication with such?

Would ^{the} quietude of country or coast or the interests of a town be most beneficial? I would be very grateful for any helpful information you can cause to be sent to me. I feel we ought to allow the certificates to lapse so as to give a trial - I have to attend conferences in Edinburgh tomorrow & the next day but will come through on Saturday 14th inst.

Yours very truly

9th. March, 1914.

Dear Sir,

It is now nearly two years since Miss Rowell was placed under certificates and the time has come when a special report has to be sent to the Commissioners if she is to remain under care. This must go not later than the 13th. inst. The difficulty is that at the moment Miss Rowell exhibits few indications of mental disorder and it is not easy to write a report which will be convincing evidence of insanity. It is true she is dreamy, preoccupied and certainly not normal, but she denies hallucinations of hearing, and of late her behaviour has been perfectly correct. She occasionally laughs to herself apparently without reason, and does not take anyone into her confidence.

She asks me to write to you as she would like to see you soon. She does not exactly press to go away but says life is very dull and monotonous.

I do not think Miss Rowell is likely to keep well for very long, and yet I fully expect if she went away she would probably do well for a time. I wonder under the circumstances whether the family would like to give her a trial and allow the certificates to lapse.

Yours very truly,

1944, 1945

Dear Sir,

It is now nearly two years since the Royal Commission was set up to inquire into the activities of the Communist Party of Great Britain. In the interim, the Commission has published a number of reports, and the most recent, that of the 15th July, 1945, is the one which you are now referring to. It is a report of the Commission's findings on the activities of the Communist Party in the period from 1941 to 1944. It is a report which is both comprehensive and authoritative, and it is one which should be read by all who are interested in the activities of the Communist Party in this country. It is a report which is both interesting and important, and it is one which should be read by all who are interested in the activities of the Communist Party in this country.

Yours faithfully,

Now it may be of slight interest in connection with the 'case'.

Yours truly
A. Underhill

April 9, 1913

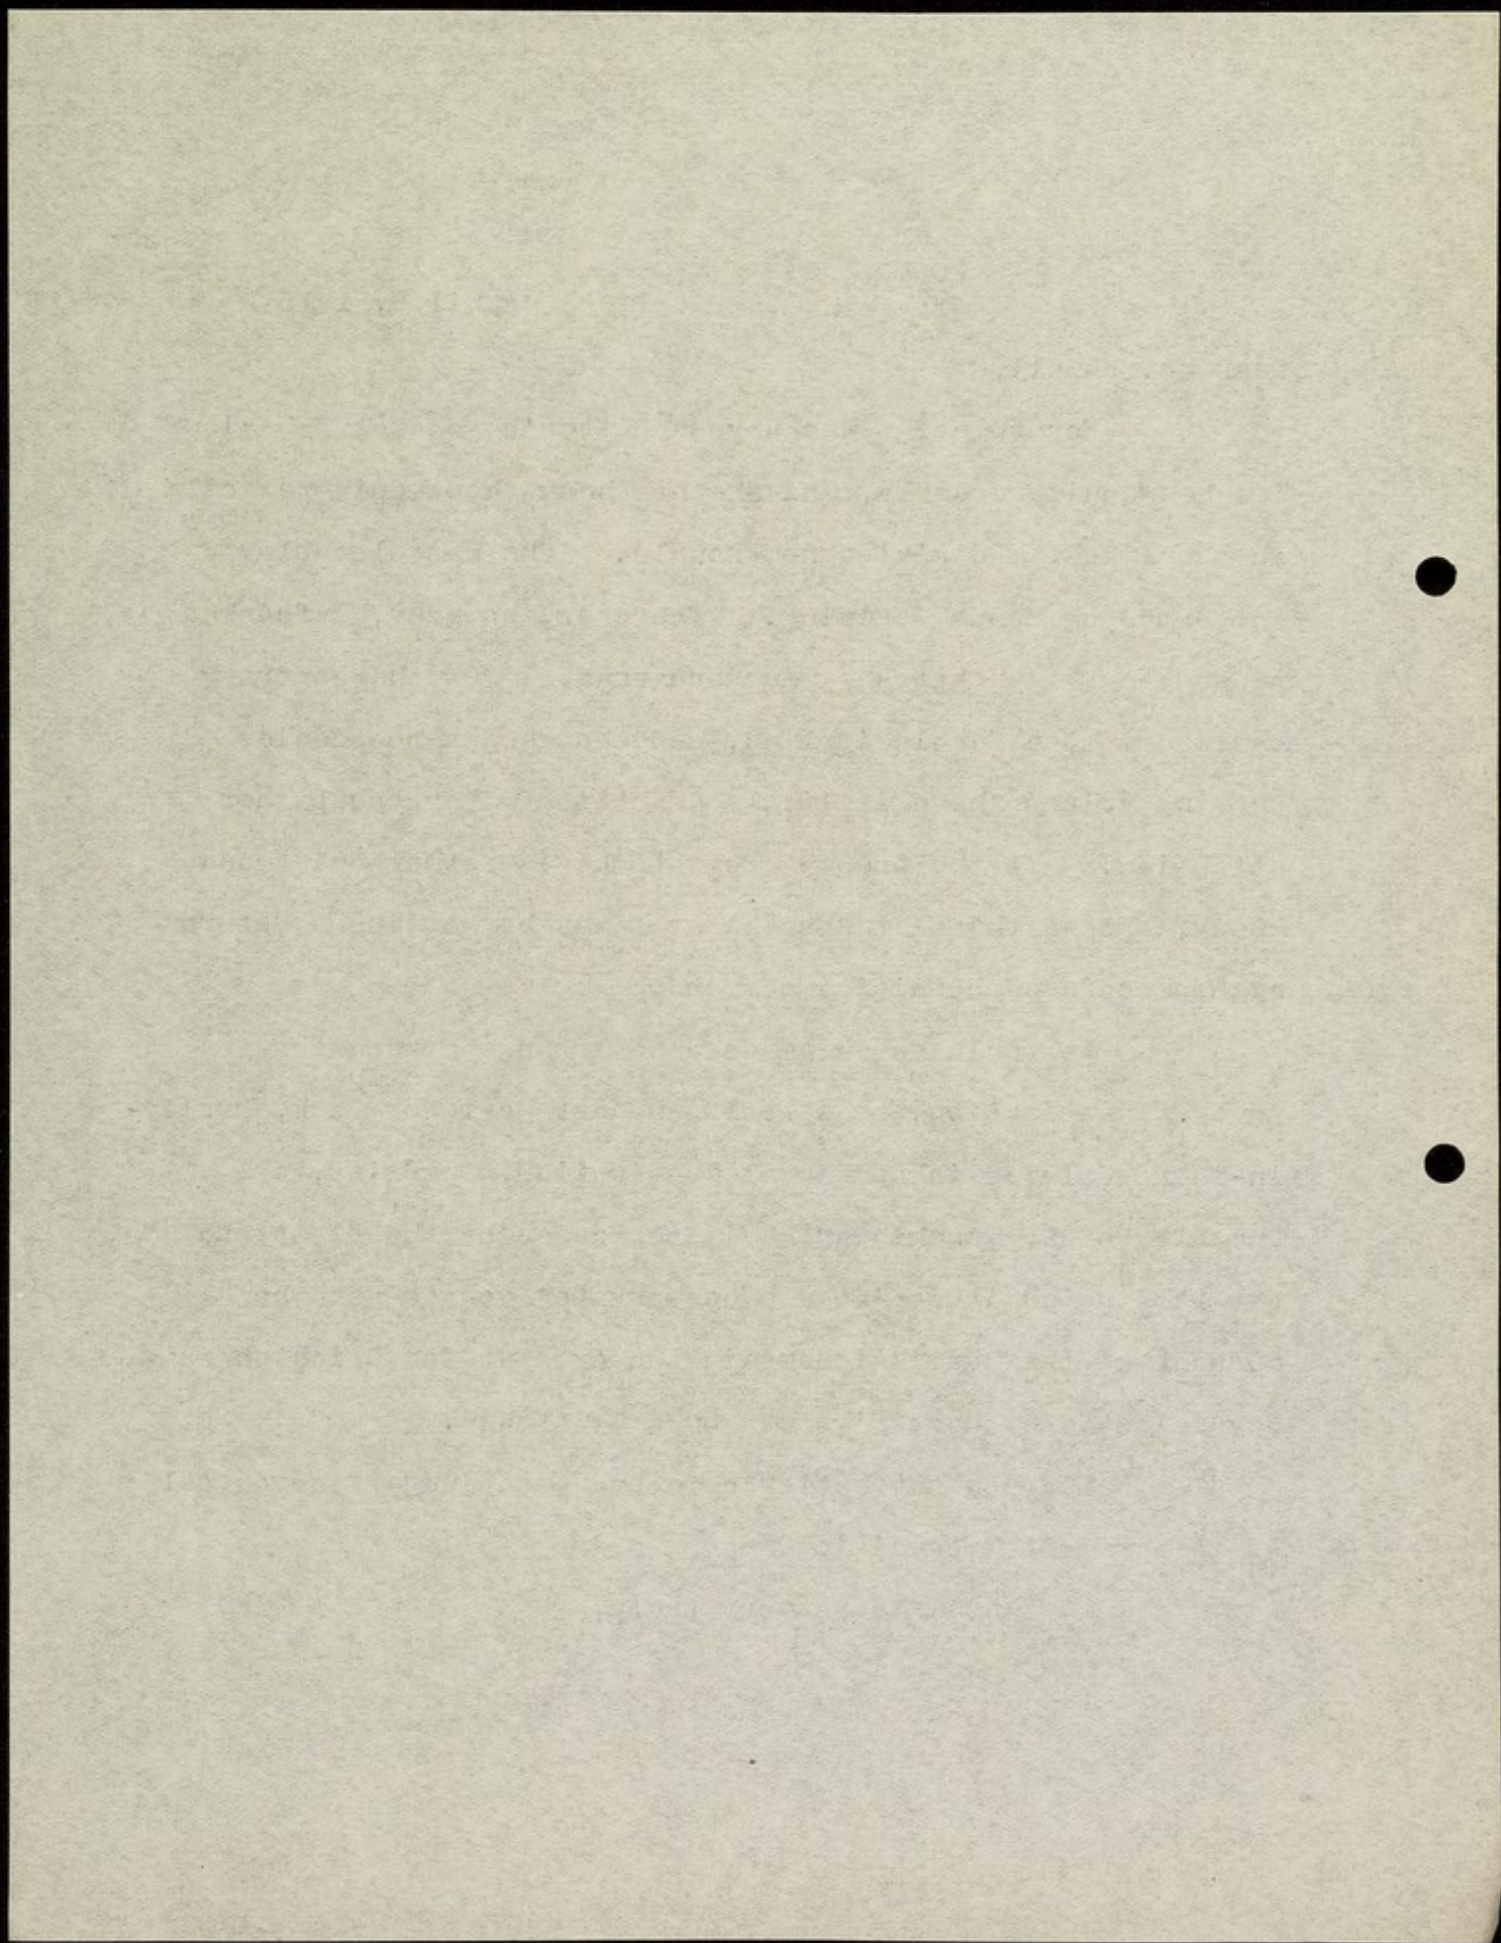

Dear Mr. Rowell,

For some few weeks your sister's general behaviour has been quite orderly, and she has been about doing exactly as she liked, and giving no trouble. She has also played the hymns on Sunday evening. There is, however, I think no reason to think that she has recovered. On the contrary she seems more feeble in mind, and though she now denies hearing voices there is little doubt that they occupy her attention. At the present moment she is rather quiet and moody, and we think it possible she may be getting a return of her confused condition of mind.

It would be quite easy to arrange a transfer to another institution. I would suggest Scalebor Park, Burley-in-Wharfedale, Crichton Royal Institution, Dumfries, or Cheadle Royal, Manchester. In the cases of the first and the last named it would be necessary for you to get the consent of the Commissioners in Lunacy, but for Crichton Royal Inst. new certificates would be needed.

Had you not better come over and judge for yourself as to her mental condition?

Yours very truly,

Dear Dr. Quiner

I enclose a letter from my sister which I have just received. The letter (previous) to which she refers was written while I was ill & away from home -

I would like to know whether you consider she is much better & whether you consider she would be likely to benefit by a change, & if so if you can recommend an institution where she would be as comfortable & as well looked after as in yours.

Do you consider that the general tendency of her case is upwards or downwards? or are there definite indications of a permanent cure?

If you would give me a hint as to how to reply most usefully to a letter such as the enclosed I would be deeply grateful.

My sister Mrs

Paris had with the life of my sister Miss A.M. me to write you on the matter, as I am the family living who happened to be with her on what I think was the only occasion when she was in Paris - & which was roughly a matter of twenty years ago -

our eldest brother, now deceased, being very much run down owing to business matters was advised by our doctor to go for a trip abroad for a complete change & it was arranged for Miss Rowell & myself to go with him. We went by easy stages to the South of France staying a day in Paris on the way, but instead of the trip having the desired effect our brother got worse, so much so that ^{we} had to return home somewhat hurriedly -

The day after we reached Paris on the return journey there came a complete mental breakdown which Miss Rowell & I had to face till we could get help, I of course had to remain with our brother while it fell to my sisters let-

Jan. 10, 1913

Dear Mrs. Curwen,

Only one letter written by Miss Rowell, since you were here, has been detained. It was addressed to Lady White, and I forwarded it yesterday to Mr. H. Rowell.

I have asked Miss Rowell this morning about the dividends which apparently have not been paid to her bank, and she tells me that two dividends from Smith's Dock Co. Ltd., for the year 1912, she has never received. She is quite sure about this. Now, there has never been any interference with letters coming to Miss Rowell. Except in cases where the relatives of the patient request us to do so, there is not ever any oversight of letters coming to patients. Parcels only, are examined, because sometimes scissors and knives etc. are sent to patients. Miss Rowell tells me that one dividend from the Canadian Pacific Company, for the year 1912, has not reached her.

I think if, in future, Miss Rowell's friends want us to be responsible for money which she receives, we must be informed as to when she is likely to receive such money. We can then ask her if she has received it and ascertain that it has been paid into her bank. If the cheques are not forthcoming when due, then we can communicate with her friends on the subject.

Miss Rowell is not quite so well, she is quieter and more absorbed, and she is again wakeful at nights. She is amiable and sociable, and comes to all our entertainments, and from time to time goes out to an entertainment in the town.

I remain,

I should very much like to go to see my sister, Miss Alice Rowell, & shall be glad to have your leave to do so.

Dear Dr Kemp,

I am sorry in having been so long in replying further to your letter of 10th Oct about my sister.

I had taken it that when my sister went to your institution we would in some way or other be able to keep control of her letters which however I see is not the case - My object of course, as you will readily understand was simply to prevent my sister's present trouble being renewed, we however find this difficult to do more so seeing that other letters have been sent to trades people here. Could you without much trouble let us know to whom she writes outside of our family whose names you know?

So far as money matters go we, as a family, are very anxious nothing should be done to cause our sister irritation or annoyance, & it is for this reason I am at present paying expenses at York, at the same time I do not wish her to spend unduly.

She, I understand is or has recently been in correspondence with her sisters about clothes for which she should herself pay - How would it do to suggest to her that until she is better she should only write to her immediate family & that any ordering and paying should be done through one of her sisters say Mrs. Curwen or Mrs. McCabe both of whom live in the South?

Yours very sincerely
R. Stanley Rowell.

Having heard that an old friend of mine Miss Alice Rowell is at present under your care, I should like to know if I might see her. I am only here for a few days, & my time is very limited so I should like to take advantage of a cheap day ticket tomorrow to do so, & could call about a quarter before three.

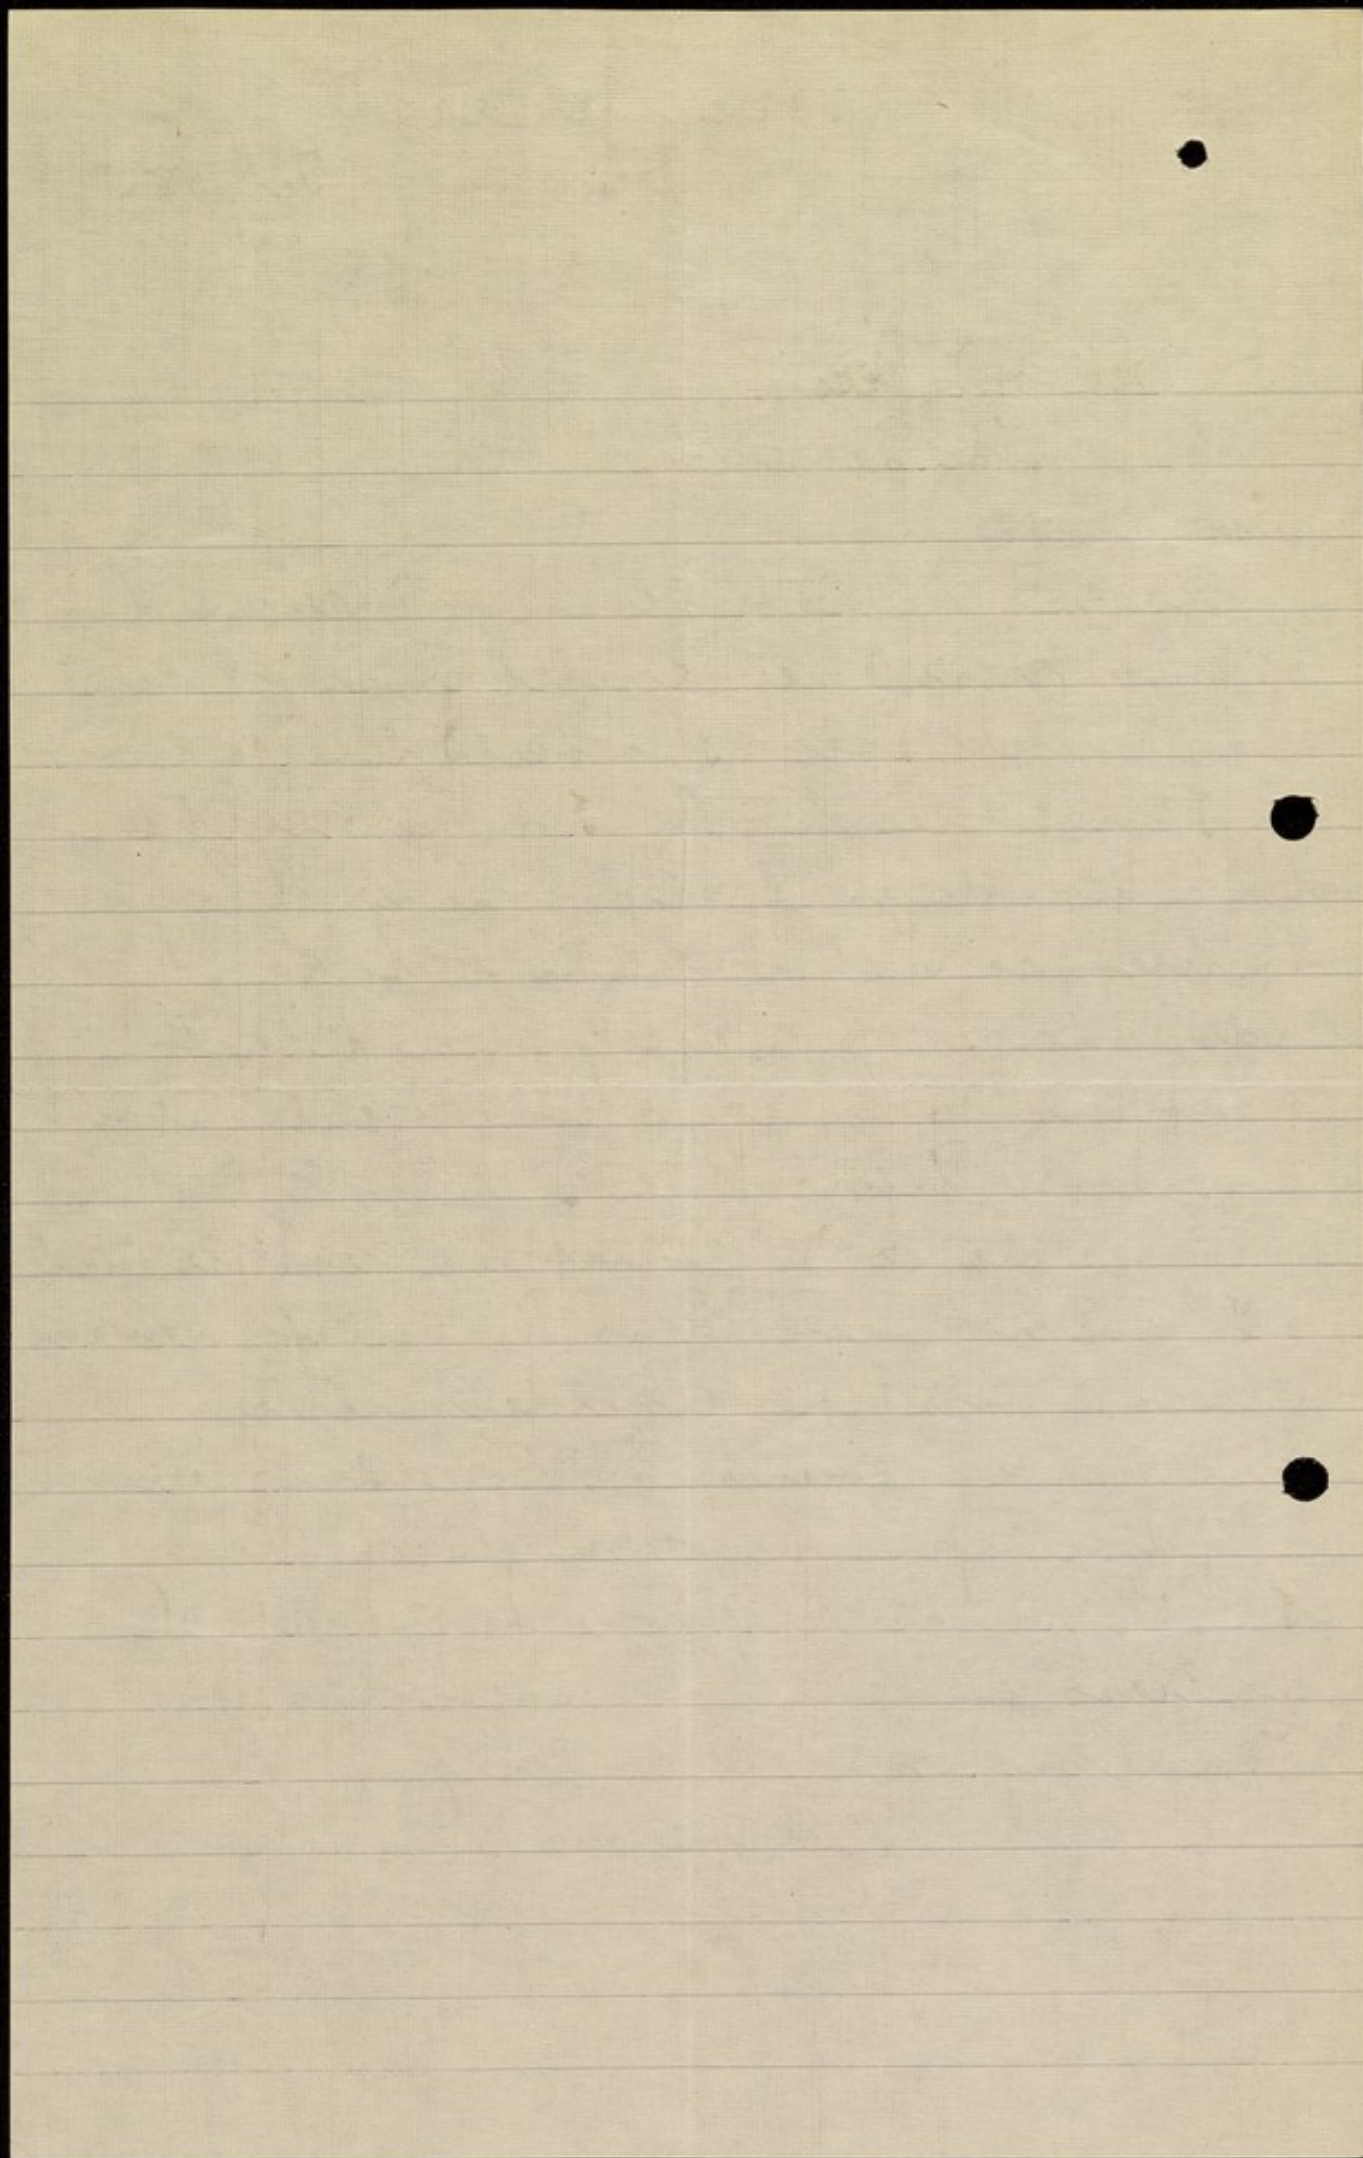

My name is M^{rs} Burton, nee Alice Hoyle, & I have not seen Miss Rowell for several years. Miss Rowell's eldest sister married my cousin M^r Spedding Curwen.

If you approve of my visit, may I ask you to telephone to the above address as early as possible.

July 4, 1912

Dear Mr. Rowell,

Miss Rowell does not make any ~~very~~ real progress towards complete recovery, although she is very much better than when she came here in March.

She varies a good deal, and her conduct is largely guided by the "voices". When these are dominating her she is erratic and restless and unoccupied, and also sleepless. When they are not so much to the front she is quieter, and able to concentrate her attention on ordinary things, more occupied, and much more sociable.

When she is not so well she resents her detention here very much, and demands to know why she is here, and is of course entirely dissatisfied with our answers, and of course is indignant with us for keeping her here. She does very much what she pleases, but has to be watched more or less closely. She is very forgetful, and would never appear at meal times if left to herself.

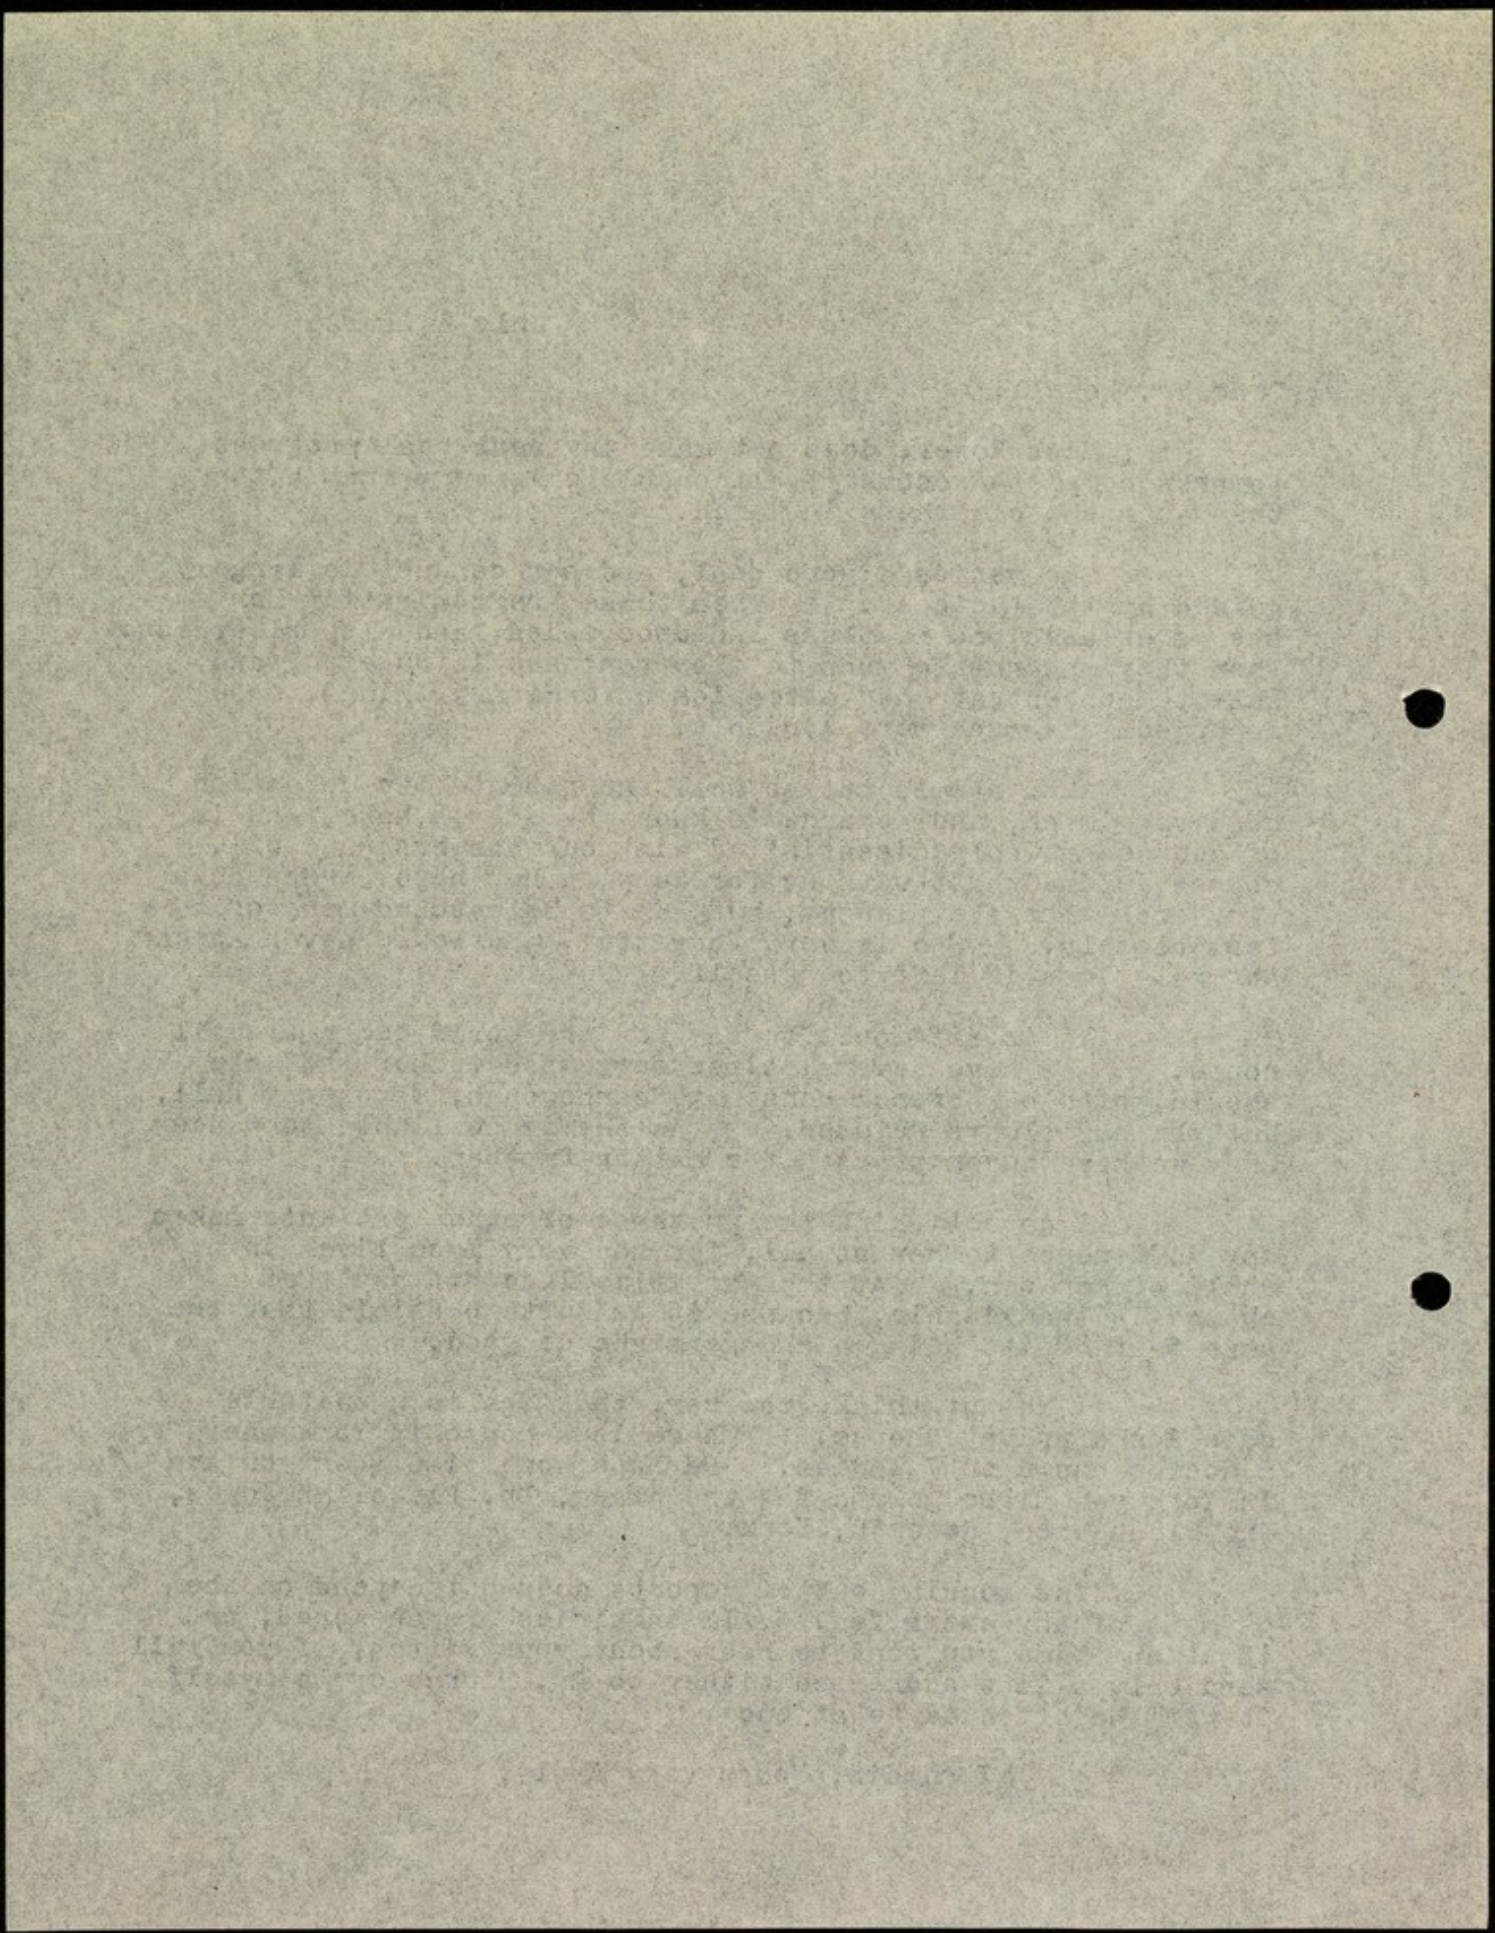

It is difficult to say how she would do in a small house. We have several times suggested to her that she should go to our branch house at Scarborough, Throxent Hall, but she has always refused. As she is so liable to wander away we have never pressed the matter further.

I do not think the presence of other patients makes any difference to her at all, for she very much lives in a world of her own. At the same time I do not say that a change is inadvisable, because it is quite possible that the mere fact of its being a change might do good.

I do not think, however, that she is a suitable case for a private house. There is a house in York where a doctor has 6 or 7 ladies. Perhaps some time when you are in York you might go and see the place, Dr. Llewellyn Jones, The Pleasance, Heworth, York.

The sending out of reports does not depend on the payment of any extra fee. All enquiries are answered, and if at any time you want to hear about your sister, if you will send only a line addressed either to Dr. Pierce or to myself it will be attended to at once.

Dear Sir,

I have received your letter of 23rd inst with it's most distressing report & hope most sincerely that the malady may take the more favourable course that you indicate as possible.

Do you think that it might have a beneficial effect if we were to write urging on my sister the wisdom of taking her medical attendants fully into her confidence? Personally in many respects she is so logical, and several times has asked whether her imaginings were true or if she was insane, so that I think it might help matters.

With regard to the rate of payment that named by you of 48/- weekly practically absorbs her income but the first consideration must be that the attention she receives & the conditions in which she is living are those that will give her the best chance of recovery.

Kindly let me hear from you as to what additional expenditure, if any, you consider desirable to achieve this end. In any case knowing as I do that my sister is liable to fret about money matters, I think it would be wise to let her think that the charge in her case is not more than say 40/- per week, the difference would of course be paid by me without her knowledge. Would you also please let me know what course our family ~~shall~~ should adopt when writing to which I suppose there would be no objection.

Yours very truly,

Dr Bedford Pierce.

Dear Sir,
I have received your letter of the 11th inst. with its reference to the report of the committee on the unfavorable course of the disease as possible.

You think that it might have a beneficial effect if we were to give up the use of the drug at least for a period of time. I do not think that it is possible to do this. The disease is a chronic one and the use of the drug is essential for its control. I think that the best course is to continue with the use of the drug and to give up the use of the drug only if the disease is completely cured.

Dear Sir,

When you have had time to consider the case of my sister Miss A. M. Rowell who went to your institution yesterday, I would esteem it if you could favor me with a report on her. I would be pleased to hear what prospect there is of a recovery, & if so how long you consider it may be

Dear Madam,

Your letter respecting the question of terms was submitted to the Committee at their last meeting, and I am requested to say that it is the rule that patients who stay less than one month should pay for at least one month's residence. You will see on reflection that this is not an unreasonable regulation, seeing that the initial arrangements involved a great deal of trouble. In your case, however, I am informed that there was a special nurse provided for a short time, for which no charge was made. Under the circumstances, therefore, the Committee did not see their way to return part of the payment, and I hope that on thinking the matter over you will feel satisfied about it.

Dear Mr Pierce,

I wonder if it is alright for a little advice re Mrs Rowell.

She remained apparently all night until about a fortnight ago. She has been staying for a few weeks with an unmarried brother in lodgings has been alone most of the day with very little to do. The one day about 10 days ago it was discovered she had written two letters to a mere acquaintance, a prominent man in the town some mesmerists were trying to kill her.

She then moved alone to the home of the married brother since then she has been apparently quite well & bright.

She is anxious to go somewhere where she could employ herself with gardening & greatly dislikes the idea of an Institution. Some other family are very anxious she should be certified - but don't see that one could do it.

I thought perhaps you might be able to suggest some household in the country where she could be taken care of with out certificates with apologies for troubling you

Dear Mr. Pierce,
The enclosed letter was written by Mrs. Rowell's sister with whom Mrs. Rowell was staying at Malvern to the elder brother of Rowell of the Manor House, Jesmond, Newcastle & concerns details the circumstances under which Mrs. Rowell left Malvern on Thursday last. I am sending it you as it seems distinctly to indicate that Mrs. Rowell was definitely suffering from delusion's own prepared to allow him to guide her actions. This has never been the case in her conversations
