Dear Dr. Vawdrey,

Unfortunately there are no institutions receiving patients at reasonable terms suitable for your patient. It is a serious public want. Unless people are so bad that they can be certified the existing machinery, except for those in good circumstances, avails nothing, and they cannot be received, even voluntarily, in a public asylum. They must wait until they are bad enough for a magistrate to be satisfied that they are insane.

If your patient comes from the educated classes it is possible she might be received free at the Bethlem Royal Hospital as a voluntary patient. If she can pay two or three guineas a week there are other hospitals for the insane which might receive her, but I do not know any one who will take such a patient at a low rate.

I really do not know what to suggest. If Bethlem fails there is just a possibility that St. Lukes in Old St. might help, but I do not know the conditions under which patients are received there. It is, however, useless to apply to one of the public asylums.

Judging from your account of the case I should think it is imperative that the patient should go away from home if she is to have a chance of recovery.

Yours very truly,

Nov 11, 1915

Dear Dr. Vanway,

I am sorry to hear that you are receiving reports of tuberculosis from patients.

It is a very bad case. I have seen such a case and that they can be killed by the existing bacteria, except for the very few circumstances, which are very rare.

and in general, even vaccination is a public safety.

They may well wish that they had not been vaccinated so as to be killed by the bacteria.

If you could send me from the enclosed images if is possible the right is received from the British Royal Hospital as a voluntary patient. If you can pay 2 or three guineas a week for the use of the hospital for the disease which might receive her, but I do not know any one who will take such a patient of a long time.

I really do not know what to do. If you will please let me know what to do, I will be glad to right help, but I do not know the conditions upon which patients are received there. It is, however, worth a try apply to one of the public agencies.

Thanking you for your account of the case I should think it is desirable that a patient should go away from home if she is to have a chance of recovery.

Yours very truly,

12th December, 1914.

Dear Sir

I thank you for yours of Saturdays last, and accompanying report.

My wife has been confined in the Kesteven County Asylum for just one Year, being admitted on 18th Nov, 1913.

She is aged 37 Years, mother of six children, eldest 13 Years, youngest sixteen months. All confinements normal. Always remarkably good health.

Developed symptoms of insanity less than three months after last confinement, and within three weeks after on the advice of the doctors in attendance, was placed in the County Asylum as a paying patient.

For some weeks the Medical Superintendent expected a cure would be effected in about six months, but time has dragged on.

I enclose his last letter which is far from cheering, and could not be more gloomy.

I also enclose a letter written by my wife to her second son, who in company with my niece, had visited her a few days previously. It is quite intelligent, and it is the first time she has asked for the baby. We brought it over for her to see in the summer, but she took no interest at all in it.

'Crinkle letters' to which she refers, are those from her mother or sister.

Judging from Dr Ewan's letter she has a violent antipathy to all her present surroundings, and it is essential that she should be moved to some other place.

I don't know whether you could take her at The Retreat, but in any case, I could not afford to pay your ordinary fees. I am Private Secretary to the Master of the Belvoir Hounds, & my total income is £300 a year & a house. I would cheerfully pay one guinea & a half weekly, and

We duly received your letter of 10 Decr which we note with much interest and we thank you for all you write us. -

Dr Callanto has since written us but he does not give us the proportion of the ingredients in his specific. - He gives us a cutting from a Malaga newspaper which prints the certificates received from Gibraltar signed by magistrates & the Colonial Secretary there regarding two cures effected by this specific. - We send them for your perusal and should much appreciate any suggestion you can make as to the best way of getting this anti-epileptic remedy tried in this country. -

Thanking you in anticipation, -

Gentlemen,

In reply to your letter of the 4th, I hardly think it likely you will get members of the profession of standing to give a new remedy for epilepsy a trial unless the constitution of the remedy is plainly stated and that it is in no sense a proprietary one. As you are probably aware, the profession have always held that no person has a right to derive exclusive profit from any method of treatment for disease, whether this be by medicines or by operation or in any other way.

I note you state the ingredients of the medicine in question, but nothing is said as to their proportions, and it would seem that your client is keeping some elements of it secret. If I am doing him an injustice you will no doubt let me know.

We have here very few epileptics, and there is not much opportunity of trial at the Retreat, but one would be only too pleased to hear of a remedy likely to give assistance in this refractory and disabling malady.

Dear Sir,

We have a client in Malaga Dr Jose Collantes who sends us his crop of lemons and he wishes to introduce in England a medicine made by himself which he has found of great value in treating epileptic patients.

In Gibraltar too it has been tried by doctors who speak of it in the highest terms and quite recently he has received certificates from there legalized in due form of cures effected on a girl of 14 years and on another 22 years old.

He has sent us 2 cases of his specific & in each case there are 3 bottles which is the minimum quantity that the epileptic patient should take and from that you could judge its effects.

He would like your opinion & if after trials it was found satisfactory he would like to introduce the medicine to the English public.

The specific is composed of Bromuro, belladonna and Boric acid. - on hearing from you we

Specific to the attention of the British Medical Society will with pleasure send you 1 or 2 cases to try.
our Dr Virgil Boys is a friend & thought you would like to see the best way of introducing this

Dear Dr. Urquhart,

I shall be glad to collect some particulars for the obituary notice, but I do not really think I can undertake to write it. You probably know that I never knew Dr. Baker when he was actively engaged in medical practice, and though I saw a great deal of him during the last few years I should not like the memory of this to colour any obituary notice. Is there not any one who knew him when at his best who is able to write something for the Journal?

It is really unfortunate about the dog, and that you have bought another. If the new pup has already won your affections, I do hope you will allow me to repay you the cost, as I should be very grieved if you would not accept a dog from us.
