IT is one of the great signs of the improvement of the age in which we live, that original sources are the main channels through which knowledge is sought. Selections and translations seem but of little value in the eye of the Biblical Student, when placed in comparison with the works from which they are taken. Hence the gradual rise in the price of the Fathers of the Church, the early Critics and Commentators, the Works of the Reformers, and Historical Collections bearing upon Church History.

The Proprietor, through a long life extending to upwards of three quarters of a century, attended by the blessing 'mens sana in corpore sano,' has seen many vicissitudes in the literary taste of the public, and, always anxious to merit its approbation and support, he has continued to amass a Collection of the Works of Authors whose names shed lustre upon "all countries and all times." An Octogenarian may therefore be pardoned the pleasure he takes in tracing the gradual rise of a stock, which in extent can be equalled by few, and of which his published Catalogues, of 'English, French, Italian and Spanish Literature, and Natural History,' alone exhibit 18,315 articles; whilst the volumes devoted to Classical and Philological Works increase the list by 14,582 numbers.

In the volume now published will be found as complete a COLLECTION OF FOREIGN THEOLOGY as the most vigilant attention to the English and Continental Book-markets could enable the compiler to form; and though the introduction of such works, as are not contained in the stock, might have rendered it more perfect as a guide, still he considered the disappointment which might be felt by his inability to supply these when ordered, a most forcible reason for not inserting any one book not actually in his possession. The 8,354 articles therefore now submitted to the public, show the actual extent of the stock in this branch, though no pains will be spared to render it more complete as opportunity offers.

In conclusion, the Proprietor would again tender his heartfelt thanks for the patronage bestowed upon his establishment for more than half a century; and, while soliciting attention to his present Catalogue, he sincerely trusts that it may be found useful to the Theological Student. Should this prove to be the case, it will afford no small satisfaction to the compiler, who, however, claims no merit beyond what may fairly be conceded to him as a Bookseller—a knowledge, in most cases perhaps only titulary, of what has been done in that class of literature to which these pages are more particularly devoted.

FOREIGN THEOLOGY.

1 ACTA SANCTORUM QUOTQUOT TOTO ORBE COLUNTUR VEL A CATHOLICIS SCRIPTORIBUS CELEBRANTUR, EX LATINIS ET GRÆCIS ALIARUMQUE GENTIUM ANTIQUIS MONUMENTIS COLLECTA, DIGESTA, NOTISQUE ILLUSTRATA AB JOANNE BOLLANDO, G. HENSCHENIO, ALIISQUE SOCIETATIS JESU THEOLOGIS, 53 vols. in 50, Antverpiæ, Bruxellis, et Tongarloæ, 1643-1794.—Acta Sanctorum Bollandiana Apologeticis Libris in unum Volumen nunc primum contractis vindicata seu Supplementum Apologeticum ad Acta Bollandiana, Antverpiæ, 1755.—Together 54 vols. in 51, folio, QUITE COMPLETE, numerous plates, a very fine copy, in the original pigskin binding, EXCESSIVELY RARE, £130

Owing to the destruction of the later volumes during the French revolution, complete sets are of the last degree of rarity. Besides the copy in the Bodleian library, not two other copies are to be found throughout the British dominions; and the present one is, in all probability, the only complete set that can occur for sale, as the few known to exist are all placed in public libraries. The work is now resumed by the Bollandists, and with every prospect of being speedily completed. A new volume is on the eve of publication. The portion hitherto published is thus divided:

Januarius, Cura Bollandi et Henschenii, 2 vols.
Februarius, Cura Bollandi et Henschenii, 3 vols.

139 Alcoranus Latine redditum a Thoma Greaves cum Notis et Animadversionibus; small 4to. autograph MS. 2*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*

Dr. Thomas Greaves was fellow of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, in 1636, and Reader of Arabic during the absence of Mr. Edward Pocock in 1637. "His writings are—'De Linguæ Arabicæ Utilitate et Præstantia, Oratio Oxonii habita 19 Julii 1637'; 'Observationes quædam in Persicam Pentateuchi Versionem et in Persicam Interpretationem Evangeliorum,'—printed in the sixth volume of Bp. Walton's Polyglot Bible. It appears likewise, by a letter of his to the celebrated Nonconformist Baxter, that he had made considerable progress in a refutation of Mahometanism from the Alcoran, upon a plan that was likely to have been useful in opening the eyes of the Mahometans to the impostures of their founder."—Chalmers' Biog. Dict. vol xvi. p. 234.

"This book is the hand-writing of Dr. Thomas Greaves, as Mr. Twells, who is very conversant in his letters, has told me. J.M."—MS. Note.

S. Crellius, in a letter to J. Langius (dated Amsterdam, July 26th, 1740), acknowledges himself the author. His words are: "MEUS Artemonius nihil duri in quempiam dixit, excepto Tertulliano, Montanista, et amarulento hæretifice, Epiphanio. Nam multos adhuc premit nimia et irrationalis antiquorum auctoritas, et mortui non sentiunt dura verba, neque iis judicia vivorum nocent, &c." In another passage of the same letter, Crellius tells us that the work was printed in London: "At cui fini et ille scripsit et ego scribam cum typographiæ ubique nobis sint occlusæ (et graves mulctæ immo et exsilia editoribus immineant) una Londino excepta. At non cuivis semper licet istam adire Corinthum, et bibliopola, qui meum IBI excuderat Artemonium, non est in vivis amplius."

"Protestants themselves acknowledge that this work is indispensable. With uncommon industry, Baronius has collected complete and connected annals of Christian affairs during the first twelve centuries. From the Papal archives he has drawn an immense number of original documents, which have thrown a new light upon history. Not only for the history of the Church, but also for all other history, an abundant store of materials is still concealed in this admirable work."—Schrœckh.

536 —— Annales Ecclésiastiques. Abrégé composé en Latin, par le R. P. Aurèle Perusin, S. J., et traduit en François par C. Chaulmer; 10 vols. 12mo, in old binding, 1*l.*10*s.* Par. 1673

1087 —— Amphitheatrum Honoris. Editio secunda IV Libro auctior; 4to; vellum, 1*l*. 11*s*. 6*d*. ib. 1606

In this work this celebrated Jesuit has loaded his opponents with the most insulting epithets, calling them canes, Satanæ excrementum, &c. Throughout, but especially in the fourth book, he is very severe upon Joseph Justus Scaliger, who was evidently much nettled at this attack, as may be seen by various of his letters, in which he terms the work "Amphitheatrum horroris," "obscœnum et sodomiticum amphitheatrum," and rails at its barbarous Latinity. Isaac Casaubon, in his epistles, informs us that the Jesuits themselves condemned the work, and destroyed nearly all the copies.

1088 Bonaventuræ (Sancti) Opera Omnia; 7 vols. folio, BEST EDITION, portrait, fine copy, in vellum, VERY SCARCE, 6*l*. Romæ ex Typog. Vaticana (Opera Aldi Manutii) 1588-96

1159 —— Œuvres complètes; 22 vols, 12mo, sewed, 2*l.* 2*s.* ib. 1824

The Jesuit D'Arruis, speaking of this prelate, says: "Lorsque le Père Bourdaloue prêcha à Rouen, les artisans quittoient leurs boutiques pour l'aller entendre; les marchands leur négoce; les avocats le palais; les médecins leurs malades. Pour moi lorsque je prêchai l'année d'après, je remis toutes choses dans l'ordre, personne n'abandonnoit pas son emploi."

1160 —— Sermons (Avent, 1 vol. Carême, 3 vols. Mystères, 2 vols. Fêtes, 2 vols. Dimanches, 4 vols. Exhortations, 2 vols. Retraite, 1 vol. Tables, 2 vols.)—17 vols. 12mo, uncut, 2*l.* 10*s.* Paris, 1716-78

1161 —— les mêmes, avec les Pensées sur divers Sujets de Religion et de Morales; 19 vols, 12mo, hf.-bd. cf. 3*l.* 10*s.* ib. 1716-1802

"The style and imagery of Bourdaloue seem to rush upon us with the force of a mountain torrent: he is the Demosthenes of French divines; but it cannot be denied that his art is too apparent; and that all the subordinate parts of his composition seem to be purposely kept down, in order to sharpen the force of his logic, and to aggravate the terror of his invective. In the higher departments of sermon composition, he is, doubtless, without a rival; our Horsley seems to have had much in common with that eminent divine, as, in the deeper scenes of Christ's sufferings, and in the delineations of the day of judgment, there was much about both these preachers, which exhibited all the sublimity of which such subjects are capable."—Dibdin.

1161*Bourghesii (Joannis, Soc. Jesu) Vitæ Passionis et Mortis Jesu Christi Domini Nostri Mysteria, piis Meditationibus et Adspirationibus exposita; small 8vo, 76 fine engravings, by Boetius a Bolswert, 18*s.* Antverp. 1622

"Pierre de Chastel was one of the most learned men of the sixteenth century. His great eloquence recommended him to Francis I, who, willing to raise him to the highest dignities, enquired concerning his gentility; "Sire," replied the witty ecclesiastic, "there were three brothers in the ark of Noah, but I know not from which I am descended." He was made reader and librarian to the king, and was held in high esteem by his monarch, who said, "he is the only scholar whom I have not exhausted within two years." In 1539 he was made Bishop of Tulle; in 1544, Bishop of Macon; in 1548, created Grand Almoner of France; and died in 1551, as Bishop of Orleans. On one occasion his enemies, wishing to ruin him with the king, extolled the great learning of Bigot. Francis, turning to Chastel, asked his opinion concerning him; "he is," said Chastel, "a philosopher who follows the opinions of Aristotle," "What opinions are they?" said the king. "Sire," replied the courtier, "Aristotle prefers a Republic to a Monarchy." After this no one ventured to name Bigot again.

"Historically regarded, the COUNCILS are of the utmost importance. The opinions expressed in the debates, of which an account has been handed down in their proceedings, the official papers connected with their convocation, the judgments which they pronounced respecting disputed articles of faith, and the Canons which they enacted upon subjects of discipline and morals, stand in the very first rank of the materials of Church-history, and communicate the most valuable kind of information. The history of the Councils is indeed the most important part of the public history of the Church. The study of its records claims the days and nights of the ecclesiastical inquirer, and will reward his diligence with the most interesting and satisfactory knowledge."—DOWLING.

DAMASUS, nicknamed by his enemies THE LADIES' EAR-SCRATCHER (Auriscalpius Matronarum), in the year 366 succeeded Felix as Bishop of Rome. It was not, however, till after a most desperate struggle with his antagonist, Ursinus (or Ursicinus) the Deacon, who had also been elected by an opposite party. If we are to believe Ammianus Marcellinus, this victory over his opponent cost the lives of 137 persons, whose dead bodies were found in the Basilica of Sicininus. The enormous wealth of this see, enabling its possessors to vie with sovereign princes in state and grandeur, was the cause of this blood-stained contest, which only ceased with the exile of Ursinus. Prætextatus, the Pagan Præfect, who by his wisdom had restored tranquillity, on this occasion sarcastically observed: "Facite me Romanæ Urbis Episcopum; et ero protinus Christianus." After his triumph Damasus was active in putting down Arianism in the West, and in healing divisions in the Eastern Churches. For this purpose he held various councils, and wrote several letters, some of which are still extant. Theodoret (Lib. II. c. 22, and Lib. v. c. 10-11) has preserved two synodic Epistles and a Confession of Faith. Besides these, an Epistle to Paulinus, Bishop of Antioch, and several Epitaphs, Inscriptions, Epigrams, &c. are extant. The Liber Pontificalis, and various Epistles, are falsely ascribed to this writer, whose work de Virginitate is now lost.—See Dr. Murdock's Translation of Mosheim, I. p. 341.

This very interesting and curious Diary, consisting of upwards of 1200 closely but very legibly written pages, is evidently the production of some ecclesiastic closely connected with the Papal court. To a writer engaged on the Lives of Popes Innocent XII, Clement XI, Innocent XIII, Benedict XIII, and Clement XII, this manuscript would be invaluable; detailing as it does the daily occurrences, among which will be found the death of Cardinal P. T. Ward di Norfolk (uncle to Lord Arundel), the arrival of the exiled Stuarts, the birth of the young Pretender, &c. &c.

2195 Dickinson (Edmundi) Delphi Phœnicizantes sive Tractatus in quo Græcos, quicquid apud Delphos celebre erat e Josuæ Historia Scriptisque Sacris effinxisse Rationibus haud inconcinnis ostenditur. A close and rigorous examination of the polity of the Church of England, discussing the origin and authority of Episcopacy, as well as all other points of difference between Presbyterians and Episcopalians. King James, though much provoked with the work, is said to have admired its learning and acuteness, and when an English prelate undertook to answer it, burst forth with the bitter reproof: "Tut, mon, what would you answer? Here is nothing but Scripture, Reason, and the Fathers!"

2202 DIDYMI Alexandrini de Trinitate Libri III nunc primum ex Passioneiano Codice Græce editi, Latine conversi, ac Notis illustrati a D. Joanne Aloysio Mingarellio; folio, uncut, rare, 2*l.* 16*s.* Bononiæ, 1769

Dr. Murdock, the Editor of Mosheim, not aware of the existence of this work, erroneously says: "Of his numerous works only three have reached us; namely, de Spiritu Sancto Liber, preserved in a Latin translation of Jerome (Opera, IV, p. 493 sqq.); Scholia on the Canonical Epistles, also in a Latin translation (both these are given in the Bibl. Patrum, V. 320, 338) and Liber adversus Manichæos, Gr. et Lat. in Combefis Auctarium Noviss. II, p. 21." This last work will also be found in Canisii Thesaurus, I, p. 197, and in Gallandii Bibliotheca Patrum, VI, p. 309-18. Gallandius has given in the same volume (p. 264-308) the Enarratio in Epistolas Canonicas in Latin, and Lücke, in his Quæstiones et Vindiciæ Didymianæ, has greatly restored its text by the insertion of Greek fragments. Of his Commentaries on the Bible, many fragments will be found scattered through the various Catenæ; and his Mensuræ Marmorum et Lignorum, Græce cum Versione Latina, was published by Cardinal Maio in 1817.

"The spurious works ascribed to Dionysius the Areopagite (who is mentioned Acts xvii. 34) are the following: De cœlesti Hierarchia; de ecclesiastica Hierarchia; de divinis Nominibus; de mystica Theologia; and various Epistles. They all relate to the Mystic Theology, and breathe a devout spirit; but are exceedingly obscure and difficult of comprehension. It is supposed they were written in the fourth or fifth century, as they bear marks of that period, and are not mentioned by any writer prior to the sixth century."—DR. MURDOCK.

EXCESSIVELY RARE; having been rigidly suppressed by the Inquisition. CONSTANTINO PONCE DE LA FUENTE, Doctor of Theology and Canon of Seville, was one of the most learned men of his time. He was preacher to Charles V and afterwards to his son Philip, whom he accompanied to England. Here it appears he became acquainted with the principles of Protestantism, which cause he eagerly embraced. Seized by stratagem, he was hurried to the dungeons of the Inquisition, where, according to his biographers, he committed suicide, to avoid being brought to the stake. His inhuman enemies, however, enraged that he had escaped their malice, committed his dead body to the flames, at the auto da fe which took place at Seville in 1559. In Gerdes Misc. Gron. (VI, p. 458-83) will be found the Confession d'un Pecheur devant Jesus Christ. In the Index Librorum Prohibitorum to this author's name is attached the following notice: "Autor condenado, todas sus Obras en qualquier Lengua y especialmente la Confession del Pecador."

"The style of Erasmus is that of a man who had a strong memory, a natural eloquence, a lively fancy, and a ready invention; who composed with great facility and rapidity, and who did not care for the trouble of revising and correcting; who had spent all his days in reading, writing, and talking Latin; for he seems to have had no turn for modern languages, and perhaps he had almost forgotten his mother tongue. His style therefore is always unaffected, easy, copious, fluent, and clear; but not always perfectly pure and strictly classical."—Dr. Jortin.

"Eusebius undertook the work of recording the early fortunes of the Church, just at the time when it could not be neglected in safety.—His work is just the sort of history that was wanted. We may complain that it is sometimes too brief to satisfy a reasonable curiosity, that it is not well arranged, that it is not written in a pleasing or lucid style, that it is not altogether free from credulity and superstition; but we cannot complain that the author had not a right conception of what he had to do. Never was a work of the kind more abundant, in proportion to its size, in extracts and documents. He has handed down an account of the labours of writers, of whose very names we should otherwise have been ignorant. In a word, he established the early Christian history upon the most satisfactory foundation; and set an example of diligence and accuracy which have never been surpassed, and rarely equalled, by his successors."—Dowling.

2603 —— Idem; 4to, vellum, 12*s.* ib. 1629

Eustathius died, at Trajanopolis, about the year 360. His work against the Arians, which caused his deposition in the year 330, is unfortunately lost. What remains, however, of his eight Books will be found in Fabricii Bibl.

Græca, VIII. p. 170 sqq. The treatise on the Hexaëmeron by some is considered spurious, and must not be confounded with the translation of a similar treatise, written by St. Basil, made by another Eustathius, who flourished circa 440, and whose version is printed with St. Basil's works.

2604 ΕΥΑΓΓΕΛΙΣΤΑΡΙΟΝ ΚΑΙ ΜΗΝΟΛΟΓΙΟΝ: Evangelistarium et Menologium Sanctorum, Græce, folio, A MAGNIFICENT MANUSCRIPT UPON VELLUM, IN THE FINEST PRESERVATION, from the Earl of Guilford's Library, £200 Sæc. x.

This manificent Manuscript commences with the Gospel of St. John, followed by that of Matthew. Luke and Mark come next in alternate chapters. The Menologium and Minor Pieces form about one third of the volume. The ΥΠΟΘΕΣΙΣ ΚΑΝΩΝΩΝ is in UNCIAL LETTERS, as is also the CANON of EUSEBIUS, inserted from a Manuscript of the EIGHTH CENTURY. This very ancient and venerable volume is eminently beautiful, and the only one in the Country, which can in any way be compared to it, is that which was sold in Mr. Dent's sale, for 267*l.* 15*s.*

2605 ΕΥΑΓΓΕΛΙΑ ΤΕΣΣΕΡΑ: Evangelia Quatuor, Græce, Manuscript on vellum, with illuminations, and the Canons of Eusebius and Tables in Letters of Gold in uncial Greek, the Gospels in a very fine small hand; 4to, 30*l.* Sæc. xi.

A very beautiful and correct manuscript, which has never been collated. It formerly belonged to the Earl of Guilford.

John Charlier, better known by the name of GERSON, was born in the year 1363, and after studying ten years under the celebrated Peter d'Alliaco, received the degree of doctor in 1392. Three years afterwards he succeeded his master as Chancellor, and Canon of the Church of Paris. At the Council of Constance he was the principal speaker; and, as chief of the Nominalists, caused the martyrdom of Huss, who, unfortunately for himself, had attached himself to the Realists. He obtained for himself the titles of "Evangelical," and "Most Christian;" and Cardinal Zabarella considered him "the most excellent Doctor of all Christendom." He died in 1429. "From the time of St. Bernard," says Du Pin, "the Church never had an author of greater reputation, more profound knowledge, and more solid piety, than Gerson. His style is harsh and careless; yet he is methodical, reasons well, and exhausts his subjects. He founds his conclusions upon principles drawn from Scripture, or natural reason. He defends the truth upon all occasions with an admirable and undaunted courage. He suffered a cruel persecution for a righteous cause, and died in exile for maintaining it with vigour. His works, it must be confessed, are not all of equal strength: some of them are inconsiderable; and he does not always take the right side of the questions he handles. Yet many of his books are excellent, and divines cannot profit more than by reading them diligently."

3457 Hemmerlin (Felicis) varie Oblectationis Opuscula et Tractatus, contra validos Mendicantes, contra Anachorites, Beghardos, Baginasque silvestres, Lollhardorum Descriptio, &c. s. l. & a.—Felicis Malleoli, vulgo Hemmerlein, de Nobilitate et Rusticitate Dialogus, de Sevitensium Ortu, Nomine, Confederatione, Moribus, &c. s. l. & a.—Roderici Episcopi Zamorensis Speculum Vitæ Humanæ, Argentinæ, J. Prys, 1507.—3 vols. in 1, folio, fine copies, in the original binding, with clasps, 5*l.* 5*s.*

The rarity of the works of Hemmerlein, is attested by a host of bibliographers. Speaking of the first work, Freytag pronounces it,—"INTER RARISSIMOS PRIMI ORDINIS LIBROS," and the second he considers—"RARIOR SUPERIORE LIBRO." Fabricius for years hunted for the second in vain; and at last was indebted to his friend Vockerode for a sight of it. In the "Bibliotheca mediæ et infimæ Latinitatis," he tells us—"Hic liber ante annum MD excusus RARISSIME PROSTAT. In Helvetia profecto ac vicinis Helvetiæ urbibus, utut adsidue requisitus fuerit, reperiri non potuit."

"Hincmar of Rheims deserves a very honourable place among the Latin writers of this century. For his writings on various subjects show that his mind was not of the ordinary class, but elevated, independent, and zealous for truth. But he at the same time was arrogant and of a restless temper. His works throw much light on both the civil and the ecclesiastical history of that age."—MOSHEIM.

"This distinguished Poetess," says Bouterwek, "was much celebrated in Mexico, and styled the tenth muse. In facility of invention and versification, Inez de la Cruz was not inferior to Lope de Vega. She possessed more fancy and wit than sentimental enthusiasm; and whenever she began to invent, her creations were on a bold and great scale. Her Poems consist of serious and burlesque sonnets, some on rhymed endings, which, though sometimes deficient in delicacy, are full of freedom and sprightliness, lyric romances, and boldly conceived loas, full of allegorical invention: they conclude with a long allegorical auto, "El Divino Narcisso," which is superior to any of the similar productions of Lope de Vega."

4146 KONGS-SKUGG-SIO, hoc est, Speculum Regale Islandice, cum Interpretatione Danica et Latina, Variis Lectionibus, Notis, &c., edidit Halfdan Einersen. Præmittitur Joannis Finnæi Dissertatio de Speculo Regali ; 4to, fine copy, in old gilt calf, 1*l.* 10*s.* Soroe, 1768

The Speculum Regale in the Preface promises four Parts concerning the Life of Merchants, the Court, the Clergy, and the Agriculturists. Of these, however, only the first and second are now in existence, and it appears very doubtful whether the third and fourth were ever written. The first part, treating of the manners and wisdom of merchants, describes in a very sublime style the winds and tempests, and circumstantially narrates the wonders of IRELAND, Greenland, and Norway, during the XIth century. The author particularly dwells on the beauty and fertility of IRELAND, its freedom from poisonous animals, its numerous saints and miracles (including those of the sacred isles of St. Brandon, the purgatory of St. Patrick, &c.), its antiquities, &c. The second part treats of the king and court, and the examples adduced are chiefly taken from Scripture.

MARTENE and DURAND, two learned Benedictines following in the footsteps of the immortal Mabillon, have with incredible labour collected into fourteen volumes, folio, an immense number of Ecclesiastical Documents, which, but for their industry, might have been lost entirely. Some idea of their value may be formed from the following selection: *Epistolæ Pontificum Imperatorum, Regum, Principum, Abbatum, &c.; Chronicon Normannicum sive Britannicum; Vitæ Sanctorum et Martyrum; Evrardi Passio S. Thomæ Cantuariensis Archiepiscopi; Bertrandi Vita S. Edmundi, Archiepiscopi Cantuariensis; Historia Canonizationis S. Edmundi; S. Edmundi Miracula; Bedæ Homiliæ; Abælardi Theologia Christiana et Expositio in Hexaemeron; Radulfi de Coggeshale Chronicon Anglicanum et Libellus de Motibus Anglicanis; Calendarium Anglicanum; Ferrerii Historia Monasterii Kenlos in Scotia; Miracula S. Anselmi; Concilia et Statuta Synodalia; Acta Concilii Basiliensis; duplex Historia Concilii Tridentini; SS. 4961 MERSENNI (F. MARINI) QUÆSTIONES CELEBERRIMÆ IN GENESIM, cum accurata Textus Explicatione. In hoc volumine Athei et Deistæ impugnantur et expugnantur et Vulgata Editio ab Hæreticorum Calumniis vindicatur; Græcorum et Musica instauratur; Francisci Georgii Veneti Cabalistica Dogmata fuse refelluntur; folio, WITH THE SUPPRESSED PASSAGES, russia, gilt edges, very rare, 5*l.* Lut. Paris. 1623

"The two leaves (col. 669-676) where Mersenne speaks of the Atheism of his time, were rigidly suppressed and supplied by cancels. Although this happened only after the completion of the entire printing (as in the Index Athei is referred to in those pages), yet COPIES WITHOUT THESE CANCELS ARE OF THE GREATEST RARITY. The book is also interesting both for other musical and physical digressions, and also on account of an attempt at a new French metre, and a specimen of French hexameters which are therein set forth. The author also appears to have indulged himself in an inquiry almost bordering upon lasciviousness: quando se nudare liceat (p. 1243 sqq.) where he quite casuistically treats of the different kinds of religious flagellation."—EBERT.

4962 MERZ (P.P.) Thesaurus Biblicus completus, locupletissimus, ex ipsis S. Scripturarum Visceribus et Medullis congestus: et Onomasticon Biblicum; 2 vols. 4to, 18*s.* Aug. Vind. 1738-51

"Nilus, born at Constantinople, of which city he became Prefect, flourished about the middle of the fifth century. A disciple of Chrysostom, he became exceedingly pious, and separating from his wife retired from all intercourse with the world, spending the remainder of his days among the monks of Egypt. "His numerous writings," says Dr. Murdock, "have been read with pleasure by the lovers of monastic piety."

ORIGEN, surnamed Adamantius and Χαλκέντερος, was born of Christian parents A. D. 185, and died at Tyre in the year 253. His education, commenced by his father, was completed under Clemens Alexandrinus and the philosopher Ammonius Saccas. Distinguished for precocity of genius, piety, and indefatigable industry, it is no wonder that he became, to use the emphatic words of St. Jerome, "THE GREATEST DOCTOR OF THE CHURCH SINCE THE APOSTLES," "One page of Origen," says Erasmus, "teaches me more of Christian philosophy than ten of Augustine. In the Exposition of the Scriptures, I would prefer one Origen to ten orthodox."

David Wængler, better known as Pareus, was the son of a wealthy Catholic peasant, by whom, after being educated at a school in his native town, he was apprenticed to a cobler, at the instigation of his step-mother. Young David, however, after much trouble, was permitted to follow the bent of his inclination, and was placed at the college of Hirschberg under Schilling, who persuaded his pupil to embrace Lutheranism, and to change his name from Wængler to Pareus. He subsequently became professor of Divinity at Heidelberg, and wrote numerous works, chiefly in refutation of the errors of Roman Catholics and Socinians, which are still held in considerable esteem. He died in 1622, aged seventy-four.

Bossuet on being asked of which of the French works he would prefer to have been the writer, replied: "Les Lettres Provinciales;" and Father Bouhours, once disputing with Boileau concerning the difficulty of writing pure French, mentioned several as, in his opinion, models of style. Boileau, however, rejecting them all, Bouhours angrily enquired "Quel est donc selon vous l'Ecrivain parfait?" Boileau instantly replied "Mon Père, lisons les Lettres Provinciales, et croyez moi, ne lisons pas d'autre livre."

Paschasius Radbert is said to have been the first promulgator of the doctrine of Transubstantiation, and to have been compelled to resign his abbacy on that account. His treatise made a great noise on its publication, and drew forth various answers, the chief of which were by Ratram, John Scot, and the learned Archbishop of Mentz, Rabanus Maurus, who denounces Radbert's theory as an error and a novelty. Cardinal Bellarmine tells us: "Hic auctor primus fuit qui serio et copiose scripsit de Veritate Corporis et Sanguinis Domini in Eucharistia." The best edition of this treatise will be found in Martene and Durand's Collectio, vol. ix, p. 378 sqq.

"The best and most useful of all the works of Petavius, and long the standard book in all seminaries and private libraries, for chronology and history. It was consequently often reprinted, improved, and enlarged, not only by the author but by various others. The editions printed at Leyden, in 1710, 1724, and 1745, are said to be the best."—CHALMERS.

When Petavius was informed by Guy Patin, his physician, that he had only a few hours to live, a flush of joy lighted up his countenance, and calling for a copy of his Rationarium Temporum, he wrote on the first page: Guidoni Patino Medico Clarissimo, giving as reason for requesting its acceptance, Je vous dois un présent pour la bonne nouvelle que vous venez de m'apprendre."

5956* —— Another edition; 6 vols. in 3, folio, 6*l.* Antverp. 1700

"The Dogmata Theologica of Petavius," says Gibbon, "is a work of incredible labour and compass; the volumes which relate solely to the Incarnation are divided into 16 books; the first of history, the remainder of controversy and doctrine." (The part relating to the Trinity is likewise very copious.) "The Jesuit's learning," adds our historian, "is copious and correct, his Latinity is pure, his method clear, and his argument profound and well connected."

"By the way, now we are talking of perfection, have you not Poiret's Divine Œconomy? It is a strange book; but it has some invaluable passages on this subject. The ninth chapter of the sixth volume abounds in excellent matter. He especially expounds the 7th chapter to the Romans, verbatim et literatim, as you do. Such an exposition of it I never saw in any other book; but I had actually retailed it to many before I read it there; having previously laid it in, by wholesale, from you. Of course Poiret could not be quoted with prudence."—Bp. Jebb, Correspondence with Knox, I, p. 352-53.

"At the head of the Latin writers may justly be placed Rabanus Maurus, whose last office was that of Archbishop of Mentz. He was the common preceptor of Germany and France; with whom no one in this (IXth) century can be compared, either for genius or extent of learning, or the multitude of books he composed; whoever acquaints himself with the opinions of Rabanus Maurus, learns all that the best of the Latins thought and believed for about four centuries; for his writings were in the hands of all the learned."—Mosheim.

6333 —— Du Corps et du Sang du Seigneur, en Latin et en François (traduit par P. Allix); small 8vo, 10*s*. Grenoble, 1673

A luminous and powerful answer to Paschasius Radbertus, the first promulgator of the doctrine of Transubstantiation. In the first part of this admirably written tract is exposed the absurdity of imagining that the natural body and the eucharistical body are one and the same; and in the second, Ratram supports his opinions by quotations from Ambrosius, Hieronymus, Isidorus, Fulgentius, and Augustinus; showing from their concurrent evidence that this doctrine was utterly unknown to the ancient Church. By reading this famous work, Bishop Ridley was led to reject the doctrine of transubstantiation, and by introducing it to Archbishop Cranmer's notice, also induced him to abandon a belief in the corporal presence altogether. Besides this work Ratram wrote de Prædestinatione, printed in the Bibliotheca Maxima Patrum (tom. 15); de Partu Virginis, in answer to the extravagant notions of Paschasius Radbert; contra Græcorum Errores; both printed in D'Achery's Spicilegium; and various others still existing in manuscript.

This work is generally attributed to Dr. William Gifford, a native of Hampshire, who died as Archbishop of Rheims. He, however, seems not to be the author, as Pitseus tells us that it was written by his friend Gulielmus Reginaldus (William Reynolds), after he had abjured the Protestant faith.

6550 Routh (Martini Josephi) Reliquiæ Sacræ; sive, Auctorum fere jam perditorum secundi tertiique Sæculi Fragmenta, quæ supersunt. Accedunt Epistolæ Synodicæ et Canonicæ Nicæno Concilio antiquiores, cum Notis; 4 vols. 8vo, boards, very scarce, 5*l*. 10*s*. Oxonii, 1814-18

"Yesterday," says Bishop Jebb in a letter to Knox, "I received Dr. Routh's Reliquiæ Sacræ. It opens with a very dignified, affecting, and beautiful dedication to the bishops and presbyters of the Scotch episcopal Church, which bespeaks him to be a man with the deepest veneration and love for hierarchical government; a spirit in which, it is to be feared, modern high churchmen do not greatly participate. In the preface, he quotes the canon of 1571; also Vincentius Lirinensis. He shows that those foreigners who vilify Christian antiquity, not only neglect and deride the Fathers, but even attack the Scripture itself; describing its books as of uncertain origin; denying that they contain a rule of faith; and reducing all necessary belief to the bare and dry limits of moral precepts. The book seems to be edited in a masterly and scholar-like style; and would appear to give promise of a school in England, that will apply to the emendation and elucidation of Christian antiquity those principles of just criticism which have been unfolded by the great scholars of the last century—a school altogether different from that of Michaelis and Marsh."

See Bayle's long account of this very singular performance, from one of the notes to which the following is extracted: "How odd it seems, that these men, who would have us think them mines of chastity, and inexhaustible springs of modesty, should notwithstanding vomit up such ill humours, such an Iliad of impurities! The treatise of Sanchez is a true library of Venus. If Horace or Martial were to come again into the world, they would write fine odes and epigrams upon those operators who have been desirous of castrating them. In five hundred Martials or Horaces, there is not so much room for castration as in one page of Sanchez." The president Le Jay had search made after this book, and prohibited the booksellers of Paris from selling it, under penalty of death.

This author, whose real name was Christopher Davenport, although more commonly known by that of Francis Hunt, was born in 1598, of Protestant parents, and in 1613 entered as battler, or poor scholar, of Merton College. Two years afterwards he fled to Douay, and became a Roman Catholic Priest. He was much esteemed by many of our great Divines, especially by Bishop Jeremy Taylor, who, by his friendship, brought upon himself the suspicion of leaning towards the Romish faith. He seems likewise to have been on terms of intimacy with Archbishop Laud, for this volume was made the seventh article in the impeachment of that prelate. Wood gives the article thus: "For the advancement of Popery and superstition within this realm, the said archbishop hath wittingly and willingly received, harboured, and relieved, divers Popish priests and Jesuits, namely, one called Sancta Clara, alias Davenport, a dangerous person, and Franciscan friar, who hath written a Popish and seditious book, entitled, Deus, Natura, Gratia, &c. wherein the xxxix Articles of the Church of England, established by act of Parliament, are much traduced and scandalized." On the other hand, his own party raised an outcry against him, and had sufficient interest to get his book inserted in the Index Librorum Prohibitorum, which accounts for its great rarity. His merits, at length, being acknowledged, he was made principal chaplain to the Queen of Charles II, and for many years in succession was elected Provincial of his own Order. He died in 1680.

"Father Paul of Venice wrote his history of the Council of Trent, while the memory of what had passed there was recent, and some who had been members of it were still alive. He has exposed the intrigues and artifices by which it was concluded, with a freedom and severity which have given a deep wound to the credit of the Council. He has described its deliberations, and explained its decrees, with such perspicuity and depth of thought, with such various erudition, and such force of reason, as have justly entitled his work to be placed among the most admired historical compositions."—ROBERTSON.

6748 —— la même avec les Remarques, mais sans le volume de Preuves; 2 vols. 12mo, 7*s.* 6*d.* ib. 1709-26

"It is almost superfluous," says Le Long, "to heap further praise upon this ingenious and celebrated satire. When it first appeared, it was considered a chef-d'œuvre (four editions having been sold in three weeks), and it is evident that time has not diminished its reputation. It is the most curious and useful book extant for a thorough insight into the true spirit and secret springs of the famous league; and is written in a style of delicate and poignant raillery, by a junto of the choicest wits of the time. Rapin, in his reflexions on poetry, says, that this satire surpasses every work of the kind that has been produced for centuries, and Voltaire was of opinion that its character could not be heightened."—Vide Le Long, Du Fresnoy, Thuanus, De Bure, Harleian Catalogue, &c. The piece entitled "Les Singeries de la Ligue," contained in the first volume, has been sold as high as 50 francs, separately.

To the merits of this very learned divine, Morus pays the following tribute, in speaking of his valuable Apparatus to the Old and New Testament: "Semlerus autem ipsam demonstrationem et exercitationem interpretandi optimam esse magistram existimans, vix quicquam revocabat ad artem principiaque universa; nec ejus de illo genere proprie præcepta continent, sed observationes selectas notitiamque instrumentorum, quibus tirones interpretando utantur. In quo magna ejus sunt et immortalia merita. Nam qui ante illum principes haberentur in hermeneutica et exegetica arte, si ab uno Ernestio discesseris, qui eodem tempore eamdem in N. T. caussam susceperat, vel nullam plane critici et historici apparatus rationem habuerunt, vel neglecto novo investigandi studio, amplexi sunt id, quod a suæ disciplinæ hominibus judicatum, et velut hereditate relictum accepissent. Semlerus fuit princeps, qui universo illo apparatu uteretur, ad firmiora intepretationis fundamenta jacienda, qui præceptorum cognitionem hoc modo juvaret magisque frugiferam redderet, qui omnino interpretationis rectæ quemdam quasi gustum acueret."—*Super Hermeneutica N. "Simon was a man of extensive and profound erudition, an acute critic, but fond of singularity, and supporting his own opinions, and attacking those of others with caustic severity. Few men of letters have passed a more polemic life; and the list of his adversaries comprises some of the most eminent names of the time, both Catholic and Protestant. He is, however, regarded as one of those who chiefly contributed to the free and learned discussions which have improved Scriptural Theology; and though not a Reformer by profession, he was an effective promoter of Reformation."—Dr. Aikin.

This work and Nos. 7101-2 contain the famous Secreta Monita. A strong argument against their genuineness, is the fact, that not one single edition can be found, which does not betray that its publication is due to the adversaries of the Order; and there can be no doubt but that they were wilfully forged, to blast the character of the Society.

Quoted by Bishop Jebb, who, in a letter to Knox, says—"You need not fear that Socinus will affect the orthodoxy of my creed. He is a candid and judicious advocate for the doctrine of Christian perfection; very much in the same sense with Lucas; and it will perhaps surprise you, that he maintains, not only the possibility, but the certainty, of instantaneous conversions, at least of sudden ones, in the following strong terms: "Respondeo, nihil impedire, quominus Deus nonnunquam, levi admodum antecedente pugna, cuipiam, ut carni suæ plane dominetur, concedat. Quin etiam et sacra historia, et perpetuo usu, teste, affirmare non dubito, sæpius fieri in Christiana Religione, ut quis, brevissimo tempore, et quasi horæ momento, ex malo bonus fiat, eoque perveniat, quo, in morali disciplina, viæ annorum multorum spatio pervenire potest!"—Operum Tom. I, p. 99.

Sulpicius Severus, of noble extract, was a pupil of Phœbadius, and subsequently became a monk under St. Martin of Tours. He was also intimate with Jerome and Paulinus of Nola, and is supposed to have died about the year 420. He wrote a life of St. Martin, a Church history, three dialogues on miracles, and epistles, most of which are lost. From his chaste style, he has, not inappropriately, been called the Christian Sallust.

7430 —— Idem Græce et Latine ex Recensione G. Dindorfii; 2 vols. 8vo, sewed, 1*l.* 8*s.* Bonnæ, 1829

George Syncellus, so called because he was συγκελλος (companion in the same cell) to Tarasius the patriarch, wrote a Chronographia, which is very valuable for the account of the Egyptian dynasties. In it he has transcribed the whole of the Chronicle of Eusebius, but with a perpetual censure of that author, whom he often justly corrects. Joseph Scaliger made much use of this work in recovering the text of Eusebius.

TERTULLIAN, born at Carthage about A.D. 160, was first bred to the law; but becoming a Christian, was made a presbyter. About the year 200 he embraced the opinions of Montanus, and defended them with the greatest ardour. His works, written with great force, and displaying much erudition and acuteness, are nearly all of a polemic cast, and may be divided into three classes; namely, apologetic, or in controversy with pagans and Jews; doctrinal or confutations of heretics; and moral, written for or against certain practices or rules of conduct. Eusebius, in his Chronicle, gives Tertullian a very high character; and Jerome tells us that Cyprian Bishop of Carthage never passed a day without reading some portion of his works, frequently exclaiming, "DA MAGISTRUM!"

Of J. A. TURRETIN, the friend and favourite of Bishop Burnet, Reimmann gives the following account: "Hic auctor vir est pius, doctus, prudens, pacificus, et in omni scientiarum genere ita versatus, ut pauci. Cujus dictio si non plane nitens et splendida, non tamen plane est horrida, sed facilis et aperta, et profluens, et indoli doctrinæ ac docentis respondens. Nec parum est sanguinis et nervorum in rebus ipsis. Sane multa in iis peregregia. Errores vulgares notati. Veritates plurimæ, vel nondum satis vel plane non notæ, indicatæ. Consilia præclara de restituendis scientiis collapsis suppeditata. Optimus est Auctor, et millenis aliis anteferendus."—Bibliotheca Theologica, p. 723-24.

"Vincentius," says MR. NEWMAN in his Lectures on Romanism, "is commonly and rightly adduced as the champion of Tradition. He is certainly a remarkable witness of the sense of the Church in his day, that private judgment was not to be tolerated in the great matters of faith, which were as clearly determined as much parts of the foundation of Christianity, as the Scriptures themselves, or their canonicity. He maintains that individuals must yield to the voice of the Church Catholic. His work, which is short, perspicuous, and eloquent, will amply repay the pains of more than one perusal."

The Correspondence with the most distinguished scholars of the day is most interesting; and his own Diary of his literary labours, detailing every day's occupation from the year 1680 to 1707, and showing how indefatigably he performed the duties of his professorship, are almost invaluable in a biographical point of view. Hervey, in his Theron and Aspasio, speaking of Witsius, says: "I cannot but lament that I was not sooner acquainted with this most excellent author, all of whose works have such a delicacy of composition, and such a sweet savour of holiness, that I know not any comparison more proper to represent their true character, than the golden pot which had manna, and was outwardly bright with burnished gold, inwardly rich with heavenly food."

AN APOLOGY FOR CATHEDRAL SERVICE.—In one volume, crown 8vo, price 8*s.* in extra boards.

"An apology for the bible? I didn't know that the bible wanted any apology."—KING GEORGE III.

"A very elegant and instructive little volume."—QUARTERLY REVIEW.

"We have to make our apology to the author of this clever volume, for having delayed expressing our admiration of it.——We cannot praise the scholar-like elegance, the various reading, the keen remark, the quiet humour, the well-chosen quotations, the sound argument, which support and adorn the work, without bearing witness also to the feeling of sincere piety, and to the Churchman's well-grounded faith, that give a strong and steady lustre to the whole."—GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZ.

"This is a very delightful work, and contains much more than its title implies. The style is quaint and original, and reminds us of that of some of our older writers. It is throughout enriched with a number of curious and interesting quotations and illustrations, which display considerable information and research. It is full of the 'spirit of antiquity,' if we may use such an expression, and is deeply imbued with a love for those admirable and venerable institutions, which we owe to the wisdom of past ages. The defence of the practice of chanting, of the whole Cathedral Service, and, indeed, of Cathedral institutions altogether, is excellent, and will repay an attentive perusal."—CHURCHMAN.

DR. FIELD'S BOOK OF THE CHURCH.—A New Edition, with Notes, by the Rev. JOHN S. BREWER, M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford. In 3 vols. 8vo, price 2*l.* 5*s.*

As Dr. Field's Book of the Church has become excessively rare, and, though much in request, is not attainable at any price, the Publisher, at the suggestion of several eminent clergymen, has undertaken a new edition of this very valuable work. In order to render it worthy of attention, and far superior to all preceding ones, the Rev. J. S. Brewer (a Gentleman whose well-known diligence and accuracy guarantee its being executed in the best manner) has kindly offered his services to collate the various editions, to verify all the References, and to supply additional Notes where necessary. He has likewise determined, on account of the extreme rarity of many of the Authors cited by Dr. Field, to give his quotations at full length at the bottom of each page; and at the end of every chapter a brief list of writers, especially of English Divines, who have treated on the same subject: thus rendering the work a TEXT BOOK OF THEOLOGY.

As the rarity of this masterpiece of one of our most eminent Divines has prevented its being so universally known as it deserves to be, the Publisher may be pardoned for citing a few among the numerous commendations in its favour.

Coleridge, the Poet, in a letter to his son, the Rev. Derwent Coleridge, emphatically writes:—"THIS ONE VOLUME, THOROUGHLY UNDERSTOOD AND APPROPRIATED, WILL PLACE YOU IN THE HIGHEST RANK OF DOCTRINAL CHURCH-OF-ENGLAND DIVINES, AND OF NO MEAN RANK AS A TRUE DOCTRINAL CHURCH HISTORIAN."

James I. delighted to discourse with Field on points of Divinity, and when he first preached before him, said: "Is his name Field? This is the FIELD for God to dwell in." On hearing of his death, the King expressed regret, and added, "I should have done more for that man!"

Fuller, in the same punning age, calls him, "That learned Divine, whose memory smelleth like a FIELD which the Lord hath blessed."

Anthony a Wood tells us he was esteemed "the best disputant in the schools."

"Field was well skilled in School Divinity, and a frequent preacher while he lived in Oxfordshire, and is said to have been very instrumental in preventing the increase of non-conformity in the University."—GOUGH.

"When he first set about writing his book 'OF THE CHURCH,' his old acquaintance, Dr. Kettle, dissuaded him, telling him that when once he was engaged in controversy he would never live quietly, but be continually troubled with answers and replies. To this Field answered, 'I will so write that they shall have no great mind to answer me;' which proved to be nearly the case, as his main arguments were never refuted."—CHALMERS.

Heylin, in his "Life of Laud," calls him, "the reverend right learned Dr. Field, whose excellent works will keep his name alive to succeeding ages.
