THE RURAL DISTRICT OF HASTINGS.

St. Rode,

London Road,

St. Leonards-on-Sea.

8th April, 1922.

Gentlemen,

I beg to present my report on the health and sanitary condition of the Rural District of Hastings for the year 1921.

In compliance with the request contained in a circular issued to Medical Officers of Health by the Ministry, laying down instructions as to matters to be reported on, and asking particularly for brevity, this report is very short.

In Rural Districts, where, of necessity, conditions change slowly, the reports vary only slightly year by year. The comparative immunity from infectious notifiable disease must be to the inhabitants a welcome fact, and this has occurred now with regularity for many years. It is due to the freedom of the atmosphere from pollution by smoke and dust, the high sunlight average, the scattered nature of the houses, and the absence of overcrowding.

The Council have erected and completed 14 new houses and there are 2 in the course of erection, but yet not finished. There is a need for more housing accommodation, and the development of a beautiful rural district is handicapped by the lack of private enterprise in this respect. If 200 houses could be erected of a suitable type, they would be quickly occupied. The improvement in road transport, and the efficient service of motor buses now running to Hastings and Rye make the district a most desirable one for business men from the big city centres to retire to.

The district is situated to the north-east of Hastings with a coast line of five miles, and comprises the villages of Fairlight, 2995 acres, Guestling, 3575 acres, Pett, 2025 acres and a part of Ore contiguous to the Hastings Borough Boundary. The climate is mild and equable, with a high average of sunlight and freedom from fog and mist. The soil is sandy with patches of clay, and is undulating in conformation, sloping to the South and the Sea.

The Water Supply is good. Although participating in the general shortness prevailing over England due to the general absence of rainfall last summer, there was no serious water crisis.

Hospital Accommodation.

There is no hospital in the district, but ample accommodation is provided by the East Sussex Hospital at Hastings. Cases of Scarlet Fever, Diphtheria, enteric, etc. are immediately isolated in the Borough of Hastings Sanatorium. In the event of an outbreak of Small-pox, a contract has been entered into with the same Council whereby any cases occurring in the Rural will be isolated and treated in the Hastings Small-pox Hospital. The Council has made no special provision for Sanatorium treatment of cases of Pulmonary Tuberculosis, but, when necessary, cases are sent to sanatoria elsewhere.

Sanitary Administration.

The Inspector has paid 674 visits of inspection. Factories, workshops, etc. are frequently inspected, and defects in
