Clerk.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen,

I have the honour to present the Annual Report for the year 1967 of the general conditions, health and vital statistics of the Melton Mowbray Urban District.

The Report is in conformity with suggestions made by the Ministry of Health and also incorporates a section compiled by the Chief Public Health Inspector.

The problem of the care of old people is increasing despite the advances of gerontology. So frequently old people at a time of diminishing activity are obliged to live alone in conditions incompatible to their well being. The Council has for some time given great consideration to these problems and one of the outstanding events of the year was the opening of Wilton Court by the Chairman of the Housing Committee in May. Wilton Court is a two-storey block of 32 one person, self-contained flats, each separately entered from a main corridor. Attached to the main building is a Warden's Bungalow and common rooms where the old people can spend their leisure time and enjoy the company of each other. Under these circumstances the independence of old people is prolonged as they can continue to shop, prepare their own food and care for themselves according to their needs and desires. They are enabled to retain their skills and abilities to a purpose and as their days are not vacant their mental and physical well being is preserved.

The Council can take great credit for the foresight in planning Wilton Court and the success of the enterprise is both encouraging and rewarding.

During the year an outbreak of infective hepatitis occurred at a residential school for handicapped children. The adult members of the staff who contracted the infection were severely affected and it was thought that, as is usually the case, the children would suffer only mild symptoms and that their recovery would be uneventful. So it would have seemed except that during the following 9 to 12 months the affected children failed to make any academic progress. Liver function tests were then evaluated on these children and the results showed that whilst there was no evidence of chronic liver damage it was clear that the infection had been of such severity that the educational progress of the children had been greatly impaired. To be wise after the event it is felt that in any such future outbreak every attempt should be made to limit the spread of infection and to have all patients carefully assessed for any possible liver damage.

It is discouraging to report that the incidence of carcinoma of the lung continues to rise. Although an increase to 8 deaths from this condition as against 6 deaths in the previous year may seem to be of little consequence, it has to be appreciated that there was only 1 death from tuberculosis a condition which a decade or so ago was a major problem. The discouragement to those interested in preventive medicine is that cancer of the lung and chronic bronchitis can very largely be prevented. It is well appreciated that there is a direct association between cigarette smoking and these conditions but smoking has nevertheless continued, and alas increased, apparently as an uncontrollable addiction. It may be that those who smoke wish to desist and the question is frequently asked whether there is an easy way to give up smoking. The answer must be that giving up smoking is like giving up sin. Either one stops or one persists. Although not competent to pronounce on the consequences of persistence in sin there is no doubt that those who persist in smoking should heed the cry of the Salvationist - stop, before it is too late!

There has not been cause to enforce Section 47 of the National Assistance Act in which powers are given for compulsory Institutional care of old people.

I am grateful to the Council for the interest shown in the work of the Public Health Department. It has been a pleasurable experience to be associated with a Council where mirth is the ally of perspective and good sense. It would be fitting to mention in the words of Shakespeare the one lady member of the Council, Mrs Shouler

"..... for when a world of men

Could not prevail with all their oratory

Yet hath a woman's kindness over-rul'd"

To the Chief Public Health Inspector, Mr. H. Buxton, and to all members of the Public Health Department I wish to express my sincere appreciation for their helpful co-operation.

J.W. HALL

(Acting) Medical Officer of Health.

I am indebted to Dr. Hall for the compilation of this report.

J.V. LOUGHLIN
